Elon Alumni News
ELON COLLEGE, NORTH CAROLINA

DR. L. E. SMITH
Elon's President

From The President's Desk

I wish that all the Alumni could visit our campus sometime during this year. I am sure that they would not only be pleased with what is happening at the school, but that they would be inspired by the progress that is in evidence on all sides. The new dormitories, Virginia Hall and Carolina Hall are wonderful and measuring up to all expectations. Students living in these dormitories are highly pleased.

West Dormitory is being completely renovated. The arrangements on the first floor are completely changed, as are the ends of the second and third floors. Additional baths have been installed on all three floors, with new plumbing and wiring throughout the entire building. It has been water proofed and painted on the outside and is being decorated on the inside at this writing.

Application has been made for an additional loan with which to erect another dormitory made necessary by the destruction of South Dormitory (old Publishing House) by fire during the Spring. The architect is drawing up plans and specifications, and we hope to begin work on this new dormitory within a few weeks. The McEwen Memorial Dining Hall is small for the present student body, but it is beautiful in every respect. The students are enjoying it immensely.

As was expected we have an increase in the student body. Building operations always attract more students, but we were not prepared for the increase that we have. We have enrolled a total of 1,356 students for this quarter, which is 237 more students than we had at this time a year ago. This unexpected increase in the student body demanded an increase in our teaching staff. Accordingly, we have added 9 full-time and 4 part-time instructors.

The school is moving along smoothly and I believe that we have the best situation on our campus that we have had in 25 years. An increased student body and a much larger faculty means a great deal more

This morning I left my home in Suffolk, Va., very early to arrive at Elon by 8:30 a. m. I spent the morning conferring with Dr. Smith, Prof. Hook, Prof. Barney and Prof. Byrd. Together we worked out this issue of your Alumni News and assigned different articles contained herein. You know putting one of these issues together is quite a job and requires the combined efforts of many people.

When lunch-time arrived it seemed that there weren't many students going to eat on the campus—you see, I'd completely forgotten we no longer ate in the old dining hall! When I worked here I could always tell when lunch time arrived by the throng of students that came past the door of the alumni office. When Dr. Smith and I sat down to eat our lunch I could hardly realize that this was really Elon College. This fine dining room, spotless, modern in every respect—no pushing and shoving—instead of a heavy roar as of old, now only a dim murmur.

While we were lunching a college student came over to our table and informed Dr. Smith that Andrew Morgan's home had burned completely to the ground. Perhaps it was this sad news of Andy's home burning, or perhaps it was the sound of the great organ in Whitley that made me stop in old West Dormitory on my way back to the Alamance Building from the dining hall.

As I stood in the old reception room of West Dormitory I felt that I could actually hear the roar of the flames and the screams from the girls as they rang out that cold January night in 1942. I could believe almost anything after seeing West Dormitory. You see, with the exception of that main reception room, nothing else looks the same. West is really getting a face lifting. New baths; new closets; those old ugly, airy stairwells closed; new plaster; new wiring, and new paint. You alumnae who lived in this building will have to see it yourself to believe it.

Yes, West Dorm is only an example of the physical changes that have taken place and are taking place here on our campus. The Elon College that I knew before 1952 no longer exists. The largest student body, the largest faculty and the largest budget! Plan to return to Elon at your earliest opportunity and see for yourself what has been and is being done. And please, if you haven't done so, send your Alumni Dues. Let's show Bill Terrell we're going to support the alumni office and the work of the alumni association.

Sincerely,

JIMMIE DARDEN

William B. Terrell, '25, To Become Alumni Secretary

William Brown Terrell, a graduate of Elon College with the Class of 1925, a former president of the college's General Alumni Association, has accepted appointment as the new executive secretary of the alumni organization and expects to assume his duties on January 1st.

Announcement of his appointment and acceptance came jointly from James F. Darden, now the president of the Elon Alumni Association, and from Mr. Terrell himself. Originally slated to assume his duties as secretary at the beginning of the 1956-57 college year, the new secretary was obligated in his present position until the close of the calendar year.

The new alumni secretary received the A. B. degree, Magna Cum Laude, at Elon's 1925 commencement and then went on to graduate study at the University of North Carolina. Since that time he has had more than 30 years of service in North Carolina public schools, all of it in an administrative capacity.

His first school assignment was as principal of Tryon High School in Gaston County from 1925 until 1928, after which he returned to Elon College and spent 15 years as principal of the Elon College High School, a position which kept him in close contact with the college itself.

He accepted the position as principal of Wadesboro High School in 1943 and two years later was elevated to the superintendency of the Wadesboro City Schools. He held that post for three years and then accepted appointment in 1948 as superintendent of the Warren County Schools. He has continued in that position until the present time and has resided in Warrenton for the past eight years.

During his tenure as head of the Warren County Schools Mr. Terrell has been very active in county and community activities. Among his civic positions at Warrenton have been membership on the official board of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, associate lay leader of the Raleigh District of the Methodist Church, adjutant and a past commander of the Limer Post of the American Legion, past master of the Masonic Lodge, membership in the Sudan Temple of the Shrine at New Bern, membership in the executive committee of the Oconeechee Council of the Boy Scouts of America, secretary of the Warren County Tuberculosis and Health Association, secretary of the Warrenton Rotary Club and membership on the board of directors of the Warren Chapter of the American Red Cross. He is a holder of the Silver Beaver Award of the Boy Scouts and has held numerous posts in the North Carolina Education Association.

With such an active record in community and civic affairs, Mr. Terrell was only carrying on in the same manner in which he operated during his student days, for a quick check-up on his student years at Elon reveals that he was a member of Kappa Psi Nu Fraternity, the Philologist Literary Society, the Elon College Band, the varsity and class track teams, and class teams in both basketball and baseball. He also belonged to the Religious Activities Cabinet, the Christian Endeavor, the Ministerial Association, the Student Senate and the Booster's Entertainment Club. He held offices in a number of these organizations and still found time to be treasurer of his sophomore class, president of his junior class, editor of the Maroon and Gold, vice president of the North Carolina Press Association, a commencement marshal and a student Sunday school teacher.

Mr. Terrell has been twice married, the first time in 1925 to Katherine Doris McLean, one of his college classmates, who died in 1940. One son was born of this marriage, William B. Terrell, Jr., a graduate of West Point, now a captain with the Air Force in Alaska. He was married again in 1947 to Miss Evelyn Mae Rives, of Greensboro, and they have one son, Charles Bedford Terrell, now six years old.

ELON BOASTS LARGEST MARCHING BAND IN HISTORY OF SCHOOL THIS YEAR

The largest marching band in Elon College history carries Maroon and Gold colors this fall and is adding color and beauty to the Christians' home football games. Under the leadership of Prof. D. M. Stowers for the second successive year, the Christian band is almost double in size that band that wore Elon colors a year ago.

With a new band room in the old dining hall, Prof. Stowers has added twenty new members and has mapped an extensive concert season. New uniforms have been ordered, but until they arrive the band members are using some of the old maroon and gold outfits along with the newer white and gold uniforms that were obtained last year.

The combination of uniform colors, however, actually worked out in artistic manner in marching formations which the band used at its first two appearances of the new football season, one at the Apprentice School game on September 22nd and the other at the East Carolina game on October 6th.

Bernard Jones, of Burlington, is drum major and assistant director. There are six majorettes, with June Driver, of Durham, as leader of the group. Other majorettes are Nancy Williamson, of Asheboro; Marjorie Putnam, of Fairhaven, Vt.; Laura Little, of Greensboro; Jo Ann Atkins, of Albemarle; and Emily Hay, of Burlington. The four last named majorettes are new additions to the band this fall.

Interior View of New Dining Hall And Dormitories

Dr. Leon E. Smith, Elon College president, is pictured at the right with Frances Knight, center, of Sanford, and Nancy Anne Perry, of Siler City, as they join in an inspection of the spacious McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, which was placed into full use on the Elon College campus this fall. The structure, standing near the west gate to the college campus, is a memorial honoring the late James H. McEwen, for many years an industrial and civic leader in the Burlington area.

The comfortable social room and lounge in Elon's new Carolina Hall, just occupied this fall as a new dormitory for boys, is pictured at the left. Enjoying the facilities in the picture are Al Hassell, Elon student from Durham, and Samuel T. Webster, Jr., who is field secretary for the college. The dormitory furnishes accommodations for 126 boys and a dormitory counsellor and is one of the most modern residence halls to be found at any college in the state.

New Building Occupied As Elon Opens 1956-7 Term

Marking completion of the greatest forward step for Elon College in nearly three decades, the Elon students and faculty moved this year into three beautiful new buildings which were completed last spring and furnished and made ready for occupancy during the past summer.

The new buildings, which went into full use as the college began its sixty-seventh annual session include the stately McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, which also includes facilities for campus social events; Virginia Hall, new dormitory for girls; and Carolina Hall, new dormitory for boys.

These three buildings had been in the planning stage for several years, and formal ground-breaking ceremonies for them were a feature of Elon's annual commencement program in 1955. They were built last year, with the new dining hall and the girls' dormitory put into partial use at the 1956 commencement in May. The boys' dormitory was completed in June.

Traditional Style

Built and furnished at a cost of over three-quarters of a million dollars, the three Elon buildings were constructed by the King-Hunter Construction Company. All are in a traditional architectural style, designed to fit well with the American colonial style which characterizes Elon's other campus buildings.

The McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, which was built and dedicated as a tribute to the late James H. McEwen, long-time industrial and civic leader in Burlington, stands near the western entrance to the Elon campus. Its main entrance, which fronts toward the center of the campus, is adorned by a colonnaded porch and gallery.

The first floor of the dining hall accommodates as many as 500 students at a time and also includes a smaller dining room for faculty and visitors. It also embraces a completely modern kitchen and serving quarters. On the second floor of the structure is a huge banquet room and social hall, also large enough to accommodate 500 persons at a time. This hall may be utilized later for additional student dining space if expansion of the college enrollment should create such a need.

New Girls' Dorm

The Virginia Hall, which furnishes housing accommodations for 80 girls, is a three-story structure. Completely fire-proof in every detail, its interior is decorated in restful pastel colors, as many as two pastel shades in each room.

The first floor includes a suite for either the dean of girls or a house mother, and on the second floor is a large parlor and lounge for use of the girls. There is a semi-private bath for each two-room suite, and both the second and third floors have additional community baths. A complete laundry for use of the girls is located on the first floor, equipped with both washers and dryers.

The new girls' dormitory is connected by corridors with West Dormitory, largest of the older dorms on the campus. West Dormitory is now being completely renovated with new floor plans, and plumbing and heating facilities and will coincide in many details with the newer Virginia Hall. Social and reception rooms for the use of the girls and their friends will be located on the first floor of West Dormitory. The renovation of West Dorm, which is slated for completion later this fall, has been quite definitely a major project. The new plans include seven new bath rooms, new closets in every room, rearrangement of the first floor to give more adequate social facilities for both faculty and students, repainting both inside and outside and the installation of modern fire escapes. The cost of these repairs, most extensive ever undertaken at Elon, are not to exceed $90,000, and West will be practically a new building.

New Boys Dorm

The Carolina Hall, new residence house for boys, is the largest on the campus, furnishing accommodations for 126 boys and a dormitory faculty counsellor. Like the girls' dormitory, Carolina Hall is decorated throughout in pastel colors. The boys bath facilities are found in group baths on each floor. There are also laundry facilities on each floor for use of the boys, and there is a lounge or reception room at the northern entrance on the first floor.

Each room in both girls' and boys dormitories includes a large double closet, equipped with sliding doors, and each room has been furnished with the modern dormitory furniture. The top of all desks and tables is finished with formica or similar material. Upholstery or furniture in the lounges is of the latest style plastic in appropriate colors.

Already plans are underway for attractive landscaping about each of the new buildings, designed to make the Elon campus into one of the most modern and attractive to be found anywhere in the state or section.

Dear Alumnus:

The Committee from the Board of Trustees of Elon College, appointed to recommend a successor as President of the College upon the retirement of Dr. L. E. Smith, is continuing its investigation of likely prospects.

We have had a number of interviews and conferences and have received much information relative to a number of persons deemed acceptable for consideration as President of the College. We hope to be able to complete our report and make a nomination to the Board at the mid-year meeting of the Board of Trustees in January, 1957.

JOHN T. KERNODLE, '08, IS GIVEN ALUMNI AWARD

John T. Kernodle, a graduate of Elon with the Class of 1908, and a member of a family which had long been prominent in the history of the Congregational Christian Church, was the recipient at the Elon commencement in May of the annual award for Elon's "Alumnus of the Year."

The award, in the form of a certificate or scroll, was presented at the annual Alumni Day banquet on Saturday night of the commencement weekend. The banquet for the first time was held in the social room of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, so the Kernodle award was the first to be presented at that new building.

In making the award, John T. Kernodle was cited in particular for his 34 years of service as managing editor and publisher of "The Christian Sun." Twice during that period he assumed the duties of editor-in-chief of the church publication under interim appointments. He is the son of the late Dr. P. J. Kernodle, church historian and author, who wrote the story of the Congregational Christian ministry in this area.

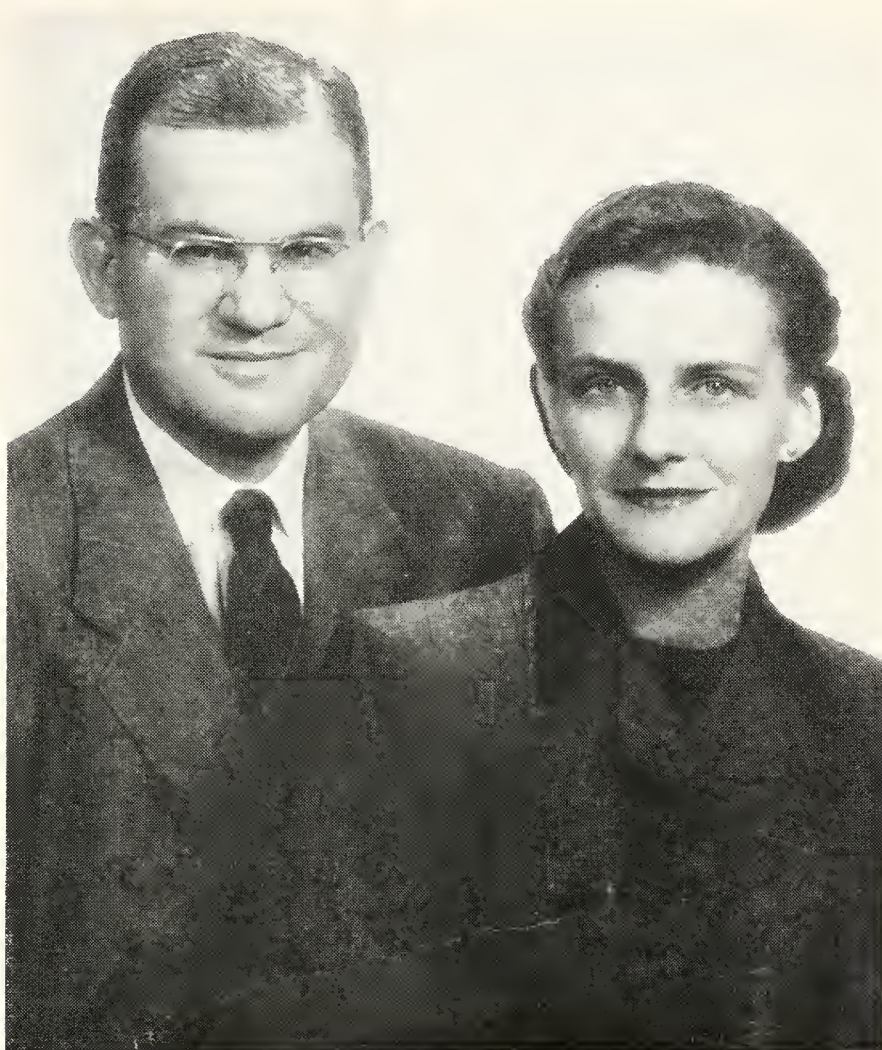

Alumni Couple Donors of Furniture in Caroline Hall

One of the outstanding and significant gifts in connection with the current building program at Elon College came from Dr. and Mrs. John Robert Kernodle, of Burlington, N. C., whose donation of the furniture for Carolina Hall, the new dormitory for boys, was announced at the annual Alumni Banquet during Elon's 1956 commencement. Dr. Kernodle, in the capacity of "Alumni Orator," delivered the principal address on that occasion.

In making this fine contribution to the Elon building program, the donors announced that it was to serve as a memorial to the parents of both Dr. and Mrs. Kernodle. The fathers of each are dead, but the mothers of both are living.

Dr. John Robert Kernodle, who graduated from Elon College with the Class of 1935, went on to complete his medical education after leaving Elon and has been for many years one of the outstanding physicians and surgeons in his native Burlington. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Albert Kernodle, and his mother still resides in her own home in Burlington. Dr. Kernodle is particularly noted for his work in the fight against cancer and is now state president of the cancer organization in North Carolina.

Mrs. Kernodle, the former Esther Cole, is a member of Elon's Class of 1936. A native of Durham, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Cole. Her mother now makes her home with Dr. and Mrs. Kernodle in Burlington. The Kernodles have two children, 12 year old John, Jr., and 10 year old Anne.

Faculty Travels

Four members of the Elon faculty spent much of the past summer in Europe. The faculty travelers were Prof. John Westmoreland, of the music department; Dr. W. W. Sloan, of the religion department; Mrs. Bessie P. Sloan, of the Spanish department; and Prof. William Goodrum, of the French and German departments.

Prof. Westmoreland, who conducted a group of students on tour, spent six weeks of the time with his group attending the University of Vienna summer school at Strobl in Austria. Dr. and Mrs. Sloan, who visited a number of countries, found the highlight of their trip in a visit to Russia. Prof. Goodrum spent most of his time in Germany.

DR. EARL DANIELEY ON CHEMISTRY RESEARCH LEAVE

Dr. J. Earl Danieleley, Class of 1946, who has continued his association with Elon College long past his graduation date, is on leave of absence from his faculty duties at the college this year for a period of teaching and research in chemistry at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md.

Dr. Danieleley remained at Elon as an instructor in chemistry after his graduation and later earned the Master's Degree and the Ph. D. degree in his chosen field at the University of North Carolina. His doctorate was awarded at the University in 1954 after a period of leave from his Elon faculty duties.

He was named as dean of students for the college in the autumn of 1953 and had held that post until given leave of absence for this year. He is now doing research at John Hopkins in association with Dr. A. H. Corwin on the subject of The Chemistry of Porphyrins, work being done on a $5,500 grant from the petroleum industry and administered by the American Chemical Society.

The Elon dean was also doing research last year here on the Elon campus under a grant from the Research Corporation. His research here was in the field of cyclobutanes.

Governor Speaks As Faunder's Day Event Launches Fund-Raising Drive

North Carolina's Governor Luther Hodges was the featured speaker as Elon College observed its annual "Founders' Day" event in an all-day program that was held on the Elon campus on Monday, October 15th. The occasion marked the sixty-seventh birthday of the college and the completion of more than three score years of service to young people of the Southland.

This year marked a change in the celebration, which was for the first time dedicated to the college itself, to its past growth and its future development. In previous years the "Founders' Day" programs had been dedicated to personalities, honoring individuals for their service to the college.

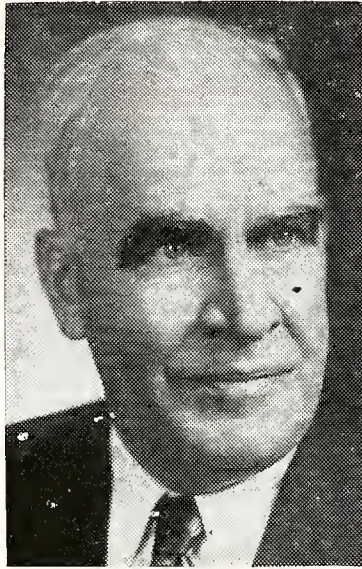

This 1956 "Founders' Day" pointed up the story of Elon's growth, to its greatly increased enrollment in recent years and to the recent improvements in the college buildings and campus facilities, and it served too as a time for launching a new program of growth and development in that it marked the opening of a new Million-Dollar Fund-Raising Campaign.

First event of the all-day program was a meeting of the college's board of trustees in the office of President Smith that morning, but the principal meeting of the day was held in Whitley Auditorium at 10:30 o'clock when Governor Hodges and other speakers addressed the assembled students, faculty, alumni and friends of the college.

The program for that gathering opened with an organ prelude and the playing of the National Anthem by Prof. Fletcher Moore, followed by the invocation by Dr. William T. Scott, superintendent of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

Appearing as representatives of various organizations and groups were six speakers, each of whom spoke the interest of their group in the progress of Elon College.

These speakers and the groups they represented were Martin Garren, of Greensboro, for the Southern Convention; James F. Darden, of Suffolk, Va., for the Elon College Alumni Association; Mills Godwin, of Suffolk, Va., for the Elon Board of Trustees; Dr. John Robert Kernodle, of Burlington, for the people of Alamance County; Mayor Paul Craig, of Burlington, for the people of Burlington; and Charles Meyers, of Greensboro, for industry and the great foundations.

Hon. B. Everett Jordan, of Saxapahaw, member of the board of trustees, introduced Governor Luther Hodges at that time as the speaker of the day. The governor keynoted the program, which signaled a new step forward for Elon College.

Dr. Harrell Passes

Dr. Stanley C. Harrell, of Durham, a member of Elon's Class of 1909 and long-time leader in the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, died suddenly in Norfolk, Va., on July 12th. He was also a graduate of the Union Theological Seminary.

While serving for 35 years as pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church in Durham, he also found time to be president of the Southern Convention, a one-time president of the North Carolina Council of Churches, an editor of "The Christian Sun," and a member of the Elon College board of trustees.

Nineteen Added To Faculty For 1956-7 Season

A total of nineteen new faculty members joined the Elon College faculty this fall for the 1956-57 term, thirteen of the group being assigned to the day-time classes with some of them also teaching evening classes. Six of the added members are assigned only for Evening School duties on a part-time basis.

Among the new faculty members is Mrs. Sylvia Dean Harbert, a native of Panama City, Fla., who is the new dean of women. A graduate of Florida Southern College, she received the Master's Degree from the University of Florida and had additional study at Harvard University. She formerly was assistant to the dean and registrar at the University of Tampa and was more recently coordinator of high school relations at the University of Miami.

Prof. John D. Sanford, a native of Chatham, Va., who completed his Ph. D. work at the University of North Carolina this summer, is the new chairman of the Department of Physical Education and is also the director of athletics. He is well known to many people in this area for his association with college sports and in the field of professional baseball. Also added to the physical education and coaching staff this year is Joseph E. Bryson, of Greensboro, an Elon graduate and a successful high school coach at Bessemer High. He is assistant coach of football and will also work with baseball.

Prof. Arnold C. Strauch, who was added to the Education Department, comes to Elon after doctoral work at the University of North Carolina. He is a native of Scranton, Pa., and had his undergraduate training at Stroudsburg State Teacher's College in Pennsylvania. He is to supervise and direct the new cadet program of practice teaching.

The group includes three additions to the staff of the Elon Music Department. Prof. Fred G. Sahlmann, native of Charleston, S. C., and an Elon graduate who won high honors while doing undergraduate study, returned to the scene of his campus

Homecoming Day Observance Set Weekend Of Catawba Grid Battle

Despite the lack of a regular alumni secretary this year, preparations are well underway for what may become the biggest "Homecoming" celebration in the history of Elon College, for college groups are joining hands under the leadership of Student Body President Larry E. Barnes to carry on with an event that has become traditional each year.

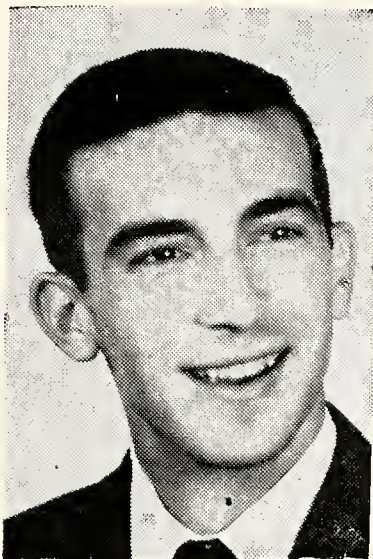

The festivities will get underway on Friday evening, October 19th, when the annual "Homecoming Ball" will be staged in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. Advance plans will make this dance a royal welcome to the grad returning to the campus for the weekend observance.

Students were to ballot in a special election to choose a "Homecoming Queen" and a maid-of-honor, each of whom will be presented during the weekend celebration more than once. Coronation of the queen will be held at the ball on Friday night, and she will again be presented at the time of the annual parade through the streets of Burlington on Saturday afternoon and at the half-time of the football game on Saturday night.

A full day of festivities is set for Saturday, beginning with judging of the "Homecoming" dormitory decorations on Saturday morning. Additional judging will be on deck for Saturday afternoon, when specially designated judges will select the winning floats from those showing in the parade.

A large number of student organizations, including all of the campus fraternities and sororities, most of the clubs and the dormitories, have already signified their intention to enter floats or decorated cars in the parade. Practically all groups will choose sponsors to serve as members of the queen's court-at the Friday night ball and at the Saturday night game.

The student committees designated to work with various phases of Homecoming preparations were named by the student president, with the advise of a faculty committee, which will advise in regard to preparations. The committees are as follows:

Dance Committee—Janet Crabtree, of Durham, chairman.

Publicity Committee—Norman "Bo" Riddle, of Burlington, chairman.

Invitation Committee—Marie Stone, of Kittrell; and Carol Earle, of Burlington.

Decorations Committee—Jane Davis, of Raleigh; and Doris Gaddis, of Asheboro.

Lighting Committee—Bill Walker, of Durham, chairman.

Committee on Sponsors and Flowers—Linda Simpson, of Elon College; and Margaret Pattillo, of Burlington.

Refreshments Committee—Tommie Boland, of Elon College; and Dorothy Keck, of Burlington.

Master of Ceremonies—Chuck Oakley, of Roxboro.

Parade Committee — Prof. J. H. Brashear and Mrs. Jeanne Griffin, for the faculty; and Carl Burke, James Biggerstaff and John Biggerstaff, all of Burlington.

The football game, which is climax to the Homecoming weekend will find the Christians and the Catawba Indians meeting for the twenty-second time. Elon has won ten, lost nine and tied two in this series. Catawba won last year by a 19 to 0 count, but Elon won the Homecoming tilt two years ago 36 to 12.

Fall Enrollment At Elon Shows 1356 Students

A record-breaking enrollment of 1,356 students has just been announced for Elon College for the fall quarter this year, a term which marks the beginning of the college's sixty-seventh year. This figure is more than 200 students above the registration reported for the fall quarter a year ago.

President Leon E. Smith announced the record enrollment following completion of a statistical survey by the college registrar's office. Of the 1,356 individuals enrolled for the fall quarter this year, there are 924 attending day-time classes, while 432 are enrolled in the Elon Evening School. The Elon evening program is a full degree credit program leading to graduation and ranks on par with the day program.

There are 1,072 of the students carrying a full-credit load of fifteen hours, with the full-load students including 894 in the day classes and 178 in the evening. Thirty of the day time students carry less than a full load; while 254 of the evening students, many of whom work on full-time jobs, are carrying less than a full-course schedule. Figuring on 15 credit hours as a full load, there is an equivalent of 1,232 full-load students registered.

The registrar's report also reveals interesting facts as to the ratio of men and women. There are 1,084 men and 272 women registered. Of the men there are 704 in day classes and 380 in evening classes. There are 220 women in day classes and 52 attending night classes.

Indicative of the great contribution made by Elon College to its immediate home territory, embracing Alamance and adjoining counties, is the fact that 88 of the students are commuting students who live at home while attending college. The 468 campus students, however, represent the largest resident student body in the history of the college.

There was no break-down of the registration by classes, except the listing of 403 freshmen and 108 transfer students, making a total of 513 students attending Elon for the first time this year. The student body represents seventeen different states and the District of Columbia and six foreign countries. There are representatives from 51 of North Carolina's 100 counties.

Elon Grid Squad Opens '56 Season On Winning Note

The Christian football squad of 1956 is definitely a better team than that which carried Elon colors a year ago, a fact shown by the statistics of Elon's first four games this fall, games which netted an even break of two wins and two losses for the Christians.

After a disappointing record of three wins and seven losses in 1955, Coach Sid Varney declared in the late summer that his Christians would have to be better because "there was no way to go but up." His boys clearly lived up to that promise in their early tilts this fall.

The first battle was a bitterly-fought 13 to 12 defeat at the hands of the Jacksonville, Ala., on Saturday night, September 17th. The Elon team outplayed the Jacksonville eleven in every phase of statistics except the score and were twice in front, only to have the Alabamans come from behind to win.

Bob Stauffenberg, the 200 pound junior fullback for Elon, was the "show-boy" of the evening in this game as he ran the ball for a net of 131 yards after losing a touchdown and 68 yards of good rushing nullified by penalties. The big boy from Morea, Pa., suffered a broken hand in the first game against Mississippi Southern last fall and missed most of the 1955 play.

The second game this year saw the Elon gridders swamp a weak Apprentice School eleven over in Burlington Stadium. The score was 53 to 7, with not less than six Elon backs sharing in the scoring and with fifteen Christian backfield men sharing in the rushing yardage.

The statistics showed Elon with 382 yards rushing and total scrimmage gains of 421 yards against the Newport News crew, with Kerry Richards of "nub-hand" fame setting the pace with 92 yards in gains. Right behind was Stauffenberg with 90 yards in net gains.

One of the finest performances registered by an Elon football squad in many years was the game played against Appalachian at Boone on Saturday night, September 29th, when Whitney Bradham paced the Maroon-jerseyed eleven to a 19 to 7 victory over the Mountaineers.

Bradham returned a punt 41 yards for the first Elon score and registered a total of 110 yards rushing in 22 carries for a 5-yard average. Another long-gainer touchdown for Elon came on a 50-year pass play from Dickie Smith to Tony Carcaterra. Bob Stauffenberg got the third TD on a 2-yard plunge. The real feature of this game was the terrific charging of two alternating Elon lines.

The fourth game, with the Christians entertaining East Carolina at Burlington on Saturday night, October 6th, was the disappointing one of the early games. The Christians fought gallantly most of the way, but the Pirates capitalized on a series of "breaks" to win by a 19 to 7 count. A blocked punt set the stage for the first score, a fumbled lateral set up the second and a fumbled kick on the one set up the final enemy counter.

Coach Varney has been naming no promises regarding a single one of the games, but he seriously feels that the Christians of 1956 are capable on any given night of taking any game on the schedule. He does not mean this to be overly optimistic. Instead, it is what a sports writer called "cautious optimism."

There are three other great games slated for the home field at Burlington. The Catawba Indians will be the opposition for the "Homecoming" game on October 20th, and hundreds of alumni are expected back for this one. Then there is the Lenoir Rhyne Bears at the stadium on November 10th and the Guilford Quakers on deck for November 17th. Games still left at this writing for foreign fields included Presbyterian at Rock Hill on October 15th, Western Carolina at Cullowhee on October 27th, and Newberry at Newberry on November 3rd.

Cage Campaign Promises Fine Hardwood Team

Although football still rules the Elon sports scene, announcement has been made of a rugged 24-game basketball schedule for the coming 1956-57 season, which should see Coach Doc Mathis floor another strong hardwood combo, one which should rate well with last year's outfit that won the North State and Carolinas NAIA titles and went on to the national NAIA tourney at Kansas City.

Coach Mathis lost three fine backcourt boys by graduation, including Ben Kendall, Ray Whitley and Hugh City, but he has five lettermen back, including all of his "Big Four" inside boys, all of whom are 6 feet 5 inches tall or more. For the backcourt he has only one letterman, but there are several promising youngsters.

The lettermen include Dee Atkinson, Ed Juratic, Frank DeRita and Earl Stone, the tall boys, and Jimmy Crump, who banged in 35 points from the outer court in one game last year. All of these five veterans averaged in double figures for the entire season last year, and they should form an excellent nucleus around which to mold less experienced newcomers.

The basketball schedule includes the following games:

Nov. 28—Pfeiffer, home.

Dec. 5—Belmont Abbey, home.

Dec. 7—Wofford, away.

Dec. 8—McCrary, away.

Dec. 13—Guilford, home.

Godfrey, native of Pell City, Ala., who holds the master's degree in sacred music from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky.; and Prof. Bernard Shaak, of Lebanon, Pa., who has just finished work for the master's degree at Columbia University.

Prof. H. S. Hackney, who hails from Tallahassee, Fla., comes to Elon from Mississippi A. and M. College and joined the Elon staff as professor of French and Spanish. He received the A. B. and M. A. degrees from Emory University and has done advanced work at the University of North Carolina.

Prof. Thomas D. Hall, a native of Akron, Ohio, who holds the master's degree in both history and modern languages from the University of South Carolina, joined the Elon faculty as professor of history.

Prof. Alfred Koger, native of New Mexico, who has been doing advanced work at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., has accepted a position as professor of mathematics, a field in which he has had a long teaching experience.

Rev. John Graves, who has for two years been attached to the offices of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches as a youth leader, was added to the faculty in the college's Department of Religion. A graduate of Elon, he later graduated from the Hartford Theological Seminary.

Mrs. Richard G. Phillips, of Burlington, who is also an Elon graduate, is a new instructor in the Elon Commercial Department. She has taught in recent years in Alamance County schools.

Rev. John Kittenger, a Burlington resident, was a part-time member of the Elon religion faculty last year, teaching religion classes on the campus while serving as an Episcopal minister in this area. He accepted a post as a full-time faculty member this fall for the first time.

Mrs. Kenneth Perkins, now a resident of Elon College but a native of Kentucky, is a new addition in the math department. A graduate of Berea College, she had graduate work at Purdue University and was formerly a member of the faculty at High Point College.

The six new members of the Evening School faculty, all of them serving on a part-time basis, are Hugh A. Cazel in mathematics, Fred Keisling in physics, Morris Moser in accounting, Dearn Seelinger in psychology, Ray B. Sizemore in sociology and John Wells in business administration. Cazel, Keisling and Wells hold positions at Western Electric, Seelinger and Sizemore are from the Burlington City Schools, and Moser is employed in Reidsville.

How Elon Looked To A Student Of Fifty Years Ago

BY PROF. J. W. BARNEY

I got my first view of Elon College early one April morning in 1906 after an all-night ride from Washington in a dusty passenger coach.

I had previously, by correspondence, engaged a room in the home of Prof. J. J. Lincoln, principal of the Preparatory Department of the College. Prof. Lincoln and his son, Jennings, a youth of fourteen, met me at the train. After our introduction Professor Lincoln turned to his son and said: "Jennings, carry Mr. Barney to his room."

I was about to say: "That will not be necessary; I can walk", when Jennings said, "This way, Mr. Barney" and started off. And I got my first introduction to the use of the verb "carry" meaning "to accompany."

After I had left my luggage at the Lincoln residence, I was directed to "Uncle Nat" Boone's house, where I engaged board for seven dollars a month, and mighty good board it was.

Here I had my first introduction to Southern biscuits. After lunch I remarked to one of my fellow boarders that in Pennsylvania we ate loaf bread and my mother baked only once a week. He came back with the question as to whether she followed the same plan in the preparation of the other food—that, cooked only once a week.

My next step was to arrange for some college classes. In the President's office I met Dr. Moffitt, a small man with a rather pointed chin and a brisk business-like manner. In the process of getting registered I met the other six members of the faculty: J. U. Newman, W. C. Wicker, P. J. Kernodle, W. P. Lawrence, W. A. Harper, and Robert Ramey, all of whom I was to know later as excellent and inspiring teachers.

As to buildings, I quote the following excerpt from the College Catalogue for 1905-06:

"The main building is intended for college purposes, lecture rooms, society halls, laboratories, museum, library, reading room, etc. It is a substantial brick structure, 129 feet long, 57 feet wide, three stories high, with an octagonal front 25 feet in diameter, and an observatory on top.

"A three story brick building of twenty-five well ventilated and comfortable rooms, used as a dormitory for young ladies, stands on the east of the College building." This is East Dormitory today.

That was Elon of 1906.

The catalogue might have added that a large room on the second floor

They Won't Quit

Prof. J. W. Barney, author of this article on Elon of fifty years ago, and Dr. Ned F. Brannock, of chemistry department fame, are two who simply don't know the meaning of the word "quit." Both were retired by the trustees at the close of the 1954-55 term, but Dr. Brannock is continuing to teach one course in the Evening School, and Prof. Barney bounced right back up on the campus with the record influx of students this fall and is again teaching (a part-time load) in his beloved English Department.

of the main building served as auditorium, chapel, and church. Here on Sundays the students were privileged to hear inspiring messages from such pulpit masters as Rev. P. H. Fleming and Dr. J. O. Atkinson.

One of the most active and valuable features of the school was its literary societies—two for men and one for women. The Clio and the Philologian societies were for the men and the Psiphelian for the women. Each of these had a large, attractive and well equipped room in the main building and each provided for its members valuable training in public speaking, debate and parliamentary law. Members were fined for unexcused absences from regular meetings or for failure to perform any task assigned.

Society spirit and pride were strong and new students were vigorously "rushed" and solicited by the "old" members. The same rivalry served to stimulate academic achievement by the desire of each society to surpass the other in scholarship and in leadership in other collegiate activities.

The high spot of the year was the annual Philologian-Clio debate. Here chosen representatives from the two societies would debate some question of current interest and importance. The judges would be prominent persons from outside the college town, lawyers, doctors, business men, etc. I feel sure many Elon graduates who today are prominent in business, state or church look back upon their training in the society as a valuable factor in their success.

The segregation of the sexes was quite rigidly enforced. In the classrooms the girls were seated on one side of the room and the boys on the other. And no mingling in the corridors was permitted. At the end of a class period the girls passed, on the first bell, to their next class room; on the next bell, after the corridors were cleared, the boys passed. And woe to the boys and girls who were caught engaging in conversation in the corridors or on the college walks. They were summoned to the dean's office, lectured, and given a stern warning to avoid such offense in the future.

Now as to the number of students fifty years ago. The college catalogue for 1905-06 shows an enrollment of 21 freshmen, 14 sophomore, 8 juniors, and 13 seniors — a total of 56 in the four classes. To this may be added 65 in the Academic (Preparatory) Department-making a grand total of 121 students.

The enrollment for 1956, according to the registrar's office is 1354 students, a gain of 1100 per cent over 1906. Let's go, Elon!

CLASS OF 1907 PLANS REUNION

Although Elon's 1957 commencement is still a full seven months in the future, it is not too early to begin planning ahead for the class reunions that will be a feature of the commencement season.

The spotlight will naturally center on the "Golden Anniversary" reunion of the Class of 1907, for the "50-year class" is always the one which attracts the most attention.

The Class of 1907 had thirteen members, and eleven of those thirteen graduates are said to be living at this time. It is the hope of the class leaders that each of those eleven surviving members may be present for the 1957 commencement festivities. Further announcement of the reunion plans for this class will be made later this year.

Other classes due to gather next spring are which graduated in 1897, 1902, 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, and 1952.

expense; however, the expenses do not exceed the income. Our college is not losing, but it is increasing its service to the community, to the church, and to the state.

The Alumni of Elon College will be greatly interested in the campaign that is now being conducted to secure an additional $1,000,000 for the college. The National Fund Raising Services, Inc., of Forth Worth, Texas has been employed to direct the campaign.

The church has taken a final step to complete the Two and One-Half Million Dollar campaign. It has agreed to accept the responsibility of $300,000 for this purpose. Each church in the Southern Convention has been given its quota, and practically half of this amount has already been pledged by the churches. This $300,000 will complete the Two and One-Half Million in cash and pledges, although some of these pledges, I fear, will not be paid.

At any rate the churches' $300,000 will put the Two and One-Half Million Dollar campaign over in cash and pledges. The Million Dollar campaign now being activated will make the financial condition of Elon College sound and secure. I am sure that the Alumni will want to do its share in this campaign. At the last annual meeting of the General Alumni Association in May, 1956, a resolution was passed calling on every Alumnus to contribute a minimum of $20 a year for five years — total $100. With the generous cooperation of the Alumni and all interested in Elon College I am confident that these efforts for the college will be successful and all will witness continued growth and progress for our Alma Mater.

Elon Alumni News
ELON COLLEGE NORTH CAROLINA

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Elon College
Elon College, North Carolina

February 26, 1957

To The Alumni Of Elon College

My dear Friends and College Representatives:

For more than twenty-five years I have endeavored to serve Elon College as President. I have served honestly, fully and to the best of my ability. I have made mistakes as anyone laboring under such pressure will. I should say, modestly, that the college has succeeded beyond expectations during this term of years. If you have been in touch with the college, I am sure that you are aware of certain definite improvements. The campus has an entirely different appearance and the equipment is modern and more satisfactory. Even so, it is impossible for any of us to realize the extent to which Elon College has grown along all lines. A new power house, a new gymnasium, a group of faculty houses and student apartments, two new dormitories, a dining hall, and a student body of more than 1600, not including summer school, a salutary and satisfactory financial condition attained, all of which is indicative of progress and prophetic of a greater institution in the years that lie ahead.

It is now definitely decided that I shall terminate my services as President of the college, July 1, 1957, which means, of course that the approaching commencement will be my last commencement as President. During my term of office we have matriculated thousands of young men and young women and we have awarded certificates and graduated hundreds of young men and young women. It certainly would be wonderful if all who have attended Elon College during my administration would return to the campus for commencement on May 24-26.

This is a cordial invitation to you to attend and an earnest request that you be present for the reception in the gymnasium on Friday evening, May 24 at 8:00 p.m. Mrs. Smith and I, as hostess and host, will give the reception to all returning alumni and see that the class of 1957 is properly received into the Alumni Association. This will be a very great occasion and we are so anxious to have you present to add to the pleasure of the evening and share in the usual activities and events.

I trust sincerely that you will make it a point to come.

Yours truly,
L. E. SMITH
President

ELON ALUMNI NEWS

W. B. Terrell, Editor

EDITOR'S LETTER

Dear Alumni of Elon College:

The October issue of the Alumni News carried the announcement that I had accepted the position of Secretary of the Elon College Alumni Association and would assume the duties of this office on January 1, 1957. I am happy to report that I took over the work of the office on that date. However, on December 26th I sustained a broken wrist in a fall and for approximately two months I was greatly handicapped in the work. I have spent a great deal of the time in becoming familiar with the records, office procedure, etc. We have also worked closely with those in charge of conducting the Elon College Development Fund Campaign, which you will be hearing more about from time to time.

Although this second issue of the Alumni News is coming to you later than we had expected, it is dated in February to conform to advertising and record dates. We are not sure at this time that the May issue will be ready and in your hands until after commencement. If the May issue of the Alumni News is not issued in time to give you information concerning commencement, this information will be given to you by letter.

In speaking of commencement, we would like to call your attention to certain activities that are already planned. You will be given more definite information later.

On Friday evening, May 24th the commencement weekend will begin with the reception in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. Dr. Smith and Mrs. Smith will be host and hostess for this occasion which will honor the graduating class and alumni.

Class reunion breakfasts or meetings will be scheduled for Saturday morning May 25th. At noon on this day a picnic luncheon for all alumni and visitors will be held on the campus. A brief business session of the general alumni association will be held at 2:30 in Whitley Auditorium. We want to give you plenty of time to visit with one another. At 6:30 the annual Alumni banquet will be held in the new McEwen Memorial Dining Hall. At this time the Alumni Orator will be heard and the Outstanding Alumnus named.

On Sunday, May 26, the Baccalaureate services will be held, with the graduating exercises coming on Monday, May 27.

You will note that the program as now planned follows very much in line with programs of the past few years. However, other activities may be added.

In connection with the commencement program for this year, we want to call your attention to the special invitation extended to everyone from Dr. Smith in a letter on the President's Page. I

Homecoming Weekend Considered Success

The Weather Man frowned and deluged the Elon campus with rain through much of the weekend, but not even rain could drown the joyous spirit that prevailed through Elon's Homecoming Weekend, which was celebrated on Friday and Saturday of the weekend October 19-20th. The celebration ended on a note of high glee with Elon winning over Catawba in the homecoming football game played in Burlington.

The Homecoming was off to a terrific start with the annual dance on Friday night in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, a dance which was staged against one of the most colorfully decorated backgrounds seen in years. A special feature of the dance was the coronation ceremonies for the Homecoming Queen.

Evelyn Fritts, a senior from Lexington, ruled as queen, and her crown was bestowed at an intermission ceremony by Larry Barnes, of Portsmouth, Va., president of the Elon student government, who was also her escort in the presentation of the royal court. Her chief attendant was Margaret Patillo, of Burlington, the maid-of-honor, who was escorted by Stuart Cass, of Greensboro.

The annual dormitory decoration contest, which resulted in keen competition, presented a gala campus appearance. Top honors went to the girls in Virginia Hall, with the boys in East dormitory and the girls in Ladies Hall winning second and third place honors.

An outstanding feature of the Saturday program was the annual parade through the streets of Burlington at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon. With a number of beautiful floats and more than twenty decorated convertibles, the parade was one of the most colorful seen in years.

The trophy for the most beautiful float in the annual parade went to the girls of Virginia Hall, who used a theme of Elon College students and student costuming through the years. Floats which placed second and third in the judging were those representing the Elon College Choir and the Day Student Organization.

The sponsors of various campus groups, who composed the queen's court and were presented at the dance, the parade and the football game, included Jennie Keck, for the Senior Class, with Melvin Chrismon; Pat Chrismon, for the Junior Class, with Doc Alston; Linda Simpson, for the Sophomore Class, with Richard Lashley; Mary Ann McEvey, for the Freshman Class, with Don Johnson.

Harlene Howell, for Carolina Hall, with Ralph Till; Peggy Wood, for East Dormitory, with Nick Fleming; Marjorie Putnam, for North Dormitory, with Sonny Garrison; Laura Little, for Club House, with Johnny Meadows; Ann Minter, for Carlton House, with Bob Orr; Billie Faye Barrett, for Home Ec Club, with Lewis Duke; Louann Lambeth, for French Club, with Buddy Touchberry;

BRICK IS DONATED FOR NEW DORMITORY

The gift of the brick for the construction of the new boys' dormitory on the Elon College campus was announced on January 29th by Dr. Leon E. Smith, Elon's president.

The new dormitory, for which the contract was let on January 23rd, is to be built in the immediate future and is expected to be completed and ready for use next September, 1958.

The brick gift came from Milton Cheshire, an Elon graduate of the Class of 1938 from Sanford, who is owner and president of the Sanford Brick and Tile Company. Mr. Cheshire came to the Elon College campus on Monday, January 28th, and presented a gift pledge for the brick to President Smith and to Clyde W. Gordon, of Burlington, who is general chairman of the Elon College Development Fund Campaign.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith Reception Hosts

Dr. and Mrs. Leon E. Smith were hosts on Thursday night, October 18 to more than three hundred of their friends at a reception in the banquet room of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall on the college campus, the occasion being the celebration of their forty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The occasion also marked the 50th anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. Smith's meeting while students on the Elon College campus and the 25th anniversary of their coming to Elon College to live after Dr. Smith accepted the presidency of the college in the autumn of 1931.

The guests were greeted at the main entrance to the dining hall by Prof. Clyde McCants and Mrs. Sylvia Dean Harbert, dean of women, and were received at the entrance to the upstairs banquet room by Prof. and Mrs. Luther N. Byrd.

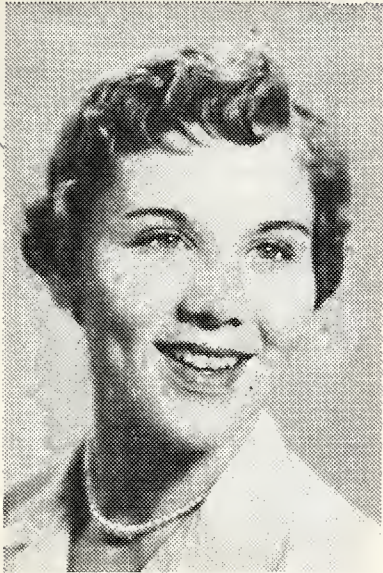

Prof. and Mrs. Alonzo L. Hook presented the guests to Dr. and Mrs. Smith, who had Judge and Mrs. Charles Hines, of Greensboro, receiving with them. Judge Hines was an attendant at the wedding, which was solemnized at Mrs. Smith's home at Cluster Springs, Va., on October 18, 1911.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith cut the large cake, which was served to the guests by Miss Lila Newman, assisted by Mrs. William E. Butler, Jr., and Miss Jean Payne, one of the Elon students.

Coffee was poured by Mrs. James M. Hess and by Mrs. George A. Kernodle, of Burlington, Mrs. Kernodle having been an intimate personal friend of Mrs. Smith during their college days. Also assisting at the coffee tables were Misses Sylvia Smith and Tommie Boland, members of the Elon student body. Goodbyes were said to Miss Hazel Walker.

Decorative background for the occasion was furnished by arrangements of fall flowers, and music was played throughout the evening by Dr. Malvin Artley and a chamber music ensemble composed of students from his class in string music.

THEY RULED OVER HOMECOMING FESTIVITIES

EVELYN FRITTS
... Homecoming Queen

Ruling as Homecoming Queen over the festivities on the Elon campus during Homecoming Weekend was Evelyn Fritts, left, a senior from Lexington. Her chief attendant was Margaret Patillo, right, also a senior from Burlington, who was maid-of-honor. The two were selected by the vote of the students in a special election held ten days prior to the Homecoming weekend.

The Queen has been very active in girls' sports and is president of the Womens Athletic Association this year. She is a member of Delta Upsilon Kappa Sorority.

The maid-of-honor, who has been a member of the Elon College Choir and active in musical work since her freshman year, is a member of Tau Zeta Phi. The two girls were presented at the dance, in the parade and at half-time of the football game.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR NEW DORMITORY

The contract for the construction of another new boys' dormitory on the Elon College campus was let to H. F. Mitchell Construction Company of Burlington. Dr. Leon E. Smith, president of the college, announced that the contract was closed at a meeting held in the president's office on Wednesday afternoon, January 23.

In announcing the contract, Dr. Smith stated that twenty construction firms submitted bids on the project, with the Burlington firm as low bidder at $239,920. The bids ranged all the way to $267,000 for the new structure, with the majority of them ranging close to $250,000.

Construction is to start as soon as materials become available, and plans call for the completion of the three-story dormitory in time for use next September at the opening of the 1957-58 school term. It was brought out at the contract meeting that steel and some other contract materials are short at this time.

The building is to be similar design to Carolina Hall, a boys' dormitory which was opened for use last September. It will be three stories in height and will furnish housing accommodations for 126 boys. It is to be erected adjacent to Carolina Hall.

The new dormitory will be the fourth in the current building program at Elon College, two new dormitories and a new dining hall having been completed last year in time for occupancy this school year.

FOURTEEN STUDENTS RATED IN "WHO'S WHO"

Fourteen outstanding student leaders on the Elon College campus have been selected for a place in the forthcoming 1956-57 edition of "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges", a publication which appears each year and is dedicated to publicizing outstanding students throughout the nation.

The list, which contains exactly the same number chosen from Elon a year ago, includes only one repeater from the fourteen students honored last fall. The lone repeater is Jerry Moize, of Gibsonville, who was the only junior named to the 1955-56 list. Again this year there is only one junior among those honored. He is Doc Alston, Reidsville, who thus becomes the only one with a chance to repeat.

The other twelve students chosen this fall, all of them seniors, are listed in alphabetical order. They include Larry Barnes, of Portsmouth, Va.; Frances Knight Carver, of Sanford; Evelyn Fritts, of Lexington; Earl Grant, of Burlington; Alfred Hassell, of Durham; Jeannette Hassell, of Durham; Ben Kendall, of Kokomo, Ind.; Michael Tunnicliffe, of Elon College; and William Watson, of Sanford.

Each of these selected has been outstanding in campus activities since entering Elon College. Pictures and a brief sketch of each of these students who was honored appeared in the December 12 issue of Maroon and Gold, the college newspaper.

Fund Campaign Gets Underway

Organizational plans for the campaign to raise the new Elon College Development Fund were discussed at a meeting of members of the campaign steering committee, which was held at a luncheon session at the Alamance Hotel on Thursday, November 1st.

The campaign, which was officially launched at the Elon College Founders' Day celebration, held at the college on October 15th, with Governor Luther Hodges as the featured speaker, is designed to raise $1,300,000 within the next few months for further expansion and development of the college.

The planning meeting was presided over by D. R. Fonville, of Burlington, secretary of the Elon College Board of Trustees. He introduced Dr. Leon E. Smith, who sketched briefly the history of Elon College from its founding in 1889 to the present. In thus telling the story of the college, Dr. Smith told of the great building program of recent years and of the successful conclusion of an earlier $2,500,000 campaign.

George D. Colclough, of Elon College, secretary of the Burlington Chamber of Commerce and a member of the college board of trustees, outlined the needs that have brought about this new campaign, calling attention to the great increase in enrollment and the constantly rising costs of operation.

In reference to the new drive for funds, Mr. Colclough pointed out that the $1,300,000 would provide $150,000 to match last spring's gift to Elon from the Ford Foundation for increased faculty pay, would provide $150,000 for a scholarship fund for needy students, $50,000 for improvements of apartments for married students and would include $950,000 to be added to the Elon College endowment funds.

After these introductory statements the members of the steering committee heard a comprehensive outline of the organization for the forthcoming campaign, with duties of various committees and campaign leaders clearly defined. It was pointed out that the hope is to conclude the drive successfully by next March.

Clyde W. Gordon, Burlington industrialist, is general campaign chairman. B. Everett Jordan, industrialist and textile leader, of Saxapahaw, and Reid Maynard, banker, of Burlington, are co-chairmen of the advance gifts division of the drive, which is to solicit gifts from the larger business and industrial donors. They listed four vice-chairmen, who will in turn enlist workers for their own groups.

The vice-chairmen named include Burlington business leaders. They are Paul Wofford, Jr., of Cherokee Flooring Company; E. H. Foley, of Security National Bank; Claude Long, of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company; and John A. Boland, Jr., of Burlington Industries.

Dr. John Robert Kernodle, of Burlington, who is chairman of the campaign's special gifts division, has named three vice-chairmen, all of them from Burlington. They include Cliff Elder, hosiery mill executive; Eugene A. Gordon, attorney; and Earl Pardue, insurance and real estate.

The general gifts division, with Ed Hicklin, Burlington insurance man as chairman, has also announced its leadership personnel, including one co-chairman and five vice-chairmen.

Named as co-chairmen with Hicklin is W. S. Leloudis, of Western Electric; while the vice-chairmen include Paul Craig, mayor of Burlington; Ralph Payne, oil company executive; Marvin E. Yount, Jr., hospital administrator; Glenn Pickard, attorney; and Otis Lackey, dairy company official. Yount is from Graham, while all the others are from Burlington.

STUDENTS ACCEPTED FOR FURTHER STUDY

Indicative of the high calibre of work being done in the natural science departments here at Elon College is the fact that five Elon students have already been accepted this year for advanced study at medical and dental schools of this area.

Announcement was made recently by members of the natural science faculty that Jimmy Sparks, of Cliffside, Dick Simpson, of Elon College, have already been accepted for medical study at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College.

Already accepted for dental studies at the University of North Carolina Dental School at Chapel Hill are Larry Dorton, of Landis; Wallace Butler, of Burlington; and Frank Pattishall, of Burlington. Dorton and Butler are graduates who have been doing special work to meet dental school requirements, but Pattishall is only a third-year student here at Elon who has completed dental school entrance requirements in a shorter time.

Laymen Meeting Well Attended

Five hundred laymen from more than 100 churches in North Carolina and Virginia were on the Elon College campus on Sunday afternoon, February 17th, for the mid-winter rally of the Laymen's Fellowship of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

The annual program, which got underway at 2:30 o'clock in Whitley Auditorium, was presided over by Dr. J. Earl Danieleley, who is chairman of the laymen's organization this year. Dr. Danieleley is on a leave of absence from his faculty duties this year pursuing graduate work at Johns Hopkins University.

The delegates were welcomed to Elon's campus by Dr. Leon E. Smith, and devotionals were conducted by James P. Ould, Jr., of Newport News, Va. This was followed by recognition of guests and by a special greeting from the Churchmen's Brotherhood of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. The E. and R. greetings were brought by Russell H. Sides, of Winston-Salem.

There was special music by the Elon College Choir and reports from Miss Faye Gordon, of Suffolk, Va., president of the Southern Convention Pilgrim Fellowship, and by Russell V. Powell, of Greensboro, chairman of the Moonelon Committee.

Featured speaker for the afternoon gathering was Dr. Raymond Dudley, of Boston, Mass., Secretary for India and Ceylon of the American Board of Missions.

At 6:00 o'clock in the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall the laymen met for dinner after which they heard an address by Walter A. Graham, of Pembroke, Ky., National Director of Laymen's Fellowship.

Elon Professor Writes New Book

A new textbook written by Dr. W. W. Sloan, of the Elon College religion faculty, has just been published by the Abingdon Press, of Nashville, Tenn., and has been placed on sale in Burlington book stores. It will be available soon in the Elon College Book Store.

Entitled "A Survey of the Old Testament", the book retells the story of the Old Testament in modern language for easy understanding by the average person.

This is Dr. Sloan's first book, but he is now in the process of writing a second book about the New Testament.

Abingdon Press makes the following comments about the new book:

"A Survey of the Old Testament" retells the story of the Old Testament in modern language for the average person, placing the Biblical story in its historical and cultural setting. It shows how the Hebrews were gradually led to a knowledge of God and his will.

"The findings of Bible scholars are here interpreted in easily understandable terms for the non-specialist reader. Introductory chapters give a sketch of the centuries to be covered and an account of how the Bible came down to us.

"Informal enough to hold the interest of the student in an introductory Bible course, this book is also well suited for Sunday School workers. The following features add to its adaptability: a scripture reading assignment at the beginning of each chapter, review questions and a supplemental reading list for each chapter. The content is sufficiently scholarly to encourage independent research."

A graduate of the College of Wooster, Ohio, Dr. Sloan received a B. D. degree from McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, Ill., and a Ph. D. degree from Northwestern University.

He taught in several middle western colleges and at Berry College, Mt. Berry, Ga., before joining the Elon College faculty nine and one-half years ago. He has served as supply pastor for a number of churches and has written many articles for the Christian Sun, a Congregational Christian weekly, and for other periodicals.

Dr. Sloan has made 11 trips abroad and has twice been around the world. His latest trip abroad was a visit to Russia last summer with Congregational Christian Council for Social Action.

BURLINGTON CIVIC CLUB HONORS DR. SMITH

The Burlington Exchange Club paid its highest tribute to Dr. Leon E. Smith, Elon's president, when it placed his name in the Club's "Book of Golden Deeds" for his long service in the fields of religion and education. The award was announced at the Exchange Club meeting on Tuesday, October 30th.

Dr. Smith, who was out of town and unable to be present to receive the award, was presented the award in his office at the college by Edgar Dameron, Jr., club leader.

The announcement of the award featured a brief review of Dr. Smith's life, citing his successful pastorates in the Congregational Christian Church, which culminated when he resigned his pastorate at Norfolk's Christian Temple in 1931 to accept the presidency of Elon College.

His full quarter century of service to Elon College was also reviewed, and the citation pointed to tremendous growth of the college under his administration, with enrollment increasing from 100 students in 1931 to more than 1,350 today, and with a corresponding increase in endowment and improvement in the physical plant of the college. It was pointed out that Dr. Smith has twice been recognized with honorary doctorates from educational institutions.

Landscape Work Is Begun On Campus

Work is underway on the landscaping program for the northeastern area of the Elon campus. A contract to do this work was recently entered into with the Van Lindley Nurseries, of Greensboro.

The plans call for a complete new landscape program for the campus section surrounding the new McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, the new Virginia Hall for girls, West Dormitory, Ladies Hall, Carlton Library and Whitley Auditorium.

Walks are being laid off and parking areas for automobiles will be relocated and surfaced in weather resistant style. The entire area will be sowed in grass, and an attractive shrubbery arrangement is to be planted. The work is to be completed in the early spring. It is felt that this additional work on the campus will make this area outstandingly beautiful.

After completion of the new boys' dormitory, a landscaping program is contemplated for the area around the two boys dormitories, Science Building and Mooney Christian Education Building.

ESSO FOUNDATION HAS GRANT FOR ELON

Formal presentation of a cash grant of $2,000 to Elon College by the Esso Education Foundation was made Wednesday afternoon, December 5th in the office of Dr. Leon E. Smith, Elon president. The presentation was made by Alex E. Dippy, of Charlotte, the North Carolina manager for the Standard Oil Company.

In making the presentation Mr. Dippy cited the fact that his company "believes that business should share with other citizens the responsibility of supporting private colleges and universities in the United States, thus assuring that they will continue to share in meeting the increasing demands of society upon higher education."

There was a similar grant of $2000 to Elon College by the Esso Foundation last year, and in each case the grants were made without restriction except the fund is to be used to help meet expenses directly associated with undergraduate education.

Moore Named State Piano Leader

PROF. FLETCHER MOORE

Prof. Fletcher Moore, chairman of the Department of Fine Arts and head of the Music Department at Elon College was named in October as president of the North Carolina Piano Association, which is composed of college, university and private piano teachers of the state.

The Elon professor succeeded for the next two years to a post which had been held by Prof. Christopher Giles, of Wake Forest. Choice of the post is the latest of a long list of honors for the Elon professor, who has gained an enviable reputation in the music world.

In his new position Prof. Moore will administer the district and the state contests for high school pianists, which is held under the auspices of the North Carolina Piano Association. He was already chairman in charge of the state-wide Junior Music Festival that is held annually by the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs. The state finals of the last-named contest were held at Elon College last spring.

Prof. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Moore, Sr., of Burlington, was born and reared in Burlington and received his early education in the Burlington City Schools. He later was graduated from Elon College, where he majored in music, mathematics and English. He found his real field in music, however, and during his college years won first place in the South Atlantic States in both piano and organ.

After graduation from Elon College, he went on to Columbia University for a year of graduate study and received his Master's Degree there. He also studied at the same time at the Julliard School of Music and then came back to Elon College to become a member of the faculty.

His faculty duties were interrupted again for a year of study with Guy Maier, world-renowned pianist, at the University of California, and were also interrupted by army service during World War II. In that conflict and because of his rare knowledge of Arabic, he was assigned to the army linguistics department and served as an intelligence officer in London, Naples, Rome and North Africa. In North Africa he was radio consultant at the time of the German surrender in that theatre of war. He received a battlefield commission in the late stages of the war.

Returning to his faculty duties at Elon in 1945, he has served continuously since that time with the exception of two years when he was on leave of absence for graduate study. He was appointed head of the music program at the college in 1947 and has held the post since that time.

Prof. Moore was at Columbia University from 1952 until 1954 for residence work on his doctoral degree, and he has been a member of the Columbia summer school faculty for the past two years. His doctoral dissertation is on the topic of "Structural History of the Piano Sonata," and it traces the history of the sonata from the initial one by Kuhnau in 1600 down to the present. His dissertation will be suitable for use as a college text when completed.

WESTERN ELECTRIC CO. MAKES GIFT TO ELON

Continuing its long and splendid cooperation with Elon College, the Western Electric Company presented Elon College on Friday January 11, with a check for $2,000 to be applied on the purchase of equipment for an electronics laboratory.

The $2,000 gift was presented to Dr. Leon E. Smith, Elon president, by S. C. Donnelly, of Burlington, who is assistant works manager for the Western Electric plants in Burlington and Greensboro. Also present for the ceremony in Dr. Smith's office were H. W. Sharp, superintendent of the Burlington plant, and J. G. Gardner, superintendent of engineering for the company.

In receiving the gift, Dr. Smith expressed to the Western Electric officials his appreciation and the appreciation of all Elon officials and personnel for Western Electric's continued support for and interest in Elon College, pointing out the close ties which have existed between the company and the college since the Western Electric plant was first opened in Burlington.

The new electronics laboratory equipment, which becomes possible through this gift, will be installed and operated by the Elon College physics department. Prof. A. L. Hook, head of the physics department, stated that with the new equipment the department would be able to greatly expand its teaching in the field of electronics.

Basketball Team Ends Excellent Season

The Elon Christians completed their basketball season with an outstanding record of 24 victories against 6 defeats.

Elon ended the regular season play with a 22 to 4 standing. In the North State Conference Tournament Elon was defeated by Catawba in a surprising upset, but the Christians came back strong to win the Carolinas District NAIA championship in the annual tournament held here, with impressive victories over Erskine and Presbyterian to win a trip to the national tournament in Kansas City.

The "luck of the draw" was against the Elon team as it had to face top-seeded Pacific Lutheran in first round play in Kansas. Although confronted by a tall and sharpshooting crew of Gladiators, a team that was doped to win the tournament, the Elon crew made a stubborn battle of the game through the first half and well into the second half before finally losing to this great team from Parkland, Washington.

BASEBALL TEAM IS UNDER NEW COACH

The Elon College baseball squad, playing under a brand-new coach in the person of Jack Sanford, will open its 1957 campaign by meeting the strong Duke Blue Devils at Durham on March 21. That game will be followed by 23 other tilts that are already on schedule, with the possibility that two additional games may be added to the season card.

It may look like a comparatively new Elon baseball squad which faces the "Big Four" Blue Devils at Durham, for Coach Sanford has only nine lettermen as a nucleus for his 1957 Elon diamond combination. However competition is keen for all positions and it is felt that Coach Sanford will come up with a team that will give a good account of itself as it moves through its tough schedule.

The schedule:

March 21—Duke, there

SPORTS PROGRAM

The so-called "Minor Sports" at Elon College are taking on major significance as more and more students participate. A rather ambitious schedule is offered for this season.

Coach Sid Varney is coaching track. Prof. J. H. Brashear, faculty member, is training the golf team. Charlie Johnson, a senior, is in charge of tennis. These men are working hard to develop their respective teams.

MR. CARLTON DIES

On December 5, 1956, Mr. Luther Carlton died at his home in Paces, Virginia. The funeral services were held in Ingram Christian Church and he was buried in the cemetery at Pleasant Grove Christian Church, Halifax County. He was a member of the J. W. Carlton family of Richmond, Virginia, one of the fine families of the state of Virginia.

When fire destroyed the original building at Elon College on January 18, 1923, the children of Mr. J. W. Carlton made a great contribution to Elon College in erecting the building that bears the name of this family—the Carlton Library building. Mr. Luther Carlton, along with his brothers Messrs. P. J. Carlton, and Herbert Carlton and Mrs. Thomas Parrot, a sister made this generous gift. In addition to this splendid gift, the family continued to support Elon College through the years.

Mr. Luther Carlton was an outstanding citizen, very active in his community and in his church. He was for a long number of years a member of the Board of Trustees of Elon College.

So long as health permitted he was present for all sessions of the board and contributed wisdom and guidance as the board sought solution of the numerous problems of the college.

BIRTHDAY TRIBUTE GOES TO DR. SMITH BY CHOIR

Leaders and members of the Elon College Choir paid birthday tribute to Dr. Leon E. Smith, Elon College president, when they were hosts October 25 at a beautifully planned birthday party held in the banquet room of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall.

The guests were greeted at the door by Jeannette Hassell and Al Hassell, of Durham, and were directed to seats by Mary Anne Thomas, of Burlington, and Leslie Johnston, of Franklin, Va. All are members of the college choir.

They were entertained by a delightful and varied musical program by the Elon choir, which sang as a chorus with individual choir members in solo roles on many numbers. The program included the following:

"Omnipotence," by Schubert, sung by the Choir.

"Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, sung by the Choir.

"Behold a Host," by Grieg, with Mary Anne Thomas in a solo role.

"Bless This House," featuring Dorothy Hilliard, a former choir member from Burlington.

A piano solo by Prof. Fred Sahlman, a member of the music faculty.

"Old Man River", with Tommy McDonald of Greensboro as soloist.

"The Holy City", featuring Mary Anne Thomas.

Quarett numbers by Ray Thomas, of Burlington, and Eddie Robbins, Bill Turner, and Stuart Cass, all of Greensboro.

"You'll Never Walk Alone," featuring Tommy McDonald.

"Without A Song", solo by Charles Lynam, of Wake Forest, a former member of the Choir.

"Sit Down Servant", duet by Jeannette Hassell and Eddie Robbins.

"Battle Hymn of the Republic", by the Choir, featuring Charles Lynam.

"Hallelujah Chorus", by the Choir. Professor John Westmoreland, of the Music Department, was in charge of the program.

Following the concert, the guests were served coffee by Jackie Love and Margaret Patillo and were served from a huge birthday cake by Dorothy Keck, of Burlington, and Lois Grizzard, of Courtland, Va.

EDITOR'S LETTER

don't know of anything that would please Dr. Smith more or any way in which we could pay him more honor than to share with him this final commencement as President of our college. Won't you make your plans now to be here at that time.

We want everyone to be here to enjoy the commencement activities. However, a very special invitation goes to members of reunion classes which are listed here. Of course the center of attention will be the "Golden Anniversary" reunion class of 1907. This class had thirteen members, and it is thought that eleven of those members are living at this time. From reports we have it appears that all eleven of them will be here for the reunion. Let's have 100 per cent attendance on the part of as many other classes as possible. Here are your classes: 1897, 1902, 1907, 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947 and 1952.

We regret that we shall be able to contact only a few of the local chapters before our school closes this spring. We realize that several changes may have occurred in the "Presidents of Local Chapters." However, we shall make no changes in our listing of these presidents until we have correct information. Plans are underway to have chapters become a very vital part of the work of the general association. We feel sure you want to be a part.

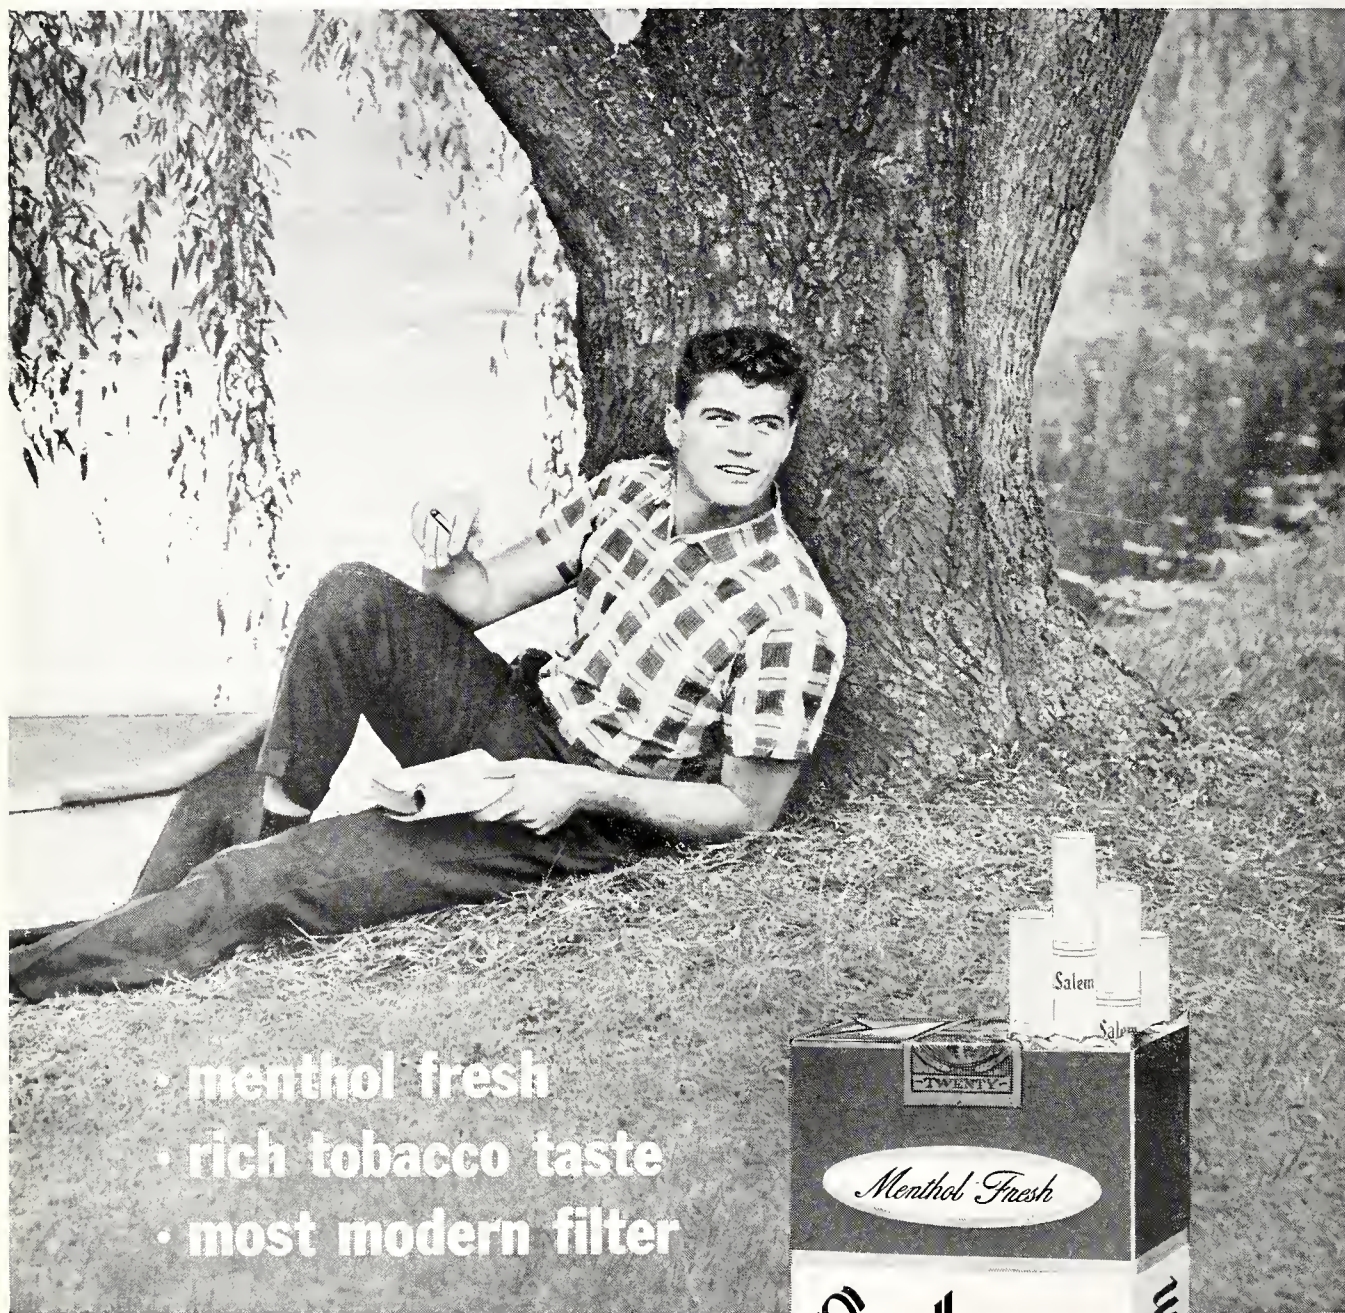

We would also like to call your attention to the list of those who have made their contribution to the support of the Alumni Association for the year 1956-57. If your name is not listed with your class or proper group, won't you send in your contribution at Once? We shall appreciate your cooperation in this vital part of our program.

In addition to your financial support of the Alumni Association, we appeal for your interest in the work of the association. We want you to feel that you are a definite part and that you can help in many ways. Please let us have your advice and suggestions, also send us information concerning yourself or other alumni which may be of interest to all of us. Visit the alumni office when you can.

Sincerely,
Bill Terrell
Executive Secretary

ELON COLLEGE NORTH CAROLINA

From The

President's Desk

The wheels of time roll on. With every turn they are nearer their destiny. Eventually, the destiny must be reached. I find myself caught in the tides. Time is no respecter of persons. The day brings an unusual experience. All of my life I have been accustomed to taking an inventory of the present and looking to the future with a purpose and hope.

It has never been my custom to reckon the years on a calendar basis. My years, since entering college, have run either from June to June or November to November. Before the close of the year in which the tides of time have landed me I have been beginning to live the ensuing year. At leisure moments when I should have been resting I have been dreaming and planning to meet the responsibilities that shall greet me in the future.

When I was in the pastorate my year closed with the month of August. The month of August for me was vacation time. I rested, to be sure, but all the time reading, selecting sermon topics, preparing sermon outlines, reshaping the church organization, getting ready for an aggressive and more meaningful year for the church and for the Kingdom.

I came to Elon College in November, 1931. This was a radical change for me. It required personal adjustments and a new conception of a new task in an effort to find the right steps that would lead to success. The college year closed with June. Summer school followed immediately. Sometime during the month of August I tried to get away from the campus for two weeks, not one month. These two weeks were spent in planning for faculty orientation, for revised curriculum, faculty members to fill vacancies and for repairs on buildings and dormitories for the comfort of the students. Always, my future has been full of plans, possibilities, responsibilities and possible achievements. Never has my sky been clear.

Today, June 4, points to July 1. As I approach July 1, the date for my retirement from the college, the future is blank. My sky is without a star save the star of purpose and of hope. To some this may seem wonderful, a time for relaxation and joy. To one who has never faced such a day or such a situation, he is inclined to wonder and be bewildered. I have an open mind and a willing heart and the One who has always spoken and led will presently be with me as I enter the new path and indicate definitely what my task and lot shall be. I have always lived purposely and happily and my vision must not dim and my courage must be dominant and dogmatic as I face the future.

I shall always be interested in Elon College, every foot of its campus, every brick in the wall that surrounds the campus and every brick in every building on the campus and everything of a material nature that the college owns. I shall be devoutly interested in every professor that may be employed by the college and every student that may enter the college and I earnestly pray that my successor, Dr. Danieley, may be given wisdom from above and that the lights that never fail may ever shine on his pathway.

I wish to express sincere appreciation of every alumnus of Elon College, of every word of encouragement spoken and every contribution made for the welfare and progress of our college.

May God bless and guide us into a more glorious future.

MRS. LEON EDGAR SMITH

dedication . . .

When loving service extends beyond all duty when love of labor teams with Christian purpose, when lives become dedicated to the improvement and growth of a noble idea!—then original words become inadequate for praise. To justly describe the place our dedicatees have made for themselves in the life and progress of our college, we must grope for quotations from the pens of the great.

LABOR: "Two are better than one, because they have good reward for their labor."

"The labor of the righteous tendeth to life."

SERVICE: "Make them to be numbered with the saints in glory everlasting . . . whose service is perfect freedom."

"How well in thee appears the constant service of the antique world, when service sweat for duty, not for meed!"

With love, respect and astonishment that we shall soon lose them, we, the class of 1957, dedicate this annual to Dr. Leon Edgar Smith, Sr., our president, and Mrs. Smith, our assistant president for twenty-six years of service lovingly rendered beyond all duty."

DEDICATED IN GRATEFUL RECOGNITION OF TIME, SERVICE AND SELF.

From the "big desk" in the president's office at Elon College Dr. Leon Edgar Smith has planned and carried forward "big things" for the college during the twenty-six years of his administration — a familiar picture to thousands who have had contact with Elon College during this period.

Editor's Letter

Dear Alumni of Elon College:

We purposely waited until after commencement to publish the third issue of the Alumni News for the past school year. However, some unforeseen difficulties have caused a delay which we did not anticipate. In a few weeks you will receive a letter concerning the officers of the General Alumni Association for the term 1957-59.

Our reason for waiting until the close of the school year to publish this issue of the Alumni News was to have a record of the final commencement under Dr. Smith's administration as president and the many activities in which he and Mrs. Smith were honored prior to and after commencement. The first issue of the Alumni News in the next school year will feature the new president, Dr. Earl Danielewicz and his family.

We feel that the alumni of Elon College are proud to dedicate this issue of the Alumni News to Dr. and Mrs. Smith. The General Alumni Association at its annual meeting in May adopted appropriate resolutions of appreciation honoring these two distinguished members. These resolutions were read at the banquet. President James F. Darden, on behalf of many alumni and friends, presented Dr. Smith with a check as a small token of appreciation. The association also voted Mrs. Smith the "Outstanding Alumna of 1957".

In addition to these tributes to Dr. and Mrs. Smith by the Alumni Association, there will be found in this issue testimonials, tributes, citations, dedications, and occasions honoring both Dr. and Mrs. Smith. We acknowledge the courtesy of the class of 1957 in permitting us to reproduce the dedication page from the 1957 annual.

Although many words have been written paying honor and tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Smith I am sure that all of us feel that the words and phraseology are woefully inadequate to convey our deep appreciation for the devoted service and contributions which they have made during the years Dr. Smith has guided the destiny of Elon College. Yet, we hope that this issue of the Alumni News may be somewhat of a memento in the years ahead and that we with Dr. and Mrs. Smith may recall the period in which their services have meant so much to the history of Elon College.

Our deep gratitude to Dr. Smith for accepting the challenge to lead Elon College out of the depths of despair to build it into an institution where thousands of boys and girls have an opportunity for an education where ideals of Christian character are recognized; for bringing Elon College to the threshold of genuine advancement physically, scholastically, and financially.

Our appreciation to Mrs. Smith for her high character and womanly qualities of gentleness, kindness and courtesy; her manifold services in the interest of Elon College; for her as a loyal helpmate to the President of Elon College — particularly as a cordial and gracious hostess during their twenty-six years of service.

To both — the best wishes of the alumni and friends of Elon College for their happiness and satisfaction in retirement.

W. B. TERRELL, Secretary

Dr. Smith Resigns As President

Trustees of Elon College, after a search since mid-Summer of 1955, have named an Alamance County native and highly respected scholar and churchman to be the college's next president.

Dr. James Earl Danieleley, who is on leave as dean of the college, will succeed Dr. Leon Edgar Smith July 1, according to an announcement made March 6 by Thad Eure of Raleigh, North Carolina Secretary of State and chairman of the college's Board of Trustees.

Eure said also that Dr. L. E. Smith, who has served the college as its president since 1931 and through some of its most difficult as well as successful years, will become president emeritus upon his retirement July 1.

At present, Dr. Danieleley is on one year's leave of absence as dean from Elon College taking post-doctoral work in chemical research at John Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland.

Dr. Danieleley is 32 years old and, on assuming his duties, will become one of the youngest, college presidents in the nation. He will assume his office just 11 years after having stood on the Elon auditorium's stage to receive his B. S. degree.

Said Chairman Eure:

"We believe he is in every respect capable of assuming the position to be vacant upon the retirement of Dr. Leon E. Smith, who will retire after having so ably headed the college for a quarter of a century."

Dr. Smith also had high praise for the selection of Dr. Danieleley as his successor.

Dr. Danieleley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Danieleley of Route 4, Burlington, served as acting dean of the college in 1953-54 when he officially was appointed to the office. He served as dean until last summer when he was granted a one-year leave of absence to further his studies on a fellowship at Johns Hopkins.

"Dr. Danieleley", said Eure, "born and reared within the shadow of the college, is a scholar, a Christian gentleman, an active and widely-known layman in the Congregational Christian Church, a graduate of the public schools of Alamance County, of Elon College, and of the University of North Carolina. He is young, vigorous, enthusiastic, and a good public speaker. We are pleased to announce to the constituency of Elon College and to the public that he will be our next president, the sixth that the college has had since its founding in 1889."

The following testimonial was read by Thad Eure, Chairman of the Board of Trustees at the graduation exercises. Mr. Eure stated that this testimonial would become a part of the official minutes of the board.

Testimonial unanimously adopted by the Board of Trustees at its regular meeting on May 27, 1957 upon the retirement of Dr. Leon Edgar Smith as president of Elon College on July 1, 1957.

On November 1, 1931, Dr. Leon Edgar Smith came to Elon College to take charge of its affairs after having, two months previously been extended a unanimous invitation by the Board of Trustees to accept the Presidency of the College. Thereafter, on May 28, 1932, Dr. Smith resigned as Pastor of the Christian Temple in Norfolk, Va., and officially assumed the duties as President of Elon College.

These years have been eventful in the life of this college. They have, in part, been years of trial, of frustration, of disappointment, of faded dreams and unfulfilled hopes. The path has been rough and, at times, almost blocked. Progress was often slow, and sometimes not at all. Detours seemed inevitable, and men of little faith and lesser courage seemed lost and afraid. The easy course was to turn back and surrender. One could not stand still. The college, which had been founded and nurtured by men and women with high ideals and unfailing loyalty, strengthened and sustained by a resolute faith inspired from on high, seemed on occasion ready to collapse. Many facets of life in general contributed to the darkened picture, for the midst of a dreaded depression was a reality on every hand.

If ever God placed His hand upon one man for whom there was a mission waiting, it must have been Dr. Smith during those fateful days. Here was a man called by God to a noble task. Here was a man inspired by the challenge and ready to completely dedicate himself to its fulfillment. Seldom has one man made so great and lasting a contribution to any institution of higher learning.

With vision, courage and rare ability, coupled with an enthusiastic loyalty to this college and to the cause of Christian Education, Dr. Smith set about his task with vigor and energy which has lasted until this day. He faced every challenge and made of it an opportunity. His disappointments led to new avenues of service. With faith in God, the future beckoned him on. He chartered his course, set his sights and diligently pursued his goals. Because of him, the history of Elon College gives all of us ample reason to be proud. Its present strength and character hold much promise for the years ahead.

At the beginning of his administration, the physical assets of the college were in deplorable condition. There was a staggering debt of $768,000. There was no money, no credit, very few students, very little hope and no enthusiasm. In September, 1932, there were 86 students enrolled, and the faculty had 22 members. The total student enrollment for the current year is 1,634, and there are 59 members of the present faculty. The buildings and physical properties of the college today are the best in its history and compare favorably, and are much superior, to many similar institutions of higher learning. The endowment and invested funds of the college are substantial, and the current funds are in excellent condition.

The contributions of Dr. Smith to Elon College are beyond measure. It is impossible to detail them for you now, but his handiwork surrounds us. Elon today is largely a monument to his efforts. His shadow falls across us at every angle. The very atmosphere about you sings his praises. The dignity and dedication of his life and his consecrated spirit will abide with us, and Elon College will thereby be forever blessed. The achievements and accomplishments yet to come will be inspired because of his long devotion and distinguished Christian service. Shakespeare might have said of him:

"Here was a man, take him for all in all,

I shall not look upon his like again."

New Home

Upon retirement Dr. and Mrs. Smith will live in their new home at Sylvan Beach in Norfolk's suburban ocean park. Their address will be: Jefferson Boulevard, Sylvan Beach, Bayside, Virginia.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith Receive Many Honors

The faculty of Elon College honored Dr. Leon E. Smith, who retires as Elon's president this year, at a formal dinner held Saturday night, May 4th, in the banquet room of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall.

The huge banquet hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with elevated head table featuring a center piece of pink, blue and white flowers and two 5-branch silver candelabras. Other tables were draped with greenery and silver bows and had 3-branch candelabras. In the background were floor baskets of white glads and two 14-branch silver candelabras. Centered in the hall was a live fountain with ferns and tropical birds.

The program, honoring Dr. Smith for his 26 years of service, featured brief talks by faculty members, who in most instances kept their comments in a light vein. They paid tribute to Dr. Smith for his untiring efforts in building financial support for the college, for his work in enlarging enrollment, for his unfailing support of sports, music and other extra-curricular activities, for the close relationship between the college and church and for the close cooperation between the administration and the faculty and students.

Members of the faculty who spoke included Prof. A. L. Hook, dean of students, who presided over the ceremonies, Dr. Ferris E. Reynolds, Dr. H. H. Cunningham, Dr. James M. Hess, Prof. J. C. Colley, Prof. Fletcher Moore, Prof. John H. Brashear, Prof. John F. West, Prof. John Graves and Prof. Luther N. Byrd. Also on the program were Rev. W. J. Andes, pastor of the college church, who pronounced the invocation; and Dr. Paul Cheek, who read a tribute to Dr. Smith from Dr. James E. Danieleley, Elon's president-elect, who is on leave of absence in Baltimore and was unable to be present for the dinner.

Mrs. Virginia Gromes Toenes, of Greensboro, a former faculty member of Elon College, sang "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth", from the Messiah. This selection she dedicated to Dr. Smith. She also sang "Getting to Know You," from the King and I.

A group of students under the direction of Prof. John Westmoreland, also sang some of Dr. Smith's favorite numbers.

Prof. Fletcher Moore was piano accompanist for the musical program.

At the conclusion of the program

Dr. Smith was presented with a wrist watch as a gift from the faculty and with an engraved and framed parchment scroll, which cited his and Mrs. Smith's great contribution to the growth of Elon College. Mrs. Smith, who was honored along with her husband, was presented with a check with the request that she purchase a gift of her choice for use in their new home in Norfolk, Virginia.

At the faculty banquet honoring Dr. and Mrs. Smith the following citation, on framed parchment, was read by Dr. James M. Hess and presented to Dr. and Mrs. Smith.

CITATION

To Dr. and Mrs. Leon Edgar Smith,

The faculty of Elon College wishes to place on record its sincere appreciation for all that you and Mrs. Smith have contributed to make this the progressive college it is today. When you came to Elon in November, 1931, it was a moot question whether the institution would survive; but your devotion to the cause of Christian higher education and to the place of the church related-college in the life of the church was contagious, inspiring with a new spirit and an aroused enthusiasm those who had come to believe moribund. This is not to say that Elon's problems were immediately solved; not so, for many years of titanic effort lie ahead; but confidence in your unique ability as an administrator had been established. So, through twenty-five years your Christian statesmanship combining unflinching energy and rich devotion has guided unerringly the destiny of Elon College and brought it to the splendid position it holds today among other colleges of the southland.

When we think of Mrs. Smith and her contribution to Elon College, we are at a loss to find words expressive of our appreciation. Where service for the college has been concerned, Mrs. Smith has always been indifferent to time, to labor, to expenditure of strength. No task has been too great, no service too exacting to bring pause where the interests of Elon College were involved. As the gracious hostess of Elon College Mrs. Smith has brought understanding, kindness and dignity to the position.

The hour for retirement from the presidency of Elon College fast approaches but all know that your ability and talents will never be eclipsed by retirement; they will quickly find scope where need is found. In bespeaking you God speed, the Faculty wishes you and Mrs. Smith many more years of service and all the good gifts with which a gracious Heavenly Father blesses his faithful servants.

As we combine our memories to recall the many events of your presidency we have an exciting panorama — the timeless majesty of a great College which you have built.

Alumni Association Pays Tribute To Smiths

Mrs. L. E. Smith, Sr., a member of the "Golden Anniversary" class of 1907, was named at the annual Alumni banquet held on Saturday night, May 25th, as Elon College's outstanding Alumna of 1957. She was presented a scroll emblematic of the honor. The presentation of the scroll was by W. B. Terrell, Elon Alumni Secretary, who cited Mrs. Smith for untiring services to the college during the twenty-six years of her husband's presidential administration.

After her graduation from Elon College in 1907, Mrs. Smith, who was then Ella Ora Brunk of South Boston, Virginia, taught in a missionary school for the Indians in New Mexico. On October 18, 1911, she was married to L. E. Smith. In September, 1912, she with her husband entered Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., where she took work which was later submitted to Elon College for which she was awarded the Master of Arts Degree. After graduation from Princeton in 1915, she accompanied her husband to Huntington, Indiana, where he served as pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church. In Indiana, two children were born to Dr. and Mrs. Smith, Rebecca and L. E. Smith, Jr. In 1919 the family moved to Norfolk, Virginia where Dr. Smith became pastor of the Third Christian Church, now the Christian Temple. In August 1932, the family moved to Elon College where Dr. and Mrs. Smith have served to this date.

In Elon College, Mrs. Smith has been very active in the life of the community. In the local church she has served as Sunday School teacher for many years; a member of the women's organizations of the church, in which she has held important offices from time to time. She has also held important positions of responsibility on committees and commissions in the Southern Convention. She has been a member and has served in an official capacity in the Book Club, Music Club, and the Garden Club. It was through her efforts that the Garden Club was organized in 1938.

Throughout Dr. Smith's administration, Mrs. Smith has been the official hostess for Elon College.

The Senior Class of 1957 in recognition of the great service Mrs. Smith has rendered the College has named her jointly with Dr. Smith in the dedication of its yearbook.

ALUMNI BANQUET

The General Alumni Banquet held on Saturday night in the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall was the climax of Alumni activities during the commencement session.

James F. Darden, president of the Association, presided. Dr. John G. Truitt gave the invocation; reunion classes were recognized with special attention given to the "Golden Anniversary Class of 1907." Special music was furnished by college students as follows: solo, Thomas McDonald; male quartet, Eddie Robbins, Ray Thomas, Stewart Cass, Bill Turner; and accompanist, Vernon Joyner.

Mr. Darden presented Dr. L. E. Smith who introduced the speaker for the occasion, Dr. A. Lucius Lincoln.

Dr. John Truitt read resolutions from the General Alumni Association expressing appreciation for the outstanding service Dr. Smith and Mrs. Smith have rendered Elon College during their twenty-six years at Elon. Miss Gladys Yates and Prof. J. W. Barney were other members of the resolutions committee.

Mr. Darden also spoke appropriately expressing appreciation of the Alumni Association to Dr. and Mrs. Smith for their great service to Elon College. Mr. Darden presented a check for $503.00 to Dr. Smith as a gift from members of the association and expressed the hope that Dr. and Mrs. Smith might use it in purchasing something for their new home.

Mrs. L. E. Smith was voted the "Outstanding Alumna of 1957." This award was presented by W. B. Terrell, executive secretary of the association.

SUFFOLK CHAPTER

The Suffolk Chapter of the Elon College Alumni Association held its annual meeting at the Congregational Christian Church on Friday evening, April 12. Miss Gladys Yates, Class of 1927, president of the chapter, was in charge of the program. Seventy-five alumni and guests enjoyed the delightful banquet dinner and program. The dining hall was appropriately decorated with spring flowers. Rev. George D. Alley, pastor of the Suffolk church gave the invocation.

Rev. James H. Lightbourne, Jr., pastor of the Holland church, conducted a memorial service for members of the chapter who had died since the last meeting. Between courses group singing was enjoyed with Jimmy Darden at the piano and with Miss Faye Gordon, high school student leading. Greetings from the college were given by Dr. Smith; from the Alumni Association by Jimmy Darden, president; and by W. B. Terrell, Executive Secretary.

Miss Yates then announced that the main part of the program was in order. This she began by saying "Dr. Smith, 'This Is Your Life'". Throughout the remainder of the program the highlights of the life of President Leon Edgar Smith were brought into review. Mr. Shirley Holland, member of the Elon College Board of Trustees, paid high tribute to Dr. Smith in taking over the administration of Elon College when there was doubt as to whether Elon would be able to continue as a college. He said that Dr. Smith had proved an able financier in raising funds to pay the debts of the college and to operate the college on a sound financial basis during the past quarter of a century. He spoke of Dr. Smith as an outstanding educator, a Christian gentleman, and one who had the respect and esteem of the official board of the college.

Prof. J. W. Barney, a classmate of Dr. Smith's gave some interesting experiences of their college days. Prof. Barney delighted the audience as he revealed some of the humorous escapades during their college days together. In a more serious vein Prof. Barney, who served as interim president after the resignation of Dr. Harper, told how pleased he was when Dr. Smith arrived on the campus to relieve him of the great responsibility of carrying on the work of the college. Prof. Barney paid tribute to Dr. Smith and his untiring efforts in behalf of Elon College.

Jimmy Darden, president of the General Alumni Association, and a former Executive Secretary of the organization, told of his student days at Elon College under the administration of Dr. Smith. Jimmy expressed the opinion that in no other college could one find a president more interested in the total welfare of the student body than Dr. Smith.

Mrs. Oma U. Johnson, Elon College Librarian, spoke of the respect and appreciation of the faculty for Dr. Smith. She brought out the point that Dr. Smith was never too busy to assist with the problems of the

Dr. Smith's Report Pays Due Tribute

I should not close my final report to the Trustees of Elon College as President without giving due recognition and paying tribute to Mrs. L. E. Smith for her unselfish and untiring efforts in behalf of Elon College. She has given of her time, talents and energy, without reserve, for the college. In the dark days when we were laboring zealously day after day and into the night for the recovery of Elon College she spared no effort to realize our ambition and hopes for our college. During the summers of 1932, 33, 34 and 35 she took care of cleaning the buildings, putting the campus in order and the improvements of surroundings in general without asking or expecting any kind or type of remuneration.

Mrs. Smith drew the plans and specifications for all the faculty houses that we have built at Elon. In fact, practically all the improvements on and off the campus bear the imprint of her personality and effects of her artistic touch in making these improvements. All the public programs given by the college through the years have been built and fashioned by her.

Personally, I could not bear too great a tribute to her interest and labors for the advancements of our college. We owe her a lasting debt of gratitude for her efforts and unselfish services.

Dedication Concert Given By Band

The Elon College band was received with praise and appreciation in a concert appearance in Whitley Auditorium Monday night, April 29th. This was the band's first concert appearance in several years and the performance was dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. Leon E. Smith.

The band, under the direction of Professor Dewey Stowers, including more than 30 pieces, presented a program that was light and entertaining, including such popular numbers "Deep Purple," "Star Dust" and "Humorescapade." Also featured were trumpet and clarinet solos and brass sextet, which presented Stephen Foster memories.

The program was as follows:

March: National Emblem, Sousa. "Deep Purple," Peter DeRose. Trumpet Solo, by Bernard Jones, with Ann Wilson as accompanist, Tereharapinin. "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You," George Bassman. "Bagdad Overture," Buchel. Brass Sextet, presenting Stephen Foster Memories.

Phantom Lake," Tarver. "Humorescapade," Yoder. "Largo" (New World Symphony), Worley. Clarinet Solo, "Fantasia," by Gary Kent, Soloist. "Star Dust," Carmichael. "American Patrol Novelty," Meacham. Finale: "William Tell Overture," Rossini.

Golden Anniversary Class Holds Meet

One of the highlights of the commencement of 1957 was the reunion of the "Golden Anniversary Class of 1907." This class had thirteen graduates, and of the eleven living members nine were back for this eventful occasion.

The class occupied a special place of honor in the receiving line on Friday night at the reception. On Saturday morning the group was the center of attention at the reunion breakfast for all reunion classes. The members engaged in reminiscences, passing pictures of their college days, of their children and grandchildren—in fact having a hilarious time. They were the "Youngest" group on the campus. The class received special recognition at the banquet Saturday night.

Many of the members brought their husbands or wives, and quite a number were housed in the Ladies Hall during their stay on the campus. The front porch was a popular meeting place and the rocking chairs were usually occupied.

Those present for all or a part of the activities: Mrs. M. G. Bishop, Miss Bertha Isley, Rev. G. O. Lankford, Dr. A. Lucius Lincoln, H. M. Loy, V. C. Pritchette, C. E. Pritchette, Mrs. L. E. Smith, Dr. J. C. Wilkins.

Elon Baseball Team Wins Title

Coach Jack Sanford, who directed Elon's baseball destinies for the first time this spring, led his diamond outfit to the 1957 North State Conference championship with a record of 12-3 against Conference foes and a 17-5 mark for all games played.

Taking a crew that contained many freshmen and sophomores, Coach Sanford molded the youngsters into a steady outfit that hit and fielded well. Gilbert Watts, sophomore right-hander, headed up a mound corp that included Jack Henderson, Al Lovelace, and Gary Henson. Watts turned in seven victories against one defeat also was an outstanding hitter. Stars afield and at bat included Buddy Montgomery, Bobby Sharpe, Buddy Way, Tony Carcaterra, Charlie Frye, Larry Bulla, Tom Shepperson, Don Lichok and Marion Hargrove.

With the exception of tennis the Elon minor sports fared very well. Drop out of some key men and other difficulties resulted in the cancellation of tennis meets before the end of the season. No victories were recorded. Track and golf came through very strong. The track team under the direction of Coach Sid Varney was victorious in six matches, including second place in the North State Conference meet. In this meet Larry Gregg of Elon was individual high scorer with 18 points. The three losses were to strong Virginia teams — Washington and Lee, Lynchburg, and Norfolk Division of William and Mary.

Professor J. H. Brashear, faculty member, supervised the golf team and achieved a record of seven victories against five losses. Two of the losses were outside the conference to the N. C. State team of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Local Groups Honor Mrs. Smith

At its May meeting on Thursday afternoon, May 23rd, in the home of Mrs. George D. Colclough, the Elon College Book Club paid honor to one of its members, Mrs. Leon Edgar Smith and presented her a beautiful travel case.

Mrs. Smith, a member of the club for the past 25 years, and a former president of the club, will be leaving Elon College soon when she and her husband, Dr. Leon Edgar Smith, retiring president of Elon College, will move to their new home in Norfolk, Virginia.

Under the direction of Mrs. W. T. Scott, assisted by Mrs. A. L. Hook, the members of the club employed an original skit in paying tribute to Mrs. Smith. The skit began with Mrs. Hook bringing in a travel case, which was supposed to be Mrs. Scott's portfolio. When the travel case was opened, it was found to contain books written by members of the club. The title of each of these books revealed a tribute to Mrs. Smith and expressed the high esteem and the love the members of the club have for her.

The title, "Leon's College", had to do with events concerning the administration of Dr. Leon Edgar Smith as president of Elon College and the part Mrs. Smith has had in this administration. Other titles, "As Befits A Lady", and "Twenty-five Years Of Service", further revealed the contribution that Mrs. Smith has made to the community and to the college.

In a lighter vein the titles "Charcoal, Fish, and Fun", and "Psychology of Beach Togas", expressed the hope that Mrs. Smith and Dr. Smith would have many years of good health, happiness, and an opportunity for service in their new home and new community at the beach.

In presenting the gift of luggage, Mrs. Scott explained that instead of its being a "going away bag" it should be considered as a "coming back valise", and expressed the hope that Mrs. Smith could come back often and visit the Elon College Book Club.

During the social hour refreshments were served from the dining room. The table was thrown with a beautiful imported linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of sweetpeas. Miss Georgia Moore poured ice cream punch and Mrs. A. L. Hook served cake. Confections were served buffet.

Mrs. J. C. Watts and Miss Georgia Moore were special guests.

Mrs. Leon Edgar Smith was honored on May 15th by the women of the Elon College faculty at a tea from 4 to 5 o'clock in the reception parlor of West Dormitory on the Elon campus.

Guests were greeted at the front door by Mrs. Richard Haff and Miss Arabella Gore, at the south door by Mrs. Roland Longest and Mrs. Charles Griffin and at the west door by Mrs. Michael Tunnicliffe and Mrs. W. W. Sloan.

In the reception parlor, Miss Hazel Walker greeted the guests and introduced them to Mrs. Sylvia Dean Harbert who presented them to Mrs. Smith. Miss Lila Newman directed to the faculty parlor, where tea was poured by Mrs. A. L. Hook and Mrs. J. C. Colley.

The table was covered with a white imported cloth and set with a beautiful arrangement of pink and white summer flowers and white tapers. Assisting about the table were Mrs. W. E. Butler, Jr., Mrs. William Evans, Mrs. Richard Phillips, Mrs. James Howell, Mrs. Oma Johnson and Mrs. Leland McDonald. Dainty sandwiches, chicken salad cream puffs, cheese straws, cookies and mints were served.

The reception parlor and hallways were decorated throughout with arrangements of summer flowers. Mrs. Smith was dressed in a blue formal, wearing a white orchid which was presented to her by the hostesses.

Friends of Mrs. L. E. Smith gathered on the West Campus of Elon College Saturday afternoon, May 18, when the Elon College garden club honored Mrs. Smith by planting a maple tree beside one of the college walks near the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall. The club was organized by Mrs. Smith in 1938.

An appreciation of Dr. Smith as a staunch supporter of college athletics, written by Moses Crutchfield, Elon graduate of '41, now a sports columnist with the Greensboro Daily News. Reprinted from the May 29, 1957 issue of the Daily News.

One of the best friends a college athletic program ever had steps down with this commencement season, Dr. L. E. Smith retiring after 26 years as president at Elon.

Over the years, no collegiate athletic program ever had a stronger backer or a more enthusiastic fan than Elon has had in its president.

His philosophy of college athletics has been as long as you're playing, you might as well play to win. Elon's numerous championships under his administration attest that he put this philosophy into practice.

And his young athletes have found through experience that no fan in the stands cheers any louder, nor shows any more devoted loyalty to their teams than does Dr. Smith.

Despite his many administrative duties, Dr. Smith often followed his teams to Hickory, Boone, or wherever they might be playing, to lend them his support. Chances are that more than one freshman, not yet acquainted with the devotion of his president, has looked into the stands on foreign soil, and likely with something of a start recognized Dr. Smith in the stands amidst a sea of alien faces. Chances are the athlete played the better game for it, too.

Official duties sometimes kept him away from home games, but that was seldom, and it has been no unusual sight to see the Elon president, after concluding a meeting, come quickly to the gym or football field for the remaining moments of a contest.

Little Stories

Several stories are told concerning Dr. Smith and his interest in athletics, but they only serve to point up his belief that even in college young men should be taught to play the game to win.

For instance, one story concerns a new baseball coach. The coach, new to the North State Conference and to a college program, was substituting frequently, apparently with the idea of letting all the boys get to play. The game went down the drain.

Afterwards, Dr. Smith was heard to comment, probably somewhat dryly:

"Looks like he's playing for the fun of it," said the Elon President.

There's another story, too, which has been in circulation for years. Whether true or not true, it always brings an appreciative chuckle. Dr. Smith undoubtedly has heard it before.

It concerns the days when Peahead Walker was coach at Elon.

Peahead never was one to mince words on the practice field, and he has been known to give his athletes a rough time of it.

One day Dr. Smith was in the vicinity of the practice field when Coach Walker found it necessary to admonish one of his athletes.

"Is that really necessary?" Dr. Smith is said to have asked Peahead.

"It is if you want to win," Peahead reputedly is supposed to have answered.

"Well, I suppose it is all right, then," Dr. Smith is supposed to have replied.

In Close Touch With Athletic Dept.

Perhaps the stories are an exaggeration of Dr. Smith's desire to see Elon victorious in any and all fields of athletics. For the most part Elon's coaches have held long tenures of service, which should do away with any intimation that the Elon president brought pressure on his coaching staff for victories.

But it is a fact that Dr. Smith personally kept in touch with developments and with the situation in his athletic department. Perhaps it was his pet, for he gave it his full attention. Often this has benefited the coaches themselves.

One coach remarked one day:

"Dr. Smith does things for us that if he didn't do we would have to find ways and means of doing ourselves."

Certainly, few colleges have presidents who will do such.

And certainly few college athletic programs have been blessed with a president who is so interested in its accomplishments.

For instance, baseball more or less has been relegated to a back seat among major sports today. Baseball championships are accepted or lost with no furor.

This spring Elon's baseball team was involved in a situation whereby it was necessary for another team to play and win or lose before the championship could be decided in Elon's favor.

The only phone call the Daily News sports department got that night wanting to know the outcome of the day's game came long distance from Dr. Smith at Elon.

Elon's athletics will miss Dr. Smith. Chances are, though, that anytime the Christians are playing in the vicinity of Norfolk, where he'll make his home, the Christians can look into the stands and Dr. Smith will be there, rooting for Elon.

individual faculty members in their respective duties. She expressed her personal appreciation for the interest Dr. Smith had shown in the building up of an effective library on the college campus.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Johnson's remarks, Miss Yates then turned to Dr. Smith and said, "We now give you the new Elon." She then presented Miss Faye Gordon, Miss Martha Joyner, and Clarence Runnels, who will be students at Elon next year. Miss Joyner then sang several beautiful numbers, one dedicated to Dr. Smith. She was accompanied by Miss Gordon at the piano.

Dr. Smith expressed his appreciation for the program and the fine tributes paid him. He pledged his continued interest in and support of Elon College and urged all to help to make Elon still greater. Mrs. Smith was recognized and also expressed her pleasure for the fine meeting. She extended a very cordial invitation to all to attend the Elon commencement—and to come for the reception on Friday night, May 24, when it is hoped that many of those who have been students during Dr. Smith's administration will be present.

Alumni Banquet

Dr. Lucius Lincoln of DeBary, Fla., who is at present teaching at Stetson University, Deland, Florida, was the Alumni Orator at the General Alumni Association Banquet held on Saturday evening, May 25, in the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall. Dr. Lincoln is a member of the "Golden Anniversary Class of 1907" which was observing its reunion during the commencement.

Dr. Lincoln used as his subject "A Better Education for the Gifted". He pointed out that during the nineteenth century and the early twentieth century there has been firmly established in the country group or mass instruction which is represented by the graded schools. He indicated three factors which have played an important part in bringing about this type of instructions. First, the growth of the pupil body from a relatively small highly selected group to the all-inclusive heterogeneous mass; Second, the conception that the same objectives in education were applicable to all individuals, not taking into consideration the variation in talent, aptitude, original capacity, and energy of the pupil; Third, the conception of education as a passive process—the pupil taking what the teacher had to offer rather than doing some thinking for himself. On closing Dr. Lincoln said, "The atomic age of the second half of the twentieth century demands that the lock-step educational procedures of the nineteenth century and the first half of the twentieth be so modified as to provide an education for the gifted commensurate with their talents, and education which will engender a greater degree of personal happiness, a larger service to mankind, and a closer relation to our God."

New Trustees Are Installed

Five new members were installed by the Elon College Board of Trustees at its annual spring meeting, which was held Monday morning, May 27th.

The new members joining the Elon trustee group include the Rev. George D. Alley, of Suffolk, Virginia; Dr. William Waldo Boone, of Durham; W. L. Gregory, of Virgilina, Virginia; Rex G. Powell, of Fuquay Springs; and Mrs. Frances Chandler Wilkins, of Virgilina, Virginia.

Two of the new trustees will be upholding a family tradition in becoming Elon College trustees. Dr. W. W. Boone, a physician who operates the Boone Clinic in Durham, follows the footsteps of his father, the late W. H. Boone of Durham, who was a member for 40 years and chairman for 20 years of the Elon trustee group. Mrs. Wilkins follows the example of her mother, Mrs. T. W. Chandler, who was an Elon trustee for many years.

The other new Elon trustees have long been friends of Elon College. The Rev. George D. Alley, pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church in Suffolk, Virginia, is one of the outstanding ministers in the Southern Convention. Gregory is a leading business figure in Virgilina, holding interests in tobacco warehouses, a tool equipment business and in the coal mining industry. REV. GEORGE D. ALLEY

Declaring that man should be more than just a creature of his own habits, Rev. George D. Alley, pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church of Suffolk, Virginia, urged graduating seniors at Elon College, May 26th to beware of the dangers of complete conformity in life and thought.

Mr. Alley, who delivered the baccalaureate sermon in Whitley Auditorium here as a feature of Elon College's 67th annual commencement, told seniors that they would be constantly under pressure to make them conform to the same pattern of life that their neighbors follow.

He cited "motivated research" as a new type of psychology, particularly applied by modern advertisers, which seeks to prove that man is indeed a creature of habit, but he declared that one must renounce the false security of conformity and do independent thinking if one hopes to make any real contribution to the world.

Calling "watch" and "listen" and "fear" and "conform" the verbs which dominate American life today, the minister asked the seniors not to let their lives wither away into mediocrity and conventionality.

"Do not be content to let other people set all your standards of thought and conduct," he said, but take a stand before it is too late on the side of beauty and goodness and truth." There he cited the opportunities that await the seniors to improve their communities by taking a firm stand on current problems.

While warning the graduates that many college students are content to quit real thinking after graduation, becoming a sort of "unemployed intelligentsia," the minister charged the members of the class to "remember through all the years to come that you have a debt to pay to those who came before you in the interest of those who will come after you, and by discharging that debt you will make the world a better place in which to live."

SEN. SAM J. ERVIN

SENATOR ERVIN SPEAKS TO GRADUATING CLASS

Comparing the relative values of democracy and liberty, U. S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin told members of the graduating senior class at Elon College that a democracy tends to eliminate the tyranny of the few, but that it may substitute a tyranny by the majority.

Appearing as the featured speaker at Elon College's 67th annual graduation program, North Carolina's senior member of the U. S. Senate stressed the great need for individual thinking and the great value of individual liberties and pointed out to the 96 members of Elon's Class of 1957 that there are ever-growing threats against individual privileges.

He told the seniors that man is a social animal by nature and needs to belong to some social group, but he also stressed the dangers of conformity in thought and behavior with other members of that group. He also warned the graduates that man may well lose his individual qualities while seeking to become like someone else.

Taking a backward glance into America's history, the senator pointed out that the rise of the great industries in the United States in the final half of the last century turned attention from Man to the Masses, with the social tendencies being to make all men alike in their thinking and manner of living.

"This is known as the Age of Conformity," he said, and he declared that the individual tends under that system to be lost in the crowd, that individualism may well be submerged in a social pattern.

Dr. Ned Brannock Is Honored By Chemistry Club

Dr. Ned F. Brannock, now retired after many years of service as a member of the Elon College Chemistry Department faculty, was honored on Thursday night, May 16th, when the Chemistry Club presented the college with a portrait of him to be hung in the halls of the Chemistry Department.

Guests who attended the presentation in the Elon College Chemistry Department at 6:45 o'clock, Thursday night, May 16th, were welcomed by Richard Simpson, of Altamahaw-Ossipee, president of the student group which gave the portrait. The invocation was spoken by Rev. W. J. Andes, and this was followed by a brief message from Dr. Leon E. Smith, president of the college. This message was read by Richard Simpson, since Dr. Smith was in New York.

Simpson also spoke of the appreciation which Elon College chemistry students have for the efforts of Dr. Brannock, and the presentation of the portrait was by Larry Dorton, of Landis, who was chairman of the student committee that arranged for the portrait. The portrait was unveiled by D. York Brannock, of Burlington, and Miss Madge Brannock, of Elon College, son and daughter of Dr. Brannock.

The acceptance of the portrait in behalf of the Elon College chemistry department was by Dr. Paul Cheek, who spoke of the inspiration which Dr. Brannock's efforts have been for both faculty members and students in the department.

The citation, which is to be preserved on a plaque beneath the portrait, was read by Prof. A. L. Hook, dean of the college, who told of Dr. Brannock's service to church and community as well as to the college itself. These multiple services by Dr. Brannock were also stressed in a message from Dr. J. Earl Daniele, president-elect of Elon College, who is away on leave of absence and was unable to be present for the portrait presentation. Dr. Daniele has been associated with Dr. Brannock as both a student and a fellow faculty member.

A native of Alamance County, North Carolina, Ned Faucette Brannock attended Elon College, earned the A. B. degree in 1899 and later the M. A. degree from that institution. He received the M. S. degree from Columbia University, and did other graduate study at the John Hopkins University and the University of North Carolina. He received the honorary degree Doctor of Literature from Defiance College.

Near the turn of the century he taught in schools of Georgia and North Carolina. He joined the staff at Elon College in 1908 and soon became professor of Chemistry and allied sciences. He has given all of his time to the Department of Chemistry since 1915. He has enjoyed a long and successful teaching career in the service of Elon College, and has seen many students leave the College halls to make their contribution to Society.

In appreciation of his services, this portrait, made possible by the Elon Chemistry Club of 1956-57 and friends and former students of Dr. Brannock, is given this sixteenth day of May, nineteen hundred fifty-seven.

ELON COLLEGE, NORTH CAROLINA

From The President's Desk

In November, 1931, the Board of Trustees issued a call to Rev. Leon Edgar Smith to leave his pastorate at the Christian Temple in Norfolk, Va., and assume the presidency of Elon College. In the face of great difficulty, President Smith began his work with faith and determination. Supported by the loyalty of a consecrated faculty and a sympathetic and generous church, he persevered and the progress of our Alma Mater is a testimony to his labors. All who are interested in Elon College are deeply grateful to him for his unselfish and significant service.

On July 1, 1957, at the invitation of and upon my election by the Board of Trustees, I assumed the duties of the office of president of our College. My first official act was to participate in a service of prayer and meditation with a host of friends of Elon College in Whitley Auditorium at 7:30 a.m. before going to the office to begin work. It was a service of inspiration and dedication. It was an indication of our awareness of our unique character as a Christian institution and we were, in deep humility, seeking God's guidance and direction that we might be able to render an acceptable and effective service to Him and to our fellowmen. That Christian emphasis which has been traditional on our campus continues undiminished. It is more than ever an integral part of the liberal education of the whole man.

One of the most important tasks during the summer months was the employment of faculty members both to replace members who had resigned and to increase the teaching staff. We were fortunate in obtaining the services of some very capable people. It should be pointed out that quality in teaching determines how well a college serves its constituency. We expect to continue our efforts to get capable, inspiring, dedicated teachers and to promote an academic atmosphere where teaching and study are encouraged. But, more than this, we must continue to work in the direction of a more adequate salary scale if we are to recruit and retain the best teachers.

The construction of the new men's dormitory is proceeding satisfactorily. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the winter quarter, December 2. The dormitory is being built with a $250,000 loan from the Federal Government through the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Final negotiations are now underway to receive this money and reimburse the local bank which has assisted with interim financing. The total indebtedness incurred in our building program is staggering; however, the steps which were taken were necessary in order to prepare the college for the larger service which is now its opportunity.

We are on the threshold of a new era. With the splendid physical facilities, with the great number of students who are to be clamoring for admission to college, with wise planning by the Board of Trustees and faculty, and with the loyal support of the church, alumni, and friends, Elon College has the opportunity of achieving new greatness. Elon College must have our interest manifested in tangible form. She needs annual gifts from all her alumni. Elon College needs the assistance of every alumnus in seeking out capable and highly qualified young people and encouraging them to become a part of her student body. And, finally, Elon College needs to be remembered constantly in our thoughts and prayers if she is to continue to serve effectively in the field of Christian higher education. I urge you, fellow alumni, to join with me, the faculty, the Board of Trustees and the church as we go forward in this challenging and highly important work.

Sincerely yours,
J. E. DANIELEY
President

Elon College's new President, Dr. James Earl Danieley, Mrs. Danieley and their two children, Ned and Mark.

A Prayer

— SENT TO PRESIDENT DANIELEY

At the gateway of this administration
 Now let us kneel and pray,
 Asking God to bless him
 As he goes upon his way.
 He dare not take one step
 Along the road that lies ahead,
 Without a Prayer for guidance
 On the path that he must tread.
 We would pray for strength,
 Endurance, courage, fortitude,
 So that he may venture out
 With faith and hope renewed.
 Mighty words, flesh and blood,
 And human strategy,
 Are not the things to win for
 One the final victory.
 This great big task is for the Man, with God, no less,
 His dignity, his liberty, his Work and happiness.
 Help him God, to be the man
 That thou wouldst have him be,
 Here at the gateway of this,
 His Destiny.

OCTOBER, 1957

NO. 1

EDITOR'S LETTER

Dear Alumni of Elon College:

The June issue of the Alumni News was filled with events concerning Dr. and Mrs. Smith and their retirement from Elon College. The issue was dedicated to them and carried the best wishes of the Alumni for their future happiness. This issue is dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. Danieley as they move into the President's home and Dr. Danieley assumes the duties of President of Elon College.

As Dr. Danieley takes over this new task to which he has been called by the Board of Trustees of our college, we know that he will have the full support of the Board which chose him, the church, the Alumni and friends of the college.

In this issue you will read some of the speeches delivered and some articles written by Dr. Danieley. As you read these, I am sure you will get something of the philosophy possessed by our new President; something of his attitude toward this great responsibility entrusted to him. You will also read what others say about him.

We know of Dr. Danieley's splendid record of achievement as a scholar, educator, administrator, and Christian leader. From his message to the Alumni in this issue we learn of his high ambitions for Elon College and we believe he has the qualities of leadership to inspire all of us to help achieve these high goals. He has set forth the needs; has issued the challenge. We believe every alumnus, every church, and every friend of the college will respond to this appeal.

Elon College began its 68th year with the highest opening enrollment in its history—1469 students, with a wonderful display of student and faculty enthusiasm. Twenty new faculty members have been added — the great majority of these because of the growth of student enrollment or for the purpose of providing additional subjects in the curriculum. There is a fine esprit de corps among the faculty, administration, and staff members.

A splendid Freshman Class has enrolled this year and much attention is being given to the counseling and guidance of this class under the direction of Dr. Robert Benson, a new member of the faculty.

Student organizations on the campus are functioning in such a way as to make the social and recreational life more meaningful and enjoyable.

The Homecoming Football Game will be played in Burlington at the high school stadium on Saturday afternoon, November 2nd at 2:00 o'clock with Elon meeting Western Carolina College. The Homecoming Parade will be held through the Main Street of Burlington at 12:30 p.m. On Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock the Homecoming Dance will be held in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. We are expecting the largest group ever to attend a Homecoming Game and Dance to be with us on this week end. It would be nice if those of us who live in the vicinity of Elon College, Burlington, etc., would invite our Alumni friends from a distance to spend the week end with us. We hope you will come by the Alumni Office as you visit the campus.

A few weeks ago our annual appeal for contributions was sent to you. We hope you will give much thought to the information given you in the letters and that your response will be prompt and generous. Also, we would like to have information about you and your family to pass on to others through our Alumni News.

We are looking forward to seeing you during Homecoming Weekend!

W. B. TERRELL, Secretary

Dr. Danieleley Becomes President

"I feel this is one job which I should do." This was the simple, yet conclusive response which Dr. J. Earl Danieleley said in an interview just minutes after adjournment of a committee meeting in which he had been offered and had accepted the presidency of Elon College.

He pointed out that he wasn't taking the office anxiously. As dean of the College in 1953-54, and thereby gaining an insight into the responsibilities the office of the presidency held, he questioned whether or not he should ever leave the teaching profession.

Yet there was where his background moved in and helped him make a decision that placed him in office at the college July 1 as the sixth president in the institution's long and reputable history.

"Ever since I was in the second grade in school I have known that my life would be spent in teaching," he said. "And then, as I moved into adult life, I realized that the church and education were my two most vital interests.

"I see in this assignment the possibility of combining the two."

Dr. Danieleley can point to almost the exact time in his second grade studies when he made up his mind to be a teacher.

His teacher in the first and second grade was Mrs. Harold Ingle, the former Miss Mary Iseley, of Burlington. He was attending the Iseley School on Burch Bridge Road in Alamance County (which was discontinued in 1936).

"I guess I idolized Mrs. Ingle," he said, "and it kept growing on me that I wanted someday to do what she was doing—teaching—and I loved her."

From that time, there never was a chance, he says, but that he would enter the teaching profession.

Yet, as the new president kept talking, it was apparent that there were other people who had taken their places in his life.

He could recite a remark made by another teacher in the seventh grade when he was, in his own words, "feeling my oats" because of his scholastic achievements.

"She kept me in one afternoon," he said, "and talked to me. I can recite almost every word, she said. She told me about an athletic contest and that the players who were on the team were not there because of something they had done last year, or in earlier years.

"She said that they were on the team because of their performance now. And she told me that they wouldn't be on the team unless they were a part of it.

"I'll never forget that. I've had it as a part of my life. I hope it always will be."

He could tell of others, including several ministers, who touched him at a time when he considered he needed what was said. The impressions which these educators and ministers left with him have helped mold his life.

That decision which came in the second grade has led to the present which has him in post-doctoral research at The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., an assignment which will be completed this spring.

And the reason he left Elon last summer for the one year of Johns Hopkins work was to further his capabilities in the classroom and laboratory. His research centers on fundamental studies relating to trace compounds occurring in petroleum, an extension of some previous work.

He had all intentions of returning to Elon and to his classroom and laboratory.

Then came word last Christmas that he was on the list of educators being considered as the new Elon president. Later there came a letter. He was invited to meet with the Selection Committee in Raleigh, February 15. Ninety minutes of intense questioning and interview following the start of the Raleigh meeting.

The committee, in turn, conducted many other interviews, eliminating one after another. Dr. Danieleley's name still was held high on the list.

Conferences by the committee with sub-committees representing the Alumni Association, faculty, and the Congregational-Christian church then led to the unanimous recommendation by the Selection Committee that Dr. Danieleley be offered the presidency. The Board of Trustees accepted the recommendation.

Dr. Danieleley, in accepting the offer from the trustees, recognizes that he is one of the youngest men in the country to attain such an office.

Yet he doesn't feel this will be against his work. He has his ideas, gained over a period of years in the classroom and in teaching, of what education is to the student, the nation and the world, "and I don't think that age of those who are a part of its administration is a vital point."

Education, to him, has its place in helping the student find his way. Services and facilities must be provided for these many students to cope with their problems and to help them find solutions.

"Let a student, in finding answers, build a confidence in himself that there is a future for him, and he will be a good student and a good citizen. "And we, in the educational field, must help him build that confidence."

This type of thinking, he recognizes, goes back to his young years, as in the second grade.

He has many interests outside his classroom.

He likes sports and likes to see all of them played, particularly track.

"I've never played sports to any great extent, and I suppose I'll be too old when I return to Elon for the coach to consider me."

That was the way he commented on his size, for any coach would like to have a football player resembling him in the lineup. Dr. Danieleley is six feet, two inches tall, and "I once weighed 311." He also wears a size 12 shoe.

Away from sports, his favorite relaxation is in gardening, which still stays with him from his younger days on the farm. There have been few summers to pass in his adult life when he didn't have a garden.

Mrs. Danieleley, her husband admits, wasn't too anxious for him to take the assignment were it offered to him.

She was for seven years Dr. Smith's secretary at Elon "and knows much more about the office than I do." He says that the experience she had in the president's office showed to her the vast amount of time, travel and responsibility which is associated with the office.

Dr. Danieleley, on accepting the presidency, told the trustees that "I appreciate the honor paid to me and deeply sense the responsibilities of the position to which I have been called."

He added:

"Many factors have contributed to my decision to accept the challenge. Among them: The friendly and cooperative attitude of the Board of Trustees, the high calibre and congenial spirit of the present faculty, the interest and continued support of members of our church, the enthusiasm and loyalty of alumni, the increased interest being shown in a very tangible way by the many friends of the college, the progress which has been made by the college, and its accomplishment through the years."

He said with these factors in mind, "and feeling that in this spirit of unity there is unbeatable strength, I humbly accept this call to this new field of endeavor in the Faith expressed by Abraham Lincoln when he said, "With God's help, we shall not fail."

President Writes Of New Experiences

Monday, July 1, was the beginning of a new era for me. As I faced the responsibilities of a new position, I did so with mixed emotions. It seems appropriate to share some the experiences of the day with you.

First, I would state again my profound appreciation for the tremendous contributions of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Smith to the cause of Christian higher education, and to Elon College in particular, during the last quarter century. It will never be possible to measure the contributions which they made nor adequately to express our appreciation to them for their unselfish service. During almost 16 years at the College, I have gained a first hand knowledge of the work that has been done. I know that I am speaking for all of our church people when again I salute them, express our appreciation to them, and wish for them a happy and satisfying period of retirement.

As I faced these responsibilities, however, I recognized the fact that, although, there are many responsibilities and much work, there is a Source of strength and guidance which makes possible the doing of tasks which may otherwise seem impossible. It was with this in mind that I requested my pastor, Rev. William J. Andes, to arrange an early morning service of prayer and meditation. I wanted to invite interested friends of the College, members of the faculty, and student body to assemble for a service of worship when we would seek God's guidance and direction in the affairs of the College. The program, as the Rev. Andes planned it, was printed on the back page of The Christian Sun July 16. It was a beautiful service. Professor Westmoreland played quiet, inspirational music and a group of students in the Music Department sang a very appropriate hymn. The most impressive part of the service was the Litany of Prayer, when the 250 people who were present, each in his own way, joined in a prayer on behalf of Elon College. It was inspiring and encouraging to have so many Christian people engaged in prayer in the interest of our College at this hour, and at this particular time in the life of the institution. The Honorable Thad Eure, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the College and Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, was present and made some remarks on behalf of the Board of Trustees. After the service, representatives of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Eure, and Mr. D. R. Fonville; of the Faculty, Dean A. L. Hook; of the Alumni, Mr. W. B. Terrell; of the Student Body, President Jerry Loy; of the Southern Convention, President Martin Garren; and of the Elon College Community Church, Rev. W. J. Andes, walked with me to the office where I have since been at work.

Many of those who attended the service came by the office to express their greetings. They were served coffee under the direction of our Home Economics Teacher, Mrs. W. E. Butler, Jr. It was a beautiful occasion; it was an inspiring occasion; it was our means of saying to everyone that we believe that this College is most important to our Church. In undertaking to administer its affairs, we intend constantly to seek the support of those who are interested in the College, and to follow divine guidance as we are able.

There are countless others throughout our Church who would have been present had it been at all possible. We invite your concern for the cause of Christian higher education and your support of Elon College. It would be a tremendous source of encouragement and extremely helpful to us to have you join in daily prayers that our efforts might be in the right direction, and that we might effectively serve the cause of Christ, the Church, and our fellowman through Elon College.

Dr. R. B. House Speaks To Class

One of North Carolina's most respected educators told graduating seniors here that the value of reception and relaxation cannot be stressed too strongly in their search for a successful life and in using the knowledge they have gained.

Speaking at Elon College's annual summer commencement on August 16 was Dr. Robert B. House of Chapel Hill, former chancellor at the University of North Carolina. Fifty-eight seniors, in turn, were given their diplomas. Dr. House pointed to faith, work and play as primary factors in "using your education and knowledge to advantage," and emphasized the necessity of learning the art of relaxation.

"Too many people," said the speaker, "can master all the problems before them but can never learn to relax. Yet relaxation is one of the most important factors in providing a healthful and happy life."

Faith, he said, should be found in "Yourself, your God and your country, and it can give you a meaning for life." In work, he said that it "provides your

Dr. Danieley Issues Challenge To Grads

We congratulate you today as you graduate from Elon College. You made a wise decision when you decided to attend college; you chose wisely when you considered the various colleges and made Elon College your choice. You have finished the prescribed work; you have earned your college degree; you are now college graduates.

As you look at today's world it will be easy to marvel at the ingenious inventions of the past few years, to be impressed by the great discoveries which have been made and to be lulled into a sense of security with the thought that all the creative thinking has been done — that there is, in fact, nothing else to be discovered. In spite of the fact that great advances have been made, vast areas remain to be investigated.

In chemistry, we do not understand how the atoms are linked to each other to make up the protein molecule; in physics, we are still puzzled by the intricacies of the structure of the atom; in medicine, we have failed even to this day to understand what we erroneously refer to as the "common cold." In the social sciences, problems even more complex and fraught with more serious consequences await investigation by those who are both wise and prudent. In engineering, theology, pedagogy, agriculture and every other field great discoveries remain to be made. Those fields are "white unto the harvest" for intelligent, resourceful, imaginative youth such as you.

I challenge you to go forth to invent, explore, discover—these are adventures which await you. But far more important than all these is the living of a full and a good life. Your studies here will serve as a good foundation. You have studied the arts, the humanities and the sciences under Christian influences. You have developed mentally, physically and spiritually. You must continue to grow and mature in all these aspects of your life.

Make a place in your life for the reading of good books, for listening to good music, for enjoying the beauties of nature and the creations of the artist; plan a time for the reading of the Scriptures, for meditation and for prayers—these are all essential to the living of a full life.

These are your opportunities; this is the challenge you face. May God give you wisdom, courage and strength to live a fruitful and abundant life.

Dr. Danieley Addresses Rotarians

(New president of Elon College reveals his philosophy of Education in speech before Burlington club on July 15, 1957.)

We live in an age of marvels beyond belief. We view the miracle of color television. We use solar batteries by which a current is produced when the sun shines on certain substances. Miracle drugs have been developed to combat almost every disease. Men ride in supersonic planes. Intercontinental missiles have been developed. The daily press is filled with discussions about atomic power. One could list almost indefinitely other inventions and developments which a few years ago, were thought to be entirely impossible.

These are the result, however, of intensive research in university, industrial, and government laboratories. Recently, under the leadership of Dr. Linus Pauling, some two thousand scientists signed a petition requesting that we stop a particular kind of research; that no further studies or tests be made on the use of power from nuclear fusion. Although their action can't be divorced from political implications, if one, for the moment, overlooks such considerations, it seems that what they were saying was that we have the know-how to invent and to devise instruments for our own destruction and that we do not have the judgment and reason to be trusted with those instruments once they are developed. A few days ago, I was driving along the highway when I noticed a 1939 model automobile in front of me. Evidently it had been wrecked. It was so much out of line, that the rear wheels were not running in the tracks made by the front wheels at all. It was in such poor mechanical condition that it was dangerous to permit it to be driven on the highway.

Pauling, and those who signed the petition with him, were subtly pointing out the same thing regarding mankind. When mankind has the scientific and technological knowledge and does not have the wisdom, does not have a genuine spiritual concern for his fellow man, then civilization is out of line and this is a serious and dangerous situation. Although I cannot agree with Pauling that we should stifle the search for the truth because we cannot be trusted to know it, the dangers of the situation are all too obvious. We cannot be content to bury our heads like so many ostriches and refuse to see the problems which we face. Rather, we should seek to understand the basic difficulty and determine, if we can, what should be done to remedy it.

We now know that Horace Mann was wrong when, in 1834, he said, "Let the common school be extended to its full capability and nine-tenths of the crime and lawlessness will become obsolete. Man will walk more safely by day and every pillow will be inviolate by night. Property, life, and character will be held by a stronger tenure." We are convinced that his mistake is the one which has been made so frequently since then. There was no consideration of moral and spiritual values in this concept of education.

The President of the University of Cincinnati, Walter C. Langsam, recently said, "Education without reference to religion is at best one-sided or lop-sided. But beyond this, religion provides and sustains the spiritual values in our life. These values are stable even in times of stress and instability. They do not change; they are eternal. Material values, on the other hand, are transitory. They follow the fashion and are easily lost. Thus a man of faith who loses his money can face his loss and can remain stable. A man of little faith may well go to pieces when he loses the money which has been his god. When the material values are held in highest esteem, human values are rapidly discredited as witness the cheapness of human dignity and life under Nazism, and Communism!" But Horace Mann was not alone.

John Dewey published a book in 1916, entitled "Democracy and Education." In his book he mentioned religion only once. And in that instance he was pointing out how religion was in conflict with science. As late as 1945 a group of Harvard professors published a 300 page book called "General Education In A Free Society", and in this book there is only one short paragraph on religion. The main sentence in that one paragraph reads, "Religion is not now for most colleges or universities a practical source of intellectual unity." They seem to be pointing out that religion is out of date. But things have changed at Harvard as they have at many other institutions of higher learning. There has been a revival of religious interest. On that campus, in Cambridge, Massachusetts, where, at one time it was anything but popular to admit an interest in a church, Harvard President Nathan Pusey recently said, "We need to know, but we need also to believe. What we want especially to do is to believe knowingly and to know with conviction."

We are convinced, as is President Pusey, that Christian ideals and values are important in the education of a man. We believe that the Christian college educates the whole man because it integrates religious and moral values in its program of higher education. It might well be asked what are some of the results of this approach to higher education. I list a few of them.

First: students become acquainted with facts and values of religion and morality. Both facts and values are real and both need careful study and attention. To emphasize either one out of proportion to the other is to gain a wrong perspective.

Second: students learn to think, giving due consideration to spiritual and moral values. Their daily contact in the classroom and on the campus with professors who are dedicated Christian people and who teach and practice Christian ideals and values leaves with them lasting impressions which influence their thoughts and deeds during their adult life.

In addition to becoming acquainted with facts and values, and learning to think in terms of those values, third, I would list changed people. When a student spends four years on a college campus which is, of itself, a Christian community, where Christian ideals and values are given a proper emphasis, and where Christian principles are daily put into practice in the lives of teachers and fellow students, many of those students will become changed persons. Their faith will grow and be strengthened. They will make decisions concerning life and how they are going to invest their time and their talent. After receiving such an education, a student will not ask, "where can I earn the most money?" but "where can I serve my fellowman and my God most effectively."

This is our philosophy. This is our aim. These are our goals. To be sure we make mistakes. Many times we fail to accomplish our objectives, but we are dedicated to the proposition that Christian higher education is vital to the continued progress of the democratic way of life, and we are determined to give of our best to strengthen it and promote it. We invite your interest and support as we press on towards the mark of this — which is our high calling.

Howard White Writes About Dr. Danieley

(Managing Editor of Burlington Times-News relates two incidents concerning the President of Elon College.)

Henry H. Danieley of Route 4, Burlington, had to face many decisions as he met his many problems that developed in 1936 when he was stricken with tuberculosis of the spine.

It develops, too, that one of the decisions he made has a specific bearing on an event which will take place Monday morning July 1.

Mr. Danieley, one of the most respected men we've ever known, had to spend 55 months in a cast when his illness struck him. This was particularly bad for him, for as a farmer the livelihood of his family depended on what he could produce. His health was of vital importance to him.

His oldest child, Earl, then was a 12 year-old in school and was returning home in the afternoon to perform as many of the farm duties as he could. Neighbors also helped him when they could. Gradually, Henry Danieley made progress in conquering his disease.

Some two years after he was stricken, and while he was in the hospital, a friend visited Mr. Danieley.

"I understand," said Mr. Danieley to his friend, "that some people are wondering why I don't take Earl out of school to work on the farm."

His friend told him it was true, that there was a little comment on that. The comment wasn't critical, just made in his interest as a means of helping him out.

Mr. Danieley didn't answer right away, but he did give an answer.

He had thought about such a move, too. Yet in his thoughts he could see that his son, Earl, liked school, was doing well in his studies, and was making much progress. And since Earl wanted to go to school, his father wanted to make every effort to see that he did.

Then the father gave an answer to his visiting friend.

"I don't believe," he said, "that just because I'm physically handicapped, I should handicap that boy for life by taking him out of school."

Earl Danieley stayed in school.

As time passed, Henry Danieley started him a store at his home to occupy his time as he continued to recuperate from his illness. The cast, after 55 months, was removed. He walked on crutches, which later were put aside. Then came a cane, which was needed for a while. Then he started walking without assistance.

And on Monday morning, his son Earl, who remained in school, officially will assume his duties as the new president of Elon College.

First Speech As President

Dr. J. Earl Danieley has made hundreds of addresses and talks to students, church gatherings and before civic organizations, as well as to those who serve with him in the field of education.

Yet we suspect that none in the past gave him more concern than did the one he delivered Monday night, July 15, before the local Rotary Club.

First, he was to be inducted into the club as a member. Secondly, he was to speak as the evening's program.

More important, however, he was to be introduced for the first time in Burlington as president of Elon College.

There were four members of the Elon College Board of Trustees in attendance for the program, as well as many of the college's most recognized supporters.

If the occasion scared the new president, he certainly didn't show it. He delivered one of the simplest, yet most scholarly addresses we have heard in a long time.

Dr. Danieley delivered his address from a prepared manuscript, but he did it so well, with only occasional glances at his paper, that his audience wasn't altogether conscious of his manuscript references. He chose his words well to express his thoughts, and he finished saying a great deal, also, in 20 minutes.

Walking down the stairway with two members of the club later, we were impressed at their reaction.

"He certainly said a lot in a short time," said one of them.

The other agreed, but added another opinion:

"The trustees made a wise selection in him."

That, from what we find, is the prevailing sentiment among those who have known Earl Danieley over a period of time and have been in contact with him in this comparatively short time as president.

He draws people to his side with his sincerity of purpose, and it's not hard to leave him without an impression of satisfaction in his ability and his dedication.

Another Home-Grown College President

(Editorial, Greensboro Daily News, March 13, 1957.)

Tar Heel citizens, recently shown the value of training and keeping bright young men at home by the presidency and chancellorship choices of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, have further evidence in selection by Elon College trustees of Dr. J. Earl Danieley to succeed Dr. L. E. Smith as president.

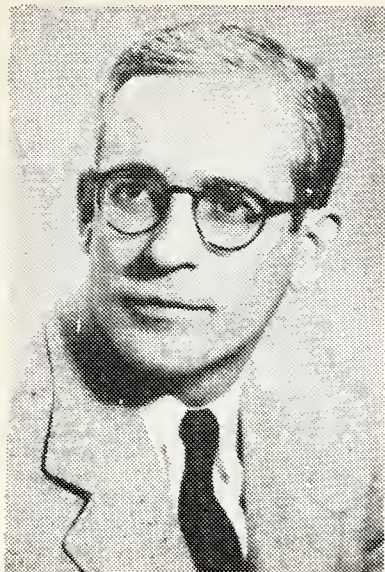

Dr. Danieley, at 32, will become one of the youngest college presidents in the country. But with that youthfulness go background, experience, scholarship, understanding and demonstrated ability which convince us that his choice was sound and brimful of hope for Elon's future.

Born and raised in Alamance County, Elon's new president has spent practically his entire life on the campus or within the shadow and direct influence of the institution. Graduating from Elon where he was an outstanding student and leader in 1946, he immediately entered upon a teaching career at his alma mater, winning meanwhile his M. A. degree in educational administration and his doctorate in organic chemistry from near-by University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

In recognition of his administrative ability, Dr. Danieley was named acting dean in 1953 and given the deanship permanently the next year. Currently he is on a year's leave of absence taking postdoctorate work in chemical research in Johns Hopkins University.

It is significant that President Danieley, educated in a college which emphasizes the humanities, has a mixture of education and experience which should enable him to recognize the advent of the scientific era and at the same time appreciate the necessity for fitting science and its work into our religion, social, political and economic heritage. Brought up and working under the influence of Dr. L. E. Smith, retiring president whom he will replace, Dr. Danieley knows what has gone into Elon's upbuilding; he is certain to reflect the spirit and the vision of his predecessor. Youthful vigor will be geared to awareness of responsibility and the building of an even greater and more effective institution out of the rich material, human and spiritual resources entrusted to his custodianship.

North Carolina is looking forward; and it does well indeed to have bright, capable, home-grown and inspired leaders to the forefront.

Dr. Cunningham Named

Dr. H. H. Cunningham, chairman of the social science department, has been appointed Dean of Elon College for the 1957-58 session, relieving Professor A. L. Hook of that added responsibility which he has carried during Dr. Danieley's leave of absence the past year.

Dr. Cunningham was born in Indiana, of Kentucky parentage. He was educated in the public schools of Indiana, Iowa, and Kentucky, and graduated with cum laude honors at Atlantic Christian College in North Carolina in 1936. He was named as best all-round athlete in his junior year and as a senior was named best student.

While teaching and coaching in North Carolina high schools for four years, he attended the University of North Carolina summer school and received his M. A. degree in 1940. He served four years in the Army Air Forces during World War II, emerging with the rank of captain and with the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious services. After one year as an instructor at N. C. State, he returned to the University of North Carolina where he received the Ph. D. degree in history in 1952. He joined the Elon College faculty that year.

Dr. Cunningham has written a number of articles and book reviews for historical journals, and his book on Confederate medical history, tentatively titled "Doctors Under the Stars and Bars," is soon to be published by the Louisiana State University Press.

He has also read papers before such professional groups as the New York Academy of Medicine and Historical Society of North Carolina. He is currently serving as governor of the North Carolina province of the Pi Gamma Mu, social science honor society, is regional chairman of the committee on membership of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, and is a member of the executive council of the Historical Society of North Carolina.

He has been active in community affairs here at Elon College, being chairman of the Elon College planning and zoning commission and a past president of the Laymen's Fellowship, is a member of the Rotary and Executive Clubs of Burlington and was moderator of the American Heritage project in Burlington for one year.

Dr. Cunningham was recently honored by his Alma Mater when he was presented a special Atlantic Christian College Alumni Citation at an Alumni Luncheon opening a two-day special Convocation at the College. He is a member of The Advisory Committee for The Sixtieth Anniversary Development Program of ACC.

Dr. Cunningham was married in 1942 to Miss Mary Shaw Robeson, who is a graduate of East Carolina College and holder of the M. A. degree in history from the University of North Carolina. They have two daughters, Ann, 11, and Margaret Settle, 6.

Rose H. Holder Author Of Book

MRS. GLENN P. HOLDER

BY W. B. TERRELL, '25

It is sometimes interesting to turn the pages of high school or college annuals and read the descriptions of students and the predictions made for their future.

The crystal ball consulted by the person predicting for Rose Howell in the 1925 Elon Phippsli must have indeed been very clear, for Rose, now Mrs. Glenn Parran Holder, is the author of a book, "McIver of North Carolina," which is an extensive biography of Dr. Charles Duncan McIver, first president of Woman's College, now a unit of the greater University of North Carolina.

But more about the prediction in the 1925 College annual concerning Rose. In a facetious mood the classmate who predicted so well for Rose had this to say about her: "Good natured and generous, jolly and clever, her tongue like a brooklet, goes on forever."

But let us share more of the appraisal of this outstanding student by one of her classmates. "Active in all phases of college life, literary, musical, and social, she has the finer touch of the dreamer, while at the same time she is one of the best sports in college. She has already acquired a reputation as a writer, critic, and master of good English, and it is predicted that the career of "writer" will be hers."

Coming to Elon College from Candor High School where she was valedictorian of her class, Rose continued to excel in scholastic achievements and to win more honors, graduating with a bachelor of arts degree Magna cum laude and again as valedictorian. Rose was selected as the outstanding Alumna of Elon College for the year 1954. She was more recently chosen for the Elon Hall of Fame.

Rose began her professional writing career with the Montgomery Herald in her home county, later going to the Greensboro Daily News where she met Glenn Holder, a Greensboro Record reporter. After their marriage a change of position took Glenn to New York where Rose joined the staff of the New York Herald Tribune. In New York her first child, a girl, was born. Now she has three daughters, Anne, Glenda, and Melinda.

Between her newspaper work and her book writing, Rose has found time to take an unusually active part in community activities. Here her talents for writing and public relations made her a valuable member of various community organizations. Some of these are: Red Cross, YWCA, Historical Society and Girl Scouts.

Now to the book which is destined to bring literary recognition to this talented alumna of Elon College. When asked about her reasons for selecting Dr. McIver as the subject for her book, the author explained that it was largely because of her interest in the education of women, or perhaps because she has known since childhood, the atmosphere in which Charles McIver grew up.

Rose says, "What it all adds up to apparently is this: A housewife, who long ago, as a newspaper woman, became enamored of the task of presenting fact in readable form could not resist writing a book about a thoroughly exciting character."

The book was published by the University of North Carolina Press. The U.N.C. Press fall catalogue has this comment: "This first full-length life of McIver, an authentic portrait of the man and his times, will, in all likelihood, remain the definite biography of the great educational statesman."

Elon College is indeed proud of this distinguished daughter.

Elon Grid Team Leads NSC Race

The Fighting Christian gridders whose 1957 football schedule is limited to eight games is at present in first place in the North State Conference by virtue of victories over Guilford 25 to 14; Appalachian 21 to 6; and East Carolina College 21 to 12.

In games thus far Elon has shown a well-balanced team both on offense and defense. The defense showing exceptionally strong in the last half of the East Carolina game.

In addition to the powerful ground attack which Coach Varney's boys have displayed, some very effective broken field running and a good passing attack have been shown.

Elon has been able to field a completely veteran eleven thus far against its opponents, with the starters showing nine letter winners from previous years along with a pair of Junior reserves who have seen much varsity play since coming to Elon.

The following players have been the main ones carrying the Elon attack thus far. However, they have some good replacements: Tony Carcaterra, left end; J. B. Vaughn, left tackle; Tony DeMatteo, left guard; Lynn Newcomb, center; Bob Hendricks, right guard; Bob Kopko, right tackle; Jack Henderson, right end; Charlie Maiden, quarterback; Joe Delgaïs, left half; Harry Faust, right half; and Bob Stauffenberg, fullback. Others who are making a good showing are Ben Cabbage, tackle; Turner Brosky, end; and Jim McClure, guard.

A feeling of optimism prevails concerning the outcome of the season. With three conference victories already achieved, there is hope that the team may go all the way and win the remaining three games scheduled with conference foes. Again Lenoir Rhyne looms as the strongest contender for the North State crown; however, Elon hopes to change the picture.

Elder Brothers Patent New Sock Process

W. Cliff Elder, 1925, and Delos M. Elder, Jr., 1930, graduates of Elon College, who own and operate the Elder Hosiery Mills, Inc., Burlington have recently been notified that a stretch top men's fashion sock which they have developed has been patented.

This new development eliminates rubber and utilizes synthetic stretch thermoplastic yarn. The two brothers say that extensive tests on the top show that it is approximately 85 per cent as good as rubber top in holding the sock in place on the ankle and leg and that it is more durable. The more the sock is washed, the better the top, they contend.

"There are many men who seek more comfort than a binding rubber top can give them," said the brothers in an official release, "and this prompted us to conduct our experiments. With a non-rubber top, the men could have a choice

NO. 2

EDITOR'S LETTER

Dear Alumni:

On March 11, Dr. James Earl Danieleley was officially inducted as the sixth president of Elon College. Many of you were present for this beautiful, but simple ceremony. We wish all of you could have shared this occasion with us.

In his acceptance speech Dr. Danieleley expressed his gratitude for the opportunity to serve our institution. He also paid tribute to those who have preceded him as president of Elon College and expressed appreciation of their accomplishments.

As I listened to Dr. Danieleley "call the roll" of his illustrious predecessors, all of whom I have known, I could not help thinking of the hundreds and thousands of "men and women who have come and gone, singing the victor's song of old Elon." For indeed many had the privilege of attending Elon under the administration of each of our former presidents.

Dr. Danieleley's message is indeed a challenge to the alumni, the church, and to friends of Elon College everywhere.

You have an opportunity to read his message. The Burlington Daily Times-News of Tuesday, March 11, carries the full text of his address. In addition, there is a "Special Recognition of Elon College" section of the paper on that date.

Since the full story of the inauguration is carried in this splendid issue of the Burlington paper, we have omitted much of the story from the Alumni News. For those of you who save your copies of the Alumni News we suggest you also file the special issue of the Times-News. But most important of all, read it. There is a wonderful story of your college.

A copy of this special issue went to all the Alumni for whom we have correct mailing addresses. If you did not receive your copy, please let us know. We shall send you one. Also if you know of any Alumni who did not get a paper, ask them to send us their address.

Time passes quickly and only a few more weeks remain until another Commencement at Elon. Those of you who have had the privilege of being here in the spring-time know how pretty the campus can be. This year the campus should be more beautiful than ever before. New buildings, landscaping projects, new parking areas add to the attractiveness. We hope the front cover of this Alumni News will make you "home-sick" to come back for commencement.

This will be Dr. Danieleley's first Commencement as president. We know he will be very happy to have you share this with him. Make your plans to attend. We shall give you definite information very soon concerning the program. We are again listing the reunion classes. We know you won't want to miss seeing your classmates and friends in other classes who are having reunions. Many of the class secretaries have been at work for some time planning to get "their members" back.

Class reunions scheduled are: 1898, 1903, 1908, 1913, 1918, 1923, 1928, 1933, 1938, 1943, 1948, 1953, and first reunion of the Class of 1957.

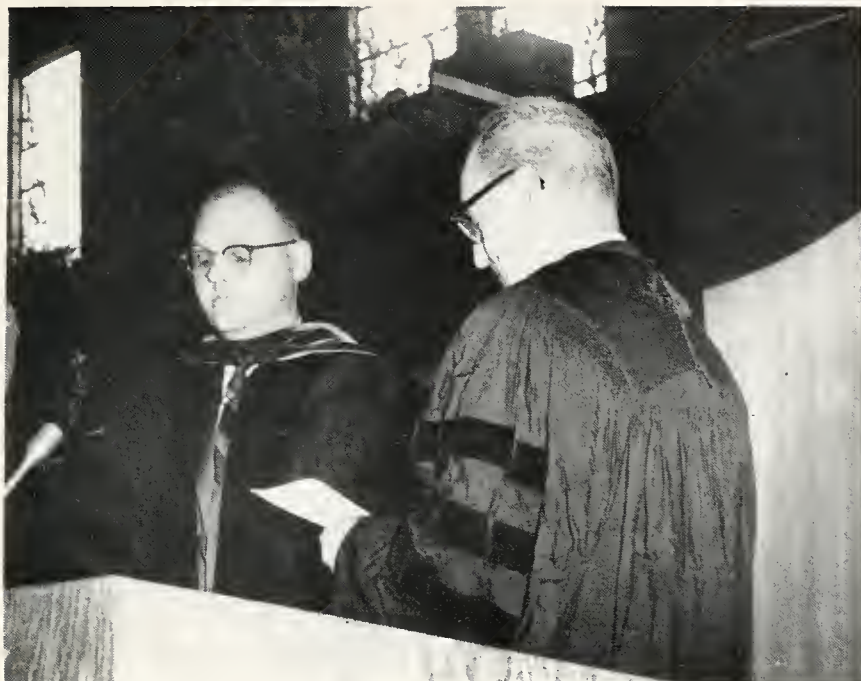

The class of 1908 will be the 50-year class or "Golden Anniversary." We hope every member of this class can be here.

The Commencement schedule is May 23-26. Friday, May 23, Senior Dance; May 24, Alumni Day; May 25, Baccalaureate Sermon; May 26, Graduating Exercises.

During the next two months, local alumni chapter meetings are planned for Atlanta, Suffolk, Norfolk, Durham and Raleigh. You will be notified of details.

As we have suggested the school year is rapidly drawing to a close. Our fiscal year for finances ends May 31, 1958. Those of you who have not contributed to the support of the Alumni Association will certainly want to do so at once. We are preparing our "honor roll" of contributors and we shall be happy to include you among this group.

W. B. TERRELL, Secretary

Dr. James Earl Danieleley being inducted as sixth president of Elon College by Thad Eure, Secretary of State of North Carolina, and Chairman of the Elon College Board of Trustees.

Inaugural Ceremonies Successful

Coming as a climax to three days of formal inaugural ceremonies and topping a week of special events on the Elon College campus, Dr. James Earl Danieleley, 33-year-old Elon alumnus and former dean of the college, was installed on Tuesday, March 11th, as the sixth president of this Congregational Christian institution. Installation ceremonies were held in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, which had been transformed into an auditorium for the big day.

The new Elon president, one of the youngest presidents of a 4-year college in America, in his inaugural address that topped the final program of the "Inaugural Week," told his listeners that "There is much to be done in assuming the presidency of Elon College," and he implored Divine guidance and aid as he tackled the problems that forever confront a college administrator.

In his address he stressed a progressive program for Elon College, a program aimed at detailed instruction of students, academic freedom and better salaries for faculty members, full support of religious guidance and service and a closer relationship between Elon College and Alamance County.

Dr. Danieleley's inaugural address was the third major speech during the three days of the installation series, for Dr. Alvin R. Keppel, president of Catawba College, had previously delivered the Inaugural Sermon on Sunday, March 9th, and Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, president of Atlantic Christian College, had addressed the Inaugural Convocation of students, alumni and friends in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on Monday morning, March 10th.

Taking as his theme "The Primacy of the Christian College," Dr. Keppel in his Inaugural Sermon listed Truth, Trust, Wisdom and Humility as the four foundation stones upon which every institution and every individual must build if their superstructures are to reach to their higher needs and responsibilities.

Warning that the Christian college must interpret as well as disseminate the truth and must maintain a greater concern with wisdom than with knowledge, Dr. Keppel declared that "the campus of such a Christian college should be a center of higher yearning as well as a center of higher learning."

He further expressed the hope that Man in his recently acquired knowledge of the atom and outer space may temper that knowledge with wisdom, warning that "outer space cannot be conquered while Man's inner self unconquered goes."

Addressing the Inaugural Convocation, Dr. Wenger chose "The Creative Resources of Christian Higher Education" as his topic and discussed the contributions which such an education can offer. Speaking primarily to students, who made up most of his audience, he cited varying reasons why students come to college.

He then listed as valid reasons for spending four years in college the fact that Christian higher education gives a vantage point from which to view life, that it gives better understanding of religion and that it adjusts the students to certain needed disciplines as preparation for life.

Other events during the "Inaugural Week" were the piano recital of Prof. Jonathan Sweat, on Thursday night, March 6th; the impressive Inaugural Ball in Alumni Gymnasium on Friday night, March 7th; an Elon Choir concert Sunday afternoon, March 9th; the Inaugural Banquet on Monday night, March 10th; and the Inaugural Luncheon on Tuesday, March 11th.

The entire program moved smoothly from one event to another, with nearly forty other colleges and universities sending representatives to the final ceremonies on Tuesday.

School Group Pays Tribute To Danieleley

Among the many tributes received by Dr. J. E. Danieleley on the occasion of his inauguration as president of Elon College, two of them came as resolutions from officials of his former high school at Altamahaw-Ossipee and from the Alamance County Board of Education.

The resolutions from the local committee of Altamahaw-Ossipee High School, where Dr. Danieleley received his college preparatory training, were signed by J. H. Harris, chairman of the committee, and they told of the pride which that high school feels in claiming the Elon president as one of its graduates.

The resolutions from the Alamance County Board of Education, bearing the signature of Chairman Henry A. Scott, expressed the pride of the county school system in having shared in Dr. Danieleley's training and also assured to Dr. Danieleley and Elon College complete cooperation on the part of the county schools in the cause of education in this area.

Laymen Fellowship In Winter Meeting

More than 150 Congregational Christian church men braved snow and slippery highways to attend the annual mid-winter rally of the Laymen's Fellowship of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, which was held on the Elon College campus Sunday afternoon, February 16.

The attendance was far below the number expected, since weather conditions prevented delegates from western North Carolina and Virginia from making the trip, but there were goodly groups present from the eastern portion of both states.

The program itself, planned for both afternoon and evening sessions, was telescoped into the afternoon portion, which was held in Whitley Auditorium, and the fellowship banquet was served in McEwen Memorial Dining Hall at 6 o'clock to allow those present to get an earlier start homeward.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon College president, and for the past two years president of the Laymen's Fellowship of the Southern Convention. The visitors were welcomed by Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of the college. Music for the occasion was by the Elon College Choir, directed by Prof. John Westmoreland and accompanied at the organ by Prof. Fletcher Moore.

Dr. William Bradford Smith, of Madison, Wisconsin, Chairman of the National Laymen's Fellowship of the Congregational Christian Churches, was the first of two featured speakers, taking "The Layman and His Daily Vocation" as a topic as he told how the talents of the lawyer, the advertising man, the banker, and other church men may best be used for the benefit of the church program.

Dr. Reginald Helfferich, of Amston, Conn., originally scheduled to speak in the evening, also spoke at the afternoon session, telling of his years of experience in distributing food, tools, seed and other commodities to the needy regions of the earth.

The scheduled election of officers for the Convention Fellowship for the coming two-year term was postponed due to the curtailed attendance and will be held at the biennial meeting of the Southern Convention.

Dr. Danieley is shown receiving North Carolina's "Young Man of Year" award from Terrell Rhodes, Chairman of the Distinguished Award Committee of North Carolina Jaycees.

Dr. Danieley, 'Young Man Of Year'

The 33-year old president of Elon College, who assumed his new duties at the college last summer, is North Carolina's "Young Man of the Year" for 1957.

Dr. J. Earl Danieley was given the tribute and honor at Rocky Mount Saturday night, February 15, when some 500 Jaycees from throughout the state gathered for their Third Quarterly Board Meeting.

Dr. Danieley was named Alamance County's Young Man of the Year on January 27 and Burlington Jaycees then entered his name in competition with other local winners from throughout the state, leading to his selection for the statewide honor. The presentation for the Burlington club was made by D. R. Fonville, Jr., an Elon alumnus who was the winner of the same award a year ago.

His name will now be sent to the national Jaycee headquarters where judges will consider him along with all other state winners from throughout the nation in selecting the nation's 10 outstanding young men of the year.

Terrell Rhodes, of Lenoir, chairman of the Distinguished Award Committee for North Carolina Jaycees, made the presentation to Dr. Danieley at Rocky Mount on Saturday night.

In accepting the state award, Dr. Danieley spoke only briefly, saying that he wished to do three things:

1. To express appreciation for the splendid service which Jaycees render to the state as a whole and to their local communities.

2. To express his concern for the quality in American education and his conviction that the church-related college is essential in the program of higher education, and further to say that North Carolina is fortunate in having many good church-related colleges, all of which deserve public interest and support.

3. To express appreciation to Jaycees for the honor paid him, declaring that in honoring him they were honoring his parents, his teachers, his friends and the institution which he represents.

Smith Hall Is Named To Honor Former President

Dr. Leon E. Smith

Marking completion of another step in Elon College expansion and improvement, more than one hundred of Elon's men students moved on Monday, January 13, into beautiful new Smith Hall, modern men's dormitory which has just been completed.

The new dormitory, fourth of the modern campus structures to be completed at Elon within the past eighteen months, was named Smith Hall as a tribute to Dr. Leon E. Smith, who retired last July after serving more than twenty-five years as Elon's president.

The three earlier buildings under the Elon modernization program were the Pictured above is the new Smith Hall, boys' dormitory which was opened for student occupation on Monday, January 13. The dormitory, which is an exact duplicate of the Carolina Hall, another boys' dorm that was put in use a year ago in September, was named Smith Hall in tribute to Dr. Leon E. Smith (pictured left), who served as Elon president for more than twenty-five years from the fall of 1931 until his retirement last July. The new dormitory, which provides accommodations for 124 boys and a faculty counselor, was begun last January. It is the fourth new building to be opened on the Elon campus within the past eighteen months.

McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, which also includes spacious banquet and social facilities; Virginia Hall, a girls' dormitory, and Carolina Hall, a men's dormitory. All of those were occupied September 1, 1956.

The new Smith Hall is an exact duplicate of Carolina Hall and stands parallel to Carolina near the northeast corner of Elon's walled campus. All of the buildings are of traditional architecture to blend with the architectural pattern of the older buildings on the Elon campus.

The new dormitory, plans for which were drawn by William Henly Dietrick, Raleigh architect, was built by the H. F. Mitchell Construction Company, of Burlington. Completely equipped, the new dormitory cost well over a quarter million dollars.

The dormitory is a three-story structure, furnishing accommodations for 124 boys and a faculty dormitory counselor. Each of the rooms, designed for two boys, is decorated in pastel shades and includes a double closet with sliding doors. Each room is furnished with the most modern in dormitory furniture.

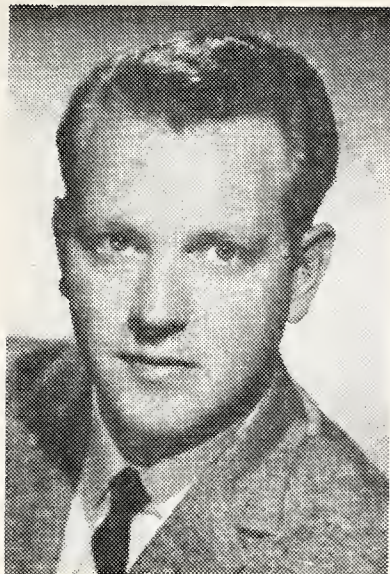

Each floor of the buildings includes a group bath and laundry facilities for use of the boys. There is a lounge or reception room at the northern entrance of the ground floor, and adjacent to the lounge is a room set aside for the faculty counselor, who will reside in the building.

Completion of the new dormitory enabled the college to move all occupants out of the Club House and Carlton House, wooden structures adjacent to the campus; from the Bank Building, across the railroad tracks; and from old North Dorm.

Cunningham On Radio

Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of the college and head of the Elon College history department, was featured in a radio program from New York's station WNYC on January 30, when his study of "The Confederate Medical Officer in the Field" was presented as one of a group of radio programs titled "French Medicine Series."

The Cunningham study was recorded for radio when the Elon dean spoke to the New York Academy of Medicine on that topic. The series of programs continued for three months.

Six pupils of Mrs. Smith met the standards for five and six consecutive years.

Silver Anniversary Handel's Messiah

Key figures behind the Silver Anniversary presentation of Handel's "Messiah" in Whitley Auditorium at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 15, were Professor John Westmoreland, left, who has directed the great Yule season oratorio for many years; and Professor Fletcher Moore, right, head of the Elon College music department, who has been the organ accompanist for a long period of time. Both the Elon faculty members are graduates of Elon, having received their early musical education here, and both were participants in the "Messiah" programs in their student days.

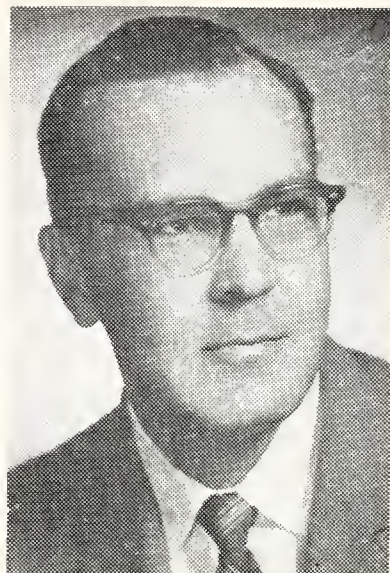

In presenting the "Silver Anniversary" of this beloved oratorio, Professor Westmoreland, director, chose as soloists men and women who are alumni of Elon College and who had previously participated in this annual Yule season performance.

The performance of these alumni guest soloists, former pupils of Professor Westmoreland and Professor Moore, brought high praise from a large and appreciative audience, many acclaiming this as the best presentation of Handel's great work that they had heard at Elon College.

Those taking solo parts included Annie Laura Albright, Roger Gibbs, Dorothy Hilliard, Jeanne Meredith, Dorothy Jones Parker, James Rhodes, Jerry Smyre, Judy Ingram and Charles Lynam.

In announcing the appointment of Mrs. Leath, Dr. Danieley stated that several rooms at the northern entrance to Ladies Hall have been fitted out as a college infirmary. The remainder of the former girls dormitory has been re-assigned recently to faculty offices and as headquarters for the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

Quite a collection of equipment, radio handbooks, maps and other paraphernalia are in the new club room.

Professor Gives Book As Memorial

A first edition of Jean Philippe Rameau's world-famous "Traite de l'Harmonie," originally published in 1722, was presented to Elon College on November 1, as a memorial to the late Charles Fletcher Moore, Sr., Burlington churchman and civic leader.

The gift was presented by Prof. Charles Fletcher Moore, Jr., chairman of the Elon College Music Department, to Dr. J. Earl Danieley, Elon's president, and to Mrs. Oma U. Johnson, Elon College Librarian. The book was presented in a beautifully-wrought case and is open to the view of library visitors.

In accepting the memorial gift from Prof. Moore, President Danieley announced plans for the establishment of a rare book room as a feature of the Elon College library. Such a room is designed as a depository for other memorial gifts, such as the one which initiates the collection.

"Recognizing the desirability of collecting rare books and manuscripts and preserving them for future generations, Elon College has undertaken the establishment of a Rare Book Room," Dr. Danieley said and added, "This first gift is significant because it is in the field of music, where Elon College has excelled, because it is a gift from a faculty member which indicates an awareness on the part of the faculty of the value of the project and because it is given in memory of Charles F. Moore, Sr., who was a leading citizen of Alamance County and whose three sons are graduates of Elon College. We are pleased to announce this worthy project and to note the encouraging response among those who are familiar with it and who have indicated a desire to make memorial gifts to the collection."

Within the gift case is an engraved plate, which reads as follows: "Traite de l'Harmonie," 1722-First Edition, by Jean Philippe Rameau. Presented to the Elon College Library in memory of Charles Fletcher Moore, Sr., May 19, 1889-April 10, 1957, by Charles Fletcher Moore, Jr.

Along with the gift was presented a scroll which bore a sketch of the elder Moore's life. This scroll reads, "IN MEMORIAM—Charles Fletcher Moore, Sr., first son of Henry Fletcher Moore and Maggie Davis Moore, was born and reared in Alamance county, North Carolina. His father was a dentist and his mother a teacher. His early education was in the public schools and later under the direction of his mother. Alamance County and Burlington were always his home. At the age of 24 he was married to Mattie Ida Thompson, who bore him three sons, Charles Fletcher, Jr., Willard Glenn and Wayne Thompson. All three are graduates of Elon College.

"He is remembered as a devoted churchman and as a civic leader; and for those who had the privilege of working under his supervision in the textile and hosiery industries, he was both a devoted friend and an inspiration for better living and better business. He was a pioneer in the development of industry in this community.

"Sports and fishing were his hobbies. His philosophy of life will continue to be a guide to all who came in contact with him. He gave much to his community and left the world a better place in which to live because of the example of his life."

Also in the scroll was a brief description of the gift book itself, as follows: THE MEMORIAL—Jean Philippe Rameau, 1683-1764, one of the greatest of all French composers, was an innovator in both the theory and practice of harmony. In his important "Traite de l'Harmonie," published in 1722, he set forth for the first time the law of inversion of chords, evolved the system of chord-progression by a fundamental bass not identical with the real bass of the music. This memorial volume is a first edition and, according to an eminent musicologist, very possibly "the finest copy of the Rameau 'Harmonie' in existence."

D. R. Fonville, Sr., Is Paid Tribute By Firm

D. R. Fonville, Sr., retired January 1 as President of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association after 44 years of service to the firm.

Also speaking briefly in tribute was Dr. J. Earl Danieley, president of Elon College, from where Mr. Fonville was graduated in 1904 and where he has served on the Board of Trustees since 1914.

City Judge C. C. Cates, Jr., trustee of the First Federal, also spoke briefly and presented to Mr. Fonville a portrait of himself as a gift from his associates, after which C. J. Beverly Madison Currin, Jr.

Elon Graduate Author Of Religious Book

Several months ago a new book in the field of religion was written by an outstanding alumnus of Elon College, Beverly Madison Currin, Jr., of Burlington, N. C. The book is published by Greenwich Book Publishers, New York.

Entitled "Decision In Crisis", the book has received very favorable reviews. "Decision In Crisis" is a fighting book—it fights for Christ in a world that needs Him desperately. It calls for an active faith, and decries the merely fashionable or nominal Christianity that is so often a mask for deep-rooted anxieties of soul. It does not offer "positive thinking" or the complacency which comes only when the Christian ignores the suffering all around him. Instead, it reminds us forcefully of the Master's preaching that all who follow Him must take up the same Cross and bear it to the end.

"This book will help you to make that supreme choice. It was written for the laymen, the Christian who sincerely wants help in this time of troubles, by a young man who shows promise of becoming one of the most eloquent preachers in America. It has the power to open your eyes, to bring you through to Christ, to change your life."

Greenwich Book Publishers.

"I commend this little volume to those who are fair and sincere in their approach to the Christian religion and its implications in our day, and particularly to ministerial students who are seeking to find their way in the maze of religious books and periodicals on doctrinal matters."

Dr. Leon Edgar Smith
President, Elon College, N. C.

"A courageous, and not ineffective, attempt to restate the Gospel by a serious divinity student who has read widely and listened wisely, and expresses himself with almost a journalistic flair."

Dr. James T. Celeland
Dean of Duke Chapel
Duke University.

A graduate of Elon College in the Class of 1953, Matt, as he was known on the campus received his B. D. at Duke in 1957 and at the same time received his Th. M. at Union Theological Seminary. He is at present completing work for his Doctor of Theology at Union. Matt is a candidate for Holy Orders in the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Virginia. While pursuing studies in the seminary, he is Master of St. Christopher's School in Richmond where he is teaching Sacred Studies.

During his undergraduate days at Elon, Matt was very active in student affairs. He was editor of Maroon and Gold; member and speaker of Student Legislature; Sigma Mu Sigma; Pi Gamma Mu; Vice-president Student Body; Varsity Debaters, and many other offices. He was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Joins State Staff

Mr. Basil L. Sherrill, a Burlington attorney, who has been serving on the Elon College faculty as a lecturer in business law, has been appointed to the staff of the state attorney general. He has already begun his new duties in Raleigh. Sherrill's primary duties will be with the Department of Revenue and perhaps some legal matters for the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Before coming to Burlington to practice law, Sherrill was assistant director of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill for five years.

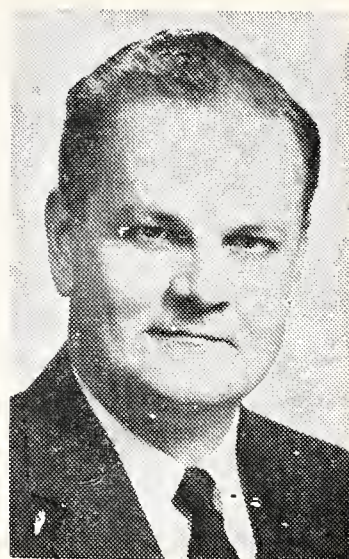

He is President of the Alamance Young Democrats Club and a member of the City Planning and Zoning Commission, the First Baptist Church, Bur-Gra Civitan Club and Graham Toastmasters Club.

Football Team Tops In Conference Race

Undefeated, Untied, Uncrowned!

That brief expression was used by the Elon College Publicity Director in describing the status of the Elon College football squad, which posted six successive victories and finished its 1957 season at the top of the North State Conference standings and with the only perfect record among all colleges of the two Carolinas.

For readers who were unable to keep up with the football situation through the newspapers in this area, here is briefly what happened to earn for the team the description quoted in the opening statement. Elon had games canceled with Catawba and Western Carolina when a flu epidemic hit both these schools, leaving Elon with only four conference games, one less than the number required by Conference rules and from that technicality came the "uncrowned" portion of the above description.

The decision in regard to the Conference title was left to the annual winter meeting of the North State Colleges, which was held at High Point on Tuesday, December 3rd, at which time the title was awarded to the Lenoir Rhyne team that had lost decisively to the Elon eleven by a 20 to 7 margin in a game at Hickory on November 16th. That defeat left the Lenoir Rhyne team second to Elon in the percentage standings.

Followers of the Elon team felt that since Elon was not responsible for the cancellations and since the conference regulations did not cover a situation of this nature caused by cancellations, the Conference should vote the Elon Christians champions for 1957.

The award of the title to the Lenoir Rhyne team came in a dramatic last-minute decision at the Conference meeting after an impasse vote failed to decide the winner of the crown, threatening to leave the Conference without an official champion for the first time in its 25-year history.

The action came when Professor A. L. Hook, chairman of Elon's faculty

Athletic Committee, requested that the question be re-opened and made a motion in behalf of Elon that Lenoir Rhyne be recognized as champion. His motion was passed by voice vote of all the conference member colleges.

OTHER SPORTS ACTIVE

Track, tennis, and golf are being emphasized in the overall athletic and physical education program this spring with full schedules for all three sports.

Coach Sid Varney will again direct the track program, although Dr. Robert Benson is temporarily supervising this activity while Coach Varney is conducting spring football training.

In addition to four meets with conference foes, Elon will also meet Pfeiffer, Washington and Lee, Lynchburg, and Naval Apprentice.

Sid Varney
—Coach of Year

Varney, Stauffenberg Win NSC Honors

Although the Elon Christians were denied the North State Conference football championship because of a technicality, their perfect record of six victories brought plaudits and honors to their coach and to the team.

Coach Sid Varney was named "Coach of the Year" in both the North State Conference and the Carolinas District of the NAIA. These honors were voted by Varney's fellow coaches.

The double "Coach of the Year" honors for Varney appear richly deserved when one views the Elon record of six successive victories, a record that was climaxed by a resounding and decisive trampling of Lenoir Rhyne at Hickory. Varney had previously shared "Coach of the Year" honors in the Conference in 1954 with Red Duggins of Appalachian.

Joining with Coach Varney in gaining double individual honors was battering Bob Stauffenberg, who rushed for more than 2,000 yards during his career as Elon's fullback. Stauffenberg was named "Player of the Year" in both the Carolina's NAIA District and the North State Conference.

In addition to the double "Player of the Year" honors, Stauffenberg was also named to the All-State team for the second straight year and won All-Conference honors for the third time in four years. He missed the All Conference honors as a sophomore when he broke his arm in the first game of the season. Stauffenberg also gained honorable mention for Little All-American.

Tony Carcaterra, Elon's towering junior end, joined Stauffenberg on the All-State honor team; with all-state honorable mention going to J. B. Vaughn, rugged junior tackle, and Lynn Newcomb, brilliant senior center. Stauffenberg and Carcaterra also made the first and Vaughn and Newcomb the second All-NAIA District teams.

It was on the All-Conference squads that Elon really reaped the honors, for no less than seven of the Christian stars gained positions on one or the other of the two principal honor selections for the North State Conference. In each case there were six Christians among the top twenty-two players listed.

The seven All-Conference aces selected from the Christian roster included Tony Carcaterra, end; J. B. Vaughn, tackle; Tony DeMatteo, guard; Lynn Newcomb, center; Charlie Maidon, quarterback; Harry Faust, halfback; and Bob Stauffenberg.

So far as the record shows this is by far the largest number of Elon gridders ever to receive recognition by the two conferences.

Elon Boosters' Club Honors Team

The Elon College football squad was honored by the Elon College Boosters' Club at a dinner meeting held at Huey's Seafood Restaurant in Burlington on Thursday night, January 23rd.

More than 80 persons were present for the occasion, including a goodly number of Elon Alumni and football fans from Burlington and neighboring towns, along with the coaches and members of the Christian grid squad.

DeRoy Fonville, 1940 graduate, is President of the Boosters Club. He presented Ed Hicklin, member of Class of '44, who served as Master of Ceremonies. He introduced each member of the football squad.

Coach Sid Varney made a brief talk and expressed appreciation to the Boosters Club for its support. He paid tribute to the football team for its fighting spirit and great cooperation during the past season.

The Boosters Club presented gifts to the Christian coaches and to the eight senior members of the squad, including Jack Henderson, end; Bob Kopko and Ladson Cabbage, tackles; Tony DeMatteo, guard; Lynn Newcomb, center; Richard Bradham, quarterback; and Bob Stauffenberg and Ronnie Kinsley, fullbacks.

The Boosters Club hopes to have another meeting soon at which time officers will be elected for the next year. The club wants to increase interest in all sports activities at the College and is inviting and urging the support of all alumni and friends of Elon College to become members.

Elon Cagers Have Mediocre Record

With a loss to Western Carolina in the North State Conference Tournament on February 27th at Lexington, the Elon Christian Basketeers closed a very mediocre season with a conference standing of 4 victories and 12 losses in regular season play.

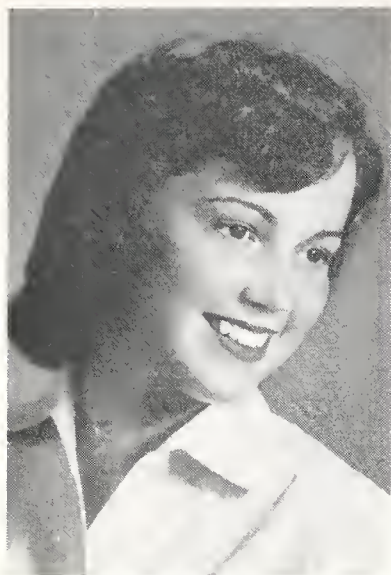

In addition to the four victories in the Conference, the Christians had a win over Pfeiffer College.

Losing all five of last seasons' starters, Coach Doc Mathis was faced with a rebuilding problem. Only two lettermen were back this season, Frank DeRita, a senior forward from Brooklyn, and Larry Bulla, sophomore guard from Asheboro.

From the reserves of last year, Buddy Way, Gil Watts, and Tony Carcaterra saw quite a bit of action this year. Rob Bell, who came to Elon after a period of service ball in the Marines, played well and was usually a starter. C. G. Hall of Leaksville, and Eddie Burke of Burlington, both winning honors in high school circles last year, showed great promise this year and outstanding performance is expected of these two in the future.

Although the team had a losing record, for the most part it played good ball. Five games were lost by a margin of one to four points. Only a few losses came by large margins.

The Elon basketball schedule had only 20 regular scheduled games this year, with two games each against conference foes. In addition, Elon met Pfeiffer and Belmont Abbey twice each. Coach Doc Mathis is hoping to add several additional foes to the Christian schedule for the 1958 season.

Elon Homecoming Weekend Is Gala Affair

Despite the absence of football as a major feature and despite the consequent scarcity of Elon's old grads, many of whom cancelled their plans to attend after Western Carolina cancelled the football game, the 1957 Homecoming weekend on November 2nd was hailed almost unanimously by Elon's students as a gala success.

The weekend observance got underway on Friday night when the Elon Players sponsored their second annual Homecoming variety show in the Moon-ey Chapel Theatre, staging a program and revue that was hailed with howls of merriment by the capacity crowd which attended.

The usual dormitory decorations were conspicuous by their absence, another result of the football cancellation, but the Elon Homecoming parade through the streets of Burlington proved a real feature of the day.

The parade started from the Eva Barker Playground on North Main Street at 12:30 o'clock Saturday and moved to the stirring music of three bands to the stadium. Winners of the three top awards for the best floats were the Day Student Organization, the Sophomore Class and the Freshman Class. The girls of Virginia Hall and West Dorm also attracted attention with their float, which featured a bevy of attractive girls as the major decoration.

Climaxing the entire weekend program of festivities was the annual Homecoming Ball, which was held in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium from 8 until 12 o'clock on Saturday night, with the largest attendance of students seen at an Elon dance in many moons.

The dance was held against an exceptionally attractive background, the dance committee having decked the huge gymnasium in colorful fashion to depict a "Starry Night." Dancing was to the tunes of Chuck Cabot and his orchestra.

Highlight of the evening was the coronation of Cleve Gayle, of Virginia Beach, Va., as Homecoming Queen. She was escorted for the coronation by Buddy Smith, her chief attendant being Pat Crismon, of Reidsville, the maid-of-honor, who was escorted by Charles Foster.

Comprising the royal court was more than twenty-five girls, who had been chosen as sponsors for various campus organizations and residence halls. The sponsors had also ridden in decorated convertibles in the parade at noon.

es, for Day Students, with Bob Skinner; Dot Keck, for Elon Choir, with Roger Nardelli; Beverly Ward, for Ministerial Association, with Louis Wilkins;

E. T. Regan, '29, presents "Teacher of Year" award to Mrs. Luther Ligon, '25, teacher in Oxford Orphanage High School.

High Honor Accorded Elon Graduate

A career teacher who has worked 33 years in the classroom and devoted her after-hours and week-ends to assisting students with regular and extra curricular activities and who has sandwiched this busy program with summer study for professional advancement has been named for honor in Oxford and Granville County.

Mrs. Luther A. Ligon, high school teacher in John Nichols School, has been chosen Teacher of the Year in the Oxford and Granville County School units. Mrs. Ligon is the former Sallie Mae Oliver, an Elon College graduate in 1925. In a program Saturday evening, February 15, in York Rite Chapel, she received an "Oscar" provided by the three Womans' Clubs of Oxford-Junior, Intermediate and Senior.

The Orange County native, a resident of Cedar Grove, was chosen from nominations for the honor tendered by students. A panel of judges picked the winner from the nominations.

In the award program, Mrs. H. B. Jennings, Jr., senior Club President, presided. Former Oxford School Superintendent C. G. Credle made an address. He was presented by Mrs. Thomas J. Currin, intermediate club president. The welcome was by Orphanage Superintendent A. D. Leon Gray and Mrs. Ernest Hill, junior club president, gave the teacher's prayer. E. T. Ragan, Elon graduate '29, former principal of Nichols School presented the award, an engraved silver plate. A social hour concluded the program.

The winner was chosen on a basis of scholastic attainments, teaching experience, humanitarian attitude toward students, significant work in and outside the school beyond the call of duty and a reflection of interest in community, state and national affairs.

Mrs. Ligon, whose late husband was a member of the Orphanage personnel, was awarded her A. M. degree at the University of North Carolina in 1933 and in 1954, was admitted as a candidate for degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of N. C.

Her entire teaching career has been at the Oxford Orphanage, although she has declined many flattering offers in other schools. She has made countless trips to Chapel Hill in furtherance of her post-graduate studies and it now appears that she will be the first faculty member of Oxford or Granville County schools to become a Ph. D.

Mrs. Ligon supervises many extra-curricular school activities. She is serving as faculty adviser for Seniors; high school annual staff; high school literary club; national honor society. She is sponsor for the school's future teacher club, whose members have made her the organization's namesake. She has taught in the campus Sunday School since coming to the Orphanage in 1925.

Mrs. Ligon was a charter member and a former secretary of the Nichols Parent-Teacher Association. She was chosen last year during National Education Week as "The Honored Teacher" of Nichols faculty.

She has held many offices at the local district level in professional organizations. In addition to school and professional advancement she has been a member of Order of Eastern Star; is a member of XI Chapter Delta Kappa Gamma; American Association of University Women. One of her greatest honors came in being made an honorary member of the Oxford Orphanage Alumni.

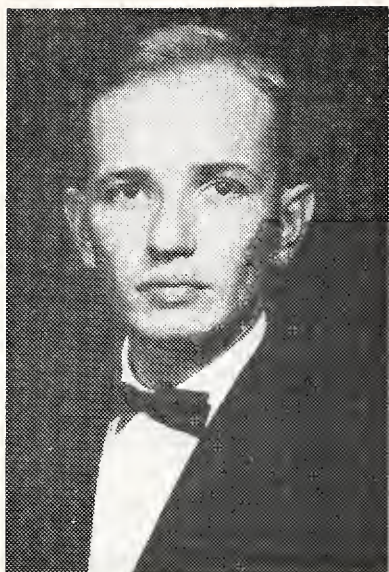

(Editor's Note: We have learned since this program was held that Mrs. Ligon has been chosen "Teacher of the Year in the Fourteenth District" by the Woman's Clubs of the six counties that comprise the district. It is also understood that Mrs. Ligon's name will be presented to the club women of the state in an effort to have her declared "Teacher of the Year in North Carolina.")

Royal Spence, Jr., was elected president to serve for a two-year period.

The following resolution in memory of M. L. Patrick, a former president of the Guilford chapter and also of the general Alumni Association, was read.

MALCOLM LACY PATRICK

It seems particularly fitting on this occasion when friends of Elon College in Guilford County gather together, that we pause a few minutes to remember one who was the president of this group in the early days of its organization—Malcolm L. Patrick, of the class of 1924.

If we might choose one aspect of Pat's life more outstanding than any other, we believe that it would be his deep sense of loyalty and devotion to any person, or any cause dear to his heart. Such a cause he found in Elon College, and from the time of his undergraduate days on the Elon campus until his untimely death only a short while ago, his interest never lagged.

With his gifts of money and of time, with his genuine interest in the college's activities, with his never-failing goodwill, he exemplified the true spirit of our college. Elon College is a better college because of an alumnus like M. L. Patrick. The Guilford County Chapter of Elon Alumni wishes to go on record expressing its deep appreciation for his life and his influence.

Moses Crutchfield, 1941 graduate, who has been a member of the Greensboro Daily News sports staff, was recently named as associate sports editor.

For the past several years, Moses has covered the sports activities of the North State Conference of which Elon is a member.

Another honor came to Moses some-time ago when he was named Chairman of the National Press Committee of the NAIA, the organization for the smaller colleges.

EDITOR'S LETTER

Dear Alumni:

In this issue we are endeavoring to give to those who were unable to attend any of the commencement program, especially alumni activities, something of the spirit that prevailed during the 68th commencement. Those who came were delighted with what they saw and heard, and went away with a new appreciation of their college. We regret that more of the alumni could not be present for the occasion. Plan to come at any time you can.

Since almost everything else that we might say is covered in the magazine, we would like to use this space to express appreciation to the newspapers of our state and others outside the state, for the splendid coverage they gave the commencement program and other activities. This is deeply appreciated.

Quite often we take the liberty of using some item from the various papers in our section. We are using an editorial from the Daily Times-News of Burlington, under date of Tuesday, May 27, 1958, which expressed an appreciation for Elon College. We would like for you to share this.

PROGRESSIVE ELON COLLEGE GRADUATES 107 IN 68TH YEAR

When 107 Elon College Seniors received their diplomas yesterday the program marked the 68th year of education, character building activities on the campus.

It was stimulating to receive the commencement address delivered from a new approach, that of a challenge to the class to face and solve their own problems.

Doctor Robert V. Moss, president of Lancaster Theological Seminary, departed the more common theme followed by commencement speakers who stress more "advice" on how to proceed with putting college training to use successfully than the individual might do on his own.

The more useful employment one can perform or services associated with the profession, is achieved by happiness at work in an environment of one's choice, toward an objective of one's selection.

Conditions change regularly, in the social order and all of the activities in which human society is engaged. Basically, however, the whole in human society are people who search for an opportunity to make a success of life, or who create it to enjoy the influence of those about them as they strive to make their own influence wholesome and uplifting. Self-education, as pointed out by Dr. Moss, continues throughout life if one will pursue it.

Elon College has a distinguished background of service to young men and women from a majority of the states, we believe, and from foreign countries, who in turn have distinguished themselves in their chosen fields. There remains a mutually inspired fraternalism between college officials and alumnus year after year as progress moves forward, greater facilities for the classroom objectives, larger classes of boys and girls engaged in their higher educational pursuits.

Elon College has not developed in a bed of roses. Without the strength of visionary leadership, loyal alumni and friends, Alamance County certainly might not have had today this great cultural asset. It is one to cherish, to support, to encourage in every manner as substantially as possible.

It was fitting yesterday that a portrait of Dr. Leon Edgar Smith was unveiled to be hung later in Whitley Auditorium. Dr. Smith was a great leader, builder, influence, for a quarter century before his retirement from the presidency last year. His interest in Elon College will continue.

In Dr. Smith's chair today is an Elon College product, and native of Alamance County, Dr. J. Earl Danieleley, who is dedicated to a future destined to witness year after year a "great Elon College a greater Elon College."

Successful Commencement Held

Moss Is Finals Speaker

Declining to follow the usual pattern of passing out advice to the 107 graduating seniors at Elon College's 68th commencement Monday morning, May 26, Dr. Robert V. Moss, president of the Lancaster Theological Seminary, instead laid down for the Elon graduates the criteria by which an educated man may be judged.

In passing up the opportunity to advise, Dr. Moss told the seniors that they should solve the problems they will face in the light of their own resources and abilities, expressing at the same time that they and their generation may see the myriad current problems in new lights and find new solutions which may prove more effective than the solutions offered by those going before.

Defining the qualities that distinguish an educated man, Dr. Moss cited four characteristics, which he asked the seniors to consider well.

The first characteristic cited was that an educated man is self-educating, anxious and willing to go on learning in the years that follow close of formal training in colleges and other institutions.

He then declared that an educated man must be "a mental claustrophobe," afraid always of the closed mind in considering problems and never satisfied with the easy answer to any problem, and there he pointed out that in many fields the age-old questions remain the same but that the answers many change in the light of modern developments and discoveries.

The third criteria of the educated man was in the declaration that such a man lives in the fullness of time, giving his heart and mind to immediate tasks at hand and giving his utmost to the opportunity at hand and realizing life to the fullest as he lives it.

Rounding out his description of the educated man, Dr. Moss declared that such a man must be truly committed to his life's work as a vocation, and there he paused to correct the modern understanding of the word "vocation" as distinguished from "occupation," citing the original meaning of "vocation" as a call from God to serve one's fellow men. There he declared that one who loses sight of the opportunity for service in his job is simply following an "occupation" instead of a "vocation."

The speaker, introduced by Thad Eure, chairman of the Elon College board of trustees as a native of North Carolina, began his discourse by paying tribute to all church-related colleges and to Elon in particular for the excellence of its work, at the same time citing the fact that Elon, like his own Lancaster Theological Seminary, is now operating within the framework of the new United Church of Christ, formed by the union last summer of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Sermon By Hoskins

Members of the Elon College graduating class of 1958 were urged to use the talents which God has given them by Dr. Fred Hoskins of New York City, secretary of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches, as he delivered the baccalaureate sermon for Elon's 68th annual commencement.

Combining the parable of the talents with the story of how Jesus fed the multitude with the loaves and fishes, Dr. Hoskins declared that neither God nor the world expects the impossible of anyone, but that both expect everyone to make available for service the talents which he has.

Just as Jesus inquired of the disciples what they had with which to feed the multitude and then used that which they had to best advantage, so Dr. Hoskins declared that God wants to know what each of the graduating seniors has now to offer for service and not what that senior hopes or plans to develop for future service.

D. R. Fonville Paid Tribute

At concluding exercises of Elon College's 68th term, tribute was twice paid to the late D. R. Fonville, Sr., prominent Burlington business, civic and religious leader, who served Elon College as a trustee for more than 40 years prior to his death late in April of this year.

At the Elon graduation program in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on Monday morning, May 26th, Thad Eure, chairman of the college's board of trustees, paid tribute to Mr. Fonville and also announced a bequest left by the veteran Elon trustee to the college. The bequest of $5,000 will be used for the strengthening of the Elon College library.

Then, at the annual business meeting of the board of trustees on Monday afternoon trustees passed a resolution of respect and appreciation for Mr. Fonville's services as a member of the board. He was originally elected to the group in 1915 and served as a member for 43 years, the last eight years as its secretary.

The resolution summarized in detail

IMPORTANT ACTION BY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Historic old North Dorm on the Elon College campus is to be removed, probably during the coming summer months, following action of the Elon College Board of Trustees at their annual spring meeting held at the close of Elon's 68th commencement.

The four-story structure, erected in 1912 as a combination men's dormitory and gymnasium, was considered most modern of its type at that time, but it recently has been termed unsafe for further use by architectural inspectors, and its removal was ordered.

Other action by the Elon trustees at the spring meeting included creation of a new faculty position of Dean of Students, adoption of a new faculty tenure rule, approval of the entry of the Elon baseball team in the national NAIA tournament in Texas, adoption of resolutions of respect and appreciation for one deceased trustee and for three others who are retiring, the election of a number of new trustees and hearing of committee and faculty reports.

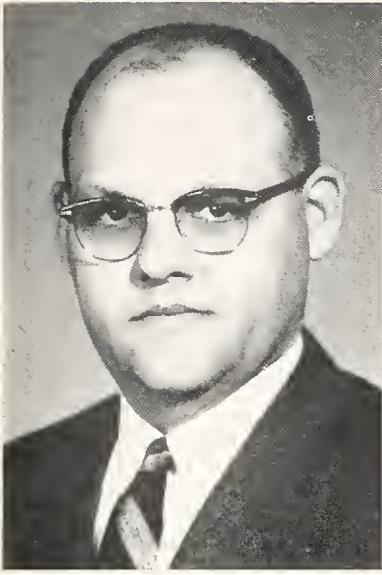

The new position of Dean of Students was created by combining the former posts of Dean of Men and Freshman Advisor, and the trustees approved the appointment of Dr. Robert Benson, of Burlington, to the new post. He has held the post of Freshman Advisor during the past year.

Prof. J. C. Colley, who was Dean of Men this year, requested that he be relieved from that position and allowed to return to full teaching and administrative duties as chairman of the college's Department of Education.

The new faculty tenure rule, recommended by the Administrative Committee of the faculty and approved by the trustees, follows: "Tenure: (a) Rank of full professor tenure is automatic upon election after three years at Elon in the rank of full professor. (b) Rank of Associate and Assistant Professor, tenure granted after seven years of college teaching, three of which must be at Elon College. Tenure is granted upon re-election to the faculty for a fourth year. (c) Rank of Instructor, tenure is not granted. Notice of re-election should be given not later than March 15 and acceptance expected not later than April 15."

Resolutions of respect and appreciation were adopted for the late DeRoy R. Fonville, Sr., who died April 21 of this year, after more than 40 years on the board, and also for three trustee board members who are retiring, all of them after more than 20 years of ser-

Dr. Danieley was presented a scroll emblematic of the honor by Judge William H. Maness of Jacksonville, Fla., a graduate in the class of 1938.

Judge Maness kept the alumni group in suspense until the very last moment in his presentation. He listed five or six characteristics or qualities that a person receiving this recognition should possess. As he listed each characteristic he would state that the person he was to name "does possess" this quality. In closing his presentation of this award to Dr. Danieley, Judge Maness paid personal tribute to the Elon College president and pledged his support and called upon the Alumni to pledge their support to Dr. Danieley as he endeavors to administer the affairs of Elon College. Dr. Danieley was recently named "Young Man of the Year" by the Burlington Junior Chamber of Commerce and later given this honor for the state of North Carolina by the Jaycees.

D. R. Fonville, Sr.

ELON COLLEGE ANNUAL DEDICATED TO FONVILLE

The 1958 edition of Phi Psi Cli, Elon College annual, which was recently distributed to Elon students as a permanent record of campus life during the 1957-58 college year, is dedicated to the late D. R. Fonville, Sr., of Burlington, who served more than 40 years as a member of the Elon College board of trustees.

The long service of Mr. Fonville to Elon College, which was terminated by his death some weeks ago, is sketched in the dedicatory sketch at the front of the book, a sketch which points out that he was a graduate of Elon College in the Class of 1904 and that he later graduated in law at the University of Virginia with Phi Beta Kappa honors.

The dedication also cites Mr. Fonville's long and successful career in finance and real estate in Burlington, with special attention to his services as a school teacher in both North Carolina and Georgia, his military service during World War I and his active support of the Congregational Christian Church and Christian higher education. The dedicatory sketch was written prior to his death.

This 1958 Elon annual is beautifully printed, with many pictures in living color. Arranged in the theme of "You were there . . . through the years . . . living . . . laughing . . . learning . . . and loving . . . every happy moment," it was co-edited by Patricia Coghill, of Henderson, and Nancy Lemmons, of Burlington. In its myriad pictures, it tells of the faculty, the students and the campus organizations and activities.

Other members of the staff, in addition to the co-editors, were Prof. John F. West, faculty sponsor; Stuart Fyke,

Dr. Leon Edgar Smith Is Honored Twice

A feature of final commencement exercises at Elon College was the unveiling and presentation to the college of a large portrait of Dr. Leon E. Smith, who retired last year after more than 25 years as Elon's president. The portrait pictured above was painted under authorization of the board of trustees and will be hung in Whitely Auditorium. It was presented to the college by J. L. Crumpton of Durham, a member of the trustee group. Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Smith, Jr. and granddaughter of Dr. Smith unveiled the portrait.

The unveiling of the portrait was the second tribute paid to Dr. Smith during the 1958 commencement, for the Alumni Day program on Saturday featured unveiling of a bronze plaque in the new Smith Hall, the boys' dormitory which was named for the former Elon president. President Danieley was in charge of the unveiling of the plaque in Smith Hall. Ronnie Bergman, new president of the Student Government, unveiled the plaque and expressed appreciation of the students to the administration for erecting such a splendid dormitory on the campus. He paid tribute to Dr. Smith for his contributions to Elon College.

Dr. Smith responded to the dedication and expressed the hope that this building would mean much in the lives of students who might occupy it through the years.

Rev. John Graves of the college faculty gave the dedication prayer. The following wording is on the bronze plaque:

Leon Edgar Smith Hall In Recognition Of

Many Elon students have gone out from the campus to teach in the elementary grades of the North Carolina public schools, but they have always done so with a major in some specified field of study and with a high school certificate. The new plan will now enable those wishing to do so to qualify for a North Carolina elementary teacher's certificate.

ALUMNI BANQUET IS HIGHLIGHT OF DAY

Rev. J. Clyde Auman, graduate in the Class of 1918, whose class was in reunion this year, delivered the Alumni Oration at the General Alumni Association Banquet, held on Saturday evening, May 24. Close to 275 alumni and friends heard Mr. Auman, associate minister of the Centenary Methodist Church in Winston Salem, recall many events of the "good old days at Elon" for the benefit of the older alumni and especially his reunion class of '18. However, the younger alumni were impressed with his keen sense of humor as he related some of his experiences and "pranks" and those of some of his schoolmates.

All of his hearers were moved by his deep sincerity as he paid tribute to the church-related colleges and what they can mean in the lives of individuals and the state and nation.

He expressed his deep appreciation for what Elon College has meant to him. He pointed with pride to the achievements and contributions that his own class has made to society.

The speaker closed by paying tribute to the contribution made by Dr. Smith to the cause of Christian higher education and urged every alumni to give Dr. Danieley full and loyal support as he guides the courses of Elon College.

The Elon College male quartet entertained with mirth-provoking numbers. The quartet composed of Eddie Robbins, Stewart Cass, Bill Turner, Ray Thomas, and Vernon Joyner, accompanist has entertained at many alumni gatherings during the past four years both on the campus and at chapter meetings in local communities. All except Ray Thomas were graduated this year.

He completed eleven and one-half years of active service and five years of reserve duty.

He received wide recognition following his release from a Communist prisoner of war camp in September of 1953 and made speaking engagements throughout the state in telling of his experiences as a prisoner of war.

He was held by the Communists for 29 months after the B-29 on which he was serving was shot down while on a bombing mission over North Korea in the summer of 1951.

Mrs. Cheatham is the daughter of the late Dr. W. W. Staley, second president of Elon College. She is pictured with Mrs. Martha Winston Holden, member of the Golden Anniversary Class of 1908, as they completed their "reunion breakfast" in the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall. Mrs. Cheatham lives at 2500 Q Street, N. W. Carlyn Apts., Washington 7, D. C. Mrs. Holden now lives in Louisburg.

Mrs. Burch Keck (nee: Nannie Graham) adds the feminine touch to the reunion breakfast as six members of the class of 1928 meet to renew friendships and talk over "the days when I was here." Left to right: Rev. Guy H. Veasey; Harold Barney; Dr. E. W. McCauley; Paul G. Hook; Robert Walker; Mrs. Nannie Graham Keck.

Elon College Alumni enjoyed one of the best commencement weekends in the history of the college.

Several hundred returning alumni enjoyed all or a part of the program, beginning with the dance and reception for the graduating class on Friday evening and ending with the graduation exercises on Monday. In between were the breakfasts for reunion classes, the picnic luncheon for returning alumni, faculty and staff, graduating class and their parents, students.

In the afternoon the largest group in many years attended a brief General Alumni Association Annual business session, ending with the dedication of Smith Hall, new dormitory for boys.

At the business session new officers were elected for the term 1958-60. George D. Colclough, graduate '26, who lives at Elon College and is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Burlington, was elected president. Dr. David W. Shepherd, graduate '29, minister of the Congregational Christian Church in Virgilina, Va., was chosen first vice president. Miss Gladys Yates, graduate '27, teacher in Suffolk High School, Suffolk, Va., was elected second vice president.

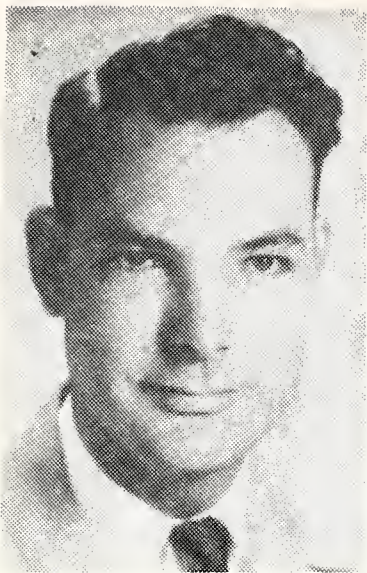

A special "Alumni Issue" of the magazine will give more information about officers, directors, plans for the association, etc.

A festive mood prevailed throughout the weekend, especially on Alumni Day as old grads or former students gathered by reunion groups or just to renew friendships with others. This mood was carried over into the evening as Alumni gathered for the annual banquet which was a delightful affair as Clyde Auman had the "old-timers" in a reminiscent mood.

Reactivate Local Chapters

In many communities where Elon College alumni chapters have been formed, several years have passed since a meeting of the chapter has been held. Therefore, those who were the officers for at least two years may feel that they have "served their time". However, those in charge of alumni affairs at the college hope that if any of these officers are approached and requested to help reactivate the chapter in their community that they will give their full cooperation.

It is also hoped that these officers will be prepared to list others who may be interested in helping to get the chapter active again.

Prof. M. E. Wooton

"EPPIE NIGHT" HELD BY DRAMATICS GROUP

It was "Eppie Night" for the Elon Players Thursday, May 1st, when the student dramatic group honored its outstanding actors and actresses, its best production and its "Most Helpful" backstage worker of the 1957-58 college year.

Appreciation was also expressed for the splendid direction given the Department of Dramatics by Professor M. E. Wooton during the past three years.

At that time the student dramatic organization presented "Eppies" for the best leading role actor and actress of the year to Chuck Oakley, of Roxboro, for his role as Chris Keller, and to Billie Faye Barrett, of Windsor, Va., for her part as Kate Keller, in Arthur Miller's great post-war problem play, "All My Sons."

Honored for the best major supporting roles were Reynolds Van Cleve, of Erie, Pa., for his enactment of Lt. Governor Danforth, and to Ikey Tarleton of Durham for her part as Abigail Williams, in the arena presentation of Miller's "The Crucible", which was chosen by the judges as the best major production of the year.

Also honored for best minor supporting roles were Wayne Rudisill of Catawba for his fine performance of Rainbow in "The Happiest Days of Your Life," and Tommie Boland, of Elon College, for her role as the negress, Tituba, in "The Crucible." Wayne Rudisill was also the recipient of an award as "The Most Helpful Elon Player of the Year" given for his very excellent back-stage and promotional work. He also became a triple-honor man when he was honored as director of the Best Student Directed Production, "Opening Night," a variety show full of well-displayed talent.

The "Eppie" awards were presented at the annual Elon Player banquet, held in the beautiful banquet room of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, strikingly decorated in a pattern of black and white on a theme that featured comedy and tragedy masks and the candle-lit tables arranged in horseshoe fashion so that everyone might face the speaker's stand and stage when the awards were made and the program given.

Prof. Clyde McCants, who now and then enacts a role for the Players, opened the banquet gathering with a welcome to all for the event, which was presided over by Bill Watson, of Sanford one of last year's stars who returned to the campus for the occasion.

Special features of the program, tied in with the "Eppie" awards, were enactments of amusing or dramatic scenes from the Elon Players' three major productions of the year, "The Happiest Days of Your Life," "All My Sons" and "The Crucible". Among those having parts in reproducing the scenes were Eddie Robbins, Wynn Watson, Chuck Oakley, Sam White, Mary Ann Hartwell, Gordon Yancey, Ikey Tarleton, Linwood Hurd, Billie Faye Barrett and Prof. McCants.

Also featured on the program was a variation on the song, "There's No Business Like Show Business," presented by Martha Davis, Sylvia Sims, Wynn Watson and Ikey Tarleton; a modern dance routine, by Wynn Watson; and other special numbers that proved highly entertaining.

Prof. M. E. Wooton announced a new annual award of $50.00 to be presented at commencement, made possible by a gift from an anonymous friend of the Players, to go to the most outstanding member of the college dramatics department.

Also announced were the officers of the Elon Players for the coming year, including Wayne Rudisill, of Catawba, president, Tommie Bland of Elon College, vice president; Sylvia Sims, of Winston-Salem, secretary-treasurer; and Ikey Tarleton, of Durham, program chairman.

Special guests for the annual banquet included Prof. and Mrs. M. E. Wooton, Dr. J. E. Danieleley, Dr. James Howell, Dr. James Hess, Prof. Clyde McCants and Prof. John West. Also attending were Bill Watson, Bill Davis and Margaret Sharpe, alumni stars of student dramatic productions.

Dr. H. H. Cunningham

DR. H. H. CUNNINGHAM IS AUTHOR OF BOOK

Latest published work by an Elon College author and one which is receiving high praise from reviewers in widely scattered sections of America is "Doctors in Gray," the story of the Confederate States medical service, written by Dr. H. H. Cunningham, who is chairman of Elon's history department and dean of the college.

Historians, professional book reviewers, educators and officers of organizations such as the United Daughters of the Confederacy have been unanimous in their praise of Dr. Cunningham's work, which tells for the first time the true story of the medical men who overcame great difficulties and great shortages in treating more than three million cases of wounds and diseases among the soldiers of the Confederate States.

Historian T. Harry Williams, an outstanding authority on the Civil War period, says, "Dr. Cunningham has told the important and gripping story of Confederate medicine, a record of tragedy and human sacrifice and also of significant scientific progress. The book is a much-needed addition to Civil War literature." He also cites the fact that more than 600,000 American soldiers died in the Civil War, 200,000 more than the American deaths during World War II, in pointing to the importance of such a study as that just completed by the Elon College dean.

The director of the Louisiana State University Press, publishers of the book, calls it "a distinguished contribution to Civil War literature", and he receives hearty agreement from Miss Desiree L.

FULL SCHEDULE PLAYED IN MINOR SPORTS

The minor sports program of the college — track, golf, tennis — enjoyed a very good year in inter-collegiate competition in spite of the fact that teams making up these three sports were largely inexperienced. This was especially true in tennis.

Track: This sport was again under the supervision of Coach Varney. The team won every meet held this year until the North State Conference meet where it was again runner-up to East Carolina for three straight years; Elon, second for three straight. In regular season Elon had victories over Catawba, High Point, Atlantic Christian, and Lynchburg. Four meets were rained out.

Golf: Dr. Robert Benson was in charge of this sport. In spite of the early season loss of one of his best players dropping out of school, the team had a record of 4 victories, 4 losses, 1 tie. Four matches were rained out.

Tennis: Dr. William Blackstone guided the Elon tennis team. In spite of continued defeats the team played a schedule of 15 matches, with 4 rained out. Elon had only two victories, defeating Belmont Abbey and Lenoir Rhyne. However, the team continued to show improvement as the season progressed and gained valuable experience which should enable it to give stiffer competition in the conference next year.

WIN OVER CATAWBA CLINCHES TOP PLACE

With timely hitting and fine one-hit pitching job by Gil Watts, the Elon Christians turned back Catawba 4 to 3 Saturday afternoon, May 17 to keep Elon's Maroon and Gold colors still waving high on the North State Conference championship pole.

It was the second consecutive North State baseball title for the Christian nine, who posted a final Conference record of 14-7 in wins and losses, one of the Elon wins being a forfeit from Appalachian. The Catawba outfit got the second spot with a 12-4 record, which included three forfeits from Appalachian, High Point and East Carolina.

The forfeits in each case came on a ruling by Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, Conference commissioner, and they were ruled on rained-out games which the other teams refused to re-schedule in the late season. The North State rules say that any rained-out baseball game which bears on the championship race must be played.

The Elon victory over Catawba was a seven-inning fray that came as a replay of a 4-all tie battle. Catawba could have tied up the loop race by winning this game, and such a situation would have resulted in a second seven-inning tilt as part of a double bill. No second game was needed after Elon won the opener.

The Christians were away in front on two runs in the first tallied on a walk, a fielder's choice, a triple by Gil Watts and a single by Tony Carcaterra. Catawba came back to grab the lead in the top of the second when the Indians tallied three times without a hit on a pair of walks and three Elon errors.

The Christians knotted the count in the bottom of the second on a pair of walks, a single by Marion Hargrove and a sacrifice fly by George Allen. The winning run hit the plate in the fourth on a walk, a sacrifice by Larry Bulla and a double by Gil Watts.

Watts had the hero role with his one hit mound performance and a double and triple in four tries, but Marion Hargrove and Bobby Sharpe each contributed two singles to the Elon attack. J. T. Davis got Catawba's lone safety.

Watts Leads Team

Gilbert Watts, who won both all-conference and all-state honors in the 1957 baseball season, bids fair to repeat this year as he leads the Christian baseball squad in both hitting and pitching.

Watts has a record of 8 victories and one defeat in pitching, while his batting average is .362.

This outstanding baseball player also plays basketball and made a splendid showing on the varsity squad last season. He is from Laurinburg, N. C.

ELON BASEBALL TEAM NAIA REPRESENTATIVE

The Elon baseball team will leave at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, June 1 on the long westward trek to Alpine, Texas, where the Christians will meet Indiana State at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, June 4 in the first round of the NAIA National Invitational Baseball Tournament.

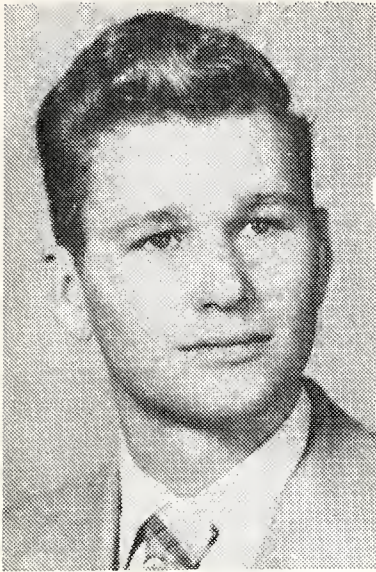

Traveling by air-conditioned bus, the Christians baseballers will go by the southern route to Texas, with an itinerary which includes Charlotte, Atlanta, Birmingham, Starkville, Miss., southern Arkansas, Dallas, Texas, San Angelo, Texas and go to Alpine, which is in the southwestern portion of the Lone Star State.

The NAIA tournament is to be conducted on the campus of the Sul Ross State College, with play to be on the double elimination plan. This assures each participating team of playing at least two games in titular competition.

Coach Jack Sanford, who will be accompanied on the trip by his wife and small daughter, plans to carry fifteen players. Among those expected to make the trip are Gil Watts, Gary Henson, Jack Henderson and Arthur Thompson, pitchers; Bobby Sharpe, catcher and first base; Eddie Clark, first base; Don Lichok, Joe Teague and Pete Jones, second

COLCLOUGH CHOSEN TO HEAD ALUMNI

George Colclough

I appreciate the honor that goes with the job as President of the Elon College Alumni Association. While connected with Elon College, I served as Alumni Secretary for many years and learned to know and respect our alumni.

There are many things that we hope to get done during the next two years. W. B. Terrell, who is serving as Alumni Secretary, is well qualified to do a fine job for us and will of necessity need our full support. Bill will appreciate having you send him any information about yourself and your family or other alumni and former students of Elon College you may know. Don't take for granted that someone else is going to send the news in. Send it yourself.

We have appointed an Executive Committee of twenty-five that will meet as often as needed and set the policies for our association. At our first meeting we decided, among other things, that we would publish the Alumni News monthly. The magazine type will be published two or three times annually and the monthly publication will probably be four or more pages. We will need news, photographs, and other materials in order to keep the Alumni News interesting to you and other former students of Elon College.

FROM ALUMNI OFFICE

By W. B. Terrell

On June 30 the Executive Committee of the General Alumni Association held its initial meeting of the 1958-60 term at Elon College.

Some of the more important matters discussed by the committee were: more frequent publication of the Alumni News; some form of Annual Giving or Loyalty Fund through which the alumni might give greater financial support to the college; the publishing of a new directory of the alumni; revision of the by-laws of the association; plans for gathering information about the alumni to be used in the Alumni News.

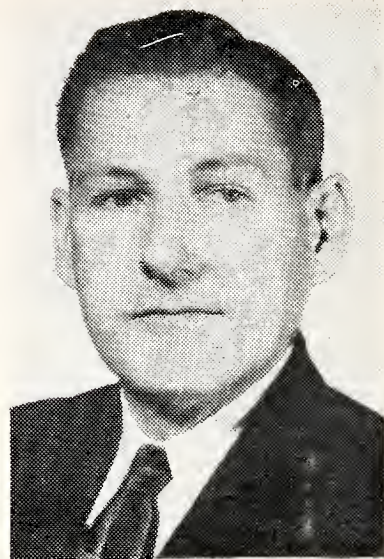

Definite action was taken on only one of the items. The committee voted to publish the Alumni News monthly instead of quarterly as at present. Perhaps at least three of the issues will continue to be of the magazine type; other issues bulletin type of four or more pages.

On the matter of alumni financial support of the Alumni Office and the college it was agreed that an appeal would be made to all alumni to contribute as liberally as possible to the support of the Alumni Office and the college, although at present the association is operating under a dues system of support. It was also brought out in the discussion that the Alumni Office will need the support of all the alumni and friends of the college in furnishing information concerning the activities of graduates or former students if the alumni publications are to be made worthwhile and interesting.

The Alumni Office has in mind publishing three of the magazine type Alumni News during the 1958-59 school term. The first magazine would be issued in September and would be the School Opening Issue; second would be in March and would feature Founders Day; the third issue would come in June and would give coverage of Commencement Activities. During the other months in the year the bulletin would come to the alumni.

We need to emphasize again that we need to have information about our graduates and former students if we are to carry out this schedule. Heretofore alumni have been rather reluctant to let us know of their achievements or

Rev. Donald W. Durham

ELON SUMMER GRADS URGE D^{TO} GIVE BEST

Stressing the fact that small jobs lead to bigger ones and to complete success in life, Rev. Donald W. Durham of Maysville, Ky., urged the 58 graduating seniors at Elon College's summer commencement held on the night of August 22, to give their best and to do well whatever job may come their way as they go out from the campus to their posts in life.

The Methodist minister from Kentucky, a former pastor of both the Burlington and Alamance Circuits of the Methodist church, was the featured speaker for the commencement exercises, which were held before a large audience that almost filled Whitley Auditorium. The speaker was introduced by Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon's president, who presented the diplomas and degrees to the graduates.

In an address, which was well spiced with humor, Rev. Durham pointed out that daily decisions are often more important than is realized and often hold the key to success in life, and he cited the scriptural quotation, "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me," as applicable to jobs as well as to service of one's fellow man.

As closing advice to the graduates, he urged each of them "to go forth and do your best in your job, in your everyday living and in your church," and he promised them "in these small things you will find success."

Others appearing in the commencement program were Rev. Huiti R. Carpenter, pastor of St. Marks Evangelical and Reformed Church, who pronounced the invocation and benediction; Rev. Dermont J. Reid, pastor of Davis Street Methodist Church, who presented Bibles to the graduates; and Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of the college, who presented the candidates for degrees and diplomas. Dr. Robert Benson, dean of students, served as faculty marshal, and special music was by Charles Lynam, soloist, and Mrs. Jeannette Hassell, organist.

experiences that would certainly be of interest to other Elonites. Won't you start now to send to the Alumni Office News about yourself and family or about your Elon friends.

We want to appeal to the alumni to make their contributions to the Alumni Office as generous as possible. We plan to carry an "Honor Roll" of contributors by classes in the Alumni News. We hope that every member of every class may be listed in this honor group. An envelope for the convenience of the contributor is enclosed. When you send your contribution, won't you also give us some information for the Alumni News?

In a recent letter to the alumni we pointed out that many large industrial and business firms are now matching the donations of alumni to their institutions up to a maximum. If you have any idea that the industry or firm with which you are employed has this plan, won't you check on the matter. We hope to give a list of these firms at an early date.

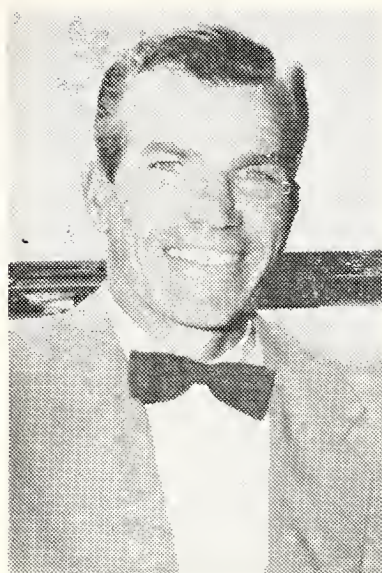

We also wish to call your attention to the fact that your contributions to Elon College can be deducted from your income tax. Many of you will want to send your donations as soon as possible in order to claim this tax credit by the end of the year. Several of the alumni have already sent in contributions for the 1958-59 year. Receipts and membership cards will be sent from the Alumni Office just as soon as possible.

In closing this message to the alumni we would like to urge you to give your new officers of the association your wholehearted support. We know that the officers who have been chosen are deeply concerned with the future of Elon College and the part our alumni association can contribute to make it the college all of us want it to be.

Let us hear from you. Visit the college as often as you can. You are always welcome in your Alumni Office.

ELON FOOTBALL TEAM PLAYS NINE GAMES

Six North State Conference foes and three South Carolina teams will be met by the Elon College football team in a schedule of nine games for the 1958 season. This is one more game than was scheduled last year and shows five games at home and four away. The season gets underway with the Fighting Christians meeting their traditional rivals, the Guilford Quakers, at the Senior High School Stadium in Greensboro on the night of September 20.

All home games for the Elon Christians are played in the Walter Williams High School Stadium in Burlington. Eight of the games will be played at night, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. The only afternoon game is to be played with Catawba College which will be met in Burlington at 2:00 p. m. on Saturday, October 25.

A great deal of interest in the 1958 Christian team is already being generated in surrounding counties and communities. Christian supporters everywhere are pulling for the Elon team to capture the undisputed championship of the conference this year, remembering too well the confusion that followed the close of the 1957 season.

The Elon College Boosters' Club is selling season tickets for the five home games. These tickets are available for $7.50 and entitles the holder to excellent reserve seats. The tickets are also transferable, enabling the owner to permit other members of his family or friends to use the ticket. Reserve seat tickets for individual games will cost $2.50 per game. General admission tickets will be $2.00 per game.

Members of the Boosters Club feel that a season ticket is a real bargain for football followers in this area and are hoping that the Elon team will receive great support at the home games this year. These tickets are available from members of the Boosters Club in Alamance and adjoining counties. COACH VARNEY FACES SEASON WITH HOPE

A rugged job looms ahead for the Elon College football squad which reported to Coach Sid Varney August 31. The Christians were among the 15 undefeated and untied grid squads in America last fall and will have to reach new heights of accomplishment if they come even close to such a record this year.

In commenting on the Elon College grid prospects in early summer, Coach Varney would only say, "Not bright, not dismal, but hopeful." He is hardly that optimistic just now when he measures his own group of nine lettermen against the 14 to 19 letter veterans who will report back to the other six North State Conference teams.

Coach Varney did not have the freshman football prospects to report with the lettermen and reserves. They will come to the campus with the other members of the freshman class on September 7 for the week of orientation which the freshmen undergo before classes begin on September 15.

It would appear that Coach Varney's "hopeful" just about hits the peak prospect for the Fighting Christians of 1958. After all, where is there for a team to go after an undefeated season. No team can do better, and one can only hope that this team will do as well. The tragedy of that undefeated mark last season was that influenza and games canceled by opposing teams without doubt cost Coach Varney's boys the North State title.

The Christians were not deep in talent last fall, despite that undefeated mark, and only 17 men earned monograms as several boys played practically full time. Gone from that slender letter group are Jack Henderson, end; Bob Kopko and Ben Cabbage, tackles; Tony DeMatteo, guard; Lynn Newcomb, center; Richard Bradham, quarterback; and Bob Stauffenberg and Ronnie Kinsley, fullbacks.

The nine returning lettermen for the 1958 season are: Tony Carcaterra, end; J. B. Vaughn, tackle; Bob Hendricks and Jim McClure, guards; Tunner Brosky, center; Charlie Maidon, quarterback; Joe DelGais and Bob McLean, halfbacks; and Harry Faust, fullback.

Three of that group won All-Conference honors in the North State Conference last year, including Tony Carcaterra, all-conference end, who also won All-State rank with the best in the Tar Heel state; and J. B. Vaughn and Charlie Maidon, two others who were tops in the conference.

The big problem for the Elon coaches and players lies in the fact that several of these monogram players were forced to switch positions in winter practice in order to replace departed stars. Tunner Brosky was moved from end to center, and Harry Faust was switched from his halfback position of a year ago to the fullback post.

Colclough Appoints Important Groups

At a session of the Executive Committee of the Elon College Alumni Association held at Elon College on Friday evening, September 26, the Committee authorized President George D. Colclough to appoint a special committee to make a study and report back to the executive committee at its January 31 meeting, 1959, in connection with an annual plan for giving to Elon College. Many colleges have a plan by which contributions from the Alumni are placed into a special fund and then appropriated for various uses of their Alma Mater. The purpose of this special committee is to work out a plan for raising money as well as the expenditure. Any alumnus who has a suggestion to make should write to W. B. Terrell, Secretary of the Alumni Association.

The members of the committee are: J. L. Crumpton, chairman, Durham; Jack Shoffner, Liberty; J. Hinton Rountree, Greensboro; Mrs. John Truitt, Elon College; Mrs. W. E. Wisseman, Greensboro; Dr. W. T. Scott, Elon College; Supt. M. A. McLeod, Sanford; Supt. H. L. Thomas, Carthage; Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon College; Moses Crutchfield, Greensboro; Paul Ridge, Burlington; Roland Longest, Burlington; Clive Shoffner, Burlington.

The Executive Committee also authorized President Colclough to appoint another Committee to make recommendations to the executive committee of the Elon College Alumni Association at its next meeting January 31, 1959, in connection with standards for the selection of the Elon College Alumnus of the year:

W. Cliff Elder, Burlington industrialist will serve as chairman of the committee, and will be assisted by W. G. Stoner, Coble Sporting Goods, Greensboro, N. C.; Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina Teachers College; Dr. Earl Danieley, president of Elon College.; and George D. Colclough, manager, Burlington C of C.

Elon College Has Record Enrollment

With registration for its 69th term completed Elon College has the largest enrollment in its history according to President J. E. Danieley. He reported that the enrollment now is 1,485 students compared with the previous record of 1,469 students enrolled last fall.

The registration for daytime classes totals 958, showing an increase of 33 over the daytime total of 925 a year ago. There are 527 students registered in the evening school, which is a full-scale degree program, bringing the total student body to the new record of 1,485 students.

There is also the largest number of students living on the campus in Elon's history, with 482 occupying the college dormitories. This is the first time when the college has opened with all of its three dormitories in use. Virginia Hall for girls and Carolina Hall for boys were opened two years ago, but Smith Hall for boys and girls was first occupied last January and enters at this time upon its first full year of use.

To take care of the increase from the 412 campus students of a year ago to the 482 of the current term, the college this summer renovated the former College cafeteria into a boys' residence hall. The newly remodeled building now houses 68 men students and a resident faculty counselor and is named South Hall.

ABOUT OUR COVER

Message From Alumni Office

In August the Alumni Office published its first monthly bulletin in keeping with plans made by the Executive Committee in its June meeting. In this bulletin information was given to the alumni about their officers, plans for the association made by the Executive Committee for a long-range, effective program, etc.

In this first issue of the magazine for the present school year we are attempting to "catch up" on some of the news that has occurred since our last issue of the magazine in June. It is true that some of these items are old to those of us who have had the opportunity of reading them in local or state papers. However, to our alumni and friends out of the state these items will still be news. We hope all of us will enjoy reading or re-reading them.

We call to your attention especially the action of the Executive Committee of your association on the Editorial page; the feature story about the wife of our president on page 1, thanks to the Burlington Times News and Miss Norwood; the selection of Prof. Barney as "Father of the Year." Then too, we are catching up on the weddings. Elon College alumni will readily conclude that the Senior Oak has not lost any of its magic spell which somehow still leads Elon couples to the altar.

Now, back to our monthly Bulletin. We shall endeavor to make our bulletin a medium through which we can report brief, current items, saving longer items or feature stories for our magazine. However, to keep these publications coming to you each month we shall need plenty of news. You can help us to do this if you will send us information about yourself and family. All of us are interested in knowing about the other "Elon folks." Please, won't you give us your full support in this effort?

ELON COLLEGE'S FIRST LADY AT HOME . . . with sons Mark and Ned

(The following story concerning Mrs. James Earl Danieley appeared in the Burlington TIMES-NEWS of March 21, 1958.)

BY ESSIE NORWOOD
Women's Editor

When Verona Daniels was a student at Elon College in the late '40's, little did she imagine that in a few short years she would be returning to the campus as the wife of the college's president.

Today Verona Daniels is Mrs. James Earl Danieley—a gracious matron and wife of Dr. Earl Danieley, who has been referred to as the "Boy President of Elon" in the staid president's home whose 12 large rooms fairly resound sometimes with the activities of their two young sons, Ned 4, and Mark 2.

Dr. Danieley has a wife who can appreciate his duties and problems as college president. For several years before her marriage, she was secretary to Dr. L. E. Smith, Elon's president, who retired last year.

Elon College has maintained a marked and almost continuous effect on the Danieleys for a number of years.

Verona, an eastern North Carolinian from Beaufort, first entered the college as a student in the business department; and after finishing the one-year course, accepted the position as Dr. Smith's secretary.

After some time in the secretarial position she became interested in obtaining a degree, and began her work toward that goal in 1946.

While pursuing her education she began dating a certain young science professor, Earl Danieley.

For obvious reasons, Verona registered for a chemistry course under another professor, but the fates were against her (or maybe for her, who knows?), and she found herself a student in her future husband's class, due to a problem in student assignment.

However, being in the classroom together did not deter the romance, and the student and the teacher were married in September, 1948, while Verona had still another year in school.

Upon receiving her degree in Spanish, Mrs. Danieley taught for one year in Elon College High School. But she seems destined to use this degree only that one year.

When her husband went to Chapel Hill to seek his Ph.D. degree at the University of North Carolina, Mrs. Danieley again turned to her business training and worked as secretary in the Athletic Office on the campus. Dr. Danieley returned to Elon the following year as acting dean, and his wife returned to office work, this time working part-time in the office of the Southern Convention of the Congregational Christian Church.

She kept busy with housekeeping and office work at Elon and during the summers at Chapel Hill until October, 1953 when Ned was born and she became a full-time mother and wife.

Ned, incidentally, is named for his godfather, Dr. Ned Brannock, who for many years, was head of the science department at Elon, and a close friend of his father.

Mark was born in July, 1955, and the following summer saw the Danieleys on the move a great deal. First they moved to Chapel Hill for summer school after which they came back to Elon, and within two weeks moved to Baltimore, Md., where Dr. Danieley did post doctoral work at John Hopkins University.

Last fall brought Dr. Danieley back to Elon College as the college's sixth president. Mrs. Danieley came back to the problem of decorating and furnishing the large official residence of the president, as well as the many social and civic functions in which the college president's wife must participate.

Her husband's inauguration last week climaxed a busy year for the new president and his wife—a year made full, not only by his office, but also by the problems that confront all young parents.

Ned had pneumonia last September and complications that developed have kept him in most of the winter.

On the Thursday before the inauguration Mark developed pneumonia, and the honored guests at the inaugural ball on Friday evening were the same young couple who had been up all of the night before with their sick child.

But Mark made a quick recovery and both he and Ned were present at the inauguration. They sat upstairs during the ceremony in the care of Mr. and Mrs. Worden Upkyke, a student couple whom the Danieleys have learned to depend on as baby sitters during the past year.

In fact, the boys behaved so nicely during the inauguration that their parents were encouraged to take them to church service the following Sunday.

Church for the Danieleys is the Elon College Community Church, where they have been active during all of the years that they have lived in the community. Before going to Baltimore, Mrs. Danieley served as secretary to the church and taught a class in the Sunday School.

She was also a member of the Elon College Study Forum, and when she left for Baltimore, the members presented her with a copper bowl that she values highly and displays in a prominent place in her home. She has also been invited to join a garden club and plans to become active as soon as the winter weather releases its hold on her family and the community.

However, she says that her husband is the gardener in the family—he has a true green thumb and she is satisfied to be his assistant.

Mrs. Danieley feels that her first year in the official residence of the president has been made lighter by the competent household help that she has had. She has been able to retain the services of

Many Ministers Change Churches In Conference

Rev. Melvin Dollar, '39, has resigned as minister of the Rosemont Congregational Christian Church, South Norfolk, Va., to accept a position with the Southern Convention as Associate Superintendent. Mr. Dollar's residence will be in the area of the Eastern Virginia Conference, possibly in Portsmouth. His responsibilities will be largely with churches in the Eastern Virginia Conference.

Although not an Elon College graduate but holding an honorary degree from the College in 1953, Dr. Henry Robinson, pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church of Burlington seems very close to the college.

In January 1950 Dr. Henry E. Robinson came to First Christian Church, Burlington from Putnam, Connecticut, and July 27, 1958, he resigned to return to his beloved Connecticut, this time to be pastor of First Congregational Church of Fairfield. During his stay in Burlington Dr. Robinson and his family have endeared themselves to people all over the Southern Convention by the excellent work they have done and the understanding friendliness which they have displayed.

Under his leadership the Burlington Church has added greatly to its physical facilities. He has furnished outstanding community leadership and has held membership in many civic organizations.

Dr. Robinson has held important offices and served on many committees of the Southern Convention. He has appeared often before the student body of Elon College and will be pleasantly remembered by all who knew him.

Rev. Henry E. Crutchfield '26, resigned as pastor of the Congregational Christian Church, Wakefield, Va., to accept the pastorate of the Damascus Congregational Christian Church in Sunbury, N. C. on Sept. 1.

Rev. Carl C. Dollar, '30, who has been serving a church in Bertha, Minn., has accepted the pastorate of the Holland, Va., Congregational Christian Church.

Rev. Kenneth Register '41, has resigned as pastor of the Union Ridge Congregational Christian Church near Burlington to accept a call as minister of the Beverly Hills Congregational Christian Church in Burlington.

Rev. Walstein W. Snyder, '45, pastor of Beverly Hills Congregational Christian Church, Burlington has resigned to accept the position as minister of Rosemont Congregational Christian Church in Rosemont, Va.

the maid who worked for the Smiths for 17 years. She has done most of the cooking and housework, leaving Mrs. Danieleley more time to devote to her family and her official duties.

However, the president's wife is no novice in the kitchen and has a bulging file of tried and true recipes.

In fact, one of her favorite recipes is so good that her husband entered it in a contest on a Durham television station before Christmas and won a prize, an electric blanket, for his efforts.

The prize-winning recipe that has already graced the president's table on several occasions is Pineapple Bavarian cake, and is made as follows:

5 egg yolks, grated rind of one lemon juice; 1 cup sugar; few grains of salt; 1 can crushed pineapple (No. 2 size); 2 tablespoons of gelatin soaked in $\frac{3}{4}$ cup cold water; $\frac{1}{2}$ pint whipping cream; 5 egg whites; 1 loaf angel food cake.

For the frosting: one fresh coconut, $\frac{1}{2}$ pint whipping cream; colored marshmallows.

Beat egg yolks slightly and add grated rind, lemon juice syrup from grated pineapple (drain it well), sugar and salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and coats the spoon. Remove from heat and add soaked gelatin and pineapple. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. While mix is cooling, prepare angel food cake by removing outside brown part and cutting into one-inch cubes. Fold into gelatin the stiffly beaten egg whites and cream. Pour a layer of the gelatin mixture into a mold and add layer of cake cubes, leaving space between the cubes. Add another layer of gelatin, then cake, finishing with gelatin mixture. Chill thoroughly. Remove from mold onto chilled serving dish and spread with whipped cream. Pat on grated coconut and garnish with flowers cut from colored marshmallows. Keep chilled until ready to serve. This dessert can be made the day before it is to be served and serves 15 to 16 people.

Book To Be Judged

An Elon College author will be eligible for having his book judged for four literary awards to be announced at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Literary and Historical association on December 5.

Dr. Christopher Crittenden of Raleigh, secretary of the association, reports that Dr. H. H. Cunningham's "Doctors In Gray" will be among the 23 books to be judged for the non-fiction Mayflower award. Dr. Cunningham is dean of Elon College.

The addresses revolved about the theme of the "Place and General Meaning of Community in Higher Education."

The conference was under the sponsorship of the Boards of Higher Education of both the Presbyterian and Methodist churches and was under the leadership of Dr. Richard N. Prof. Barney and Mrs. Barney, the former Elva Grace Snyder, make their home on Haggard Avenue in Elon College.

In the letter of nomination, it was stated that Prof. Barney has served Elon College and the surrounding community in an unselfish and faithful way. The letter stated, "As a college teacher, he has done credit to that high calling and has immeasurably influenced the lives of the young people to whom he has been counselor and friend, as well as professor."

"Proof of this contribution," it continued, "and the love which his former pupils bear for him is the countless number which visit him each year at commencement. A return to the college is not complete unless it includes a visit with Prof. Barney."

He has been active in church and civil government affairs, "giving unselfishly of his energy and time to all those things which are necessary to the welfare of the community."

The letter also stated that "Prof. Barney has taken an active interest in and has influenced the lives of all those who have had the privilege of associating with him, whether as relative, Sunday School teacher, college professor, or as a friend."

Prof. Barney received his bachelor's degree from Elon College in 1916, while supporting his family.

All six of the Barney children were graduated from Elon College. Two of them, Harold and Elizabeth, were like their father, valedictorians of their graduating classes.

Harold furthered his education with a master's degree from North Carolina State College. He is married to the former Sara Johnston of Elon College, and they have three sons. Harold is employed as a research engineer with Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Dr. Babcock Author Of Sportsman's Book

Dr. Havilah Babcock, a graduate of Elon College in 1918 and a former member of the College English faculty, has just recently had a new book published. Dr. Babcock, who has been head of the English Department of the University of South Carolina for many years, has gained considerable fame as a writer of fishing and hunting stories and is considered as an authority in this field.

His most recent book is I Don't Want to Shoot An Elephant.

The Henry Holt Company of New York, publishers, makes the following comments about the new book and the author:

"Bristling with impish wit, irrepressible originality and the magic of all outdoors," these delightful stories will capture the imagination of many a reader who has never shouldered a gun nor cast a fly.

"The eighteen articles and stories in this collection—many of which have already appeared in Field & Stream and other sportsmen's magazines—tell of hunting dogs and game birds, fresh-water fishing, and rollicking adventures with the gallant bobwhite quail. Each pops off with explosive humor and hits its mark with disarming impact.

I Don't Want to Shoot An Elephant is a whopping covey, indeed. In it, the celebrated hunter and fisherman, Havilah Babcock, displays his versatility and talent with gun, rod and pen.

A matchless tale of a matchless retriever is "Tramp Was a Specialist". A real prima donna of a bird dog, Tramp could amble along impassively aloof or retrieve a bird from the hoofs of a bull with alarming assurance and aplomb. Other choice rambles for dog lovers include "Miss Priss," "Great Day in the Morning," "Feudin' and Fussin'" and "Blow the Dog Down."

"Shirttail" takes you along on a rather off-beat buck hunt sponsored by the Wamping Hunting and Stud Poker Club, Incorporated. Forfeit, for any guest missing a first shot, calls for "surrender of shirttail"—but when the trophy is demanded of an elegant society belle, she shocks her hosts with a delectable unmentionable! I Don't Want to Shoot An Elephant will regale Havilah Babcock's old fans and win over many new ones who take their pleasure straight, simple, and as they find it!

"Havilah Babcock is well known to a world-wide audience for his celebrated hunting and fishing stories and for his popular books, My Health is Better in November and Tales of Quails 'n Such.

"Despite his distinction as an English professor and as head of the English Department at the University of South Carolina, the author prides himself on his skills as a sportsman. Among the many compliments paid him, he is proudest of the fact that a leading outdoor magazine has dubbed him "the nation's number-one expert on quail shooting."

Our Town by Thornton Wilder

This drama, winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 1938, has become an American classic. The locale of the play is a New Hampshire village, but the people whose story it tells are typical of those found in almost any American town. Their courage, humility, wisdom, frailties, and individualism are depicted with extraordinary sympathy in scenes which are often amusing, sometimes sober, always compelling. Alexander Woolcott, the drama critic, wrote of it, "In all my days as a theatre-goer, no play has ever moved me so deeply." Mooney Chapel Theatre May 1, 8, 9, 15, 16, 22, 23, 30.

William Walker Stars In "The Confederacy"

From "The Confederacy", company of more than 100 people, William Walker of Durham, N. C., was selected to play two outstanding parts in Paul Green's latest and greatest outdoor symphonic drama, now in its premiere season at Virginia Beach.

He was originally cast as the famous military man, General James Longstreet. Soon Bill's vibrant voice, so well adapted to the outdoor theatre, and his towering physique won him the additional role of Abraham Lincoln. As both heroes of American history, he turns in fine performances, but it is for his portrayal of President Lincoln that Walker will long be remembered by "Confederacy" audiences. From a loft high above the stage, the gaunt, familiar figure in the stove-pipe hat is silhouetted and the voice of Abraham Lincoln calls out to Robert E. Lee in one of the most dramatically effective scenes of the production.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Niessner, William received his early education in his hometown of Durham. From there, after a tour of duty with the United States Air Force, he entered Elon College, where he is now a drama major in the Senior class. During his college years, the talented young actor has been associated with almost every facet of Little Theatre production. In addition to more than 50 stage appearances, he has accumulated a wealth of invaluable experience as director and stage manager, as well as lighting, set and costume designer.

Hand-in-hand with his collegiate theatrical activities has gone a pronounced leaning toward athletics, which resulted in coaching and playing industrial and commercial league basketball. For the past three years, he also served as sports editor for the college student newspaper. Although Bill definitely plans a career in the theatre, he still hopes to find time for both the athlete and the actor.

Elon Students Govern Burlington For Day

Elon college students took over the government of the City of Burlington on Friday September 19 in an observance of Elon College Student Government Day, in which students filled city offices.

The event was headed by the Recreation Department in cooperation with the Elon College Day sponsored by the Burlington Merchants Association. This was the first observance of this type held, and it was judged highly successful.

At 8:30 a.m. Mayor Calloway Pollard opened the special day by presenting the key to the city to Ronnie Bergman, student mayor for the day. Bergman had as members of his City Council Linwood Hurd, Kay Hughes, Dick Lashley and Faye Gordon. James Biggerstaff acted as city manager.

Students were assigned to their respective city officials for the day, and they went with those officials on the job. From 10 a.m. until 11 a.m. they toured city facilities, and from 11 a.m. until noon they had a staff meeting with City Manager J. D. Macintosh, Jr.

At noon they had lunch at Alamance Hotel with city officials and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. they continued their tour of the city and its facilities.

Others serving in official capacities during the day included Linda Simpson, finance director; Steve Mauldin, tax collector; Ed Wilson, fire chief; Tommie Sparks, police chief; Wayland Medley, utilities director; Vic Hoffman, street superintendent; Gordon Yancey, garage superintendent; Charles Howell, cemetery superintendent; Gary Henson, sanitation superintendent; Lafayette Wilkins, light superintendent; John McLaughlin, recreation director; Guy Lambert, Personnel officer; Jean Loy, librarian; Millie Fletcher, news editor; George Howey plumbing inspector; Ray Thomas, building and electrical inspector; Mary Lou Booth, supervisor of consumer services; Rex Thomas, police patrol captain; Joyce Myers, fire alarm superintendent; and Ikey Tarleton, fire prevention supervisor.

This program was similar to the one held each year for students at Williams High School. Purpose of such programs is to give students an inside view of operations of city government by actually going on the job with city officers during a routine day.

The Elon College student program may become an annual event in conjunction with the Merchants Association's Elon College Day, in which students and faculty are honored by local merchants.

Mrs. F. C. Lester Writes About Class Reunion

Forty years seems a long time to many of you. And yet to the members of the Class of 1918 of Elon College it seems that forty years has gone swiftly—and to an "outsider" who shared in their reunion activities on the campus Saturday, May 24, it seemed that the years had dealt kindly with them.

It interested me that the class secretary, Lucille Johnston Cullers, had "by hook or crook" managed to hear from every living member of the class. At breakfast time in the McEwen Dining Hall she said she had heard from all but two—about that time one of them (the president of the class as freshmen) appeared, and a telegram arrived from the other. Seven have died, thirteen were present for the day's activities, and eleven sent messages. Other members of the class, who did not graduate, and an assortment of husbands and wives and two daughters swelled the breakfast number to twenty-two, while several others came for lunch and the banquet.

Clyde Auman of the Class of '18 gave the address at the alumni banquet, being introduced by his college roommate, F. C. Lester.

Mary Ann Harrell, daughter of "Doc" (Alberta) Boone Harrell, wore the latest chemis style, which made her look for all the world like mother in her long middy blouse circa 1916.

Some members of the Class of '18 seemed relieved that the school records were destroyed in the fire in 1923—one admitted that he had been allowed to fill out his own transcript of grades when applying for a job later, and another was glad that all the "black marks" on her conduct record had disappeared forever!

Elon College will continue to live and do well when such loyalty as that exhibited by the Class of 1918 is a part of its alumni record—and here is one "in-law" who is looking forward to that 50th reunion when Lucille Cullers is aiming for 100 per cent attendance!

of Elon College announce the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Anne, (Beth) on September 29. Mrs. Johnston is the former Mary Anne Thomas, '58, graduate. Leslie is a graduate in '57 and is now manager of the College Student Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Corbett of 1014 Jefferson Street, Roanoke Rapids, N. C., announce the birth of a daughter, Denise Gail, on September 28, in Roanoke Rapids Hospital. This is the couple's third child. Mrs. Corbett is the former Virginia May of Burlington. She completed a Commercial Course at Elon College in 1943.

He is presently employed as assistant administrator at Alamance County Hospital.

Gilbert Watts

Gil Watts Is Chosen For All NAIA Team

In the May issue of the Alumni News we reported that the Elon College baseball team, which won its second consecutive North State Conference baseball championship, would represent the two Carolinas in the NAIA Invitational Baseball Tournament at Alpine, Texas. Since very little publicity was given the tournament in some areas in which our alumni live, we feel that they may be interested in the outcome of this trip.

Before the team left on the long trek to Texas on June 1, it soon became apparent that Elon would not have the full strength that carried the team to its conference championship. One after another player found it impossible to make the trip, many key players failing to go. Since the college had already committed itself to sending the team, Coach Sanford did the best he could in "rounding up" a group to make the trip.

The absence of Tony Carcaterra, slugging outfielder, Marion Hargrove, catcher, and Jimmy Scoggins, pitcher, really hurt the team. Bobby Sharpe, one of the regular catchers, who was badly injured in one of the regular season games, was hurt in the first game at Texas. Since he did not have Hargrove, Coach Sanford was forced to use a utility man to catch the other games.

Elon was able to get some consolation from the trip. Gilbert Watts, Elon College pitcher and outfielder, who won both All-Conference and All-State honors during the regular 1958 diamond campaign, grabbed off All-American rating when he was named to the All-NAIA team at the close of the tournament at Alpine.

Watts, who was on the mound in Elon's first-round victory over Indiana

State in the national tournament, played in the outfield when he was not pitching, and he was picked to the All-NAIA team in the left-field spot. Watts had 5 hits for 12 in Elon's three tourney games for a .417 batting average, and on trips when he failed to hit safely the Laurinburg boy was blasting solid line drives.

The final reports of the NAIA tournament left Elon's squad in a very favorable light, for San Diego State, the team which blasted Elon 11 to 1 to eliminate the Christians from the championship bracket in the second round, went on to win the tournament, winning both the semi-finals and finals by margins of 17 runs.

After the 10-run margin of victory over Elon, the San Diego team went on the next day to trample St. Cloud College of Minnesota by a 17 to 0 count in the semi-finals and then powered a 23 to 9 triumph over Southwestern Oklahoma State in the final championship game. The national collegiate newspaper spoke of the savage hitting of this San Diego team, which scored 51 runs and allowed only 10 in winning the tournament title.

BILL PALANTONIO IS COACHING FOOTBALL

Bill Palantonio, who was better known as "Bird-Eggs" during his playing days at Elon College in 1938-42, still is in the field of football.

Bill was a visitor to Elon and environs during the week of Aug. 3-9, partly to attend the North Carolina Coaching Clinic and All-Star games held at Greensboro that week.

Presently, Bill is coaching football at Conestoga High School in Berwin, Pa., where he has held the post as head coach for the past six years. Prior to that he was at North Coventry High in Pottstown, Pa.

A number of athletes have found their way to Elon through the efforts of Bill, who remembers his alma mater when he sees a likely-looking prospect. Among those directed to Elon by Bill were Claude Manzi, Lou Rochelli, Lou Savini and Hank DeSimone.

Incidentally, Bill visited with Manzi in Greensboro during his attendance at the clinic. Manzi is serving as football assistant at Greensboro Senior High and has just been named executive secretary of the North Carolina Coaching Clinic.

Palantonio, who was an all-conference guard under Horace Hendrickson, is married to the former Agnes Faggioli. They have two children, one girl and one boy.

Bill, somewhat under his playing weight of approximately 215 pounds, is remembered as one of the most aggressive linemen the Christians ever had.

Elon Downs Guilford But Two Games Lost

Powering for two second half touchdowns, the Elon Christians topped the best efforts of last year's undefeated grid squad in defeating the Guilford Quakers 14 to 7 in the opening game of the 1958 campaign at Greensboro's Senior High Stadium on Saturday night, September 20th, setting the new campaign off to a winning start and gaining an early lead in the North State Conference race.

The Christians had to come from behind a 7 to 0 half time deficit to win, but they roared from behind for two touchdowns and the 14-7 victory, posting a total of 362 yards on total offense against a scant 92 yards for the home-standing Quakers.

Paced by the great running of half-backs Bob McLean and Joe DelGais and fullback Harry Faust, the Christians rolled for 297 yards net rushing while the Elon defense held Guilford to a bare 22 yards on the ground. The Quakers held a slight edge in passing but the overall performance was good enough to rate Elon second in America in rushing defense, fifth in the nation in total defense, eleventh in rushing and thirteenth in total offense.

No less than six backs shared in the assault on the Quaker defenses, with Tony Markosky and Jimmy Humphrey joining the four starters in rolling for record yardage against the Quakers; and Christian forwards J. B. Vaughn, Bob Hendricks, Jim McClure and Tony Carcaterra shared top honors in the Elon forward wall. Ninety yards of penalties, including three 15 yarders in the row, failed to halt the Elon assault.

The Wofford Terriers handed Elon its first defeat of the young season as it struck through the air to score a 22 to 16 victory in Burlington on Saturday night, September 27.

The Elon Gridders dominated the first half of the game, showing power both on offense and defense, and led at half-time by 16 to 14.

J. B. Vaughn, Elon tackle, scooped a blocked Terrier punt and scampered 20 yards for a touchdown. Maidon, quarterback, plunged over for the extra two points. Later Maidon scored a touchdown for the Christian gridders and again went for the extra two points.

On Saturday night, October 4, the Christians made the long trip to Appalachian and when the night's affair had ended Elon had lost its first conference game since 1956 by a score of 32-20.

Delgais on a run, and Carcaterra with two touchdown pass catches, led the Christian team.

HOMECOMING EVENT VERY SUCCESSFUL

The 1958 Homecoming, which was celebrated in truly festive style on the weekend of October 25, was hailed by both students and alumni as one of the most successful in the history of the college.

There were many old grads back on the campus for the festivities, which opened with the Elon Players presentation of "Annie Get Your Gun" on Friday night and which concluded with the highly enjoyable Homecoming Ball in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on Saturday night. At 12:30 p.m. a colorful parade, featuring gaily decorated floats, cars and marching bands, was held through the Main Street in Burlington, terminating at the football stadium.

The women's dormitories, combining the talents of both Virginia Hall and West Dorm, topped all competitors in the float competition in the parade with a creation that featured a number of beautiful Indian maidens. The second and third awards went to the freshman class and the junior class.

Beautiful half-time ceremonies at the football game featured the coronation of Jean Loy, of Elon College, as Elon's 1958 Homecoming Queen. She was escorted by Stuart Toms, of Burlington, during the coronation program. Chief attendants for the royal couple were Louann Lambeth, of Brown Summit, as maid-of-honor, escorted by Don Saine, of Cherryville.

Dr. John R. Kernodle of Burlington, graduate of Elon College in 1935, a leader in local and state cancer activities for several years, told a Mississippi audience in a recent speech that hopes continue to increase that research will find the answer to the disease in a quicker time than generally thought.

Dr. Kernodle is a past president of the North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society and now is a delegate from the state to the national board of directors. He also is a member of the National Crusade Committee.

He spoke before the Mississippi Division of the society, the meeting held in Jackson.

Speaking on "Challenge of Cancer and You," Dr. Kernodle pointed out that research already has produced a cure for one highly specialized field in cancer and that national funds today are being used in what is termed the most effective places to move research on a faster pace in other areas.

ALUMNI COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING

A meeting of the special committee appointed by George D. Colclough, president of the Elon College Alumni Association, to set up standards for the selection of the outstanding alumnus of Elon College by the Alumni Association was held on October 11 with the following present: W. C. Elder, chairman; Dr. J. D. Messick, Dr. J. E. Danieley, George D. Colclough. The other member of the committee, W. G. Stoner was unable to be present. W. B. Terrell, alumni secretary, acted as secretary for the committee.

The Committee took the following action:

A person who is being nominated for the Alumnus Award of the Year at Elon College will have —

1. Education. He must be a graduate of Elon College who in most cases will have shown at least a normal interest in the college.

2. Vocational or Professional Standing. The nominee will have attained a standing of some importance in his chosen vocation or profession. He should be recognized by others in his field as at least distinctly above average.

3. Civic or Community Reputation. In most cases the nominee will be an active citizen in his local community. He will have the confidence and respect of his community and preferably will be an active participant in civic and community affairs.

4. Church or Religious Affiliations. The award will almost invariably go to one who is actively engaged in the work of at least his local church, without regard to denomination.

The committee voted to authorize "The president of the Elon College Alumni Association to appoint a committee of five graduates of Elon College, at least two of whom shall be former recipients of the Alumnus of the Year Award, to receive the nominations and to select the Alumnus of the Year for 1959."

It was agreed that the Secretary of the Alumni Association would publish these suggestions for the alumnus award in the Alumni News and to encourage the alumni to submit nominations for the award, supported by information regarding the accomplishments of the nominee. The committee is anxious to receive nominations as early as possible in order that adequate consideration may be given to each nomination. Mail the nominations to the Alumni Office.

INJURIES HAMPER FOOTBALL TEAM

Since the last issue of the Alumni News the Elon football team has played four games, winning one and losing three.

The injury riddled team has been playing good football but the lack of replacements has handicapped the Maroon and Gold gridders and they have lacked the final push to come through in the close games, many having to play the full sixty minutes.

In order of the schedule Elon lost to East Carolina College at Burlington on October 11 by a score of 14 to 6. Elon outgained the Pirates 243 yards to 212 but were unable to top the score. Joey DelGais plunged over from the one for Elon's only marker.

At Clinton, S.C. on Saturday night, October 18, the Elon Christians received their worst defeat of the season, when the Blue Stockings racked up a 34 to 6 score. However, the Elon team put up a gallant scrap, the winners having 271 total yards from scrimmage as against the losers 243. Three long passes helped the Presbyterian team roll up the large score. Markosky plunged from the two yard line to gain Elon's only score.

Elon's Homecoming was spoiled by the Catawba Indians on Saturday afternoon October 24 as the visitors chalked up a 14 to 8 decision. Elon took the lead 8 to 6 in the second quarter and this score held until the third period when Catawba scored and held on to win the game. McLean took a pass from Maidon to score Elon's touchdown, with Markosky plunging over for the two points.

Breaking a five game losing streak Saturday night, November 1, at Cullowhee, the Elon Christians chalked up a satisfying victory over the Western Carolina Catamounts by a score of 15 to 6. The return of several key players who had been out because of injuries enabled the Elon team to get back into the win column. The ground game of the Christians was very effective. The first score was by Delgais on a three yard run; Faust kicked the extra point. The second touchdown came on a pass from Maidon to Faust. Faust then hit Malloy in the end zone for the extra two points.

Two Games Remain

By the time this bulletin reaches the alumni the Elon team will probably have completed its 1958 schedule. Only two games remain. The Newberry Indians from Newberry, S. C. will be met on Saturday, November 8 at Burlington.

On November 15, also at Burlington, Elon will ring down the curtain for the year as it meets perhaps its strongest conference rival, the Lenoir Rhyne Bears. Elon won last year 20 to 7 to earn an undefeated season.

ALUMNI HONOR ROLL OF CONTRIBUTORS

Listed below by classes are the names of Alumni who have contributed to the support of the Alumni Association which in turn means support for the College. We are grateful for this support and hope that every alumnus will want to be listed on the "Roll of Honor." The College needs the representation of many more of its Alumni so that it can prove to industries and corporations that its own family is doing its share. The reason for this evidence is simple. It indicates to "big" givers that a college's alumni are demonstrating their belief in the value and worth of that college. It shows that you "care enough to give" to the very best—Elon College. LOCAL GROUPS HONOR ELON COLLEGE Appreciation to Elon College for its services to Burlington and Alamance County was expressed in a special certificate presented to Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon's president, in ceremonies at half-time of the Elon-Lenoir Rhyne football game at Burlington Memorial Stadium Saturday night, November 15.

The certificate of appreciation was prepared and presented jointly by Alamance County Commissioners, the Burlington Chamber of Commerce, the Burlington Merchants Association and the Burlington Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The game was played under the sponsorship of Burlington Jaycees, who had conducted a special ticket sale campaign that brought out the largest crowd of the Elon football season.

The presentation was made by W. L. Beamon, chairman of the Alamance County Board of Commissioners, who spoke for all four participating organizations. He stated he himself accepted it as an honor to be asked to present the certificate, and he further declared that he felt that all of the people of Alamance County concurred in the sentiments which the certificate expressed.

The certificate itself, which bore the heading "In Appreciation to Elon College," read as follows:

For the opportunities it has made available to the citizens of this county as an outstanding institution of learning;

For the standards of excellence it has maintained in scholastics and the sportsmanship displayed by the young men who have represented it on the athletic fields;

For its being an indispensable part of the life of the Alamance County community;

With deep affection and gratitude, and with a pledge of encouragement and support in all phases of its activities, this certificate is presented by the subscribing organizations."

In accepting the certificate, Dr. Danieley expressed his gratitude for the college for the certificate and for the sentiments expressed. He pledged the

JACK SANFORD

JACK SANFORD RECEIVES NAIA BASEBALL HONOR

Coming as a belated tribute to Coach Jack Sanford and his Elon baseball team, which compiled a fine record and won its way to the national NAIA diamond tournament last spring, the NAIA officials have just announced that Coach Sanford was "Coach of the Year" in the NAIA's District 26 for the 1958 season.

The announcement was made by Joe Ferebee, baseball coach at Pfeiffer College, who serves as chairman of the baseball committee in the North Carolina and South Carolina District of the NAIA. The announcement was made at the autumn meeting for the district, which was held in Wilson.

The "Coach of the Year" title, even though delayed six months, appears fitting recognition for Coach Sanford, whose Christian baseball squad compiled a season record of 18 wins, 7 losses and one tie while winning the North State Conference and the right to represent District 26 at the national title meet in Texas.

ELON CAPTURES FOUR ALL-STAR POSITIONS

The Elon Christians put four men on the North State Conference All-Star Football team. Chosen from Elon were Tony Carcaterra, end; J. B. Vaughn, tackle; Charlie Maidon, back; and Joe DelGais, back. For Carcaterra, this is the third consecutive time he has won this honor. He was also named honorary co-captain with Bill Browne of Catawba for this mythical club.

In addition to the conference honors, Carcaterra was named on the Greensboro Daily News All State team.

FOOTBALL TEAM CONCLUDES SEASON

The Elon football team split even in the final two games of the season. Playing perhaps its best game of the season, an alert Elon team outclassed the visiting Newberry Indians from South Carolina in a game played in Burlington on November 8. Elon recovered seven enemy fumbles, while losing four to its opponents. The Christians scored in every quarter except the last to run up a 21 to 6 score. The visitors chalked up their six points in the second quarter. DelGais scored two touchdowns and Charlie Maidon one to give the home forces a victory.

In the final game of the season, also played in Burlington, November 15, the Lenoir Rhyne Bears playing its single wing system almost to perfection, completely out-classed the Maroon and Gold gridders to win 36 to 6 and wrap up its fourth consecutive North State football championship. With Charlie Maidon, Elon quarterback, injured and unable to live up to his passing reputation, the Christians were forced to go on the ground. However the ground game was futile against the quick charging and alert Bear line. Elon managed one sustained drive of 50 yards which led to its lone touchdown. DelGais finally plunging over for the marker.

The Lenoir Rhyne game closed out the Elon football season which saw the Christians win only three while losing six. After playing an outstanding game against Guilford in the season opener, giving promise of a successful season, the Christians suffered injuries to some key players in the second game of the season and they never fully recovered as the season went along. Lack of experienced replacements hurt the Elon chances.

DELGAIS, CARCATERRA ARE CHOSEN CAPTAINS

On Tuesday, November 18, the annual football dinner was given by the college administration in honor of the football team, the coaching staff and members of the faculty athletic committee in the banquet room of McEwen Memorial Dining Hall.

Dr. J. E. Danieleley and Coach Sid Varney were speakers at the brief program which featured the dinner gathering. President Danieleley paid tribute to the Christian squad for its fine spirit during an injury-ridden campaign.

During this meeting announcement was made that Joe DelGais and Tony Carcaterra a pair of Senior football stars from Inwood, L. I., N. Y., had been chosen as co-captains of the 1958 football squad. The Christian gridders play with appointive game captains during the season and then select leaders after the season is closed. DelGais also

MOONEY THEATRE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

The Mooney Chapel Theatre, located on the second floor of the Mooney Building on the Elon College campus, was damaged Monday afternoon, December 15, by a fire of unknown origin. The blaze, which was discovered about 1 o'clock, was confined to the theatre area and did little damage to the remainder of the three-story brick structure. The fire apparently started in a back-stage storage room of the theatre, which is headquarters for the Elon Players, student dramatic group, and most of the damage was in that room and in an adjoining dressing room with some damage to the stage itself. The theatre was unoccupied at the time, although a class in dramatics had been held there about an hour earlier. President J. E. Danieley could not estimate the damages, but he expressed the hope that insurance would cover most of the loss.

The Elon Cagers played five games of the current basketball schedule before the Christmas holidays, winning two and losing three. The Christians opened the season at Asheboro on December 6 losing to the strong AAU team by a score of 87 to 61. The powerful semi-pros used their superior height and experience to pull away from the Elon College Cagers in the second half after a lead of only 35 to 33 over the collegians at the end of the first half. Marsh Oakley, a 6-2 freshman forward from Leaksville's Tri-City High turned in a fine exhibition of shooting in his first college game and led the Christian scoring with 20 points. He received able assistance from Eddie Burke, 6-6 sophomore forward, who counted 10 points.

Elon's first victory came at Pfeiffer College on December 8 when Elon came through with a 83-77 score. To ring up this victory Elon posted a red-hot 52 point scoring drive in the final half. Eddie Burke led the Elon Cagers with 25 points. Four other Elon players hit in double figures—Bell, 13; Carcatera, 10; Watts, 13; and Palkovics, 12.

The only home game thus far was played on the local court on December 10 when the Wofford Terriers defeated the Christians 77 to 61. Carcatera was the best rebounder for the Christians while scoring 10 points.

The Elon Christians returned the Wofford game on December 15 and were again defeated by a score of 75 to 70. Eddie Burke was again outstanding for Elon with a score of 23. Palkovics with 14 and Carcatera 10 aided the Elon cause.

EARLY ENROLLMENT IS URGED BY REGISTRAR

By Al Hassell, Registrar

The number of students entering colleges across the nation has been increasing very rapidly in the last few years. Applications for admission submitted at the last minute are just not able to be accepted. Elon College would not like for the sons and daughters of its alumni to be victims of this situation. We want every son and daughter of our alumni who desire to attend Elon College to be able to do so. We would like to urge your cooperation by suggesting to those young people planning to attend Elon College next September, to make application as quickly as possible.

It is evident that we will have to deny admission to more people this year than we did last year. We want the young people of our alumni to have every opportunity to attend the college their fathers and mothers attended. Your cooperation and assistance in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Payne Named Young Man of Year

W. Ralph Payne, who attended Elon College in the class of '51, was named Alamance County's Young Man of the Year at the annual Distinguished Service Award and Bosses Night banquet of the Burlington Junior Chamber of Commerce held on January 26.

Payne, 35-year-old native of Alamance County, received the honor for his contribution to community welfare, his leadership and his personal and business progress.

Payne was presented the honor before a Bosses Night crowd of some 200 at Alamance Hotel. Making the presentation was Dr. J. Earl Danieley, president of Elon College and last year's winner of the local and state Distinguished Service Awards.

Payne was graduated from Burlington High School where he participated in athletics and was president of his senior class. He later attended Davidson College and Elon College.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Burlington, where he has served as a deacon and church treasurer. He is now an elder of the church.

Payne has served on the Community Council, United Fund, and as a member of the Burlington Merchants Association. He has been a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Burlington for the past 10 years, and in 1955-56 he served as president.

DR. KERNODLE CHOSEN BASEBALL PRESIDENT

Dr. John Robert Kernodle of Burlington, Elon graduate in 1935, was recently elected president of the Alamance Indians baseball club which is affiliated with the Cleveland Indians of the American League. Dr. Kernodle served as vice president of the club last year in charge of operations. Under his direction the club had a very successful season, winning the play-off series against Greensboro. Dr. Kernodle expressed appreciation for the wonderful response given by baseball followers in Alamance County to the stock-selling campaign last year. He also expressed optimism for the coming season.

ELON VICTORY UPSETS HIGH POINT CAGERS

The Elon Christian basketball team resumed its schedule after the Christmas holidays on January 10. Prior to the holidays the Elon record was 2 victories against 3 defeats.

Games Jan. 10-24

Jan. 10 Elon 44, East C. C. 70
Jan. 12 Elon 71, Guilford 64
Jan. 14 Elon 83, Pembroke State 70
Jan. 17 Elon 54, Catawba 57
Jan. 19 Elon 62, High Point 59
Jan. 21 Elon 50, App. State C. 72
Jan. 24 Elon 32, Western C. C. 51

In the East Carolina game, Elon held the favored pirates very well for the first half. However, the visitors soon found themselves and overwhelmed the Christians. Eddie Burke, Elon forward, was the Elon standout with 20 points.

Although the Christians built up a 38 to 18 score in the initial period against Guilford, the Elon team had to fight off a determined effort by the Quakers in the final minutes of the game. Capt. Gil Watts led for Elon with 20; Oakley 19; Burke and Carcaterra with 12 each.

With Coach Mathis using his entire squad, the Elon basketball team defeated Pembroke State College in a non-conference tilt at Elon. Leading scorers for the Christians were: Burke 15, Pal-kovics 14, Hall 11, Carcaterra 10.

In a thrilling contest at Catawba, three Elon players scored in double figures: Carcaterra 14, Oakley 12, and Burke 11. Elon led 54-53 with less than a minute to go but could not hold on.

The greatest upset of the North State Conference season occurred in the Elon College Alumni Memorial gymnasium when the Fighting Christians defeated the High Point Panthers for their first loss of the season in conference play. They had a record of seven wins. Unerring accuracy from the free throw line in the final minutes with C. G. Hall scoring 8 out of 9 free throws, six in succession; Eddie Burke's 17 points, two free throws and a tap in coming in the closing moments; Steve Wall with a go-ahead basket, were great factors in the victory. The entire Elon team played inspired basketball, and although down 15 points at the middle of the final period the Christians charged back to accomplish what many thought to be the impossible.

Playing without the services of its high scorer, Eddie Burke, who was out with an ankle injury, the Elon cage squad lost a lop-sided decision to the Appalachian Mountaineers on the latter court. The only bright spot for Elon was the 18 points scored by Carcaterra. Oakley had 13; Watts 11.

The conference leading Western Carolina Catamounts came to Elon with a perfect conference record of seven victories and an overall record of 15 victories and one defeat. After the end of

Alumni News

ELON COLLEGE, NORTH CAROLINA

A Message From President Colclough

—YOUR EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HAS BEEN ACTIVE SINCE JUNE

Your Executive Committee (the names may be found on the Editorial Page) has given considerable time and thought to the Elon College Alumni Association since assuming responsibility in June of 1958. The Executive Committee has met three times and in addition to the business they transacted at these meetings, special committees have been appointed to do certain jobs. A new Constitution and By-Laws has been provided and will be submitted at the Business Session of the Alumni Association during Commencement, May 30, 1959. Definite regulations have been formulated for the giving of the Alumni Award. The Executive Committee saw fit to start the publishing of the Alumni News on a monthly basis, which we think has met with the approval of our Alumni. We are all indebted to this group of faithful Alumni who have given so much of their time this year to the development of our Alma Mater and our Alumni Association.

—THIRTEEN CLASSES WILL OBSERVE THEIR REUNIONS

All of the classes of four and nine will observe their reunions during the 1959 Commencement. These classes are 1894, 1899, 1904, 1909, 1914, 1919, 1924, 1929, 1934, 1939, 1944, 1949, and 1954.

If you are a member of one of the classes mentioned above, and plan to attend the Elon College Commencement, you should advise Alumni Secretary, W. B. Terrell. We hope you will find it possible to be present for your Class Reunion Breakfast, the Luncheon, the Alumni Business Session, and the Alumni Reception and Banquet. All of this will take place on May 30, 1959.

Perhaps you are interested in writing the other members of your class urging that they return for the Commencement of 1959. If so, if you will write your Alumni Secretary, W. B. Terrell, he will be glad to send you the names and addresses of your classmates in order that you may write them a personal note. We shall appreciate your cooperation.

—MAY 30—ELON COLLEGE ALUMNI DAY—

We hope you are planning to attend the 1959 Commencement at Elon College. We are especially anxious that you be present for Alumni Day, May 30. We think we have a very fine day planned for you. The reunion classes will have their breakfast together in the McEwen Banquet Hall (separate tables for the classes).

Luncheon will be provided for all who attend at the McEwen Dining Hall. The Business Session of the Elon College Alumni Association will meet immediately after the Luncheon, and should last not more than one hour and thirty minutes. After the Business Session, the Alumni will have several hours to talk and visit with each other.

At 6:00 p. m., President and Mrs. Danieleley will have a reception for the Alumni who plan to attend the Annual Banquet. Both the reception and the Annual Banquet will be at the McEwen Dining Hall.

Dr. H. S. Hardcastle will deliver the Alumni Address. Hardcastle was an outstanding student at Elon College, is a scholar, and is a good speaker. We believe you will enjoy hearing Hardcastle. At this same meeting the Alumni Award will be made for 1959.

If you are interested in being at Elon College for a night or two, you should advise our Alumni Secretary, Mr. W. B. Terrell, and let him know how many are in your family. We hope to be able to provide accommodations for all our Alumni attending Commencement in 1959.

—OUTSTANDING ALUMNUS AWARD—

A special committee consisting of at least five people will be appointed by the President of the Alumni Association and asked to select an Alumnus of the Year who will be presented with the award during the banquet on Alumni Day, May 30. The secret committee making the selection will receive the nominations through the Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association, Mr. William B. Terrell. Anyone wishing to make a nomination should write and give the particulars in connection with their nominee to Mr. Terrell not later than May 1.

Founders' Day Thoughts

Elon College is a Christian church-related college of higher education. For more than 70 years it has served the nation well in the education of youth, in the development of Christian character and in the training of competent leadership.

Born of the hopes and dreams of men and women who began to plan for a Christian College as early as 1818, Elon has become a center of influence which has more than justified the sacrifices of those founders who dared to believe in her future. Out of marked devotion and sacrificial giving they translated their dreams into brick and mortar, watched the College walls grow and the buildings take shape, ready for the reception of students and the beginning of instructions designed to lead a struggling band of Christians into an intelligent realization of the realities of a militant and triumphant Church. They wrought well. Their achievements were enduring. We of today have entered into their labors and rejoice in their successes. The realization of the dreams of the founders, the success which has been the good fortune of Elon have also brought about obligations and responsibilities not so accurately measured in the original plans. These obligations and responsibilities are ours. It is now a question of whether our love for our Church matches their devotion; whether our sacrifices for our College equal theirs.

The need for Elon is greater today than ever. The crises, brought about by growth, are as great as the ones faced in the earliest days. Demands upon us are greater and our abilities to meet these demands must be fortified by great devotion from many sources.

"The small, private college under church auspices typifies the best in the American tradition of higher education. We have come to believe that the intimacy of such a college, the campus life possible in a residential situation and the Christian atmosphere in all phases of life in the genuinely Christian college, create an educational situation that is unsurpassed. Other schools may be bigger and richer, but none are better."

Today, as in the days of our founding, we should look well to this frontier—the frontier of the Christian college campus. A new spirit is stirring. Can anyone, least of all the Church, disregard these signs of the times? Let our Congregational Christian Churches, themselves descended from pioneers in education, our alumni and pioneer-spirited friends of youth move forward into today's frontiers on the campus.

The cover page may be misleading. "Spring" has not arrived at Elon to the extent the picture cover might indicate. However those of us who had the privilege of being on the campus last spring will remember well this picture of Alamance Hall with Spring "bursting out" all around the building and the campus with its green magic and the flowering shrubs putting forth in their array of colors.

Springtime is a delightful season to visit the Elon Campus, and it is hoped that many Alumni and friends will be coming for the commencement activities.

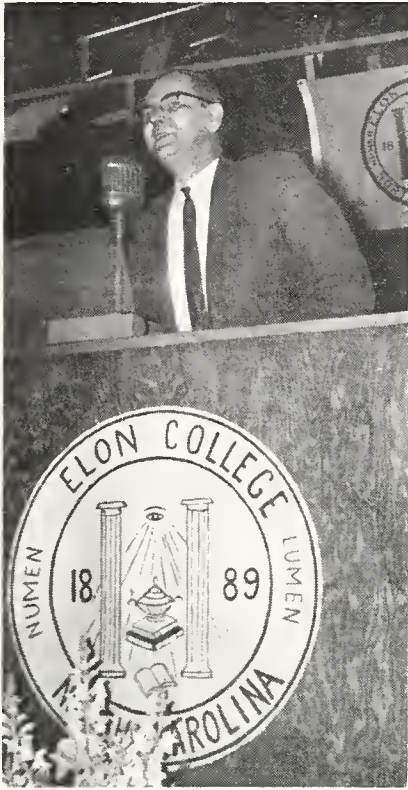

SPECIAL ITEMS

Special attention is called to the message from President George Colclough concerning important matters that have come before the Executive Committee. Also his urgent invitation for Alumni to return to the campus for commencement—especially the reunion classes. Your attention is also directed to the Honor Roll of Contributors. Won't you join this list? Be sure to read Mrs. W. P. Lawrence's interesting story of the Early Days of Elon.

1889 - Founders Day Program Held - 1959

DR. WALTER J. PETERSON

The challenge presented by the world's current situation was emphasized by Dr. Walter J. Peterson, dean of the graduate school of North Carolina State College, in the featured address of the Elon College Founders' Day program, held in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on Thursday morning March 5th.

Addressing an audience which included faculty, students, alumni, trustees and friends of Elon, Dr. Peterson declared that "the primary and possibly total challenge of our time rests in the existence of weapons capable of our complete or near destruction."

He cited three headlines in one of the state's morning newspapers today, all of which centered in one way or another with "the rapid emergence of Russia as an impelling and all-pervading force in a greatly fore-shortened world," and he cited the fact that America is facing an implacable and able competition that will require Americans to strive mightily and intelligently.

"We must recognize," he said, "that intellectual achievement is as important for survival as a high standard of living and material prosperity," and in this connection he urged the importance of science, quoting a world traveler who has said that "the nations of the world agree only on the one topic that science and technology are important for the future."

In discussing the importance of and the contributions of science to mankind he declared that "we are approaching a position in which the dimensions of knowledge and power appear so great as to place the destiny of man in his own hands," and he further declared that "science more than any other field has demonstrated the almost limitless resources of the human mind."

Dr. Peterson, who is himself an eminent chemist, admitted many people express concern over possible over-emphasis on science, and he cautioned that scientists themselves must recognize "that science is only one of the great disciplines that are vital to our society." In so saying he declared his belief that science and the humanities are complementary in the field of learning.

Addressing himself in particular to the Elon College students in the audience, he stressed the opportunities they have in associating with their college professors, calling this opportunity an adventure and citing it as one of the fruits of such an institution as Elon College, which is now observing the 70th anniversary of its chartering by the North Carolina legislature in 1889.

He spoke briefly of the fine record of service by Elon College during the intervening seven decades and declared that "we have no reason to be doubtful or faint-hearted about the awesome prospect looming ahead," but he cautioned all of his hearers that "we must not take ourselves for granted."

Dr. Peterson was introduced by Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon College president, who cited the speaker's fine contributions in the field of science and education. Dr. Danieley himself has also attained eminence in the field of chemistry. The invocation was given by Dr. W. J. Andes, minister, Elon College Community Church. Dr. W. T. Scott, superintendent The Southern Convention, Congregational Christian churches, led a Litany of Praise and Dedication. The Elon College choir, directed by Prof. Charles Lynam and Prof. Patrick Johnson, sang two numbers. Prof. Fletcher Moore was the organ accompanist.

Following the Founders' Day convocation in Alumni Gymnasium, Elon College was host to all guests of the occasion at a buffet luncheon in the banquet room of McEwen Memorial Dining Hall.

FACTS ABOUT ELON

The name "Elon" comes from the Hebrew word meaning oak. On March 11, 1889, Elon College was chartered and incorporated by the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina. The original Board of Trustees numbered fifteen. The purpose of the college was to afford instruction in the liberal arts and sciences. At the time of the founding of Elon College the present "town of Elon College" was called Mill Point.

Part of the group assembled in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium for the Founders' Day Program commemorating the 70th anniversary.

Board Of Trustees Approves New Plan

A change from the quarter system of operation to the semester system for Elon College and an increase in tuition and fees were approved by the board of trustees during its annual spring meeting held at the college on Wednesday, March 4th.

Under the quarter system, classes are conducted only from Monday through Friday, with facilities being idle on Saturdays. In the semester system, students attend classes six days per week. Evening classes at the college have been on the semester system for a number of years.

The increase in tuition and fees was approved in keeping with an increase in costs of operation. The cost for day students was raised from $405 to $450 per year, and the average yearly costs for dormitory students was increased from $885 to $930. No increase was made in charges for room and board.

In his annual report to the board, Dr. J. E. Daniele, president, cited continued progress in the college's operations. He pointed out that increased emphasis is being placed on academic standards, along with more selective admissions and requirements for remaining in schools.

In this connection, he told of a number of seniors who are planning graduate work through assistantships or fellowships from leading universities.

Stating that Elon College continues to emphasize its mission as a Christian institution, he expressed appreciation for services rendered by the faculty and staff during the year and pointed out several improvements made to the campus.

While reporting the college in sound financial condition, he indicated the need for more funds if the college is to achieve desired standards of excellence.

Reports also were given by the business manager and registrar.

The board re-elected Secretary of State Thad Eure as its chairman and Clyde W. Gordon of Burlington as secretary.

Eight trustees were re-elected for four year terms including S. H. Basnight of Chapel Hill, T. S. Earp of South Boston, Va., W. L. Gregory of Virgilina, Va., Dr. W. D. Rippey of Burlington, Royal H. Spence, Jr., of Greensboro, Dr. Millard Stevens of Southington, Conn., Walter Wilkins of Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. C. B. Wilkins of Virgilina, Va.

Member Of First Class At Elon College Records Early History For The Library

A first-hand account of some of Elon College's early history has been preserved in a most effective and unusual manner.

The story of the founding and the first years of the college was told in a talk made to the Elon College Book Club in the fall of 1957, by Mrs. W. P. Lawrence, a member of the first class to enter Elon College in the year 1890.

So that this story might be heard by the many others who hold Elon College dear, the club sponsored a recording of Mrs. Lawrence's talk, which has been placed in the church library at Elon College along with souvenirs of the first days of the college, collected and contributed by Mrs. Lawrence.

It is felt that readers of the Alumni News will enjoy this story and it is especially appropriate for the Founders' Day issue.

Annie Graham Lawrence was born and reared in Alamance County. After attending Alamance County public schools she then attended Graham College for one year. The following year, 1890, this school was moved to Elon and Mrs. Lawrence transferred with it. Three years later, in 1893, Mrs. Lawrence graduated and accepted a position as teacher in the preparatory department of Elon College.

Mrs. Lawrence was a charter member of the Elon College Community Church; and in September of this year, she was honored by being chosen the first one to break ground on which the Elon College Community Church (Congregational Christian) is to be constructed. She is also a charter member of the Elon College Book Club.

She served for years on the Elon College public school committee. In her church and community organizations she has rendered outstanding service, holding important offices in practically all of them. "Miss Annie," as she is called by so many of her friends and neighbors, has been a devoted and loyal supporter of Elon College, her Alma Mater.

Her husband, Dr. W. P. Lawrence, who also graduated from Elon College served as a member of the faculty of the college for approximately 30 years and their two children, Mary Graham and Phalti, both attended Elon College.

Mary Graham, graduate in '24, is now Mrs. T. H. Macintosh and lives in Elon College.

Phalti, '29 graduate, married an Elon graduate, Ruth Irene Alexander, class of '30. They live at 710 Dick Ave., Hamilton, Ohio, where Phalti is a chemical engineer.

THE EARLY DAYS OF ELON COLLEGE

By MRS. W. P. LAWRENCE

I first came to Elon in the summer of 1889 to see the laying of the cornerstone for the old administration building. Until the college was established here, Elon had been known as Mill Point. Those were horse-and-buggy days and

Historic North Dormitory And Gym Is Being Removed From Campus

The old North Dorm, which also housed the Elon College gymnasium for many years, is now in process of removal, and there is a general spirit of rejoicing that the old structure will soon be gone, leaving a clear view of the Duke Science Building from the north and lending a new and symmetrical appearance to the northern portion of the Elon campus.

The rejoicing, however, is mingled with a bit of sadness in the hearts of veteran members of the faculty and of many alumni who remember when Old North was in the hey-day of its glory, those who remember when it was one of the most modern structures of its type in the South and when it was the scene of many moments of glory for Elon basketball teams of by-gone days.

Very few of the present generation, who looked at the weathered and cracked walls of Old North and viewed it as an eye-sore and even as a hazard, could realize that less than half a century ago it was the pride and joy of all connected with Elon College.

The North Dormitory — official name was the Alumni Building — was built in 1912 of hand-pressed brick which were made at a kiln located on the present site of the Veterans' Apartments in Elon College and construction was carried out under the direction of J. C. McAdams, a local contractor.

His son, J. Mark McAdams, graduate in 1924, became an outstanding basketball player and played many a game for the Fighting Christians in this gymnasium. Mark now has a daughter, Kathryn Jo, attending Elon in the Freshman Class.

The building was a four-story structure, 125 feet long and 65 feet wide, being designed for use both as a men's dormitory and a gymnasium. The ground floor or basement at that time housed what was then ultra-modern chemistry and physics laboratories, which continued in use until the present Duke Science Building was built in the 1920's. Also on that floor were shower rooms and locker rooms for use of the physical education students and the varsity athletes.

The second floor of the building, which was the main floor of the gymnasium, offered a floor space 100 feet long by 60 feet wide, which was regarded at that time as ample in size for a basketball court, the floor itself was of Michigan hard maple, and the gymnasium was equipped with every appliance known to gymnastic art. Critics who viewed it pronounced it the best gymnasium in the state and one of the best in the South.

An interesting feature of the gymnasium was the fact that it provided a balcony at the third floor level, which furnished spectator room and which also served as an indoor running track with fifteen laps to the mile. A second balcony circled the building at the fourth floor level, and from each balcony opened dormitory rooms for men students.

It was in the North Gymnasium that Elon's 1915 basketball team clinched the state championship in competition with all colleges in North Carolina, and there were many moments of glory for Elon teams in later years, including the North State Conference championship of 1947.

The gymnasium continued as the home of Elon basketball teams until the autumn of 1949, but it was discarded as the scene of sports events when the present Alumni Memorial Gymnasium was first put into use in January, 1950. The building, however, continued in use as a men's dormitory until the opening of Smith Hall, second of Elon's two new and modern men's dormitories in January, 1958.

Elon Alumnus Sends Letters At Christmas

The Alumni Office has recently received an interesting letter from Thelma Morris, '34 graduate, who lives at 1054 Westhampton Drive, Alexandria, Va. Miss Morris mimeographs a "Christmas Letter" each year and sends copies to her classmates and other Elon friends.

In addition to her letter to the Alumni Office, she sent a copy of her 1958 Christmas letter. Parts of both letters are shared with readers of the Alumni News.

"Seems as though I've lost contact with Elon College since moving here from Roanoke, August 1956. I have missed reading the Alumni News and I have often meant to let you know my new address. I was at Elon last July for service one Sunday morning and was thrilled beyond words when I saw the beautiful new buildings. The dining hall is beautiful and I roamed through it and am delighted at the great progress. I also went in the new girls' dormitory annex. It was a very real thrill to see the progress and to hear of the good work of Dr. Danielew.

When I came here August 1956, I started teaching at Groveton High School, in Fairfax County—a new school that year and it was a very real challenge to help open a new school. The newness has worn off but I still enjoy teaching and living here."

From Christmas Letter

"It was nice to go to Elon one weekend and see old friends. Hilda Heatwole Brown and children were in Burlington from New Orleans. I thoroughly enjoyed getting my "boots" on the campus and seeing the new buildings that are beautiful. It was most delightful to visit with Carey and Billy Andes, who are serving and incidentally building a Community Church there. I also had a chance to say hello to The Hooks. The Norman Waters in Greensboro, Pattie Lee Coghill in Henderson and Irene Newton Hover (a high school friend) in Lawrenceville."

Minsters Make Changes

Rev. H. Winfred Bray has accepted a call to Union Ridge Congregational Christian Church, near Burlington and assumed his duties February 1. Mr. Bray is a graduate of Elon College in the class of 1954. For the past six years he has served the Congregational Christian Church in Randleman.

Rev. C. Fred Allred has taken up his duties as pastor of Belew's Creek and Salem Chapel Congregational Christian Church in North Carolina. Prior to January Mr. Allred served Mount Beth-

Dr. Wilkins is shown with two of the school children of the Haw River School who participated in the drive for funds to honor Dr. Wilkins in the new memorial hospital. They are Rubert Stewart, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rubert Stewart, Route 1, and Terry Sooterly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sooterly, Boundary Street, both of Haw River.

Dr. J. C. Wilkins To Be Honored In New Memorial Hospital In Alamance County

Dr. Java C. Wilkins, Elon graduate in the class of 1907, is to be honored in the New Memorial Hospital to be built between Burlington and Elon College.

Dr. Wilkins is to receive this honor through the spontaneous contribution of a $1,200 fund raised by Haw River residents of all ages. School children participated in the fund, and the group with the highest amount, percentage-wise, was the second graders. It is not known what the memorial will be as yet.

Dr. Wilkins is the oldest medical practitioner in Alamance County. He is greatly respected and appreciated by the citizens of the county, especially in the Haw River area.

Dr. Wilkins did two years of premed at the University of North Carolina and then entered the University of Maryland. Upon graduation from Maryland in 1911, Dr. Wilkins immediately began general practice in Alamance County, traveling country roads on horseback and by buggy until, as he says the road ran out and the rest of the journey to a sick person's bedside was made overland. When automobiles first came in, lack of roads made it necessary to cover much of area on foot.

A native of Alamance County, Dr. Wilkins, received his early education in the schools of the county before entering Elon College.

Dr. Wilkins only child, a daughter, Beatrice was graduated from Elon College in 1938. She is now Mrs. Edward F. Smith, Route 1, Rolling Fields, Columbia, Tenn.

"A couple of days ago we chronicled the arrival of Sandra Bentz in New York for job hunting. Today we report on job finding. And is the R. L. T. Bentzes' little girl thrilled! She's receptionist and secretary on the executive floor of Columbia Broadcasting Station, and the very first person she met in line of duty was Phil Silvers!

Her 4½-hour interview by CBS required a shorthand test, which she passed nobly although she had used hers not at all since leaving college. And in the typing test did 68 words per minute with only one error." Editor's Note: Sandra was a commercial student at Elon College in 1956-57.

Miss Emma Rachael Rascoe was married to Joseph Cowden Heron of Mexico City, Mexico, at noon February 28 in Congregational Christian Church in Reidsville. After a trip to Acapulco the couple will live at 43 Michelette, Mexico City. Mr. Heron was graduated from Kent State University in Ohio and is comptroller of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s Mexico City plant. The bride attended Elon as a 1939 commercial student and is owner of Roscoe Flower Shop.

Dr. and Mrs. Ray E. Phillips were weekend visitors on the Elon College campus February 21-24.

Dr. Phillips is moderator of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches. He and Mrs. Phillips have served 40 years in social service work in South Africa under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

The Phillips were very active while at Elon College. Dr. Phillips spoke at the 11 o'clock worship service at the Elon College Community Church on February 22. Mrs. Phillips at the same hour was speaking to the congregation of the First Congregational Christian Church in Greensboro.

On Sunday afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Phillips were honored at a reception given by Elon College in the McEwen Memorial Social Hall. Dr. and Mrs. Phillips also held several informal conferences for students.

On Monday night Dr. Phillips spoke to the Burlington Rotary Club. He was a Rotarian in Johannesburg.

Dr. and Mrs. Phillips live in St. Louis but they travel widely in connection with their church work.

Dr. Phillips went to Africa with an excellent background for this social welfare work, for he had made sociology one of his major interests in college. A native of Wisconsin, where he was born in 1889 in a small sawmill town, he spent his youth and received his public school education in Duluth, Minn., going from there to Carleton College and later to Yale University, from which he holds the Ph. D. degree in sociology. He also holds the B. D. degree from the Yale Divinity School.

It was at Carleton College that he met his wife, who is a native of western Minnesota, and they were married while he was attending Yale Divinity School. They went to South Africa for the first time in 1918, and through the years she has worked as an able helper with Dr. Phillips in the social welfare program.

Mrs. Phillips also was active with the Bridgman Memorial Hospital, the Talitha Home for delinquent African girls and the Helping Hand Hostels for working women. At the same time she worked with her husband in the program of the Jan. H. Hoffmeyre School of Social Work, which was founded in Johannesburg in 1940 to train native social workers for an ever-broadening program.

Dr. Phillips was director of the Hoffmeyre School from 1940 until shortly

Phipsicli's Needed To Complete Files

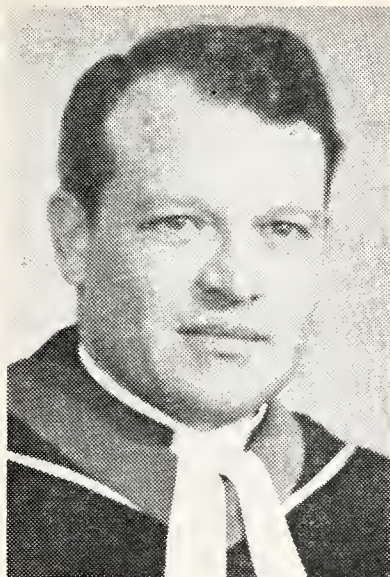

In a few more weeks the 1959 issue of the Elon College annual or yearbook (Phipsicli) will be distributed to the students of Elon College. Very few of the students will know how the annual got its name or will take the trouble to look on the introductory page and see what is the number of the issue.

Most of the "older alumni" will remember that the name of the annual is made up of parts of the names of three literary societies which for years were an important factor in the life of the college — Philologian, Psiphelian, and Clio. Psiphelian was for the women; Philologian and Clio, for men.

However, very few of the alumni will likely know when the first annual was published and how many numbers have appeared since the first one. Records show that the No. 1 annual was published by the senior class of 1913 and that the 1959 issue will be No. 44. The president of the class of 1913 in its senior year was A. L. Hook, now a member of the Elon College faculty. Other officers were: Walton Staley Wicker, vice president; Viola Elizabeth Frazier, secretary; Janie Lee Beale, treasurer; Nellie Sue Fleming, historian; Pearl Fogleman, prophet. Walton S. Wicker also served as poet for the class. Charles Titus Rand was Editor-in-Chief of this first annual. A. L. Hook was business manager.

The annual was dedicated to Dr. W. P. Lawrence, a graduate of Elon Col-

REV. JOHN DESOUSA

Rev. John R. deSousa Speaker For Laymen

Rev. John R. deSousa of Hartford, Conn., who is minister for Men and Missions for the Connecticut Conference of Congregational Churches was the chief speaker at the Mid-year Rally of the Laymen's Fellowship of Congregational Christian Churches of the Southern Convention which was held at Elon College on Sunday afternoon and evening of February 15.

He addressed approximately four hundred men in Whitley auditorium in the afternoon and almost equally as many at the dinner meeting at 6:00 o'clock in the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall. Both addresses were challenging messages to the men of the church "to lead out in the real mission of the church".

The speaker arrived at the college on Thursday and delivered a chapel message to the upper-classmen on Friday morning.

Rev. deSousa came to the Connecticut Conference position in 1957 after a varied and successful career. His most recent pastorate from 1953 until 1957 was at the historic First Church in New London, Conn.

Prior to that time the Reverend deSousa had served as pastor of the Kala-hikiola Congregational Church in Hawaii, an inter-racial church which operated under the Hawaiian Board of Missions. While in Hawaii, he also directed a school for Hawaiian girls, acted as chaplain for a leper hospital and was the first pastor of the Community Church at Pearl Harbor. In 1953 he was for a time the conference preacher for the Island's 119 Congregational Churches.

He is a graduate of Franklin College and of the Andover Newton Theological School, and he has done further graduate study at Miami University and has been a lecturer in Sociology at Mitchell College. He has served student charges in Ohio and Massachusetts, having been ordained to the ministry on June 24, 1945 at Topsfield, Mass., where he has been serving at the time.

Dr. J. Earl Danieleley welcomed the group to the Elon College campus.

A. D. Cobb, Jr., of Burlington, graduate of Elon College in 1947, is president of the Laymen's Fellowship of the Convention and presided at the session.

The Elon College choir, under the direction of Prof. Patrick Johnson and Prof. Charles Lynam, with Prof. Fletcher Moore as organ accompanist, furnished special music for the afternoon session. At the dinner, a male quartet of students sang several numbers.

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, '59, a former resident of the Burlington and Elon College areas, died suddenly in Franklin, Va., on Friday night, February 27. He died in church where he was presiding over a business session. He was graduated from Elon College in 1924.

Mr. Crutchfield was pastor of Bethlehem Christian Church at Altamahaw near Burlington for many years, and was presently serving as pastor of the Mt. Carmel and Antioch Christian Churches at Franklin.

A native of Guilford County, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Crutchfield.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maude Bennett Crutchfield; three daughters, Mrs. Dan Leath of Route 4, Burlington, Mrs. Julius Hester of Route 5, Burlington, and Mrs. Richard Hanson of Dover, Ohio; two sons, J. U. Crutchfield and J. Ryan Crutchfield, both of Burlington; and 14 grandchildren.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Bethlehem Congregational Christian Church and burial was in the church cemetery. Rev. Kenneth Register, pastor of Beverly Hills Christian Church officiated, assisted by Rev. Dwight Moore, pastor of Bethlehem Church, and Rev. W. J. Andes, pastor of Elon College Congregational Christian Church and Dr. W. T. Scott, Superintendent of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

VITUS REID HOLT

VITUS C. HOLT DIES AT HOME IN BURLINGTON

Vitus Reid Holt, for many years prominently identified with the civic, religious and business life of Burlington and Alamance County, died suddenly at his home, 1113 West Davis Street, Sunday morning, March 8, at approximately 10 o'clock. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Holt, owner and manager of Kirk Holt Hardware Company had complained of feeling tired and had said that he would not attend church on that morning but would remain at his home for the day. He lived alone since the death of his wife several years ago.

Examination revealed that he had died of a heart attack at approximately 10 a. m. Mr. Holt was one of the city's pioneer merchants and had devoted much of his interests to the Congregational Christian Home for Children, to Elon College, and to the First Congregational Christian Church. Mr. Holt attended Elon College for two years, 1909-11.

He had served as president of the board for the Congregational Christian Home for Children since 1938 and had been a member of the Elon College Board of Trustees since 1936.

Mr. Holt served for many years as chairman of trustees at the First Christian Church. Primarily, however, he devoted the time away from his business to the orphanage and college.

His father, W. Kirk Holt, became a member of the orphanage's board in 1916 and was elected the board's president in 1918. He died suddenly while attending the dedication of Johnston Hall there in 1929.

Elon Graduate Doing Well In Law School

Jack Terry Emerson, '56 graduate, now a student in the Duke Law School, Duke University, is making an excellent record. Reports reaching Elon College indicate that Terry is making good grades and is also making contributions to the publication, Duke Law Journal. Terry will complete requirements during the current semester to become an editor of this journal. He was co-author last year of an article, "Use of the Indeterminate Sentence in Crime Prevention and Rehabilitation," which appeared in the journal.

Terry will graduate from law school in June of this year. While a student at Elon College Terry received many honors. He was graduated Summa Cum Laude. He was a member of Sigma Mu Sigma, Pi Gamma Mu, Student Legislature, Elon Debators, was associate editor of Phippsicli, represented Elon College in the North Carolina Student Legislature, was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. Terry's home is Lewes Beach, Delaware. His present address: Box 1105 M.G.C. Duke University, Durham, North Carolina.

Mrs. H. L. Faulkner of Lakeland, Florida, is shown at airport with Mrs. Toshio Sato Kato of Japan with whom she visited on a recent trip to Japan. The person at the left is unknown.

Mrs. H. L. Faulkner Is Visitor To Japan

Many of the Elon Alumni who attended Elon College in the period 1915-20 and many of the church people in the Elon area will remember Toshio Sato of Japan. Toshio was graduated from Elon College in 1920 and returned to Japan where she married Kameichi Kato, who was a former student at the University of North Carolina and whom Toshio had met while she was in America.

They were married in 1922 and had a family of four children, one son old enough to be in the war. The family lost everything they had during the war, a small business, home and personal possessions.

Toshio's husband died in 1949.

Last year an Elon alumnus, Mrs. H. L. Faulkner of Lakeland, Florida visited Japan and saw Toshio. Mrs. Faulkner was the former Lula White of Elizabeth City, N. C., and attended Elon College with the class of 1918.

Mrs. Faulkner writes:

"I made the trip to Japan and I saw Toshio Kato. I wrote to her before I left the states telling her where I would be staying while I was in Japan. A few days after my arrival in Japan I received a letter from her. She is now working in the personnel section at Tachikawa Airbase just outside Tokyo, Japan. Her chief duty is to train Japanese employees how to work for the U. S. government.

I was able to see her one afternoon. We had a very pleasant afternoon and reviewed many old memories. She went with me to the airport along with my family and stayed for my departure. The Japanese believe it is bad luck not to stay with a friend until his departure. She seems very happy and is getting along nicely. She invited me to visit her home but time would not permit that pleasure.

I am enclosing a snapshot of Toshio and myself."

before his retirement and departure for America. The school employed a full-time staff of four, with 49 part-time instructors, mostly whites. It has an average student body of 100 students and sends its native graduates out to work on social welfare projects among their own people.

Their return to America to live also put them in position to see their three children more frequently, for all of the children were educated in America and now reside in this country, where each of the three is doing a distinguished work. A fourth child, a son, lost his life during World War II while flying a mission in North Africa as a pilot for the South African Air Force.

Their children in America are Dr. John Phillips, professor of astro-physics at the University of California at Berkeley, Calif.; Dr. James Phillips, now directing a group of young Ph. M., on a project to release the energy of the hydrogen atom for human use; and a daughter, who is a medical doctor, practicing pediatrics at Boston while her husband practices as an ophthalmologist in the same city.

JOHNNIE BOLT ON BROADWAY

John Bolt Plays Leading Role In Broadway Stage Production "Look Homeward Angel"

The following item was taken from the Burlington Times-News of January 3, 1959 and was written by Miss McBane, a former Times-News staff member. Miss McBane is the daughter of Mrs. H. G. McBane of 421 Fountain Place, Burlington, and the late Mr. McBane.

John Bolt, about whom Miss McBane is writing, attended Elon College in 1952-53 and was a member of the Elon Players under the supervision of Mrs. Betty Smith, who directed Elon Player productions for a number of years. His last starring role at Elon was in the production of John Patrick's "The Hasty Heart" in the spring of 1953.

BY PAT McBANE
Times-News Guest Writer

On Monday night in New York City a Burlington family participated in a double coincidence — one of the "small miracles" which seem particularly characteristic of show business.

John Bolt appeared on the Broadway stage in the hit play "Look Homeward, Angel." And his mother, Mrs. J. A. Bolt of 803 Anthony Street, and his brother, Jim, a student at Williams High School were in the audience.

Further, for the first time a native North Carolinian played the leading role of Eugene Gant, the fictional prototype of Thomas Wolfe, the famous North Carolina author who wrote the novel on which the play was based.

Previously this newspaper reported how John was selected from many candidates to understudy the important part. But before Monday night he had never had the opportunity to play Eugene (Wolfe) except to rehearsals.

For six months John worked hard learning the role and being on hand for eight performances each week in case Andrew Prine, who is starred in the role, was unable to appear.

John also acts as assistant stage manager for the company. Thus it was impossible for him to spend the holidays in Burlington, and so Mrs. Bolt and Jim made their first trip to New York to be with him during Christmas.

John got his folks tickets for the play, and Monday night Mrs. Bolt and Jim arrived at the Barrymore Theater shortly before curtain time. John had left them an hour before to attend to his pre-performance backstage duties. The usher who seated them recognized Jim as John's brother and welcomed them to the play.

The house lights dimmed and the performance was about to begin. Then a single spotlight shone on the curtain and the production stage manager for the company stepped forward.

"Ladies and gentlemen, at this performance of 'Look Homeward, Angel,' the role of Eugene Gant will be performed by Jonathan Bolt."

There was applause from the audience, but Mrs. Bolt was busy with a handkerchief and her nerves. Jim later displayed his playbill — with all four corners chewed off.

As the play progressed, it was evident that John's portrayal of Eugene was powerful and brilliant. Other handkerchiefs were in evidence at the end of the second act, where Eugene prays for his brother, Ben. And in the first scene of the final act, as Eugene (John) left the stage after an important speech, the audience burst into spontaneous and prolonged applause.

Then the play was over, and the entire cast assembled on stage for the first curtain call. The supporting characters stepped forward in two's and three's and took their bows.

Then John stepped forward alone. The applause swelled to crescendo, louder than at any time during the evening. There were shouts of "Bravo!" from the audience.

And the cast all joined in applauding John. This is an honor rarely paid to an understudy on Broadway. The audience gave obvious approval.

Ed Begley and Miriam Hopkins, co-stars, took their bows. Mr. Begley shook John's hand. Miss Hopkins kissed his cheek. Hand in hand the trio took the next two curtain calls, then the other actors joined them for the fourth and fifth calls of the evening.

Backstage after the performance, a proud mother and brother joined John as cast, production staff, stage crew and audience admirers gave their congratulations.

Doc Mathis Resigns As Elon Basketball Coach

By MOSES CRUTCHFIELD
Associate Sports Editor
Greensboro Daily News

Graham L. (Doc) Mathis, head basketball coach at Elon College for the past 10 years, yesterday, March 10, submitted his resignation as a member of the athletic department there. He also has served as football assistant.

In a statement issued after his resignation had been submitted to Dr. J. Earl Danieley, Elon president, the veteran coach said that he was resigning to continue his work upon his master's degree.

The Elon president, in announcing that Mathis' resignation had been accepted, said that he had "encouraged him to continue his graduate work."

The resignation is effective as of June 1.

Dr. Danieley said that no consideration had been given to a successor "as yet, but that we hope to secure a capable successor in the near future, by early summer at the latest."

Mathis' departure from the coaching ranks is the second among North State Conference cage circles within less than a week. Howard Porter, East Carolina coach, was replaced by Earl Smith last Tuesday.

The action by Mathis caught North State fans by surprise. Although the veteran coach had suffered through two consecutive losing seasons, there was no indication that he planned to step out. In the past, his quints have been among the conference's stronger teams the majority of the time.

However, last year and this year, his teams finished eighth in the conference race with 4-12 and 3-12 records, respectively.

Mathis, a three-sport star at Davidson College in the early 30's, took over the basketball reins at Elon in the 1949-50 season after the Christians had posted a 1-15 mark the year before. In something of a Cinderella story, he carried a quint which finished eighth in the conference with a 5-11 record to the finals of the North State tournament before bowing to Appalachian 67-53 in the finals at Statesville.

His 1953 teams, which finished second with an 11-5 record, went to the finals, losing to High Point.

In 1956, his fourth-seeded quint defeated Lenoir Rhyne 71-67 in an overtime finals for the championship and his one conference crown.

The Christians' best season under Mathis came in 1957 on a 22-4 record and in 1956 on a 25-7 mark. His 1952 quint tied with Appalachian for first place in the regular conference season on a 12-4 record and his 1957 team was second on the same won-lost record.

Mathis carried Elon to Kansas City three times as district NAIA representative—in 1952, 1956 and 1957.

Over-all, Mathis guided Elon teams to a record of 160 victories and 117 losses over the 10-year period. He had an 85-75 conference record.

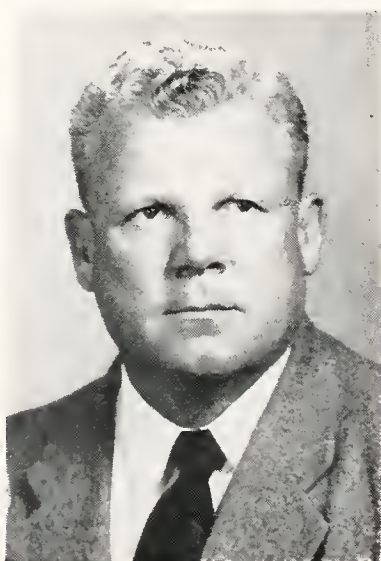

Mathis referred to the past two seasons in his resignation statement:

"Due to the fact that I do not have my master's degree, and did such a lousy job in basketball the last two years, I am resigning my position at Elon College, effective June 1, 1959."

Mathis said his plans now were to go to graduate school.

Dr. Danieley's statement said:

"Doc Mathis is a friend of mine. I have encouraged him to continue his graduate work. We appreciate the services he has rendered to Elon College and wish him well in his new work."

COACH DOC MATHIS

Elon Baseball Squad Schedules 28 Games

The Fighting Christian baseball squad, winners of the North State Conference diamond title for the past two seasons and participant in the NAIA's national tournament at Alpine, Texas, last summer, will face a rugged 28-game schedule this spring, according to an announcement from Coach Jack Sanford.

The Elon squad will also participate in a three-day diamond tournament at Camp Lejeune, during which the Christians will face contests with the strong Camp Lejeune and Ithaca University outfits. The Fort Lee games are also scheduled during spring holidays.

In facing this tough schedule, Coach Sanford will have a nucleus of 12 lettermen around with which to build his 1958 diamond squad. Ten of the returning monogram winners are from last year's title-winning squad, while others won letters in previous campaigns. The veterans returning from last year include Eddie Clark, first base; Don Lichok and Pete Jones, second base; George Allen, shortstop or third base; Gil Watts, Gary Henson and Arthur Thompson, pitchers and Tony Carcatterra, Ted Eanes and Leroy Myers, outfielders. Also expected out are Mack Payne, infielder, and Joe DelGais, outfielder, who lettered two years ago.

In addition to these letter vets, Coach Sanford also has Roger Knapp and Sam Simmone, reserve pitchers from last year and Eddie Hughes, a transfer catcher, who transferred from Carolina and sat out last spring to become eligible. There are also a number of promising freshmen.

Crutchfield Is Proud Papa

The following was taken from the Greensboro Daily News of Friday, Jan. 30:

"A cheerleader was added to the Daily News sports family yesterday.

Faye Crutchfield gave birth to a six-pound, five-ounce daughter at 4:30 p.m., and the proudest papa anywhere is Moses of the sports staff. It is their first child.

Moses stood a nine-hour vigil at Wesley Long Hospital, awaiting the stork, but is doing fine now along with wife and daughter.

Nancy Albright Crutchfield is the name of the new addition who, according to Moses, already is displaying a few curls."

Moses was graduated from Elon College in 1941 and is an associate Sports Editor with the Greensboro Daily News. Among his special assignments is coverage of the North State Conference sports activities and the Carolina League baseball.

In regular season play Elon won seven games out of 22—three over conference foes; four outside the conference. In addition Elon lost to High Point in the North State Conference Tournament. However the season has not been as dismal as the record indicates. With only one Senior on the squad, Coach Mathis had to depend on Sophomores and Freshmen. Some unusually good games were played, particularly upsets over High Point, 62 to 59, and over Appalachian 74 to 71. Several of the games that went into the lost column were close and interesting. In this category is the final home game for the Chris-

MRS. FOSTER AND HER DOLL FAMILY

(The following story is taken from the Burlington Daily Times News of October 30, 1958 and we feel that many of the Alumni and friends of Elon College who know Mrs. Foster and her family will like to share this story. Mrs. Foster's influence on hundreds of citizens of the Elon area is immeasurable, for the majority of those who were fortunate enough to be in her "First Grade" during the 21 years she taught in the local public school are now outstanding citizens of the area. Mrs. Foster's influence was also felt by many of the college students who did practice teaching under her supervision or who visited in her home, which was always open to them, particularly during the years Mary Lee and James were students at the college. Mrs. Foster also attended Elon College to receive a diploma in art.)

BY ESSIE NORWOOD
Woman's Editor

It would not be surprising if Mrs. James L. Foster, Sr., of Trollinger Avenue at Elon College were a little bit lonely after next Saturday.

November 8 is the date of the bazaar sponsored by the Woman's Fellowship of Elon College Community Church, and on that day Mrs. Foster will part with more than 100 stuffed dolls and toys that she has made to be sold in this event.

During the months that Mrs. Foster has been working on the dolls, their little features developed personalities for her and her guests—there is a variety of features and personalities. Old Mother Goose and her famous gander dominate the display and there are all of the other Nursery Rhyme figures — Little Bo Peep and her sheep, Little Boy Blue, Wee Willie Winkle, Humpty Dumpty. Mrs. Peter Pumpkin Eater, Lucy Locket, King Cole, Puss in Boots, Froggie who went a-courting, just to name a few. Then there is a bride and a groom, beauty queens, various animals and a sugar plum tree, from which each child buying a toy will receive a lollipop on the day of the bazaar.

Mrs. Foster, who will celebrate her 90th birthday on Sunday, began making these toys early in the year for Christmas gifts — but when some of her friends in the Woman's Fellowship saw them they talked her into making them for a special bazaar booth, made her chairman of this stuffed toy booth and she really set to work in earnest.

For ideas for her display, Mrs. Foster called upon her 21 years experience as a first grade teacher and is amazed that so many of today's young people never heard of some of the nursery rhymes that are represented.

Mrs. Foster taught in the Elon College Public School for the entire 21 years, retiring at the age of 75 — a typical incident in an active and interesting life.

Mrs. Foster was the former Myrtle

White of Raleigh. She was serving as organist at the Edenton Street Methodist Church in 1890 when she married her late husband who was then pastor of Hillsboro Street Congregational Christian Church there, and they came to Elon in 1906. Mr. Foster was the first superintendent of the Elon Orphanage and Mrs. Foster has many memories of what she calls her "pioneer" days there.

But these were busy days for her, too, because it was at this time that she became interested in art and went to Elon College for three years to receive her diploma. She had attended Peace College before her marriage and majored in music.

With her art degree behind her, Mrs. Foster kept busy with her painting, her music and her family of a daughter and a son. They moved to Waverly, Va. for several years, and when the family returned to Elon in 1924, Mrs. Foster began her teacher career—and fortunate were the boys and girls who had this talented artist and musician to guide them in their first year of school.

Both of Mrs. Foster's own children graduated from Elon College. Her son, James, is married to the former Corinna King and they live at Elon where he works in the Post Office. Mary Lee Foster is a teacher at Broad Street Junior High School and lives with her mother in the same house into which the family moved when they returned to Elon from Waverly.

There are no grandchildren to enjoy Mrs. Foster's dolls, but she has many little friends and children in the family who are never forgotten on special occasions.

For instance, Mrs. Foster and Mary Lee will have the family here for her 90th birthday dinner Sunday and Mrs. Foster will not only be receiving, but will have gifts for her guests as well.

As soon as the bazaar is over, Mrs. Foster will begin again to make Christmas presents and in addition to stuffed toys there will be other works of art.

Mrs. Foster's first love is music, but real piano practice is a little strenuous for her these days so she plays simpler arrangements for her own pleasure and in the meantime continues her interest in painting . . . selling and adding to the large collection in her own home.

Mrs. Foster hopes to make $100 in the bazaar booth on November 8, and her booth will be set up in the new school building. Proceeds will be used by the Woman's Fellowship to buy carpet for the new church which is under construction.

(Editor's Note: A report from the bazaar sale showed that Mrs. Foster's hopes were realized. The sale of dolls amounted to $184.75.)

ALUMNI HONOR ROLL OF CONTRIBUTORS

Several classes are appearing in the list of "Honor Roll Classes" for the first time. Also several other class totals were boosted by contributions. It is gratifying to see this list increase. However, there are nine classes that have not yet been listed. It is hoped that every class will be listed in the April report and that by the time the annual Honor Roll is published in the June issue, each class will have 100 per cent participation. The fiscal year closes May 30 and any contribution made after that date will not appear on the Honor list. Won't you be listed in April?

MRS. GERTRUDE SCOTT

Mrs. Gertrude Herndon Scott, age 74, who attended Elon College in the class of 1906, died in a Winston-Salem hospital on January 9 following a serious illness of five days. She spent her early life in Elon College where her father was a physician. He also served as Financial Agent for several years. Mrs. Scott has been a resident of Winston-Salem since 1911. She was married to W. K. Scott in 1907. Surviving are the husband, two nephews and one niece. Mrs. Scott was a cousin to Dr. N. F. Brannock's children. Funeral services were held at Voglers Chapel on Saturday, January 10. Burial was in Salem Cemetery.

—VITUS C. HOLT—

Following the footsteps of his father, he was elected to the orphanage's board in 1933 and was named vice-president that year. He was elevated to the presidency in 1938.

He joined the late Supt. Charles D. Johnston in working toward the erection of a chapel at the orphanage. The children and families of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Holt contributed more than $50,000 for the chapel, which was opened four years ago. It is known as Holt Memorial Chapel. By being a member of the board for Elon College since 1936, he was the oldest member in point of service.

Dr. Truitt, superintendent of the children's home and closely associated with Mr. Holt over many years, had this to say about Mr. Holt's passing:

"Mr. Holt's death came as a great shock to all of us at the Home for Children, including both the staff and children, and in his death we have lost one of the institution's best friends and supporters. In my knowledge, no one who has served on the board has done a more faithful job nor taken greater interest in the continued progress of the home."

Survivors include a foster son, six brothers, and five sisters, one grandson.

The funeral service was held at the First Congregational Christian Church in Burlington, with Dr. John G. Truitt, Superintendent of the Congregational Christian Home for Children at Elon College, officiating. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

lege, and for many years a beloved English teacher on the Elon faculty.

From 1913 when the first annual was published to 1959 when the latest issue, No. 44, will be off the press, there have been three years when no annual was published. 1918 and 1919 were missed, perhaps because of World War I. Again in 1932 there was no annual — this time no doubt because of the depression and the extreme financial difficulty of the college.

Unfortunately, no complete file of these annuals is available at the college. The library has most of the numbers, but not all. The alumni office has the next largest file; the registrars office and other offices a few.

Many of the early annuals were lost

TOMMY POE

Tommy Poe Hopes To Attend Elon Someday

Thomas Lee Poe, who goes by the name of "Tommy", is the nine year old son of the Reverend and Mrs. Eugene P. Poe of Birmingham, Alabama.

Tommy's father and mother, the former Florine Braxton, are graduates of Elon College in the class of 1946.

Although Tommy is just nine years old and in the fourth grade at the Vestavia Hills Elementary School, he thinks that perhaps about 1967 or 1968 he might be a Freshman at Elon College and bring his dad's jacket back to the Elon campus.

He is a member of the primary choir in the church, in the school band, and active in Cub Scouts.

The Reverend Mr. Poe is pastor of the South Highland Presbyterian Church, Birmingham. Their address: 433 Glenwood Road, Vestavia, Birmingham, Ala.

tend performances after their play has been running for some time ("Look Homeward, Angel" opened in November of 1957). But George Roy Hill, winner of several awards for his direction of "Look Homeward," was in the audience. John with his usual extreme modesty refuses to quote anyone, but terms such as "brilliant," "remarkable," "a new star," "a great talent," were used over and over again backstage at the Barrymore.

Thomas Wolfe would doubtless have been equally as pleased with John's interpretation of the character he had created from his own life, and proud of his fellow North Carolinian.

So once again, a young, hard-working actor has received his "big break." John

But as of last Monday night, John Bolt is well on the way to what promises, according to the cast and staff of "Look, Homeward, Angel," to be a successful acting career.

Mrs. Edwin Betts Accepts Position As Hostess With The University Of Virginia

BY JAMES C. PLOWDEN-WARDLAW
Staff Reporter
The Cavalier Daily, Univ. of Virginia

Associated with the University for over thirty one years, Mrs. Edwin Betts, widow of the late Doctor Edwin Betts of the University, has been named to replace Mrs. Theodore Shultz as the official Hostess of the Rotunda.

As the new hostess, Mrs. Betts will greet all visitors and touring school groups upon their arrival at the University and explain to them the history of the Rotunda, the University, and Mr. Jefferson. To help her, Mrs. Betts has at her command the group who comprise a voluntary guide service whose purpose is to accompany visitors about the grounds and point out the various spots of special interest.

Mrs. Betts has long been a student of Jeffersonian and Albemarle County history. Her husband, Doctor Edwin Morris Betts, was an avid collector of old prints of the University, and Mrs. Betts in 1937 designed a complex pictorial map of Albemarle County entitled "Historic Albemarle" which incorporated many historical facts and events of the area and which is still sold in bookstores today.

Born in Norfolk, Virginia, Mrs. Betts graduated from Elon College in North Carolina in 1924 with a degree in art. Following this she studied at Columbia University and then was appointed the supervisor of art in the public schools of Norfolk County, Virginia. During this period she was in charge of 16 schools, varying in size from those of large contemporary vintage to tiny one room schoolhouses on the edge of Dismal Swamp. Touring from school to school in an old Ford, Mrs. Betts spent one day at each school twice a month instructing the children in drawing, painting and poster-making. Her students' major achievement in this field was a large pictorial display entitled, "Hampton Roads — Virginia's greatest Asset," which was exhibited at the annual State Teachers' Meeting in Richmond.

Quite an artist in her own right, Mrs. Betts has exhibited her oils at the Virginia Museum of Art in Richmond and the Kenneth Taylor Galleries in Nantucket.

It was on Nantucket that Mrs. Betts received her only real previous experience as an official hostess. Her husband was the Director of Natural Science Department of the Maria Mitchell Association on the island for five summers, and

Mrs. Betts was the hostess to all visitors who came to examine the museum assembled by Maria Mitchell, the first woman astronomer in this country.

As to her new job at the University, Mrs. Betts says that it will be a hard job to fill the shoes of the retired Mrs. Shultz, who held the job for eleven and one-half years, but that she will do her best to successfully carry out her new responsibilities.

Rev. Walter W. Before accepting this call Mr. Hall was pastor of Third Avenue Christian Church in Danville, Va. He is president of the North Carolina-Virginia Conference of the Congregational Christian Churches.

Interesting Letters

A much appreciated letter was received recently by the Alumni secretary from Mrs. Frederick J. Stephenson (nee: Ruth Horne, Elon graduate '27) of 3 Danecroft Avenue, Greenville, R. I. Mrs. Stephenson's daughter, Eleanor, is a member of the Freshman class at Elon. Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson and their son, Freddie, spent the last week in February visiting Mrs. Stephenson's Mother, Mrs. S. A. Horne, in Burlington. They were also visitors to the college on two or three occasions during this period.

Mrs. Stephenson has two sisters who were graduated from Elon College — Lillie Horne and Mary Horne, now Mrs. E. Speed Noell.

Parts of Mrs. Stephenson's letter to be shared with the alumni:

"One of the biggest thrills of my life was the day Eleanor became a member of the Freshman class at Elon College.

"Four of the happiest years of my life were spent at Elon. Scotty, my husband, and I want our two to have the same.

"Fred, Jr., has two more years in high school. He hopes to go to Elon. He wears his Elon sweat shirt to Classical High in Providence, where he is a member of the 10th grade. He says it causes quite a few comments.

"With best wishes always for dear old Elon."

Another interesting letter comes from V. C. Pritchett, 12 Highland Avenue, Maplewood, N. J., who has retired from the Sales Department, Esso Standard Oil Co. He is a graduate of Elon in 1907:

"My wife and I attended my 50th class reunion at Elon College in 1957. During 1957 we spent eight weeks touring ten different countries in Europe. During 1958 we toured in the Canadian Rockies, and in Alaska. We took the boat at Vancouver, B. C., for various stops in B. C. and on the inland water ways to Skagway, Alaska and return, a distance of about 1000 miles each way.

"My daughter, Dorothy, is working in the Lincoln private school in N. Y. My son, Clayton P., is Asst. Mgr. of Craft Sales Dept. of the International Paper Co. in New York City. My son, Robert, is a Lieut. in the U. S. Air Force now stationed at the Strategic Command Air Force Base, Sacramento, California.

"We are pleased to see that Elon College is making such marked progress in many ways."

tians in which they played the strong Lenoir Rhyne Bears on even terms until the closing minutes of the game, finally losing by a score of 50 to 58. Elon led at half-time by 31 to 29.

Another close game was the 54-57 loss to Catawba on the latter's home court. Elon led with less than a minute to go. This performance was almost duplicated when the Christians again lost to the Indians on the Elon Court by a 48 to 52 count, matching the visitors point for point until the closing moments.

In the tournament at Lexington Elon played a good first half and was behind only four points at half-time. However the High Point team simply out-ran the Christians in the second half and came off victors 67 to 49.

The Suffolk Chapter of the Elon Alumni Association will meet at the Suffolk Congregational Christian Church on April 10. Announcements will go to Alumni in the area at an early date. G. C. Mann of Suffolk is president of the Chapter.

travel was not easy. Although we did have train service, buses and automobiles were unheard of. But this was an outstanding event in the history of the Southern Convention, and many people from surrounding churches came for the occasion. In the fall of 1890, I came back to Elon as a student. There were 82 of us students and Dr. W. S. Long was the first president.

The only building on the campus was the administration building, which by this time was near enough completed to be usable. In 1923 this building was destroyed by fire. The campus was a forest of trees, underbrush, blackberry and honeysuckle vines. On the first floor of the administration building there were living quarters for faculty members. There were a few classrooms here too. On the second floor were the auditorium and more classrooms. Boys roomed on the third floor. Girl students roomed and boarded off campus at what was then known as the Williamson house. I shared a room there with three other girls and the building was in charge of Prof. and Mrs. S. A. Holleman. Prof. Holleman was a faculty member and Mrs. Holleman was Dr. Long's daughter. A frame building a little east of the administration building served as a kitchen and dining hall for the boys and faculty members living on the campus. Prof. and Mrs. J. U. Newman were in charge here and came and went between the dining hall and their living quarters in the administration building. When East dormitory was built this frame building became an annex to it and finally was torn down altogether.

There were three graduates that first year; only one the next; and ten in my class of 1893.

Dr. Long served as president for four years. He was a man of great faith, courage, and vision, and had to face many trials and difficulties. He was not only president but financial agent as well. When funds got low and it seemed as if the college would have to close down, he would go out among the churches and get enough money somehow to keep the school running.

Money wasn't as plentiful in those early years as it is today. Many boys and girls eager for their education were willing to do almost any kind of work and even then they often had to give personal notes for their board and tuition. Some of these notes were later paid in full but some were not, and sometimes a batch of these unpaid notes would be divided among the faculty members as part of their salary. Then it was up to the professors to collect as best they could. When I was teaching in the preparatory department I was given some of these student notes but I never realized a penny from them. The faculty salary was a mere pittance anyway compared to salaries of today, but fortunately it didn't cost much to live then. In order to keep down expenses the girl students in those early years wore uniforms of dark blue serge, trimmed with smoked pearl buttons. Ready-made dresses in stores were simply unknown at that time. So as a convenience to the girls, the matron kept on hand bolts of dress material and notions which the girls would buy as they needed.

East dormitory was built in the late 1890's and became the girls' dormitory. For light, we used oil lamps and for heat, open fireplaces. Of course, we had no running water so each room had in it a wash bowl and pitcher. Every afternoon the maids made the rounds, filling up the pitchers and bringing in firewood. Once a week they collected all the lamps and took them to a back porch on the north side of the dormitory. There the chimneys were washed and the lamps refilled with oil.

When Elon was founded there was no church organization here. Dr. Long was a minister and conducted services for us on Sunday mornings. He was very deliberate in speaking and also very emotional. Mr. Herbert Scholz, who was studying shorthand while in college, did his practicing by taking notes during Dr. Long's sermons. At least once in every set of these sermon notes Mr. Scholz would have in parentheses these words, "He cries". On Sunday evenings a Christian Endeavor or prayer meeting was held in the college chapel. As there were no movies, radio, telephones, or television then, nearly all the students attended rather than stay in their rooms. One young man who always gave "v" the sound of "w", said, when he was making a talk at one of these meetings, "I tell you, boys, we must venture out with a wim and wengeance." This just about broke up the gathering.

There were no fraternities or sororities then. Instead there were three literary societies: the Psiphelian for girls and the Clio and Philologian for boys. These were a great help in learning public speaking, parliamentary procedure, etc. An outstanding event of the college was the annual public debate between the boys' societies. Prominent men of the county served as judges and many visitors came for the occasion. And, of course, society spirit was high.

We had no organized recreation or athletics in the earliest years of the college. During Dr. Long's presidency an occasional Saturday work-day took place when the boys would clear out some of the campus trees and tangled underbrush and the girls would rake and burn leaves and debris. This was considered quite a social and recreational affair and the students thoroughly enjoyed it.

After Dr. Long's four years in office he was succeeded by Dr. W. W. Staley. Dr. Staley was minister of the Suffolk, Virginia, Christian Church and he agreed to serve as college president without pay provided he be allowed to keep on with his ministerial work in Suffolk. For 11 years he served the church and the college in this way. He would come to the college at least once a month to spend two or three days looking after things, then get back to Suffolk in time to preach on Sunday. The trip was a strenuous undertaking, for it took a whole day to come and one to return, with a two-hour wait in Norlina each time because of poor train connections.

Dr. Staley was a man of sound judgment and good financial ability and he succeeded in getting the college out of debt. It was while he was president that East dormitory was built. When he was succeeded by Dr. E. L. Moffitt West dormitory was built. Then a power house was constructed. This meant electricity, central heating, water and sewerage facilities, and it brought welcome relief from the primitive conditions of the early days of the college.

in the fire of 1923. Others have been misplaced or taken from files.

The Alumni Office is making an effort to secure annuals to make up complete files for the library, the Alumni Office, and the President's Office.

In many families there are two annuals for the same year. It is hoped that Alumni will donate the extra annuals to the college to help establish these permanent files. Those who donate annuals will have their names inscribed in the annuals as donors and the gift will be acknowledged through the Alumni News.

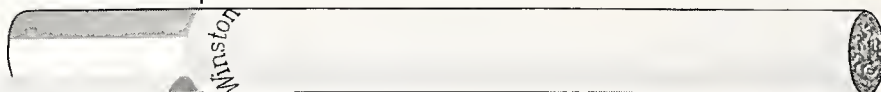

It is hoped that these files can be completed as soon as possible. Please bring, send by someone, or mail annuals to: W. B. Terrell, Alumni Office, Elon College.

Annuals needed for the files are for the years 1913 through 1931 consecutively. Also for the years 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1940, 1941, 1943, 1945, 1946.

Reunion Classes Are Urged To Return

Commencement Program Now Ready

Plans are being made to make Elon's sixty-ninth commencement one of the outstanding commencements that the college has observed. The events and the time schedule are listed in this issue of the Alumni News in order that alumni may start making plans to attend. Speakers to take part in the commencement will be announced later.

The program follows very closely the programs presented in the past. It is hoped that the difference this year will be in the large number of alumni and friends who return to share the commencement occasion.

Alumni participation should be the best in the history of the association. Here again the schedule follows rather closely the program of alumni activities at commencements in other years. Again it is hoped that the great difference will be in the number of alumni and their friends who return on Alumni Day.

The commencement festivities will begin on Friday night with the Annual Alumni Reception. Honoring the Graduating Class. President and Mrs. Danieley join the Alumni Association in extending this courtesy. The day begins with Class Reunion Breakfasts and continues through the day with a Picnic Luncheon. Alumni Business session. Open House to alumni and friends by President and Mrs. Danieley. The highlight of the Alumni Day will be the Alumni Banquet at 6:30 in McEwen Memorial Hall. Dr. H. S. Hardcastle will be the alumni speaker. Those who know "Hardy" will certainly look forward to hearing him.

For returning alumni everything possible will be done to make their visit pleasant. Accommodations can be provided for families in the dormitories. There will be no charge except for meals in the dining hall. The important thing is that the ALUMNI OFFICE be notified of YOUR PLANS.

Included in this issue is a form that should be filled in as soon as possible. If your plans are not definite at this time, please file the form for use if it develops that you can attend commencement.

On the form will be found some specific information for reunion classes. Classes scheduled for reunions are: 1894, 1899, 1904, 1909, 1914, 1919, 1924, 1929, 1934, 1939, 1944, 1949, and 1954. These are the classes that have been out of school five or more years. In addition it is customary to urge the last year's graduating class to return to the campus. This would be the class of 1958.

These reunion classes are the honor classes at commencement. Other classes should also return to help pay them honor. The class of 1909 will be the Golden Anniversary Class. The Silver Anniversary Class will be the class of 1934. Members of the reunion classes who would like to write to their classmates can secure a list of the class from the Alumni Office. Many classmates should write one another and plan together concerning a return to the campus. Many in the Elon area should invite classmates to visit them during commencement.

George D. Colclough, president of the General Alumni Association, has extended an invitation to all alumni to return for commencement—especially Alumni Day. President Colclough knows many hundreds of alumni and he will be very happy to see them on this occasion.

The activities on Sunday and Monday will center very largely around the graduating class. A fine class will be presented this year. Alumni and friends should stay for the entire commencement if at all convenient.

JOHN L. CAMERON GOES TO WASHINGTON POST

The issues requested are given again for your convenience in checking to see whether you have an annual you can donate for this purpose. The name of the donor will be inscribed in the annual. In addition, if it is given in memory of someone, that person's name will also be inscribed. Issues needed: 1913 through 1931 consecutively. Others sending annuals were: W. E. Beale, 4; Lois Bost, 3; G. Everett Ring, 1; Maggie Taylor, 1; G. C. White, 3.

In the June issue of the Alumni News a complete list of all those who have donated annuals, their classes, etc., will be given.

DR. CUNNINGHAM WILL DO RESEARCH PROJECT

Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of the college and chairman of the history department at Elon College, has been named by the United States Department of the Interior for work this summer on a research project regarding care of the Union and Confederate wounded at the first and second battles of Manassas during the Civil War.

The research work, which is expected to require eight to ten weeks, may provide the basis for a general account of the care of the wounded during the entire Civil War, but emphasis this summer will be on the First Battle of Manassas or Bull Run, which was fought on July 21, 1861, and the Second Battle, which was fought on the same field on August 29-30, 1862.

Dr. Cunningham will be searching in a familiar field, for he is the author of a widely acclaimed book, "Doctors in Gray," which told the story of the Confederate Army Medical Service. He also has written a number of papers and has spoken numerous times on the medical annals of the Southern armies.

This new research project, part of the expanding National Parks program, will seek to show the organization and operation of both the Union and Confederate Medical Departments at the time of the two significant battles at Manassas.

All official reports, papers and other data will be reviewed in an effort to show the nature and function of the two medical services, including the location of the main field hospitals of both the Union and Confederate forces, the personnel and facilities utilized in the removal of the wounded from the field and the medicines and treatments employed in caring for the wounded.

Since the two battles at Manassas were fought a full year apart in the early stages of the Civil War, the project

DR. SLOAN CHOSEN FOR IMPORTANT WRITINGS

Dr. W. W. Sloan, a member of the faculty of the Elon College Department of Religion, has been invited by the Abingdon Press of Nashville, Tenn., to write a portion of the International Lesson Annual for 1962. The annual deals with the international series of Sunday school lessons.

The section to be written by Dr. Sloan will be entitled "Explaining the Bible Text," relating to the late Hebrew history and prophets, with material based upon the findings of scholars concerning this section of the Bible.

The invitation to contribute to the Sunday school textbook comes as additional recognition for Dr. Sloan, who has received acclaim for his book, "A Survey of the Old Testament," which is now being used as a textbook in more than 50 American colleges. His book has also been widely used by ministers.

The Elon professor recently wrote a series of articles on Old Testament subjects which are to appear in the 1960 edition of the World Book Encyclopedia. He has also been asked to write another series of "Bible Words For Today" which are appearing in several hundred American newspapers.

APPRECIATES ELON

The following is taken from a letter from C. S. McFarland, Jr., of the McFarland Company, publishers, of Westfield, N. J.:

"I have a very warm spot in my heart for Elon College. You honored my father, the late Rev. Dr. Charles S. McFarland, with an honorary degree back about 1920. In fact, I had hoped that our younger daughter, Mary, would enroll at Elon, but she decided on Tusculum College instead."

THE CAUSEYS WRITE

"Of times Paul and I recall the wonderful years we spent at Elon. How dear to our hearts these memories are! Like so many other married couples, if we had not chosen Elon, we would not be so fortunate in life. Our life together began at Elon.

"I'm not teaching this year because we have a new and wonderful baby daughter, Donna Sue. She was born September 30, 1958. This brings our total to three. Jennifer Marie will be nine in May and Mark will be six in August. As you can guess, we all enjoy our baby!

"Paul is teaching in the Westminster Junior High School. Incidentally, another Elonite, Jim Rhodes, is teaching and living with his wife and family in our locale. Furthermore, we attend church and Sunday School together.

"How refreshing it is to receive the Elon Alumni News! Hope this check helps to show our appreciation. Wish we could send more. Anyway, 'Here's to dear, old Elon!'"

Sincerely,

NEW ENGLAND LETTER

A Newsletter for New England chapter of Elon College Alumni Association has just reached the Alumni Office and carries many items of interest concerning activities and persons at the college—also news of some alumni.

The person responsible for printing and mailing this interesting letter, which goes to a group of alumni in the New England States area, is Thomas Wm. Targett, graduate in 1955. He lives at 28 Forest Street, Braintree, Mass. Quite often alumni in that area get together for informal meetings. Alumni in that area may like to get in touch with Tom.

BASEBALL TEAM GETS OFF TO GOOD START

Elon opened its baseball season with a 9 to 3 triumph over a touring Williams College nine from Massachusetts. Gil Watts and Roger Knapp shared mound duties for Elon and allowed Williams only three hits. Watts went the first five innings and received credit for the game. He gave up all three hits. Knapp came on in the sixth and pitched hitless ball the rest of the way. Elon got only five hits.

Elon was victorious on the second day over the Williams team by a score of 8 to 1. Gary Henson, with five innings, and Dan Mangrum, coming on in the sixth shared pitching duties with Henson the winning pitcher. Williams collected five hits. Elon chalked up ten safeties. Steve Wall and Gil Watts were the big guns for Elon as they each collected three hits in five appearances at the plate. Wall slammed out a single, triple, and a home run, while Watts blasted two singles and a double.

Colby College from Maine furnished two days of opposition for the Christian baseballers during the first week of the schedule.

The first game was won by the Christians 12 to 10. Art Thompson started on the mound for Elon and worked five innings, followed by Driver, VanBenschoten. Knapp came in to pitch to one man in the ninth. VanBenschoten received credit for the victory.

Gil Watts, playing first base for the Elon team, led the hitting with three safeties.

Colby got away to a good start in the second game by scoring five runs in the sixth inning to lead 5 to 0. Elon came back in its half of the inning and scored six runs to go one up on the visitors.

John VanBenschoten chalked up his second victory in as many days in the role of relief hurler, the final score Elon 9-Colby 6. Colby outhit Elon 9 hits to 3. However walks on the part of Colby pitchers proved their downfall.

The Dartmouth game scheduled for Friday, March 7, was rained out. Also games with Fort Lee at Fort Lee, Virginia, on Monday and Tuesday, March 30 and 31 were called off because of rain.

However, the two teams played a double-header on April 1 with Elon winning 3 to 1 and 11 to 2. Watts was the winning pitcher in the first game, Henson in the second.

In a three-day tournament held at Camp Lejeune the Elon team finished in a three-way tie with Lejeune and Ithaca University. The results: Elon 2-Lejeune 12, Thompson the losing pitcher. Elon 8-Ithaca 4, VanBenschoten the winning pitcher. Elon 3-Ithaca 4, Watts the losing pitcher. Elon 8-Lejeune 7, Mangrum the winning pitcher.

Gil Watts, outstanding player and captain on the Christian baseball team, covered himself with glory early in the baseball season when he pitched a scoreless no-hitter against the Guilford Quakers at Comer Field on April 7. Elon won 5 to 0.

At present Watts is leading his team in hitting with a .400 average. In his senior year Gil is continuing his splendid baseball record of previous years. He was picked for All-Conference and All-State honors in 1958. In addition he rated all NAIA national recognition. He is from Laurinburg, N. C.

Several weeks of work in research will be necessary at Manassas and Washington, but Dr. Cunningham expects to be able to do some of the work of organizing the data here at Elon College.

DACE W. JONES GETS DUKE POWER POSITION

An Elon graduate, Dace W. Jones of Charlotte has been promoted to vice president, a director, and supervisor of branches of Duke Power Company by the company's board of directors meeting in New York.

By-Laws of Alumni Association Revised

Feeling that the By-Laws of the Elon College Alumni Association are in need of revision, the Executive Committee of the Association authorized the president of the association to appoint a committee to study the by-laws and make recommendations to the Executive Committee at its January 31 meeting. A committee composed of Paul Messick, chairman; Forrest Hall, and W. C. Elder submitted proposed changes in the By-Laws to the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee also made some changes and is now publishing the proposed By-Laws to be considered by the Association at its annual meeting in May.

It is the hope of the Executive Committee that the alumni will study the proposed By-Laws carefully and suggest any changes or additions that might be needed to give the association a clear working document.

Suggested changes should be mailed to the Alumni Secretary as soon as possible. These changes should be typed and the Article and Sections concerned clearly shown.

The committee will appreciate the cooperation of the alumni in this undertaking.

NEW EQUIPMENT ADDED TO ALUMNI OFFICE

Records in the Alumni Office are undergoing a change. Sometime ago the college was able to secure a large, modern addressograph machine for the Alumni Office. This addressograph will also be used by the Registrar's Office for making student records, etc. The Business Office may also use it. Work on changing mailing plates has already begun in the Alumni Office. Approximately 4,800 plates in the mailing file and nearly an equal number in the class files are to be changed. In addition, several hundred names will be added to these lists.

When these changes are completed the mailing of material from the Alumni Office will be handled in a more satisfactory manner.

The office is requesting assistance from alumni in the matter of making new plates. Most alumni now receiving mail from the office will note a code at the end of the name. The code indicates the class and whether the alumnus is a graduate, a non-graduate, or a commercial student. For example: Mary Smith, 45G means she was graduated with this class in 1945. Mary Smith, 45N means she probably would have graduated with this class if she had continued in school.

Alumni who are receiving mail without a code (or class) shown are urged to notify the Alumni Office with which class you were graduated, or would have been graduated if you had continued in school, in order that the new mailing plates may be prepared correctly. Also if the code is incorrect, please notify the office. This will save many hours of work on the part of the office staff that would be required in checking the permanent records. Codes: letter after the year—G—graduate, N—non-graduate and C—commercial student.

ALUMNI ARE EXPECTED FOR COMMENCEMENT

Reservations are coming in from alumni for activities on Alumni Day, Saturday, May 30. Indications are that a large group of graduates and former students will be on the campus for this special day which is given over entirely to affairs of the alumni.

Alumni Day begins with class Reunion Breakfast, McEwen Dining Hall, at 9:00 a.m., and continues with the following events: Picnic luncheon at 12:30 p.m.; Open House, West Dormitory at 5:30 p.m.; The Alumni Banquet, The McEwen Social Hall, at 6:30 p.m.

A feature of the banquet session will be the Alumni Address by Dr. H. S. Hardcastle of the class of 1919. "Hardy", as he is familiarly known, is an outstanding speaker—entertaining as well as thought-provoking.

Another item of interest will be the recognition of the Outstanding Alumnus.

The commencement activities get underway on Friday night, May 29, at 8:30, with the Annual Alumni Reception, honoring the graduating class of 1959. Dr. and Mrs. Danieley and the Alumni Association extend this courtesy to the class. Many alumni may be able to attend this affair.

Sunday, May 31, at 11:00 a.m., the Baccalaureate Service will be held. Monday, June 1, the Graduation ceremonies close the commencement program.

Formal dress is not required for any of the alumni functions. It is a matter of choice.

Alumni are urged to check the April issue of the Alumni News and to use the enclosed form in that issue to make reservations. This should be returned to the Alumni Office by May 26 in order that accommodations may be planned. If the form has been misplaced, we shall be glad to send another on request.

Reunion classes should bring annuals, pictures of their families, etc., that will be of interest to classmates.

Members of reunion classes should write to one another and make plans to attend on Alumni Day at least. A welcome awaits all at Alma Mater.

MAKE RESERVATIONS

Alumni are urged to use form enclosed in April issue to make reservations at once so that accommodations can be arranged.

ELON ALUMNI HOLD SEVERAL MEETINGS

Six group meetings of Elon College Alumni have been held recently. Four of these were chapter meetings and two were informal gatherings of alumni.

Suffolk Chapter

On April 10 the Suffolk Chapter of the Elon College Alumni Association held its annual meeting at the First Congregational Church in Suffolk, Va., with about 80 present. G. C. Mann, president of the chapter, presided. The theme for the occasion was "Elon College, Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow." Presenting the Yesterday were Dr. Darden W. Jones, Wellington Saecker, and Mrs. Virginia Dare Christian. Each speaker gave some interesting experiences of student days at Elon, some light, some serious. They also paid tribute to the college and expressed appreciation for what the college had meant to each of them. The Today was presented in song and comment by members of a male quartet from the college. The Tomorrow was presented by W. B. Terrell, General Alumni Secretary from Elon College.

Dr. R. E. Brittle presented the resolution on Memoirs. Dr. H. S. Hardcastle gave the invocation.

Durham-Orange Chapter

The Durham-Orange Chapter of the Alumni Association held its annual meeting on April 16 at Harvey's Cafeteria in Durham with 35 attending. C. Carl Woods, president of the chapter, was in charge. George D. Colclough, president of the General Alumni Association, was the speaker for the occasion. Mr. Colclough traced the history of Elon College and pointed out the progress made under each of the past presidents and the program now underway by Dr. Danieley's administration. Mr. Colclough also gave some humorous incidents of his early days at Elon College and his experiences as Field Secretary of the College.

Mr. J. L. Crumpton, member of the Board of Trustees of Elon College and a member of the local Alumni Chapter, presented some ideas on what the college might do in serving its alumni through the college personnel and facilities.

W. B. Terrell, Alumni Secretary, spoke briefly of some of the plans for the Association. Entertainment was furnished by a male quartet from the college.

MORE ANNUALS NEEDED

The effort to secure three complete sets of annuals (Phippsli) for files in the Alumni Office, the President's office, and the Library is meeting with success. However, quite a number of annuals are still needed to complete this project. It is hoped that alumni will check the issues listed in the March and April Alumni News and will send us copies as soon as possible.

The June issue of the Alumni News will carry a complete list of those who have donated annuals, the person in whose honor given, etc.

Since the last listing annuals have been received from Mrs. E. Clyde Johnston, 1; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McLeod, 3; Julia Clem, 4.

CARROLL YATES GETS IMPORTANT POSITION

"OUR TOWN" WILL BE FINAL CAMPUS SHOW

The Elon Player presentation of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town", one of the truly great plays in American stage history, will be presented in the new Mooney Chapel Theatre on May 14th, 15th, and 16th as the final campus show of the 1958-59 college year.

Prof. M. E. Wooton is pushing rehearsals for the play itself, and workmen are pushing the remodelling work on the Mooney Chapel Theatre, which will present a completely new appearance for this play. The theatre was badly damaged by fire on December 15th this year and has not been available for Elon Player use since that time, but the restoration process will make it a completely new and modern home for the student stage shows.

Reservation should be made at once by writing Elon Players or calling the telephone operator at Elon College JU 4-3111.

Dr. George G. Parker

PARKER IS SPEAKER FOR RELIGIOUS WEEK

Dr. George G. Parker, pastor of the Congregational Christian Church in Manhasset, N. Y., who holds an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Elon College, was the guest speaker for the upperclassmen's Religious Emphasis Week service, held on the Elon College campus from Sunday through Friday the week of April 12-17.

The guest minister, who is a native of Kansas City, Mo., was educated at William Jewell College and at the Andover Newton Theological Seminary. Since that time he has held pastorates in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and New York and has taught in a number of special schools for Congregational Christian pastors and has directed numerous young people's conferences.

Dr. Parker has written numerous articles for church magazines and has appeared as a speaker at campus and student gatherings at Cornell, Centenary, Muncie State Teachers, DePauw University and Peddie Academy. He has appeared as a lecturer at statewide pastors' conferences in New York and Massachusetts and has held memberships on many denominational committees during his two years as a minister.

ISLEY TRANSFERRED

Airman David G. Isley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Isley of Burlington, N. C., has completed his initial course for Air Force basic military training in Lackland, AFB, Tex. He has been selected to attend the technical training course for Utilities Maintenance at Sheppard AFB, Tex. Airman Isley, a graduate of Edwin M. Holt High School, attended Elon College for two years.

BASEBALL TEAM STILL IN RACE FOR TITLE

In games played since the April issue of the Alumni News the Elon Christian baseballers have continued to show a successful season. Victories came as follows: Lenoir Rhyne (2), Western Carolina (2), High Point, Catawba, Appalachian (2). Losses came at the hands of East Carolina College and Catawba. For the season thus far Elon has won 18 games and lost 4.

Five games remain on the schedule with one game rained out with Atlantic Christian at Elon. This game may be played as a part of a double-header when Elon goes to AC.

The best game played recently was the 1 to 0 victory chalked up by Gary Henson when he held the Lenoir Rhyne Bears to three hits.

The worst game played, and the one that may prove the costliest, was the Elon loss to East Carolina 11 to 1.

Wildness on the part of the Elon hurlers got the Christians off to a bad start which they never overcame. Elon out-hit the visitors 9 to 5 but left fourteen men stranded on the base paths. Elon was also the victim of three fast double-plays. At present East Carolina is leading the conference with Elon in second place. Elon still has a mathematical chance at the title.

However, a victory for Elon over the leaders is a must if this chance is to be kept alive.

MINOR SPORTS ARE MAKING PROGRESS

With the exception of tennis the minor sports program is faring very well in conference competition.

Track

Elon has victories over Pembroke, Pfeiffer, Atlantic Christian and was second in a meet with Lenoir Rhyne and Guilford. L. R. was first.

Elon has lost to the strong Southern Conference champions, Washington and Lee. The only loss in the NS conference in dual meets is to Catawba. Naval Apprentice of Newport News has defeated the Christians.

Golf

In this sport Elon has victories over Catawba, High Point (two), Guilford, Appalachian.

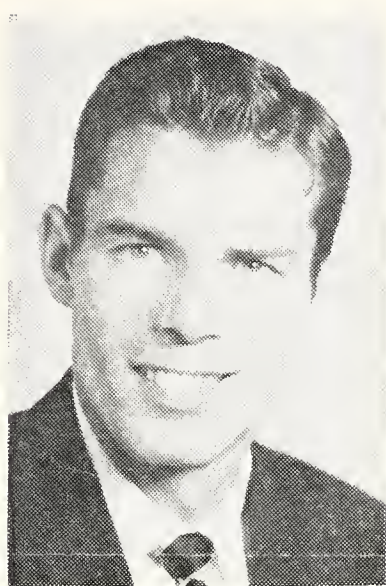

Losses are to East Carolina and Guilford.

Tennis

With few experienced players the tennis squad is having a rough time with its schedule.

The victories are two over High Point. Losses to: East Carolina (twice), Appalachian, Guilford, Atlantic Christian College.

The complete record in these sports with information concerning some of the individual performers will be given in the June issue of the Alumni News.

William Ralph Miller

BILL MILLER IS NEW BASKETBALL COACH

William Ralph "Bill" Miller, one of America's outstanding junior college cage coaches, will take over this summer as Elon's new head coach of basketball, according to an announcement made on April 29 by Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon College president. Miller, 33 years old, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

The new Christian cage mentor has for the past three years been head coach at Campbellsville Junior College in Campbellsville, Ky., during that time he has compiled an outstanding record which included 56 victories and 23 defeats.

The Campbellsville team, which posted marks of 18-6 and 14-0 in Miller's first two years at the school, had its best mark this past season with a record of 24 wins and 7 losses. The team went on this spring to the semi-finals of the national junior college sectional tournament at Moberly, Mo., and averaged 90 points per game in the scoring columns.

Coach Miller, who is a native of Berea, Ky., played high school ball at Williamsburg, Ky., high school. From there he went on to Eastern Kentucky State in 1944, but he interrupted his education for armed service from March, 1945, until November, 1947.

He was at the University of North Carolina in 1947-48, and then he played in 1948-49 in pro basketball with the Chicago team of the National Basketball Association. He later was accountant with Western Electric in Winston-Salem, but returned to Carolina, where he received the A. B. degree in 1954 and the master's degree in 1955.

RETIRING COACH IS HONORED BY ATHLETES

The members of the Elon College football and basketball squads paid tribute to Coach Graham L. "Doc" Mathis at dinner in the banquet room of McEwen Memorial Dining Hall April 27. Coach Mathis recently resigned his Elon post after ten years as head coach of basketball and assistant coach of football.

The program featured brief remarks by Prof. J. C. Colley, who coached Mathis in his high school days; by Prof. Luther Byrd, who sketched Mathis' record during his Elon coaching tenure; by Coach Sid Varney, who told of his coaching associations with Coach Mathis during the past six years; and by Coach Mathis himself, who expressed his appreciation for the fine cooperation he had received at Elon.

Robert Hendricks, senior guard on the football squad, speaking for the players, presented Coach Mathis with a transistor radio and a butane gas lighter as gifts from the grid and cage squads.

ALUMNI HONOR ROLL OF CONTRIBUTORS

The growing list of alumni contributors is very encouraging. Several classes not previously listed appear this month. It is still hoped that every class will be represented when the "Annual Honor Roll of Contributors" is published in the June issue and that a very high percentage of participation by the members will be shown.

In order to be on this Honor Roll, members must send their contribution by May 31—end of the fiscal year.

Every person who has contributed during the year will again be listed in the June issue.

If anyone has discovered an error in the listings to date, the Alumni Office will appreciate a correction. Alumni are urged to use the form that was enclosed in the April issue and send a contribution AT ONCE.

There is no organized chapter of Elon alumni in Greenville. However James Hayes, a former business manager of Elon College, made arrangements for Dr. Danieleley and Mr. Hassell to meet with a number of Elon alumni and friends at the Pantry Restaurant. Mr. Hayes is the husband of the former Evelyn Hodgins, who taught in the music department at the college. ELON COLLEGE

ELON COLLEGE, NORTH CAROLINA

Dr. Danieleley's Message To Students

This message was given to the student body at the close of the Chapel Program on "Awards Day". It is felt that the Alumni will be interested in this expression from President Danieleley.

This academic year is almost over. I'd like to express, on behalf of the faculty and administration, as well as for myself personally, our appreciation for the fine spirit of cooperation you have shown and the good work you have done this year.

There have been many interesting events this year. We have been proud of the way our students have represented the college on the playing field, on the stage, in public programs, and in the community.

There have been many changes on the campus. The casual observer who passes the campus notices new trees, new shrubbery, the absence of North Dormitory, new concrete walks, etc. These changes have occasioned much comment but they are not the important changes which have taken place. There have been curricular changes, a revision of graduation requirements and a general re-emphasis on quality in academic work. When you were admitted to Elon College, we told you that Elon was a good school . . . that was a true statement. It is not, however, as good as we want it to be. The administration and faculty, with the support of the Board of Trustees, and to the best of my knowledge, the Alumni, are united in a program to strengthen our College. We are working to undergird our program with better financial backing, to improve our faculty and enrich our instructional program, to re-emphasize and constantly seek to strengthen our Christian witness as we serve as a Christian college. In other words we are determined that Elon College will not only be good but that it will be great.

This means that as standards are raised, those of you who are students must give more attention to your work. You must realize that high academic standards for the institution mean high standards for individuals. . . We appreciate your reaction to the efforts which have been made this year; we promise our continued efforts in this direction in the future to the end that you may enjoy the advantages of attending a top-flight liberal-arts, church-related, Christian college, and that all of us may have reason to be proud of Alma Mater.

FROM NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE:

America is recognized among the family of nations as a Christian nation. Its laws, system of justice, economy, political life, educational system, social and religious life, are all today the best the world has enjoyed because the Christian ethic underlies all of what we are and do in America.

Hence America, at no distant future date, will cease to be a Christian nation if its educational system is kept Christian. It is absolutely vital for us to maintain and enlarge our Christian Colleges.

Alumni Secretary's Message

The Elon College Alumni Association has just closed a highly successful year from the standpoint of far-reaching policy, definite actions, and new enactments at the annual business session.

During the past year a very loyal and cooperative Executive Committee, under the splendid leadership of George D. Colclough, president of the General Association, has given a great deal of time and effort in the study of ways and means to make the association more effective in its support of Elon College.

Perhaps the most important action taken by the association in its annual session was the approval of an annual giving plan on the part of the alumni and friends of Elon College for the financial support of the college. This change from the "dues" system was recommended by the Executive Committee with the feeling that many alumni and friends of the college are now ready to include in their program some method of annual, continued giving, whether large or small for the support of Elon College. Such giving would be figured by the individual as a part of his benevolent program each year. In keeping with a recommendation of the Executive Committee, the association voted to call its annual giving campaign the "Elon College Loyalty Fund". In addition to information appearing elsewhere in this issue of the Alumni News, the alumni will be informed in detail about the plans for this program.

Other matters recommended by the Executive Committee and adopted by the association in its May meeting were:

The Criteria for selecting the "Outstanding Alumnus of the Year", as published in the November issue of the Alumni News, was approved with the additional stipulation that announcement of the winner of this award be announced publicly a reasonable time before commencement.

New By-Laws were adopted. A committee did a great deal of work revising the By-Laws and it is the feeling of the alumni that the association has a very complete and effective set of By-Laws governing the association. A copy of these By-Laws appeared in the April issue of the Alumni News.

Many of the "old grads and former students" were back for at least a part of the commencement program. The number back for reunion classes was very encouraging to those in charge of Alumni Day.

Enthusiasm and interest on the part of the alumni was high for the progress being made at the college. The campus improvements added beauty for the commencement occasion.

The entire commencement program was successful, beginning with the colorful reception and dance given by Dr. and Mrs. Danieley and the Alumni Association and ending with the graduation exercises on Monday.

Excellent speakers appeared on the program. Dr. Hardecastle brought a splendid message to the alumni at the annual banquet, inspiring and challenging the alumni. (Ed's. Note—This address will appear in the Alumni News later).

Dr. Scott's presentation of the Alumnus Award and Dr. Babcock's acceptance added much to the alumni occasion.

The breakfast for reunion classes was the best attended in years.

Other alumni came for the picnic luncheon, and still others for the banquet. Page 5 shows some of the alumni who attended the breakfast and a few other action pictures.

It is hoped the Alumni News will bring to you who could not attend commencement some degree of pleasure in reading of the activities.

The lovely lady on the cover page was Linda Simpson of Altamahaw, N. C., at the time she reigned as Elon's May Queen this spring. She is now Mrs. Richard Lashley, having married the King of the May Day festivities. Linda was co-editor of the annual, secretary of the Student Council, and president of Pi Kappa Tau social sorority. She was in Who's Who In American Universities and Colleges.

IN APPRECIATION

"Here comes the band" has been a familiar cry at the Elon home football games this year and on other occasions when the Elon band has appeared. Many compliments and expressions of appreciation have been directed toward the Elon band this year—particularly when it has appeared in the half-time performances at the football games and in the Homecoming parade. The graceful stepping majorettes, with their skillful baton twirling, the striking drum major, the attractive uniforms have all added to the glamour of the band.

Again the band received high praise for the splendid spring concert given in Whitley auditorium.

Prof. Dewey Stowers, who has directed the band for the past four years deserves a great deal of credit for building such a competent musical organization. He is leaving Elon College to continue studies toward his doctor's degree.

Rev. Lillian Gregory

FINALS PREACHER WAS REV. LILLIAN GREGORY

Rev. Lillian Gregory, of Chicago, Ill., delivered the baccalaureate sermon in Whitley Auditorium Sunday morning, May 31, and told the 121 Elon graduates that "for years to come we will live in a world, not of peace and brotherhood, of mutual understanding and good will, but of cold war, co-existence, misunderstanding and even suspicion."

Counselling the Elon seniors on how to cope with this situation as they go into the world, Miss Gregory urged them to find a better solution to these world problems than defensive deterrence, saying to them, "we must be equipped to comprehend, though not accept, ideologies quite different from ours."

The guest minister, who is executive secretary for the 800,000 members of the National Fellowship of Congregational Christian Women, told her listeners that "one of the first pitfalls" in reaching for solutions of the world problems is "society's pattern of regimentation."

Calling this the "era of the organization man, the man in the gray flannel suit," she pointed out that everyone is trying to be like everyone else, and she urged the graduates to "refuse to be regimented to such an extent that you lose your individuality."

While urging individual resistance to regimentation, Miss Gregory advised seniors to "be amenable to reason, since in reason is found the solution of many problems," pointing out that a positive, friendly and cooperative position is needed if the rest of the world is to get a fresh image of America and thus develop better international understanding.

IMPORTANCE OF THE INDIVIDUAL STRESSED BY DR. BERNARD BOYD BEFORE GRADUATES

The importance of man as an individual was stressed by Dr. Bernard Boyd, holder of the James A. Gray professorship in religion at the University of North Carolina, in the featured address Monday, June 1, as Elon College concluded its sixty-ninth annual commencement with the presentation of diplomas and degrees to 121 seniors of the 1959 graduating class.

Speaking before a capacity audience in Elon's Whitley Memorial Auditorium, Dr. Boyd urged the members of the graduating class to keep themselves always aware of the individual worth of those with whom they come in contact and to seek always for the betterment of their fellowmen and of society in general.

The speaker was introduced by North Carolina's Secretary of State Thad Eure, who is chairman of the Elon College board of trustees, introduced his discussion of man's individual importance by pointing out the varying degrees of attention paid to human beings in the development of the world's art.

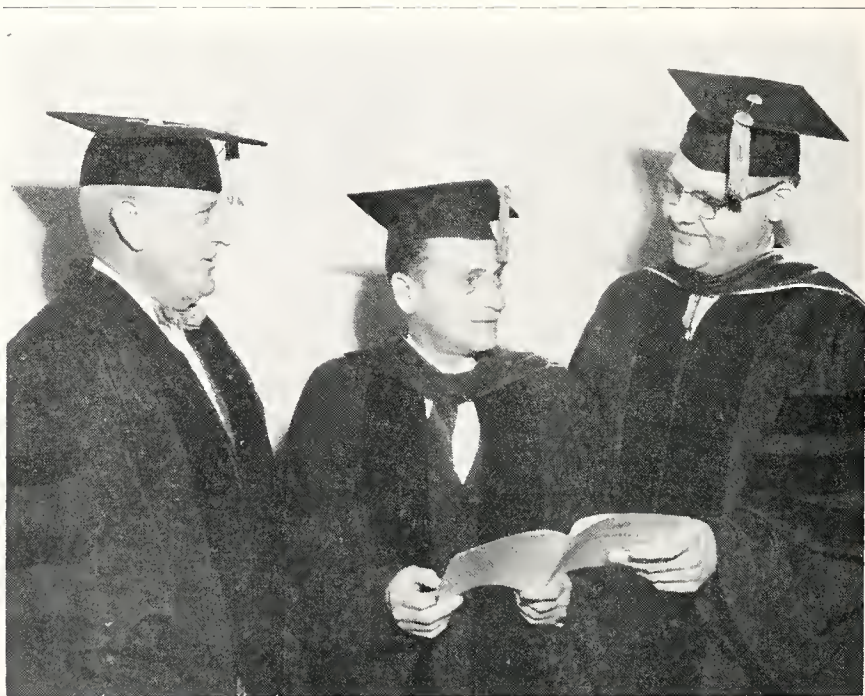

He cited the fact that early Chinese art gave greatest attention to landscape and background, human beings in a minor position; with the Greek artists giving some recognition to the importance of man, but with greatest attention to the torso and with little effort to present the human mind and personality.

He then credited Renaissance artists with bringing out the human character and personality through wonderful portrayal of faces, a trend which he cited as more or less in modern art, in which mankind gets little recognition. Modern art, he pointed out, if it uses the human figure at all, presents man as a grotesque being.

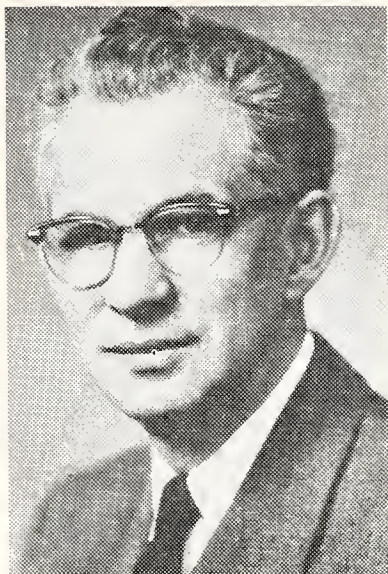

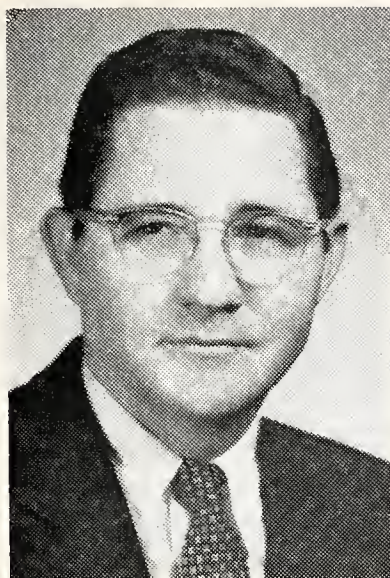

In urging the fallacy of such a concept, Dr. Boyd spoke of the various professions into which the graduates may enter and stressed the fact that, whatever a man's profession may be, he should keep before him the needs of the individual above those of the group.

To those seniors who will enter the field of education, he charged them to deal with each pupil or each student as an individual; and he urged those who may enter the field of medicine to regard their patients as individuals and not simply as "the man in Room 621". There were similar pleas to graduates who may serve in the fields of religion and business.

Changing his approach, he told the seniors that each of them was graduating today because someone had regarded them as important individuals, because someone had invested money, time or effort in their behalf. This fact, he pointed out, involves a definite responsibility in return for each senior, a responsibility which he urged them to accept.

Commencement participants—L to R—Secretary of State, Thad Eure, chairman of Board of Trustees of Elon College, who presented Dr. Boyd, the commencement speaker; Dr. J. E. Danieleley, who presided over the commencement activities.

GET HONORARY DEGREES—Elon College, at its 69th annual commencement, awarded honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws to Dr. William C. Friday, left, of Chapel Hill, president of the University of North Carolina, and to Dr. Curtis R. Schumacher, right, of New York City, chairman of the capital funds committee of the department of stewardship and benevolence of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Friday, born in Virginia, spent his boyhood in North Carolina and graduated at North Carolina State College, where he later served as assistant to the dean of students prior to World War II service. He later graduated in law at the University of North Carolina, where he served as assistant dean of students and later as administrative assistant to the president before being named to the University presidency in 1956. Dr. Schumacher, a native of Williamsport, Pa., was engaged for 24 years in the banking business in Williamsport and was an active civic and church leader before entering upon a career of full-time church service. Since accepting his full-time assignment with the Board of Home Missions of the Congregational Christian Churches, he has written several books concerning church stewardship and financing.

ALUMNI PARTICIPATE

Elon alumni were in evidence on the commencement programs. Rev. Robert Kimball, '34, who has just recently become pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church in Burlington, gave the invocation at the alumni banquet.

Dr. W. T. Scott, '24, Dr. W. J. Andes, '35, Prof. Charles Lynam, '52, Prof. Fletcher Moore, '34, and Prof. Fred Sahlmann, '51, were on the programs for the Baccalaureate Sermon and for the Graduation Exercises on Sunday and Monday.

COLCLOUGH PRESIDES

George Colclough, president of the General Alumni Association, presided over the alumni activities at the commencement occasion. He and Mrs. Colclough were present to greet alumni on Friday night. On Saturday he conducted a business session of the executive committee and of the association, attending the reception in the afternoon and presiding at the Alumni Banquet that evening.

ELON COLLEGE GIVEN LARGE SHARE FUNDS

Elon College drew the largest share as twenty-six North Carolina colleges shared in a $306,350 fund at the spring meeting of the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges at Winston-Salem on April 29.

The foundation is a cooperative fund-raising group, which comprises both senior and junior colleges in the church-related field in the state, and the total of $306,350 was contributed in recent months by about 200 business firms in the state.

Administrators from each of the 26 member colleges work together in soliciting funds, and the total gifts are then divided among them. Sixty percent of the foundation's funds are divided equally among all the colleges, and the other forty per cent is divided on the basis of enrollment. The foundation has raised a total of $835,605 in the six years since it was organized.

ROBERT E. LEE WILL HEAD MOORE SCHOOLS

Robert E. Lee, Aberdeen school principal for the past nine years, has been named Superintendent of Moore County Schools succeeding H. Lee Thomas, who has resigned effective July 1. The new Superintendent is a graduate of Elon College in the Class of 1946, and holds a master's degree from the University of North Carolina.

He was chosen from 23 applicants by the county board following several screening sessions, including personal interviews after the field was reduced to a small number.

He went to Aberdeen in 1946 as a coach and under his tutelage Aberdeen teams won several county championships and the girls's basketball team was state champion for several years.

He was named elementary principal in 1948, continuing as high school coach, and in 1950 he was elected principal of the school.

Three years later the school won accreditation and membership in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

Since 1950 the school has seen much progress and expansion of the physical plant, starting with completion of the new elementary building and gymnasium already under construction when Lee became principal. In 1952 the agricultural building grew with the addition of a four-classroom unit, and enlargement and improvement of the cafeteria.

A new auditorium was added to the school plant in 1957, and in 1958 the athletic field was rebuilt and enlarged for 11-man football. A lighting system was also modernized.

Lee, the son of a Methodist minister, was born in Franklin, Va., and lived in a number of places before graduating from high school in Maxton.

ELON REPRESENTED

Dr. W. Millard Stevens represented Elon College at the inauguration of Vincent Brown Coffin as Chancellor of the University of Hartford, Hartford, Conn., on April 21. Dr. Stevens is minister of the First Congregational Christian Church at Southington, Connecticut, and is a graduate of Elon in the Class of 1936 and a member of the Board of Trustees of Elon College.

Rev. Eugene P. Poe, graduate of Elon in '46, represented Elon College at the inauguration of Leslie Stevens Wright as president of Howard College, Birmingham, Alabama, on April 21, 1959. Rev. Poe is pastor of the South Highlands Presbyterian Church, Birmingham.

TRUITT PAYS TRIBUTE TO DR. HARDCASTLE

(The following is the introduction given Dr. H. S. Hardcastle, Alumni Orator, by Dr. John G. Truitt at the Alumni Banquet—a tribute to Dr. Hardcastle. The Alumni News wishes to share it with those who could not be present).

Mr. President, Fellow Alumni and Friends:

In Dover, Delaware, several years ago, a young banker acknowledged his faith in Christ, joined the church and heard the call to the Christian ministry. Being a whole-hearted sort of somebody he believed in doing whatever he did well. To him this meant paying the price of preparing for the preaching and pastoral ministry. He received his bachelor's degree from Elon College. While there he made excellent grades, played on the varsity basketball team, became an expert tennis player, and was good enough at an extra campus course to win the hand and heart of the valedictorian of her class, Mary Miller.

He received his B. D. from Yale, married Mary, and accepted a position on the faculty of Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio. After his first year at Defiance he was called to, and accepted the pastorate of, the Suffolk Christian Church, Suffolk, Va.

During his years at Suffolk he definitely showed his sincerity of soul, his soundness of judgment and his magnanimity of spirit. His predecessor, Dr. W. W. Staley, had served the church for 41 years, and had been elected pastor emeritus for life and was to live in the same parsonage and receive the same salary as long as he lived. While pastor of Suffolk Dr. Staley had been for eleven of those years non-resident president of Elon College, president of the Convention for twenty-seven years, and to make all this more tricky the parsonage was only six feet from the church. They said it couldn't be done, but Hardy did it! Some preachers follow their predecessors. Hardy walked by the side of his.

He added to the Suffolk Church a very large four-floor Christian education building. He became also a regular writer of the Sunday School lessons for the secular press and The Christian Sun. He has probably written more for The Christian Sun than any other living man. To be sure—if it were ever debatable—that he served the largest Church in the Convention, he accepted the pastorate of the Christian Temple, Norfolk, Va. He also became president of the Eastern Virginia Conference and of the Southern Convention, which job he maybe would still be holding but for the change of the rules of the tenure of the office. I'm pleased to present everybody's friend, Dr. H. S. Hardcastle!

DR. HAVILAH BABCOCK IS ALUMNUS OF YEAR

Dr. Havilah Babcock of Columbia, S. C., was honored as Elon College's "Outstanding Alumnus of the Year" at the annual alumni banquet of the Elon College Alumni Association held on Saturday night, May 30, as a climax to Alumni Day.

Dr. Babcock, author and scholar, has been head of the English Department at the University of South Carolina for the past 22 years. He holds the following degrees: A.B., M.A., Ph.D., Litt.D. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa; O.D.K.; Kappa Alpha; Who's Who in America and in the World.

Dr. Babcock, a native of Appomattox, Va., graduated from Elon College with the Class of 1918 and later received the master's and doctor's degrees for graduate study at Virginia, Columbia and South Carolina. He taught at Elon College prior to joining the faculty of the University of South Carolina in the 1930's.

Widely known as an outdoorsman and sportsman, Dr. Babcock is the author of 130 stories and articles in national magazines and has also written six books, among them one novel and four of short stories concerning American Wildlife and the outdoors.

One of his books, "My Health Is Always Better in November," is the only complete work on outdoor life to be published in Braille by the Library of Congress. Many of his stories have been translated into foreign languages.

His pastimes are: gardening, golfing, fishing, and hunting. He is considered an expert outdoorsman, having won many casting tournaments and described by Field and Stream as "leading quail hunter in America."

He is married to the former Alice Cheatham, a graduate of Randolph Macon and other institutions. She is Assist. Principal of Columbia High and only woman member of State Board of Education. They have one child, Havilah, Jr.

The award to Dr. Babcock was presented by Dr. W. T. Scott, '24, Superintendent of the Southern Convention of Congregational Churches.

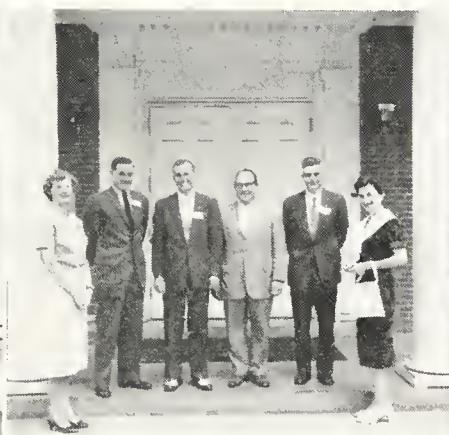

The introduction was rather unusual. Dr. Scott had kept through the years short stories, poems, themes, etc., which he had prepared as a member of Dr. Babcock's English classes at Elon College. From these various papers Dr. Scott had selected "choice criticisms and comments" which Dr. Babcock had used in evaluating some of the efforts of Dr. Scott in the field of journalism. As Dr. Scott read some of the "flamboyant" criticisms and witticisms placed on his handiwork by this talented English teacher, many alumni in the audience were "overwhelmed, convulsed with merriment," since several of them remembered that their literary efforts had suffered the same fate at the hands of this popular professor. (Ed's. note: Hope Dr. Babcock doesn't grade this effort at "fine writing.")

Dr. Scott concluded his presentation in a more serious vein. He paid tribute to this outstanding Elon alumnus and teacher as one who was dedicated to his teaching, interested in every student.

'AWARDS DAY' PROGRAM HONORS TEN STUDENTS

Ten outstanding Elon College students were recognized at the college's annual "Awards Day" program for achievements during the 1958-59 term in fields of personal improvement, religious education, Bible study, dramatics, music, scholarship and athletics.

The annual Monroe Awards of $50 in cash, given by W. L. Monroe, of Atlanta, Ga., for personal improvement during the year, with emphasis upon the development of the whole person, were presented to Rebecca Matthews, of Broadnax, Va., and James Humphrey, of Southern Pines.

Two other awards of $50 each, given in memory of the late Jerry Dalton Strader, former religious, education and civic leader in Burlington, were given to Faye Gordon, of Suffolk, Va., for work in Christian education, and to David Horn, Philadelphia, in dramatics.

The Basnight trophies, given by Stein H. Basnight, of Chapel Hill, were presented to Doris Fitzgerald, of Burlington, for outstanding work in Bible studies, and to Gilbert Watts, of Laurinburg, as Elon's outstanding varsity athlete of the 1958-59 term.

The Shackley Music Awards, each for $50 in cash and given by Dr. George Shackley, of St. Petersburg, Fla., were given to Donald Harris, of Elon College, as the student showing most improvement in Piano, and to Stanley Carey, of Burlington, for most improvement in organ.

Still another $50 award, presented in honor of Dr. Ned F. Brannock, retired from the Elon College chemistry department, was presented for excellence in chemistry to Kenneth Dudley, of Hagerstown, Md.

Kopko has also been awarded a graduate fellowship by Ohio University where he will go next year to pursue advanced work in the field of history and social science.

ELON COLLEGE COMMUNITY CHURCH BUILT SIXTY-SEVEN YEARS AFTER ORGANIZATION

If construction plans go according to schedule members of the Congregational Christian Church of Elon College will be worshipping in a new church 67 years after its organization.

The church was founded in April, 1891, with 19 charter members. Only one of these is living, Mrs. W. P. Lawrence of Elon College. Worship services since the organization of the church have been held on the college campus in the chapel.

The new church will be very modern and will have an educational floor for the church school.

The walls are of duplex construction—cinder block within and a modern variegated brick on the outside.

The building will have two floors. Since the lot is sloping the sanctuary will be at street level with the educational floor beneath to be at ground level with entrances at side and rear.

The educational floor will have eight classrooms, two assembly halls, two choir robing rooms, a minister's study, adequate rest rooms, and a boiler room.

The main floor will house the sanctuary, a narthex, a reception room, and a balcony.

Unique choir facilities are planned jointly by the church music committee and the college music department faculty. The college choir will occupy the balcony. Two unusual lofts for community choirs are provided by very short transepts, one on either side of the church. The north transept is clearly shown in the architect's drawing.

This arrangement will place the community choirs in front of the minister for better acoustical effects and to make them part of the worshipping congregation. As far as is known, this plan has never been used elsewhere.

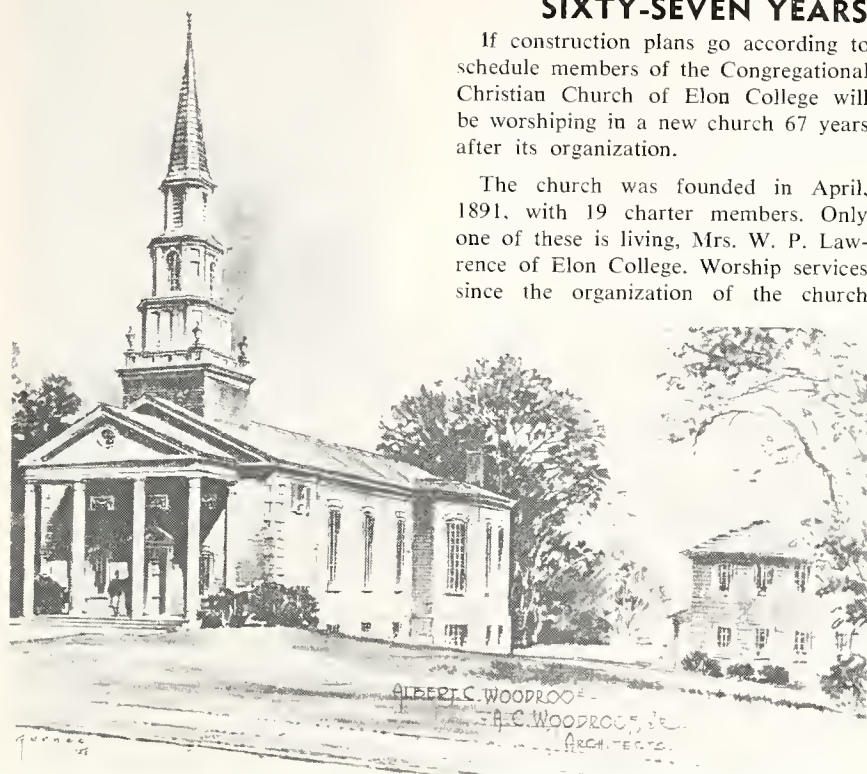

Through the generous action of Elon College, an organ will be provided on an extended loan basis without cost to the church.

The college for some time has needed a second practice organ for the use of its music students, but had no suitable space. The college recently bought an excellent used organ which will be installed in the new church for an indefinite period of years. It will be used jointly by the church and the college music department.

The total cost of the new structure will be $175,000. This figure covers construction, air conditioning, and all furnishings. Albert C. Woodroof and A. C. Woodroof, Jr., of Greensboro, are the architects.

Dr. W. J. Andes, graduate of Elon in 1935 is minister of the church. J. Mark McAdams, also an Elon graduate in 1924, is chairman of the Board of Deacons and is serving as chairman of the church building committee.

Dr. Amick died in Charlotte February 2, 1959, at the age of 89. He is buried at Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church in Guilford County.

Elon College Community Church, now in course of construction, will look like this when completed. At the right is the Parish House which will be kept in use for a number of years. The church steeple will be floodlit at night to make the village landmark. Albert C. Woodroof and A. C. Woodroof, Jr., are the architects.

ANNUALS DONATED

A few months ago an appeal was made from the Alumni Office for college annuals (Phi Psi Cli) to help build up at least three complete files of annuals at the college—in the Alumni Office, the President's Office, and in the College Library.

The response has been very encouraging to date. It is hoped that other alumni will check "around their home" and if they have extra annuals they will send them to the Alumni Office.

Those who have responded to the appeal are listed below by classes and the date of the annuals given:

NEW SCHOOL IS NAMED FOR MRS. A. C. GREEN

A new elementary school in the Millbrook Community near Raleigh, N. C., has been named in honor of an Alamance County native and graduate of Elon College in the class of 1904.

The school, now nearing completion, has been named the Effie Green School, honoring Mrs. Effie Green, one of the community's best known and best loved citizens.

The Wake County Board of Education approved the name upon recommendation of the Millbrook School Committee, seconded by Supt. Fred Smith of the Wake County Schools.

Mrs. Green is the daughter of the late Rev. A. F. and Mrs. Sallie Foster Isley, and the widow of A. Carl Green of Raleigh. Her father was a Christian minister in this area for many years.

In addition to her many friends and more distant relatives in the area, Mrs. Green has two brothers and a sister, Jermone Iseley, Clyde Iseley and Miss Bertha Iseley, all of Route 4, Burlington.

The honor turned out to be a sort of birthday present for the former school teacher who recently celebrated her 79th birthday. Mrs. Green retired in 1950 after spending 40 years as a teacher in the Millbrook District.

She actually began her teaching career in 1899 in Alamance County. Five years later she moved to the Greensboro City system, and in 1910 and 1923 Mrs. Green gave up teaching temporarily. She got married and had three daughters before returning to the classroom. But once she returned, she stayed, even serving as substitute teacher for four years after her retirement.

In adding his recommendation to that of the Millbrook Committee, Superintendent Smith said of Mrs. Green, "She is an energetic person. She is always smiling, always calm. She has made an outstanding contribution to education in this county."

In addition to the honor of having a school named for her, Mrs. Green has received many more honors and tributes.

The Millbrook Woman's Club paid tribute to her in a nice letter endorsing the action of the Wake County Board of Education in naming the school.

The North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers awarded her a certificate "in recognition of leadership and service for the welfare of children and youth, in whose honor a contribution has been made to the State Building Fund."

A Certificate of Merit was awarded Mrs. Green by the Wake County Board of Education for her loyal services as a teacher in the Millbrook School.

An honor which Mrs. Green cherishes greatly came to her when the Future Teachers of America organization in the Millbrook school named its chapter the "Mrs. Effie Green FTA."

LATHAM IS MARSHAL

Walter C. Latham, principal of Bethel School in Pitt County, served as Alumni Marshal for the commencement program.

Latham is a graduate in the Class of 1934 and is remembered as an outstanding football and baseball player. He was a very popular student and was known to his schoolmates as "Firpo."

He married Daisy Lee Carson of Bethel, a graduate of Salem College. They have three sons and one daughter.

Rev. LeGrande Moody, Jr.

REV. LEGRANDE MOODY WILL GO TO JAPAN

The Rev. C. LeGrande Moody, Jr., Elon graduate in 1938, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Spartanburg, S. C., has been chosen as one of 28 ministers in the United States to participate in the 1959 Centenary Mission to Japan.

The congregation at Central has raised approximately $2,700 over and above its regular contributions and other mission funds to send their pastor, Mr. Moody, to Japan during July and August where he will participate in intensive evangelism during his stay there.

The Centenary Mission is an all important phase of the program of the United Church of Japan to commemorate 100 years of Protestant missions in their country. The Centenary Mission began in 1954 and so far has resulted in establishment of 28 new churches.

Upon arrival in Japan Mr. Moody will become a supervising pastor in charge of a "center" or church. He will be assigned interpreters.

Included in the fund raised by the congregation at Central will be enough to maintain an embryo church where Mr. Moody will work and preach. The maintenance fund will continue for about one year.

Their orientation includes preaching in Tokyo churches, appearances at outposts and ministering through interested groups.

Their ministry includes church school, daily vacation Bible schools, Bible classes for young people and adults, teacher-training courses and conservation groups.

Mr. Moody is a native of Dillon, S.

New Program Of Giving Is Planned For Alumni

Contributions to Elon College through the Alumni Office will no longer be called "Alumni dues." Upon recommendation of the Executive Committee the General Alumni Association at its annual business session on May 30, voted to adopt a plan of annual giving on the part of alumni and friends of Elon College and to call this plan the "Elon College Loyalty Fund."

Appeals will be made to alumni and friends to plan each year to give to Elon College. It is felt that once this plan gets into operation large numbers of alumni and friends will make this a continuing part of their benevolent program each year.

Details for this new program have not been worked out. However when full plans have been made alumni and the public will be given full information.

Tentative plans call for the following: The program will be under the direction of a Loyalty Fund Council consisting of five to ten members; class agents will be named; area leaders will be selected; area leaders in turn will select teams of solicitors for personal solicitation in some cases; definite information about the program will be mailed to alumni; Alumni publications will keep alumni informed; list of contributors will be published in the Alumni News (not amounts given by individuals). Main effort in the campaign will be from October through January.

Contributions to Elon College may be designated as follows: 1. Unrestricted, (for general use). 2. Increased faculty salaries. 3. Scholarships. 4. Other.....

HONOR ROLL OF CONTRIBUTORS

The following pages carry the list of alumni who have appeared on the Honor Roll of Contributors during the year. This list includes only those who have contributed to the support of Elon College through the Alumni Office. Records of donations through other sources are not available at this time.

Although the amount contributed through the Alumni Office is not too impressive, it is encouraging. A very high percentage of those who appear on the list are alumni who are contributing for the first time.

With the new annual giving program adopted for next year, it is felt that more and more Elon alumni and friends of Elon College will become a part of this method of contributing to the college. The Alumni Association is very grateful to those who have responded this year.

Any errors in this listing will be gladly corrected.

MRS. OMA JOHNSON TO RETIRE AS LIBRARIAN

Mrs. Oma U. Johnson, one of the real veterans of the Elon faculty and one of the college's most loyal supporters, will retire from her post as college librarian at the close of the 1958-59 term, but she will remain on the campus as curator of the growing church history room.

Her retirement comes after thirty years of service in the library post, and she was presented a gift of jewelry from the library staff and was given a typewriter by the college, her favorite machine which she has used in her office.

A graduate of Elon with the Class of 1915, Mrs. Johnson first came to Elon from Wake County as a student in 1911, and she has been here most of the time since. Her husband, the late C. C. "Jack" Johnson, was for several years Elon's athletic coach.

It was after his death in Colorado that she returned to Elon as librarian in 1928, first as an assistant and then as head librarian in 1931. Since her first association with the Elon library, Mrs. Johnson has guided it through a period of great growth, with accession books today showing more than ten times as many volumes as when she first knew it.

Mrs. Johnson will now devote all her working time as Librarian of the Historical Society of the Southern Convention. The church history room is located in the Carlton Library on the Elon College campus.

This concert program marked the Elon band's final appearance under the direction of Prof. Stowers, who is leaving Elon this spring to continue advanced study toward his Ph.D. degree. Prof. Johnson will take over as band director in September. A guest musician for the concert was Harold Grant, director of the Williams High School Band of Burlington, N. C.

Special features of the concert program were trumpet solo by Robert

ELON VARSITY TEAMS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

A survey of the spring sports season at Elon College which closed in the middle of May shows that the athletic teams which bear the Maroon and Gold colors did not fare too badly through very tough schedules in all sports. In fact Elon had a championship in the North State Conference in Golf both in team play and individual champion in the person of Freddie Lloyd, who posted a fine 147 score for 36 holes of play in the tourney, which saw eight conference teams in action during the two-day titular meet.

The Elon team of four had a 14-stroke lead in taking the 1959 team title.

The Elon Christian baseballers, a team that had won the conference championship twice in the past three years, and represented District 26 in the NAIA play-offs at Alpine, Texas, last year, came through this year with a season of 20 wins and 7 losses to wind up second to East Carolina, new conference champs.

Track and tennis, two sports which lost valuable personnel from last year's teams had about fifty per cent average in their meets. Some very fine individual performances were turned in by members of these two teams.

BLOCK "E" MONOGRAMS

Fifty-one Elon College athletes have been awarded the block "E" monograms for participating in six varsity sports during the 1958-59 term. The awards went to members of the football, basketball, baseball, track, golf and tennis squads.

Tony Carcaterra lettered for the third

WATTS AND ALLEN ARE SELECED FOR HONORS

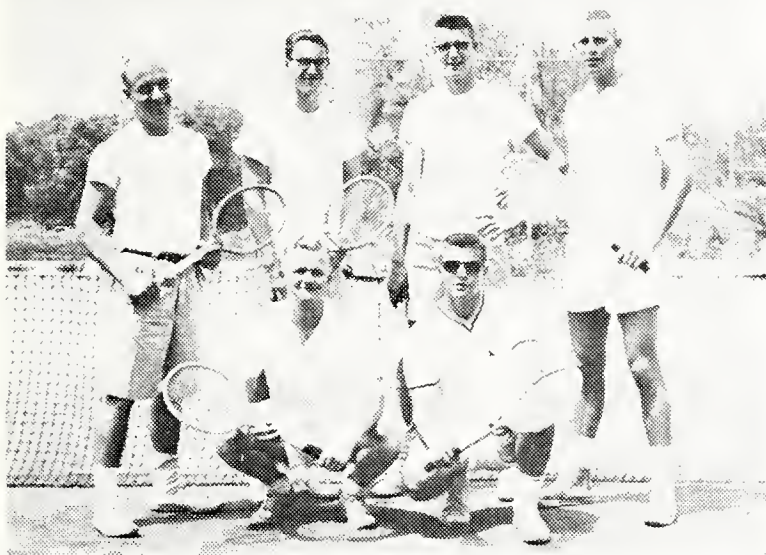

Two Elon seniors completed their baseball careers as members of the Christian team at the close of the 1959 season.

Gil Watts, an outstanding baseball and basketball player for the Maroon and Gold teams, and captain of both teams this past season, closed his baseball season with many honors being heaped upon him. He was chosen on the All North State Conference Baseball Team as first baseman. He also took his turn on the pitcher's mound and had a 6-4 record including a no-hitter against Guilford, but it was as a batsman and fielder that he excelled. He hit .363, had 35 RBI's and hit six homers which was high in the conference. In addition to being selected on the All NSC team, Watts was selected on the All-State baseball team which is made up of all the colleges of the state, large and small. He was selected as first baseman for this all-star team and was named captain. Watts was graduated from Elon College June 1. It is understood that he will enter professional baseball. His home is Laurinburg, N. C.

Another outstanding Elon baseballer to receive honors was George Allen, Elon shortstop, who was named to this position on the All-NSC team. Although Allen was not too impressive in his batting average, he was outstanding as a fielder. He was considered by many baseball observers as having perfect rhythm in his fielding and throwing. George hit for a .235 average. He batted in 14 runs, having six two-baggers and 1 triple. Allen's home is Hyattsville, Md. He expects to graduate from Elon College in August.

Mrs. George Robbins Is Honored

"If I had it to do over again, I wouldn't change my vocation."

That was the comment of an Alamance County teacher with 37 years of service after she was honored in a chapel program at Alexander Wilson School on April 17.

Mrs. G. B. Robbins, the senior teacher in the county in years of service, was honored at the program by her former students, by the Alexander Wilson faculty and by her present students. The program was a complete surprise to the veteran teacher.

Mrs. Robbins will continue teaching, but it was decided to honor her at this time because of the reassignments that may result for faculty members and students when the consolidated school program is instituted in the county.

When this happens Alexander Wilson will become an elementary school, and high school students and faculty will probably be transferred to a consolidated school.

During the program Mrs. Robbins was given a sterling silver compote by the faculty and a number of gifts from guests. Students gave her a piece of silver in her pattern and a homemade wooden plaque citing her service as a teacher.

The ninth grade class gave her a penny for each year she has taught, each penny dated with one of the years. She was presented a corsage and a cake decorated with a candle for each of the 37 years she has taught.

Mrs. Robbins, the former Bessie Holmes and the wife of Alexander Wilson principal, G. B. Robbins, has been a high school teacher for 37 years. Thirty-six of those years were spent in Alamance County at the Alexander Wilson School.

During her years in teaching, Mrs. Robbins has taught some 3,000 students, many of whom are now teachers themselves. At E. M. Holt School, eight members of the faculty and the school secretary are former students of Mrs.

Dr. McLarty Is Commencement Speaker

COLLEGE HEAD URGES SENIORS TO BE DOERS

Speaking upon the theme of "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only," Dr. Emmett K. McLarty, president of Brevard College, urged members of the Elon College summer graduating class to go beyond the stage of understanding and to apply the ideas which they had learned during their college years.

He pointed out that the process of true learning involves exposure to an idea and repetition of that idea until it is learned, followed by understanding and conviction of the truth of the idea, but he declared that learning process is not complete until the idea is applied to life and transmitted to others through actions.

Dr. McLarty spoke at baccalaureate worship services held in the new Elon College Community Church at 11 a.m. on Sunday, August 23. He was introduced by Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon College president.

Others on the morning program were Prof. John S. Graves, college chaplain, who pronounced the invocation and benediction, and Dr. William J. Andes, pastor of the Elon church, who read the Scripture and gave the morning prayer.

Presentation of diplomas and degrees to 75 members of the Elon summer class took place in the ceremonies in Whitley Auditorium at 2 p.m. Dr. H. H. Cunningham, Dean of the College, presented the candidates for graduation. Dr. James Earl Danieley presented the diplomas.

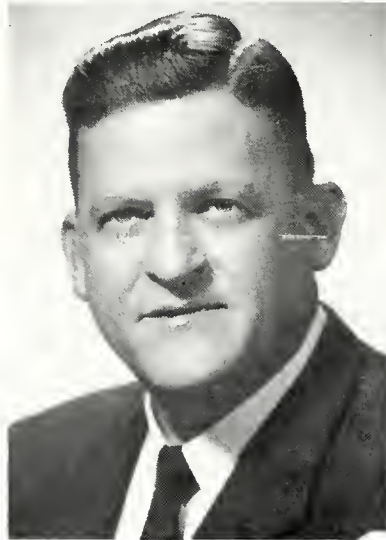

Dr. W. T. Scott, Superintendent, The Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, gave the invocation.

Dr. Danieley presented the Bibles to members of the graduating class. He also gave The Charge to the graduating class.

Prof. Fletcher Moore was organist and Prof. Charles Lynam was soloist for both services of the day. Both are members of the college music faculty.

Alfred S. Hassell, graduate in the class of '57, and now Director of Admissions, served as Faculty Marshal.

John Mitchell, 509 New St., New Bern, N. C., was graduated from Elon College in 1941. He is operating a hardware store. He is married and has three children, Susan, Johnny, and Thomas.

DR. DANIELEY MAKES IMPORTANT SPEECHES

Dr. Danieley has attended some important meetings and delivered some outstanding addresses during the recent weeks.

Soon after the close of the regular school term in June, Dr. Danieley attended the second General Synod of the United Church of Christ, which met at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio. Here he was named to the important committee on Credentials. He also took a very active part in the formulating of the Statement of Faith of the United Church of Christ.

The increasing problems of the church-related colleges of North Carolina and other states were stressed by Dr. Danieley in addressing the Greensboro Rotary Club. The four major problems cited by Dr. Danieley are faculty, student assistance, physical facilities and finances. Each of the first three, he pointed out, are directly related to the problem of adequate college finance. This address has received many favorable comments from various sources. The Carolina Home Life Insurance Company, which sponsors Bill Kirkpatrick, an outstanding singer, in a program on WBBB, Burlington radio station, had Kirkpatrick to read a rather lengthy manuscript on one of the programs commending Dr. Danieley in bringing this problem to the attention of the public.

Dr. Danieley delivered the annual summer commencement address at Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone, N. C. Dr. Danieley based his address upon a quotation from a recent article by Mark Van Doren, which declared that, "The responsibilities of the teacher are many and yet one. They are to himself, to his subject, to his students, to society and to truth."

At the Southern Synodical Convention of the Churchmen's Brotherhood of the E. & R. Church held at Blowing Rock, N. C., Dr. Danieley delivered one of the principal messages. He urged the men of this organization to get a true perspective in regard to material things and apparent important activities that might claim so much of their attention. He urged them to be concerned with the value of spiritual things.

A special feature of the afternoon program of the annual summer commencement at Elon College was the unveiling of a portrait of Dr. William Allen Harper, fourth president of the college, which is to hang in Whitley Auditorium on the Elon campus.

Dr. James Earl Danieleley was in charge of the unveiling and read the following citation:

William Allen Harper was born in Berkeley, Virginia, on April 17, 1880, the son of Joseph and Mary Melissa McCloud Harper. He married Estelle Walker of the Union Ridge community in Alamance County. His death came on May 11, 1942.

Dr. Harper was educated at Elon College and Yale University. A teacher of Latin and religious education, he was the author of many books and of hundreds of articles. He served as editor-in-chief of The Journal of Christian Education and as an associate editor of The Church Quarterly.

He was a member of the faculty of Elon College, serving as a teacher for three years, as Dean of the College for three years, and was named President of the College in 1911 at the age of thirty-one. He later served as Professor of religious education in the school of Religion at Vanderbilt University and taught as a visiting professor at Boston University, the Divinity School of the University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

The words of an address by Dr. H. S. Hardcastle on Founders' Day in 1952 comprise a most appropriate statement: "... in the sense in which Emerson used the words, Elon College is the lengthened shadow of William Allen Harper. For two decades he was her leader. It was he who chartered her course, crystalized her ideals, formulated her policies, presented her claims, administered her affairs, bore her burdens, and by the inspiration of his life and his consecration fused the members of the faculty into a family group which helped her to grow into a great institution of higher education, and gave reality to the slogan 'Christian character first and always at Elon' ... we do well to honor William Allen Harper, a man of unusual gifts of concentration, boundless energy, irrepressible enthusiasm, clear and advanced thinking, resolute action, convincing speech, unwearied patience, and radiant faith. He was a gifted teacher, able administrator, successful author, uncanny financier, and zealous crusader for Christian Education ... He was a Christian gentleman (Continued on page 4)

PORTRAIT IS UNVEILED—A new oil portrait of Dr. William Allen Harper, president of Elon College from 1911 until 1931, was unveiled in Whitley Auditorium at the summer graduation program. Miss Janice Saddler, a great-niece of Dr. Harper, unveiled the portrait. The above picture was furnished without cost by the Manning Studio, Greensboro, N. C., which did the portrait of Dr. Harper.

FRESHMEN COUNTED ON FOR IMPORTANT ROLE

The Elon Football team will face a 10-game schedule this fall according to announcement by Coach Sid Varney. The grid card calls for four home games and six on foreign fields.

The new schedule includes the same nine teams that were played by the Christian eleven last fall with Newport News Apprentice School added as the tenth team for the opening game.

At the close of winter football drills it appeared that Coach Varney would have only eight lettermen due to return as a nucleus for his 1959 team. Included among the eight lettermen were Luke Malloy and Tony Markosky, ends; Charlie Rayburn and Don Szydlak, tackles; Jim McClure, guard; Turner Brosky, center; Charlie Maidon, quarterback; and Bob McLean, halfback.

Experienced reserves also on the winter squad were Bill Farris and Gilbert Chilton, guards; Charlie Bosquet and Carlton Grove, centers; Murphy Taylor, quarterback; Jim Short, halfback; and Paul Brutch, fullback. Others on the winter roster were Don Miller, Johnnie Gozack and D. C. Harris, ends; Dean Yates, Dick McCutcheon, Darrell Ritchie and George Leh, tackles; Bill Libby, Artie Johnson and Roy Swan, guards; Jerry Hollifield, quarterback; Bennie Jones, Bart Wicker and George Moser, halfbacks; and Bob Overton, fullback.

Although no up-to-date report has been received from Coach Varney concerning his personnel, it is understood that several of those listed in the various classifications above have fallen victim of scholastic difficulties or for other reasons will not be back in school to answer the call for the Maroon and Gold grid wars.

Even before the question of experienced men returning became a problem, the coaches were already of the opinion that freshmen, and perhaps a few transfers, would play a large part in whatever success the team might achieve this year. The outlook for a winning season is not too encouraging at the present.

BOBBY LOY WINNER IN TWO TOURNAMENTS

Bobby Loy, who completed the requirements for graduation from Elon College at the end of the winter quarter and received his diploma in May 1959, is continuing his fine golf play that he displayed as a member of the Elon College Golf team.

On August 23, Bobby won the Carolina Golf Association one-day tournament at the Greensboro Country Club when he fired a one-under-par 69 to defeat Speck Cross of Greensboro by two strokes for the Class A low gross crown. Cross was one over par.

During the latter part of June, Loy won the one-day tournament at the Winston-Salem Country Club. The Alumni News does not have the scores in this contest.

After completing requirements for graduation at the close of the winter quarter, Loy taught in the Princes Ann County School in Virginia. He plans to return to the same position in September. Bobby's home address is: 420 Glennwood Ave., Burlington, N. C.

Shaw New Principal of Saxapahaw School

After graduating from Elon College Mr. Shaw served as teacher and coach of basketball at Boone Trail High School in Harnett County, and taught mathematics and science at Churchland High School in Davidson County. He also coached basketball there.

From 1931 to 1947 he served as principal of the Silk Hope High School in Chatham County. He coached all sports in this school. For the past eight years he has been a teacher of mathematics and science in the Eli Whitney High School in Alamance County. Shaw is married to the former Thelma Tolar. They have a daughter Judy Gray Shaw, junior at Wake Forest College, and a married daughter Mrs. Phyllis Ann Tilley who lives in Winston-Salem.

HOMECOMING GAME IS WITH PRESBYTERIAN

Supporters of the Elon College football team will have an opportunity to witness two afternoon games on the home field this season.

The Presbyterian game was purposely scheduled as Homecoming game because there were fewer conflicts on that date with the "Big Four" teams of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Many alumni and students have requested that the Homecoming game be an afternoon game. In consideration of that request the athletic authorities have scheduled the Homecoming game in the afternoon for the past two years. However attendance has been very disappointing on the part of alumni and the student body. Many of the alumni contend that a night game makes it difficult for them to bring their families and get home at a reasonable hour, especially if they come from a great distance. A great effort will be made by all concerned to have a good attendance at Homecoming this year.

The second afternoon game was not originally scheduled for that hour but was a night game. However the game with Western Carolina will be played in the afternoon because a night game will conflict with a "Big Halloween Celebration" scheduled for the night of October 31 at the Burlington Recreation Center, in close proximity to the football stadium.

Alumni and friends of Elon College are urged to note the schedule and to attend the Elon games whenever and wherever possible.

All of us at Elon College are happy to have, in this auditorium which is one of the buildings which was constructed under his administration, this portrait of President Harper. We are pleased to have Miss Janice Saddler, on behalf of the family, to unveil the portrait.

HOMEcoming PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

ALUMNI ARE URGED TO VISIT CAMPUS

Although school opening this year is much later than it has been in many years, plans are already underway for the Elon Homecoming Celebration which will be held on the weekend of October 17.

Saturday will be a full day of festivities. Alumni and visitors are urged to visit the campus on Saturday morning, visit with one another, and see the many new improvements that have been made in the way of new buildings, renovations, and campus beautification. One new building that very few Alumni have had the opportunity of seeing is the Elon College Community Church (Congregational Christian) which is the church home of a large number of the Elon College students.

The Student Union has been completely renovated and the third floor of Mooney Building is being planned for a Language Laboratory.

By the time Alumni have completed their visit on the campus, it will likely be parade time through the Main Street of Burlington.

The parade, which will get underway at 12:30 p. m., will feature floats and decorated cars entered by sponsoring organizations of the students. Each car or float will carry a beautiful girl or girls selected by the organizations.

A special float will have the Homecoming Queen and her attendants aboard.

Judges will select the winning floats from those showing in the parade and prizes awarded the sponsoring groups. The parade will terminate at the Walter Williams High School where the football game between Elon and Presbyterian College will begin at 2:00 p. m.

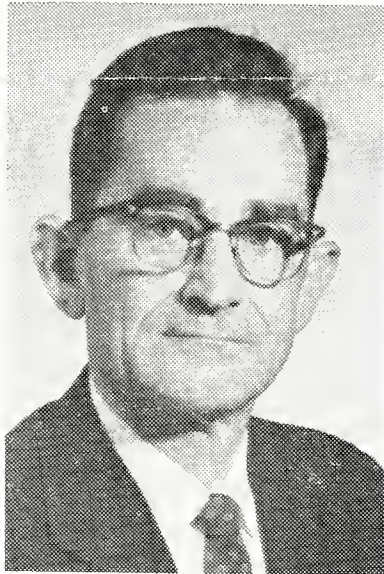

Half-time game activities will feature the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

The Homecoming Dance at 8:00 o'clock in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on the campus will bring to a close the Homecoming program. This dance is informal for alumni.

Alumni are urged to come and enjoy all the activities.

PRESIDENT COLCLOUGH INVITES ALUMNI

You will do well for yourself and others to give some serious thought to returning to visit the campus of your Alma Mater the week-end of October 17, visiting with old friends and seeing a good football game between Presbyterian and Elon. Classmates and college friends will be back and they will wish that you had come to visit your Alma Mater.

REV. JOHN GRAVES

GRAVES IS NAMED COLLEGE CHAPLAIN

Marking increased emphasis on the religious life of the students, Elon College has just named the Rev. John S. Graves as a full-time minister and chaplain for the Elon campus, according to President J. E. Danieleley.

Graves moves into the campus ministerial post after serving since September, 1956, as a member of the faculty in the college's department of religion, in which he taught courses in Bible and religious education.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., he received an A.B. degree from Elon College in 1950 and a M.A. degree from the School of Religious Education of the Hartford Seminary in 1952. He was ordained to the teaching ministry that same year.

After completing seminary training, he was minister of Christian education for the First Congregational Christian Church in Burlington from 1952 until 1954 and was secretary for Christian Education and Youth Work of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches from 1954 until he Professor A. L. Hook, Professor J. W. Barney, Dr. N. F. Brannock and others who have been connected with Elon College for many years will be looking forward to seeing you. There are many new faces at Elon College but we can assure you that these new faces have the same sincerity in their determination to build Elon College into a great institution as those who went before them.

Many changes have taken place on the Elon College campus since you were there. The old North Dormitory is gone, the old power house is gone; and the club house and the old publishing house or South Dormitory are all gone. West Dormitory has been renovated. A new dining room has been erected and many other improvements have been brought about.

Bill Terrell, Alumni Secretary, will be looking for you to drop by his office while you are at Elon College and give him some news about yourself and your family. We are now publishing the Alumni News monthly and alumni should not be too modest about giving the Alumni Office information for the publication. Others are just as interested in knowing about you and your family as you are in knowing the activities of other alumni.

Make your plans now to attend this annual Homecoming at Elon College during the week-end of October 17; join others along with the students in the parade through downtown Burlington; visit with old friends and enjoy being on the campus of Elon College during Homecoming.

joined the Elon faculty in 1956.

Commenting on the new campus ministerial program, President Danieleley said, "Our campus has always emphasized a full measure of religious activity, but we have been aware for some time of the desirability of a full-time chaplain, who will develop a campus program beyond the class room."

He added that "Mr. Graves possesses a fine academic background in addition to his theological training, which we feel equips him to meet successfully the spiritual opportunity on a campus such as ours here at Elon College."

HOMECOMING AT ELON

Elsewhere in this bulletin you have read an invitation from George Colclough, president of the Alumni Association, urging alumni to return to the campus for Homecoming Day which has been scheduled for Saturday, October 17. George feels that you will enjoy a visit to the campus to see the many changes that have been made and are being made.

We want to emphasize the invitation he has extended to the alumni and friends of Elon College. The faculty Alumni Committee joins me in extending this invitation. This Committee is: Mrs. Frances Longest, Chairman; Robert Baxter, W. Jennings Berry, Robert Dunlap, Mrs. Jeanne Griffin, Charles Lynam, Miss Lila Newman, Fred Sahlman. Those of us on the campus will be very happy to have you come back and enjoy the activities of the day.

Since school is starting much later this year, we are not sure any activity will be planned for Friday night, October 16. However, Saturday will be a rather full day—one you will enjoy.

As you will notice from the schedule for the day, most of the afternoon activities take place in Burlington. We want you to come by the campus and the Alumni Office on Saturday morning if you can possibly do so. By all means join us in Burlington for the parade and football game.

The Elon Christians are practically a new team this year—made up for the most part of Freshmen. They may not win many games this year, but we feel sure you will enjoy watching them play.

After the game many of you may have time to visit the campus—and perhaps stay for the dance. The students are looking forward to having many of you present for this part of the day's festivities. A good orchestra will furnish the music.

We hope you will start making your plans to be with us at Homecoming. Quite a number of alumni have already written that they are coming. Many of you in various communities can plan to come together—pool rides. Also many of us will want to invite classmates and friends from distant areas to come for the weekend.

We hope that you will get a feeling of nostalgia for "Dear Old Elon" that will cause you to be here for Homecoming!

Won't you drop us a note letting us know you plan to come and whether you'll come by the campus.

Bill Terrell, Secretary.

DR. H. H. CUNNINGHAM NAMED TO COMMISSION

Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of Elon College, has been appointed by Gov. Luther Hodges to the Carolina Charter Tercentenary Commission.

The commission is composed of 22 members from throughout the state, and also includes, ex officio, the superintendent of public instruction, director of the Department of Conservation and Development and the director of the Department of Archives and History.

The commission was created through an act of the 1959 General Assembly to make plans for a celebration or series of celebrations in 1963 on the 300th anniversary of the granting of the charter for Carolina by King Charles II of England to the eight Lords Proprietors.

Plans call for this state to join with South Carolina and the other 14 states and the Republic of Mexico included in the boundaries of the 1663 charter.

The commission was appointed at this time because it is felt that several years of advance planning will be necessary in view of the magnitude of the proposed celebration.

DOC MATHIS TEACHER AT SYLVAN SCHOOL

G. L. (Doc) Mathis, former basketball coach at Elon College, has been named to the faculty at Sylvan High School for the coming school session.

"It's a treat to be back at Sylvan after such a long absence," said Mathis, "and I don't plan to do any coaching. My duties will be only those of teaching history and social studies, and I don't plan to be a member of the coaching staff."

Several Offers

"I was offered several coaching positions for the coming year, but poor health recently made me decide to turn back to the field of teaching. I just don't think that I'm able to perform the full time chores of coaching right now, but the future is something else."

Mathis returned to Sylvan after an absence of 10 years. A former coach at Sylvan, Mathis left that post to accept the position of coach at Elon College where he served for ten years. During his stay at Elon he had a record of 162 wins and 118 losses. His teams won one regular season championship and one tournament crown; was in the finals on two other occasions, and in the semifinals in still four other tournaments.

KERNODLE REAPPOINTED

Dr. John Robert Kernodle of Burlington has been reappointed by Gov. Luther Hodges to the Commission to Study the Cause and Control of Cancer in North Carolina.

Gov. Hodges announced that he had reappointed the entire membership of

BARRON IN BOY SCOUT WORK

Navarre Thomas Barron, Jr., graduate 1957, has accepted a position with the Boy Scouts of America and has been assigned to the National Capitol Area Council, Washington, D. C. He will be District Executive of Prince Georges County.

Tom has been a teacher in the Gibsonville High School for the past two years. His new home address: 9-S Research Rd., Greenbelt, Md.

The following item was taken from Ann White's column, Sights and Sounds, in the Greensboro Daily News.

Mrs. Rice, mentioned in this item, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lambeth, Sr., of Elon College. The Lambeths had three children to attend Elon College: Maedell, Wautel, and H. D., Jr. The two daughters were graduates.

Art By Rice

Out in Columbia, Mo., where James R. Rice is vice president of Stephens College, Mrs. Rice dabbles in art, as an amateur. Last week at Cole County Fair third place in the fine arts amateur division went to her. Reason for our concern: Mrs. Rice is the former Maedell Lambeth of Elon College, where her parents still live.

Maedell Rice's winning entry was in ceramics, a wheel throw piece decorated with her own glaze. Her husband, by the way, used to teach at the University of North Carolina and she is sister-in-law of Sam Selden, the former Carolina Playmaker director. We assume she must be fairly well acquainted with a friend of ours, Russell Green, who is head of the Stephens art department and whose wife is the former Miriam Robinson of Greensboro, daughter of Mrs. J. R. Robinson.

the 1957 commission after the 1959 General Assembly authorized a renewal of the commission's activities.

The commission has a total of 18 members.

DR. DANIELEY CITES AIMS OF COLLEGE

Speaking at the first regular meeting of the Elon College faculty for the 1959-60 college year, President J. E. Danieley stressed the present aims of Elon as a church-related and Christian college and expressed the hope that the cooperative efforts of the administration and faculty may make a good college into a greater one.

Citing the Christian nature of the college, he pointed out the obligations of the faculty members in extending this influence to the students and to the community, pointing out at the same time that in fulfilling these obligations there is a greater opportunity for service.

After describing the academic aims of Elon as a liberal arts college, Dr. Danieley discussed at length the academic program at Elon and pointed to ways in which the faculty may aid in strengthening that program. He stressed the institutional self-study project which is now underway, pointing out the necessity for ever-improving standards.

In particular, he stressed the necessity for understanding and cooperation between the administration and faculty and between the faculty and students. In regard to faculty-student relationship, he cited the need for strengthening the counselling program and listed a number of ways by which this may be done.

GUILFORD WINS OVER FIGHTING CHRISTIANS

A fired-up Guilford College football team, showing tremendous running power and an alert defense that took advantage of all breaks, defeated Elon's Christians 27 to 0 in a North State Conference battle before a crowd of 2,000 at Memorial Stadium in Burlington on Saturday, September 19.

The Quakers were off to a fast start after recovering an Elon fumble by fullback Paul Brutch on the Elon 12 with barely two minutes gone in the game.

Scoring Summary:

Guilford	7	14	0	6—27

G—Meroney, 93, run (Elks, plunge).
G—Holloway, 16, pass from Elks (plunge failed).
G—Meroney, 1, run (plunged failed).

John Meroney got four and Lester Parker made it first down to the Elon two. Meroney plunged for the touchdown. He fumbled as he crossed the goal but recovered his own fumble in the end zone for the score. Parker kicked good for a 7-0 lead.

The Elon outfit rebounded with a drive late in the first quarter and early in the second quarter which carried to the Guilford seven. The Quakers braced and held there and with barely 20 seconds gone in the second period the speedy Meroney slashed off his own left tackle and out-raced the Elon defense for 93 yards for his second touchdown. Jim Elks plunged for the two-pointer which made it 15-0.

Less than four minutes later Elks powered a Quaker drive to the Elon 16, and Elks then passed to Bob Holloway in the end zone for a third score. A plunge failed for the extra points.

The final Quaker score came midway the fourth quarter when Wayne Henley recovered a Charlie Maidon fumble on the Elon 35. An 11-yard pass from Brodie Baker to Jim Stutts and three terrific drives by Tom Bowers carried to the Elon one. Meroney went over for his third touchdown of the night, but he failed on a plunge for the extra points as the final score was written at 27-0.

Meroney and Elks were the big guns in the Quaker attack while Maidon's deadly passing arm proved the most potent threat for the Christians. Maidon completed nine of 18 passes for 108 yards.

MARSHBURN - RICHARDS COACH BURLINGTON

Two graduates and former football stars at Elon have accepted teaching and coaching positions in the Burlington City Schools.

O. H. (Pete) Marshburn, former head coach at E. M. Holt High School and a member of the Burlington Police Department for the past year, is teaching and coaching at Broad Street Junior High in Burlington.

Marshburn was a star fullback at Elon College where he was graduated in 1951. He is a native of Greensboro and attended high school at Bessemer, where he played three sports. Following his graduation at Elon he coached for two years at Ramseur and then coached for three years at Apex High School before taking the head coaching position at E. M. Holt. He was at E. M. Holt for two years before taking his post with the police force.

Marshburn is married to the former Joan Gladden of Burlington, an Elon graduate in 1953. They have two boys, 5 and 2.

Kerry Richards, 24-year-old native of Mahanoy City, Pa., and a former Elon College star gridder, has been named to the Williams High School athletic staff.

Richards has taken over the post of junior varsity coach. He also is teaching history and civics.

After attending high school in his hometown, Richards was steered to North Carolina in an unusual way. Too small to play football with a major college, he was recommended to Coach Jim Mallory of Elon by the late Coach Jim Tatum, who was then at Maryland. Richards played four years of football under Coach Sid Varney at Elon, and he graduated in 1957.

While at Elon, he was named All-Conference halfback during his sophomore year and gained honorable mention All-State. Also during his sophomore year, he was named the outstanding back in NAIA District 6, an area encompassing several southern states.

Following his graduation at Elon, he was teacher-coach at George Washington High in Danville, Va., one year and he was teacher-coach at Whitmell High near Danville last year.

Richards is married to the former Sara Shelton of Danville, Va. Mrs. Richards expects to graduate from Elon College next summer with a degree in mathematics.

Edmund L. Thompson is Branch Manager and Adjuster with the Southeastern Adjustment Co., in Burlington. His firm investigates and adjusts claims for various insurance companies.

Joyce Yancey, Rt. 2, Box 344, Norfolk 6, Va., is a teacher in Great Bridge High School, Great Bridge, Va.

CHRISTIANS WIN OVER APPRENTICE SCHOOL

Coach Varney called on his freshmen and the newcomers came through to help defeat the Newport News Apprentice School 22 to 0 in a game played at Newport News on Saturday night, September 12. It was the opening game for both teams.

Three frosh—halfback Mike Little, quarterback George Wooten and end George Komorowski—scored the touchdowns for the Fighting Christians.

Elon—Komorowski 26, pass from Maidon (Brutch run).

Elon—Wooten, recovered fumble in end zone (run failed).

Veteran quarterback Charlie Maidon, still bothered by a bad knee, played enough to spark the Christians' attack and passed for one TD, a 26-yarder to Komorowski in the last quarter. Fullback Paul Brutch ran the extra points.

Little scored the first Elon touchdown when he picked off a Shipbuilders' aerial and raced beautifully 45 yards for the touchdown midway in the third period. Halfback Bob McLean ran over the two-pointers.

Wooten, former Hamlet ace tallied the final TD on a fumble. The Christians had driven to the Newport News five when Wooten handed off to Brutch, the fullback fumbling. Wooten was there to pounce on the ball in the end zone however.

The first half was strictly a defensive battle with tackles Don Syzdlík and Charles Rayburn and freshman linebacker Bill Campbell anchoring the Christian forward wall.

The Shipbuilders never threatened seriously against the Elon defense as a crowd of 4,500, one of the largest ever to witness a football game there, looked on.

The Christians were kept on the defensive for the majority of the first half until Maidon loosened his throwing arm in the third quarter.

LOYALTY FUND PROGRAM GETS UNDERWAY

Elon College has shown remarkable growth and development during the last few years. The student body has increased, a new dining hall and three new dormitories have been built, other improvements have been made to the physical plant, and a program of self-study and long range planning and development has been launched. Financial support for the College has increased through the loyalty of alumni and friends, the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, and business and industry, many of whom are contributing through the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges.

In view of the loyalty of others, the Alumni of Elon College are being challenged to a new devotion—a challenge to their loyalty.

The Executive Committee of the Elon College Alumni Association, after studying the various plans for alumni support, was agreed that Elon College would favor and participate in a plan of annual giving to the College. The Committee recommended, and the Alumni Association voted at its annual meeting, to adopt the proposed Elon College Loyalty Fund.

While there are many ways in which an alumnus can contribute to the welfare and to the progress of his alma mater, we are concerned here with just one of these ways—annual giving. It is a very important way.

The Loyalty Fund provides an established channel for alumni gifts and a method of encouraging and increasing them on a regular, annual basis. In brief, it is indispensable to the College's efforts to keep annual income equal to annual expenditures.

The Executive Committee of the Alumni Association considered many of the needs of the College and decided that this year the Association would seek contributions to the Loyalty Fund primarily for three purposes:

1. UNRESTRICTED—Gifts which are not restricted by the donor will be used in the general fund of the College. All of the general operating expenses of the College are paid out of this fund: salaries, operation and maintenance of the plant, office expenses, instructional materials and many other items.

2. INCREASED FACULTY SALARIES—The salary schedule for faculty members ranges from a minimum of $3,400 for instructors to a maximum of $5,600 for full professors. Salaries have been increased each year, but the scale is too low. This Is Elon College's Most Serious Need! In order to provide the necessary salary schedule for those who are currently teaching at the College and to attract qualified new faculty members, additional funds must be secured.

3. SCHOLARSHIPS—Elon College has practically no endowed scholarships. The students who do receive "scholarships" are actually receiving tuition discounts. Funds should be made available to be added to the permanent endowment funds of the College for this purpose. In the meantime, funds should be made available to help to defray the cost of the discounts.

4. OTHER—Some Alumni will want to designate their gifts for other purposes. The wishes of the donor will be followed. Contributions would be especially welcomed for the repair and renovation of the physical plant and for the beautification of the campus.

Elsewhere in this Alumni News Bulletin is listed a form which can be used in making your contribution to the Elon College Loyalty Fund. When your contribution is received, your name will be listed with your class in the next issue of the Alumni News. In the Commencement issue of the Alumni News all contributors will again be listed on an Honor Roll of Contributors. Won't you use the form at once and be listed in the first report?

CHALLENGE TO ALUMNI

During the past year the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association began a self-study of the Alumni of Elon College as an organized body dedicated to a greater Elon.

It is the hope of the Committee that we as alumni may singly make a self-study of ourselves as to our attitude toward and support of Elon College.

The most important area of Alumni activities explored by the Executive Committee is concerned with financial support of the college.

This issue of the Alumni News carries announcement of the new method of giving which was adopted by the Alumni Association in its May meeting.

We hope alumni will study carefully the program for the future, giving particular consideration to the influence alumni support has on corporations, business firms, and foundations. If we as alumni are interested in our Alma Mater, we can make a strong appeal for assistance from other sources.

The specific challenge of the Loyalty Fund for an annual giving program is before us. We have faith that Elon Alumni will respond to the challenge.

Alumni Support 1958-59

Alumni contributions to Elon College for the year 1958-59 amounted to $18,241.71. A tabulation of the various sources through which alumni make contributions to the college reveals that 481 alumni participated in this giving.

To those who are responsible for the various sources of solicitation, this report is very encouraging. This substantial support of Elon College is greatly appreciated and there is reason to believe that this support on the part of the alumni will take dramatic steps forward under the newly adopted Loyalty Fund Program by the Elon College Alumni Association.

PRESIDENT COLCLOUGH MAKES APPEAL

Many of us feel that the Elon College Alumni have been waiting for an opportunity to join together in doing something worthy for their Alma Mater. This opportunity has now arrived.

At the last meeting of the general Alumni Association in May 1959, our Alumni Association approved a plan of annual giving for the Elon College Alumni Association. We will no longer call our investment in Elon College our alumni dues and think of it as $5 or more, as you so desire, but each year we will make an annual gift to the Elon College Loyalty Fund.

GEORGE COLCLOUGH

THE COST OF GIVING

Our humanitarian organizations have always been chiefly supported by private philanthropy rather than by government subsidy. Congress, being aware of this arrangement, set up our tax structure to favor the private donor. Under our present federal income tax laws, a private donor is allowed a deduction on personal contributions up to 30 per cent of adjusted gross income. Elon College is a charitable institution and is recognized as such by our federal income tax laws. The dollar amount of any gift to Elon is considerably greater than the out-of-pocket cost.

Here is a table that shows the cost of a cash contribution to an educational institution such as Elon College for a married taxpayer with two children and non-charitable deductions of 10 per cent of his adjusted gross income:

Aggregate Adjusted Gross Income	Maximum Deductible Gift	Cash Cost of Maximum Gift	Net Cost to Giver (Percent)
$ 5,000	$1,500	$1,200	80
6,000	1,800	1,440	80
7,000	2,100	1,680	80
8,000	2,400	1,904	79
9,000	2,700	2,126	79
10,000	3,000	2,348	78
15,000	4,500	3,386	75
20,000	6,000	4,296	72
25,000	7,500	5,082	68

For example, a taxpayer with an in-

The college has agreed at the end of each year we will publish a list according to classes and perhaps alphabetically naming those who have made a contribution during that year (the amount given will not be indicated). Gifts are solicited from each and every graduate and former student of Elon College and we hope that no one will feel that his gift must be large in order to be appreciated. With 5,000 alumni on our mailing list, we should have several thousand gifts and although most of the gifts will be small, in keeping with our modest incomes, the total may be large and mean much to the growth of our institution.

You will have an opportunity of giving to specific purposes if you wish to indicate the use of your gift, or you may let your gift be used for general expenses of your Alma Mater.

As President of your Alumni Association I appeal to you to make your check to the Elon College Loyalty Fund and mail to W. B. Terrell, Executive Secretary, Alumni Association, Elon College, North Carolina, for whatever amount you feel you are in position to give. We have no specific goal for the year but my own secret desire is at least 1500 to 2000 alumni contributing to their Alma Mater before June of 1960.

It has been my privilege to be closely connected with Elon College—as a student, an employee of the college, and as a citizen of the Town of Elon College. I know of no institution where the graduates and former students are more loyal to their Alma Mater than the Elon College alumni.

This gives us an opportunity of expressing our appreciation of what our Alma Mater has done for us at a time we needed her help. I believe our alumni will respond in great numbers and as generously as they can.

See to it that your name is listed in the first publication of the investors in the Elon College Loyalty Fund.

Sincerely yours,

George D. Colclough, President
Elon College Alumni Association

come of $50,000 can make a contribution of $15,000 to Elon College at a cost to himself of only $7,372, or less than half.

MATCHING GIFT PROGRAMS

The following corporations have announced matching gift programs similar to that inaugurated by the General Electric Company five years ago. All will match the contributions made by their employees to accredited private colleges from which they graduated.

In most cases the matching offer applies whether the employee is a graduate or only a former student of the college in question.

In a few instances, the company will match the gifts of any of its employees to any college regardless of whether or not the employee ever attended college.

There are variations, too, in the limits put on the amounts. Some will match individual contributions up to $500; others up to $1,000 a year.

WOFFORD GAME

Fighting stubbornly all the way, the Elon Christians went down before a power-laden Wofford College eleven by a 14 to 0 count at Spartanburg on Saturday night, September 20, but the Christians stayed very much in the ball game until barely five minutes before the end when the Terriers counted their second and clinching touchdown.

Playing without the services of Charlie Maidon, Elon's brilliant senior quarterback, who saw not one second of action due to a leg injury that had handicapped him through two earlier games, the Christians yielded one touchdown to the Terriers after 9:30 of play in the first quarter for the 6-0 score and another with ten minutes gone of the final period for the 19-0 margin.

Wofford touchdowns: Benson (1-run), Drawdy (37-run). Extra points: Drawdy (2-pointer plunge).

On three other occasions during the game the Fighting Christians lived fully up to their name as they halted Wofford scoring threats at the Elon 19, 6 and 10 yard markers. In the closing minutes of the second quarter the Christians themselves drove to the Wofford three and threatened to grab a half-time tie or lead, only to have a fourth-down pass attempt thrown for a loss on the very last play of the half.

The first Wofford TD came on a 74-yard drive after Elon's Mike Little punted dead on the Terrier 26-yard line. The drive featured the running of Gary Whitlock, who got 18 on one play and then broke away on a 48-yard sprint from mid-field to the Elon four. It took Jim Benson three plays to buck the ball over the goal line, and a Whitlock pass failed on the try-for-points.

Later in that first period, the Terriers drove to the Elon 19-yard line, where a clipping penalty nullified what looked like another Wofford score. Two plays later little George Wooten, Elon freshman quarterback, intercepted a Terrier pass at the goal line to halt the threat.

JOE BRYSON

JOE BRYSON ASSISTS ELON COACHING STAFF

Joe Bryson, a graduate of Elon College in the class of '52, is assisting the Elon coaching staff with the Maroon and Gold football team on a part-time basis this fall. Mr. Bryson is pursuing studies at Duke University looking toward his Doctor's Degree in Education.

After graduating from Elon, he spent four years as athletic coach at Bessemer High School and developed highly successful teams in all major sports. Some stars he developed have attended Elon College. He came to Elon as a member of the faculty from 1956-58 where he was regarded as an outstanding backfield coach for the football team. He was also a professor of philosophy. Last year he was coach of the E. M. Holt High School teams, resigning that position this spring to enter Duke University.

as Elon's replacement for the injured Charlie Maidon, guided the Christians on their big threat in the final moments of the half, the long-gainer play being a 20-yard pass from Wooten to Tony Markosky.

APPALACHIAN GAME

Appalachian's Mountaineers scored early and then had to hang on for dear life to topple an inspired Elon team 19 to 8 in Burlington on Saturday night, October 3.

The Apps tallied two first half touchdowns but the Christians caught fire and drove once to the App three and again to the five in the final half to almost pull an upset over the highly-favored visitors.

The score was not indicative of the closeness of the game, the Mountaineers scoring their final touchdown with only 50 seconds left.

App.—G. Wilson 1 run (run failed).
Elon—Komorowski 7 pass from Maidon (McLean pass from Maidon).
App.—Morrison 16 pass from T. Wilson (pass failed).

After their first touchdown march on the opening kickoff the Mountaineers found the Elon defense a tough nut to crack until midway in the second period.

The entire second half was Elon's except for the final TD.

In the third quarter, the Apps couldn't bulge out of their own territory and it wasn't until five minutes were left when Appalachian could cross the midfield siripe.

Quarterback Charlie Maidon, back in top shape after a knee injury, continually haunted the Apps with pinpoint passes.

Maidon connected on 11 of 22 passes for the night for 158 yards and the Christians lone touchdown, a seven-yard toss to end George Komorowski.

The Christians took the second half kickoff and immediately marched to the Mountaineers' 34 but were stopped and had to punt.

The Apps couldn't move the ball and ended up on their own nine and punted. This time, with Maidon finding the range on two crucial passes and half-back Jim Short adding the ground power, Elon drove to the Appalachian three but three cracks at the line by Bob Overton failed to produce a single yard.

The cover page is a night scene of the new Elon College Community Church (Congregational Christian) which was completed this summer and the first service was held on Sunday, August 16. A story and a drawing of the church were given in the June issue of the Alumni News. The church was founded in April 1891 with 19 charter members. Mrs. W. P. Lawrence, graduate of Elon College in 1893 is the only living charter member. Worship services since the organization of the church had been held on the college campus in the chapel until the completion of the new church. Many college students and faculty consider this their church home while they are here at the college.

THIS ISSUE

This issue of the Alumni News is considered our "School Opening" issue. In it we attempt to catch up on much of the news that has accumulated during the summer months. This is especially true of weddings. We still have other weddings to be reported later. Too many for this issue.

To those of us who have read state or local papers some of these items will be old. However, to alumni and friends out of the state this issue may bring you news. We hope all of us will enjoy reading or re-reading the news.

HONOR ROLL

Contributors to the Loyalty Fund will be listed with their class in the issue of the Alumni News immediately following the date of their contribution. They will be listed again in the June issue on the Annual Honor Roll. Be sure to get on the December list.

LOYALTY FUND

The October Alumni News Bulletin was concerned almost entirely with the explaining of the Loyalty Fund or annual giving plan adopted by the Elon College Alumni Association at its May meeting. There were also many related items concerning support of our Alma Mater by its alumni.

It is the hope of all of those concerned with the program that you have read of the new plan and that you will contribute as generously as you can to the support of Elon College.

Elon College is a good college. We know all of our alumni want to see it become a better college—a great college with an excellent program for the boys and girls whom it hopes to serve.

Your contribution will be credited for the purpose which you indicate. Your contribution is also deductible from your income tax.

The Alumni Association voted to solicit your support for this year in the following areas:

1. Unrestricted (General purposes)
2. Increased Faculty Salaries
3. Student Scholarship Aid
4. Other

There is a great need for additional support in the three areas listed as well as in many others. When you send your contribution, please indicate the purpose for which you intend it.

Alumni are responding to the Loyalty Fund appeal. It is hoped that several hundred may be reported in the December issue of the Alumni News. We hope you will be among the number listed. Won't you send your Loyalty Fund contribution at once? Let's have every class listed in the December report and as many alumni as possible with each class. Your Alma Mater is counting on you.

Many Improvements Made On Elon College Campus

DR. DANIELEY TELLS FACULTY OF CHANGES

Many improvements on the Elon College campus, all of them made within the past two years, greeted the members of Elon's new freshman class as they arrived on the campus for the new 1959-60 college year.

Speaking to the Elon faculty at its initial meeting, President J. E. Danieley listed the improvements made for the current year and took occasion at the same time to review the physical changes which have been made at Elon since he assumed the presidency two years ago.

Two of Elon's historic old buildings, the North Dorm and the Club House, have been torn down. The old Club House, which housed Elon students for many years, was removed first to permit enlargement of the gymnasium parking lot; and the North Dorm, which also included the old gymnasium, was removed last year to permit beautification of the college's north campus.

The exterior improvements also include the grassing of new areas, the planting of new trees and shrubbery and the improvement of historic East Dorm with new screens and new paint. The streets have been paved around the campus on the east and south sides, and new curbing and guttering are now being added on the street along the college's west wall.

Adding much to the campus is the new Elon College Community church, which was completed by the church congregation this year. The new church, which stands across the street from the western campus, is of traditional architecture that blends with the campus buildings.

Building Improvements

There have also been many improvements inside the college buildings, including a new sound system in the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall, which will provide music at meal time and also for banquets and social affairs that may be held in the second-floor banquet hall.

There are new fluorescent lights in the reading rooms of the Carlton Library and in many of the class rooms and offices. New steam lines were installed in the Whitley Auditorium to improve the heating system.

A number of changes have been made or will be made in the Alamance Building, where the dean of women is to occupy the office currently housing the alumni secretary, the admissions secretary and the new director of development will occupy offices which are now being built in the old music listening room at the southwest corner of Alamance.

Also added to the Alamance Building is a new loud-speaker system, which will broadcast the chimes from the Alamance cupola for the benefit of the people of the entire Elon College community as well as those on the campus.

Mooney Building Renovated

No building on the campus has been improved more than the Mooney Building, which was almost completely renovated as the aftermath of two disastrous fires which occurred in the structure last year.

The first floor of Mooney has been almost completely rebuilt, providing a new and modern self-service student book store, a sandwich shop, a student lounge and a campus post office. When the renovation is completed, students will have individual mail boxes available on the campus for the first time in Elon history.

On the second floor of Mooney is the new Mooney Chapel Theatre which furnishes headquarters for the Elon Players, student dramatic group. Also on that floor is the office of the newly appointed college chaplain and the classrooms for the college's department of religion, all of which boast a new coat of paint.

The remodelled third floor of Mooney includes four new classrooms and five new faculty offices, along with the new modern language laboratory. The latest in sound and recording equipment is being installed in the language laboratory to make it the finest among North Carolina colleges.

With all these changes completed or nearly so, there are also extensive renovations and improvements planned for the science building. The college has also purchased a two-story residence near the North Gate of the college which will be a residence and headquarters for the college chaplain.

ANNUALS ARE NEEDED

Last school year we made an appeal for copies of the Elon College annual yearbook (Phipsichi).

We are endeavoring to complete files for the Alumni Office, the College Library, and Dr. Danieley's Office. We need annuals for the years 1913 through 1931 consecutively. Also for the years 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1940, 1941, 1943, 1945, 1946.

It is possible that many families have duplicate copies of some of these issues and would be willing to contribute them

BOARD OF TRUSTEES APPROVE SELF-STUDY

The Board of Trustees at its fall meeting on October 8, 1958, approved an institutional self-study of Elon College. The study has been underway almost a year and is to be completed before the visit of an evaluation committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in November 1960. The faculty steering committee consists of Dr. H. H. Cunningham, Dean of the College, social science, Chairman; Mrs. Frances C. Longest, business education, secretary; Dr. Robert Benson, Dean of Students; Prof. Fletcher Moore, music and fine arts; Dr. Arnold Strauch, education and teacher training; Prof. W. T. Reece, business administration; and President J. E. Danieley, natural science.

In addition to the work of the various faculty and administrative sub-committees there will be committees from the Board of Trustees, the Alumni Association, The Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, and consultations with the ministers of the Southern Convention, student groups, and officials of Alamance County, Burlington and Elon College.

The study is designed to "produce reports that should serve the college in its plan of development." According to the manual of the Association the study should: "stimulate an institution to reassess its objectives, organization, resources, procedure, program and achievements; to provide an interchange of ideas between institutions as a result of the experience of the visiting evaluators; to reaffirm the accreditation of the institution; and . . . to provide objective data . . . on which the institution may be guided . . .".

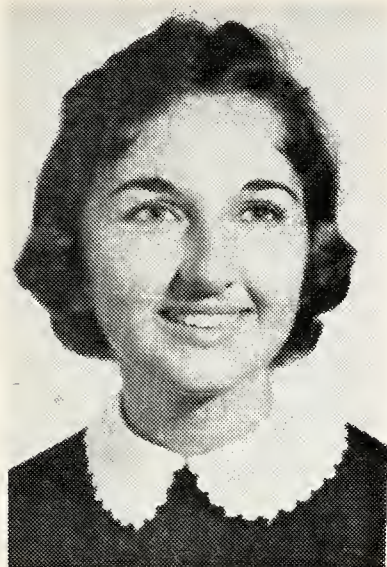

In announcing the study, President Danieley pointed out the study will not only result in a concise statement of objectives for Elon College but that the entire constituency of the College may come to a better understanding as to the nature, function, philosophy and program of the church-related college.

to the college. The Alumni Office will acknowledge the gift of the annuals and will list the donor in the Alumni News with the name of the person to whom the donor may wish it dedicated.

Won't you please check through your library, attic, etc., to see whether you have an extra annual?

Send to Alumni Office, Elon College.

HOMECOMING IS CALLED ELON'S FINEST

Not even the Weather Man nor a resounding defeat at the hands of Presbyterian in football could spoil the gala spirit which pervaded what many persons—alumni, students and faculty—called the best Homecoming celebration in Elon College history on Saturday, October 17.

There was rain in the morning, but the weather cleared in time for the parade and the football game in the afternoon and for the highly successful Homecoming Ball, held that night. The Ball, held that night in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium was in the theme of "An Evening in Paris," with music by Sam Donahue and his Orchestra.

The intermission of the dance featured the coronation of Elon's Homecoming Queen, with Student President Linwood Hurd placing the crown upon Queen Faye Gordon, who was escorted by Jimmy Humphrey. Her chief attendant and Maid-of-Honor was Carol Adams, who was escorted by Tom Gilliam.

Sponsors of various campus groups and their escorts, who formed the royal court, included Winnie Ann Watson, with Sam White, for the Elon Players; Carole Motz with Duncan McKenzie, for the Freshman Class; Kay Hughes with George Howey, for the Senior Class; Marion Glasgow with Gary Henson, for the Women's Athletic Association; Doris Faircloth with Bobby Lawson, for the Maroon and Gold;

Sally Wright with Jack Newman, for the Day Students; Judy Burke with Edie Clark, for Iota Tau Kappa; Frances

Kittrell with Max Clayton, for Beta Omicron Beta; Jane Morgan with Frank Lawrence, for Women's Dorms; Katie Langley with Jimmy Jones, for Phi Psi Chi; Mary Ann Hartwell with Tommy Elmore, for Alpha Psi Omega; Nancy Rountree with Carson Smithwick, for the Ministerial Association;

Artie Cleves with Steve Schiffman, for Smith Hall; Judy Samuels with Steve Mauldin, for Tau Zeta Phi; Janice Isley with J. C. Pulliam, for Delta Upsilon Kappa; Sylvia Little with Howard Little, for the Chemistry Club; Jo Anne Keith with Tommy Sears, for the Sophomore Class; Millie Fletchers with Dan Hulseapple, for the Student Christian Association; Cabell West with Kent Lopp, for Carolina Hall; Carol Earle with Zac Walker, for Kappa Psi Nu;

Virginia Hazelwood with D. C. Harris, for South Dormitory; Carolyn Carr with Gene Lusk, for the Junior Class; Cleve Smith with Buddy Smith, for Sigma Phi Beta; Della Marie Vickers with Richard Cecil, for the Home Economics Club; Joan Marek with Stuart Semple, for Alpha Pi Delta; Pat Jones with Bill Branch, for the Elon Choir; Phyllis Hopkins with Kenneth Rogers, for Sigma Mu Sigma; Margie Marshman with Buddy Frost, for Pi Kappa Tau; and Cara Van Phillips with Mike Avent, for Beta Chi Epsilon.

Also a feature of the intermission at the dance was the singing of Jane Morgan, student torch singer, and the announcement of top prizes for the best floats and best campus decorations. Awards for the best floats went to Day

Students, Women's Athletic Association and Alpha Pi Delta Fraternity in that order; while campus decoration prizes went to the Chemistry Club and Tau Zeta Phi Sorority.

DR. JOHN D. MESSICK

DR. JOHN D. MESSICK RESIGNS PRESIDENCY

Dr. John Messick resigned October 23 as president of East Carolina College to take a post with the federal government agency handling special education projects. Messick is a graduate of Elon College in the class of 1922.

The college's board of trustees accepted the resignation and expressed appreciation for Messick's service. Acting Chairman J. Herbert Waldrop of Greenville named a committee to seek a successor.

Waldrop said Messick had "brought to the college the personality of a leading educator with vision and ability to build a superstructure on an already great foundation."

He commended Messick for his leadership in the community which won for him the respect of the campus and the city. He noted "with regret Dr. Messick's determined decision to leave for the position of national importance that awaits him."

His resignation was effective January 6, 1960, when he will begin work as assistant director of the National Committee on Special Education and Rehabilitation in Washington.

The resignation apparently came as a surprise to some of the trustees.

Born in the small eastern North Carolina village of South Creek, near Washington, Messick began his education in a one-teacher school. His education was interrupted in 1915 when he went to work in a store serving sawmill hands and then joined his brother who was chief engineer on a ship.

He returned to school, completed his

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS CHANGED FOR COLLEGE

Three changes in requirements for a degree and diploma from Elon College were made this fall. The college also changed from the quarter system to the semester system for the 1959-60 term.

The college has added six semester hours to the requirement in the field of social science. In addition to the current requirement of six semester hours in history, candidates for a degree will now be required to take an additional six semester hours in social science, to be chosen from the fields of economics, sociology, political science or geography.

Also added to the degree requirements are two hours in the fine arts field, and at the same time, Elon has reduced by two semester hours in the physical education service courses.

The change-over from the quarter to the semester system has necessitated the rewriting of the hours required for a degree and diploma. In recent years Elon has required 189 quarter hours for graduation, and the new system will call for 126 semester hours. Based on the two for three ratio, this means no change in the number of hours of study.

The new schedule of requirements calls for 32 semester hours in the humanities, including six hours in history and six in other social science fields; four semester hours in physical education, hygiene and orientation; and 66 hours in the student's major field or electives.

high school work and entered Elon College, working his way as a dishwasher and waiter. He spent his summers as an evangelistic singer and field worker to supplement his college earnings.

After receiving his degree from Elon, he earned his masters at the University of North Carolina and his Ph.D. at New York University.

Messick returned to South Creek during his college work to serve as a teacher and later moved to Trenton as principal. He was superintendent of schools in Spencer and taught at Elon, Asheville College and Florida State College for Women.

In 1944, he became dean of instruction and administrative assistant to the president of Montclair, N. J., State Teachers College. From that post, he was called in 1947 to head East Carolina College which then had an enrollment of 1,382.

During his presidency, the college has grown to about 4,000 students and has undergone a physical expansion that included the recent addition of a four-year nursing school.

The inspirational address for the program was given by Dr. Truitt who used as his topic, "For of Such is the Kingdom of God."

Dr. Truitt is married to the former Adelia Jones, graduate of Elon College in the class of 1926. In addition to his duties as superintendent of the children's home, Dr. Truitt is very active in church and civic affairs in the Elon College community and in Burlington. Governor Hodges Speaks On Elon Campus

The fact that Russia today and its progress under Communism must be seen as a real threat to the American doctrine of free enterprise was stressed by Governor Luther Hodges when he addressed the faculty and students of Elon College and a limited number of invited guests at Elon's first chapel convocation of the new term, held in Whitley Auditorium on Monday, September 21st.

The governor was introduced by U. S. Senator B. Everett Jordan, who is a member of the Elon College board of trustees, and the senator described Hodges as one of the state's series of progressive governors and as "North Carolina's Ambassador to the World."

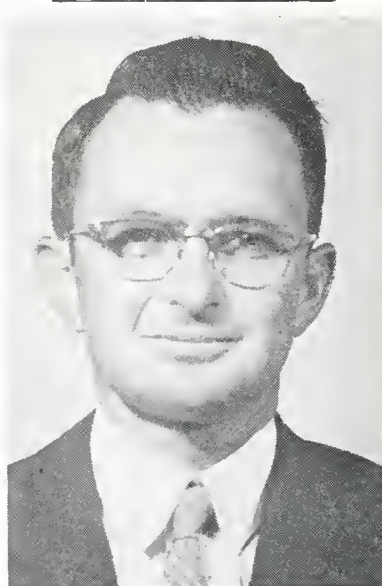

After paying tribute to Elon College for its service in the field of Education, Governor Hodges devoted most of his address to his recent tour of Russia and the Soviet Union, which he made this summer in company with eight other American governors.

The governor said that "the average Soviet citizen is proud of what has been accomplished in Russia in the four decades since the Bolshevik Revolution" and that the average Russian appears content under a government which promises "a reasonably comfortable existence" in return for a lifetime of service in government-assigned jobs.

Speaking of Russian industrial and economic progress, he admitted that it was disturbing to him when he realized that the Soviet Union appears to be advancing at a much faster pace than is the United States.

He described the Russian education system in much detail, with particular attention to science and modern languages, and he pointed to the fact that the United States diplomatic service falls short in many instances because so many American diplomats can neither speak nor write the language of the country in which he serves. In this regard, the governor declared his belief that America should perhaps establish a Foreign Service Academy similar to the military, naval and air force academies.

PORTERFIELD CHOSEN FOR NATO PROGRAM

An Alamance County man was selected as one of 10 Young Republicans in the United States to visit and study NATO countries in Europe.

Erwin L. Porterfield of Route 2, Burlington, Elon graduate in 1954, for several years an active member and leader in Young Republican affairs, was selected to make the trip.

He went to Washington, D. C., August 29 for briefings by the State Department, and on Sunday, August 30, left New York City by plane for Europe.

Porterfield's visit to Europe was part of a program to promote contact and cooperation with political youth leaders in other countries of the free world.

The program had its beginning in the Atlantic Conference of Political Youth Leaders held in Paris last year. It was recommended in that conference that exchange of political youth leaders be held, and early this year a group of European leaders visited the United States for a month as guests of the government.

In turn, 10 Young Republicans and 10 Young Democrats were invited to spend 20 days in Europe.

The trip consisted of meetings in Paris at NATO and SHAPE headquarters, attendance at the Atlantic Treaty Association Assembly in Tours, and a visit to Bonn and Berlin, Germany for a firsthand study of the Berlin crisis.

The group split, one going to Copenhagen, Holland, and Belgium, and the other to Italy, Turkey and France. They returned to the United States September 21.

Porterfield has been a member of the Young Republicans for the past seven years. He has been chairman of the Young Republicans of Alamance County and has served three terms as National Committeeman for North Carolina in the Young Republican National Federation.

Porterfield also has been state publicity chairman for the past two years.

In June of this year, he was a member of the platform committee for the National Federation and was elected vice-chairman for five southeastern states. He has attended the past three national Republican conventions.

Porterfield is engaged in real estate development and farming with his father, J. R. Porterfield. He is married to the former Jean Ferguson.

Elon College Foreign Language Laboratory 'Listens and Records'

By LUTHER BYRD
Publicity Director
Elon College

The Cold War with Russia and the tense situation in international relations on all fronts, coupled with the recent visit of Nikita Khrushchev to America and corresponding visits of American leaders abroad, have caused much comment in educational circles of the need for emphasis on the study of modern foreign languages.

Too many times in such situations interest dies in the talking stage. Elon College, however, is doing more than talk about the improvement of foreign language instruction, for the 70-year-old institution has already swung into action with the installation of the latest electronic teaching equipment in a modern foreign language laboratory.

The Elon language laboratory, which was installed this Summer and Fall was formally opened with a workshop for visiting college and high school language teachers October 16-18. This workshop, held under the direction of Dr. Frances Muldrow, newly-appointed chairman of Elon's modern language department, attracted more than 50 delegates from 13 colleges, one county schools system and 16 high schools.

All delegates at the weekend-workshop, particularly those from other North Carolina and Virginia colleges, were highly complimentary of the new Elon language facility, which includes 28 individual student booths or positions, each with equipment for both listening and recording.

The Elon laboratory is one of the very few colleges of the Southeast with both listening and recording equipment in all booths, although there are many institutions for students, with only a limited number of recording devices which the students may use.

Long Planning

This new and modern language facility is not a project which emerged full-bloom this fall, for it has been in the planning stage at Elon for the past 10 years under the direction of Mrs. Leland S. McDonald, who was acting chairman of Elon's foreign language department during that period.

In cooperation with other members of the foreign language faculty, Mrs. McDonald started language laboratory work at Elon six years ago with the use of a number of tape recorders, record players and temporary listening positions for students, established through the use of portable jack-boxes and head phones.

The new and modern laboratory equipment, which has just been installed, only expands the program which was begun in 1953, furnishing a broader opportunity for electronic instruction in French, Spanish and German, the three modern languages that are included in the Elon curriculum.

Plans outlined by Dr. Muldrow call for introduction of electronic instruction in all Elon language courses at all levels of Elon student body. The lab will be used for classroom instruction and for voluntary listening and practice by foreign language students outside of class.

The students in each booth will be taught comprehension of the spoken language by listening to tapes or records played from the master console, which can also broadcast full lessons, readings, music and faculty instructions regarding grammatic rules of the various languages. The recording equipment in each booth will be used for student speaking assignments and for oral testing of students.

The Elon students themselves are just as enthusiastic about the new equipment as were the delegates at the introductory workshop. It will mean a definite expansion of Elon's language instruction, which is to include full academic majors in French, Spanish and German.

Additional Equipment

In addition to the 28 new booths installed this fall, Elon's language laboratory has much additional equipment and instructional material, which has been collected during the past years, and other materials will be added as rapidly as they can be prepared by the members of the foreign language staff.

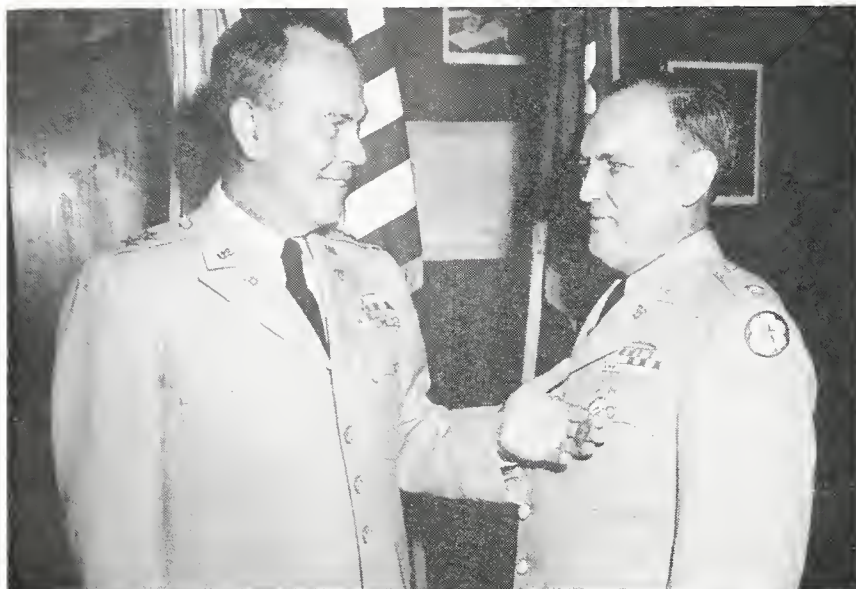

Already the department has about 100 records of speech courses, pronunciation drills, and dramatic and literary readings in French, Spanish and German.

It also has a library of musical records in each language to correlate with the course work. A number of slide sets and film strips offer visual supplement to the aural and oral program in languages.

There is also a short-wave radio with which to pick up and record foreign language newscasts and cultural programs, and the laboratory office has a foreign language typewriter, complete with all accent marks needed to type the various languages, along with its own duplicating equipment for making student copies.

A set of filing shelves offers space in which more than 600 students may file their own individual tapes, and a similar set of shelves is available in the preparation room in which the language

In Cornerstone Laying

Elon Professor In Capitol Ceremonies

Dr. William Moseley Brown, veteran member of the Elon College faculty, who has long played an outstanding role in American Masonic affairs, was honored again during the summer when he was selected as one of the Masonic delegation which served when President Dwight D. Eisenhower laid the third cornerstone of the United States Capitol in Washington on July Fourth.

Dr. Brown, a past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Virginia and the author of many valuable historical works in regard to Masonry, was one of the group from the famous Alexandria Washington Lodge No. 22 which escorted the silver trowel which was used by George Washington in the original cornerstone laying at the capitol and which was used by Eisenhower in the July Fourth ceremonies this summer.

Another honor for Dr. Brown, and which came as a surprise, even to him, came when it was announced that one

CHAIRMAN THAD EURE ADDRESSES STUDENTS

The eight component parts which make up Elon College were listed by North Carolina's Secretary of State Thad Eure, Chairman of Elon's Board of Trustees, when he addressed the college faculty and students in chapel Wednesday morning, October 7th. His appearance was in conjunction with the annual fall meeting of the trustee group, held on the campus that day.

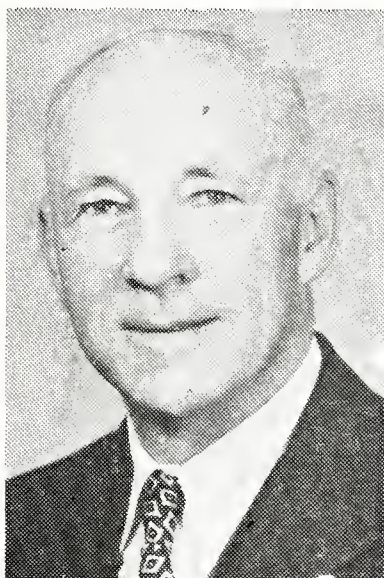

Pointing out that the growth and progress of Elon depends upon the co-operation of all groups, the speaker listed the eight parts of the institution as follows:

1. The Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, under whose auspices the college was founded in 1889 and has been operated since that time.

2. The State of North Carolina, which issued the charter under which Elon was founded and operates.

3. The Board of Trustees, a group of thirty-six members, who make policy decisions for the college.

4. The President of the College, who is elected by the trustees and is responsible for the administration of the institution.

DR. WILLIAM M. BROWN of his books on Masonry, the history of Fredericksburg Lodge No. 4, known as "George Washington's Mother Lodge," was one of the articles which had been sealed into the cornerstone that was placed for the capitol addition.

This was the third cornerstone placed

5. The Faculty of the College, the group which is entrusted with the instructional duties of the college and which serves as a guiding body for the students.

6. The Alumni of the College, including thousands who have attended Elon in years gone by, whose loyalty to the institution is of great influence in its growth.

7. Students of the College, who represent the reason for the college's existence.

8. The Friends and Benefactors of the College, many of whom are not members of any of the preceding groups, who have given freely and liberally in the past years to the support of the institution.

A special feature of the chapel program at which Eure spoke was the presentation of individual members of the board of trustees to the faculty and students. The board members present for the meeting were seated on the stage during the program, giving all a chance to see and recognize each trustee by name.

for the United States Capitol. The first one was laid by George Washington on September 18, 1793, at which time he used the small silver trowel, which had been made by John Duffey, a silversmith of Alexandria, Va. The trowel, with a silver blade and ivory handle, is now the property of the Alexandria-Washington Lodge, of which Washington himself was a member and master.

The complete story of that initial cornerstone ceremony is told by Dr. Brown himself in his Masonic biography of Washington, which was published in 1952. In that description, Dr. Brown also tells of the gavel used by Washington, now the property of Potomac Lodge No. 5. This gavel was also used by Eisenhower in the most recent ceremony.

The cornerstone ceremonies on July 4th, were the third in the 166-year history of the Capitol, for the cornerstone of the House and Senate wings of the building were laid by President Millard Fillmore on July 4, 1851. He also used the historic Masonic implements that were used by Washington and Eisenhower.

The choice of Dr. Brown as one of the honor guard for these Masonic implements for the 1959 ceremonies came in recognition of his many contributions to the cause of Masonry, both in official service and in the writing of its history. Most recent of Dr. Brown's works on Masonry was a study of the Masonic membership of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, which was published last December.

THAD EURE

FIGHTING CHRISTIANS ARE IMPROVING

Although the Fighting Christians have failed to chalk up a victory in the last four football games, the team has been showing steady improvement in each succeeding game, with the exception of the Catawba game when the team fell off the pace.

Elon-East Carolina

This game played at Greenville was the Pirates Homecoming game. It was also the first game in the North State Conference ever to be televised. Played on Saturday afternoon, October 10, the Fighting Christians lost by a score of 31 to 8. Jim Short scored Elon's lone touchdown in the second period when he went from the five yard line. A pass from Maidon to Markoski added the two points. The Pirates switched from their usual running attack to an aerial game to down the Christians.

Elon-Presbyterian College

Homecoming Day football game on October 17 was won by the visiting Blue Hose of Presbyterian College by a score of 27 to 6. The visitors scored on an 87-yard drive in the first period. Five successive completed passes by Charlie Maidon, Elon's outstanding quarterback and passer, gave Elon 6 points in the first quarter. Maidon going over for the touchdown. It appeared that Elon might make a real battle of the game. However, the visitors were able to make good on their scoring chances while Elon missed four other great scoring chances.

Elon-Catawba

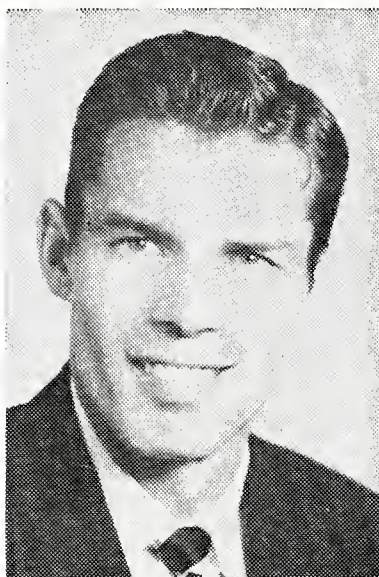

For the first time this season the Elon Christians failed to show good offensive power and went down to a 21 to 8 defeat at Catawba on Saturday night, October 24. Elon came to life in the fourth quarter and scored from one yard out when halfback Eddie Thrower went over for 6 points. Maidon passed to Moore for the two points.

Elon-Western Carolina

Playing perhaps its best game of the season, the Fighting Christians held the highly-rated Catamounts to a 14 to 6 score in the Christians final home game of the season. The game was played at Memorial Stadium in Burlington on Saturday afternoon, October 31.

The visitors were favored by at least four touchdowns, but a determined effort on the part of the Maroon and Gold warriors threatened to upset the predictions.

Elon, denied scores on several deep penetrations in the first half, pushed over its touchdown late in the third quarter. The drive carried for 58 yards and was led by quarterback Charlie

COACH WILLIAM J. MILLER

CAGE SCHEDULE SHOWS TWENTY-FIVE GAMES

The Christian basketball schedule, just announced by Coach Bill Miller, calls for a full slate of 16 North State Conference games plus six regularly-scheduled non conference contests and three days of participation in a Christmas tournament at Camp Lejeune.

The six non-conference battles include home-and-home battles with Pembroke State, Wofford and with the Norfolk Division of William and Mary. The Christmas tournament at Camp Lejeune will keep the Christian cagers in condition for the post holiday drive for honors in the North State loop.

Coach Miller, who assumed the Elon cage coaching post for the first time this season, has had his hardwood squad working hard for the past month, first on conditioning and more recently on tactics designed to place Elon back in the thick of cage competition in this area.

He has six lettermen back in togs from last year, including Eddie Burke, Bill Palkovics, Marsh Oakley, Steve Wall, C. G. Hall and Cecil Wright, along with Bob Bell, who won a letter two seasons ago. Bolstering this letter group is a fine crew of freshmen and junior college transfers.

staff may store master tapes. These master tapes will be filed so that any student may check out a recording of any previous lesson for review purposes or may work on current lessons, either by listening in groups from the master console or individually in the private booths.

The laboratory is already in use, with Mrs. McDonald and Prof. Henry Hackney as faculty directors, working at present with two student assistants. It will be opened for use throughout the day and at night for the use of both day and evening classes and for individual students outside of class hours.

The entire laboratory has an asphalt tile floor in tasteful decor, with floor, walls, booths, furniture and draperies in blending tones of beige, tan and brown, highlighted with tinges of orange and chartreuse. The laboratory, with adjoining faculty offices and classrooms, occupies the entire third floor of newly-renovated Mooney Building and walls of the entire department reflect the spirit of foreign language study through display of a large collection of foreign art prints and posters.

Already the Elon language department is receiving many inquiries, particularly from teachers in the secondary schools and colleges, and Dr. Muldrow and her associates assure everyone that they will welcome further inquiries and visitors who may wish to view the facilities offered.

COACH HEARN

BUNN HEARN CLAIMED BY DEATH IN WILSON

The following release comes from Chapel Hill where Bunn Hearn was baseball coach at the University for 27 years. Many Elon old timers remember when Hearn played and coached at Elon College. Others have become acquainted with him over the years.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 11—AP—They called him "Big Steam" and "Old Leaguer" and he probably was the best loved of all athletic coaches in the history of the University of North Carolina.

That was Bunn Hearn, who died at the age of 68 at his home in Wilson early tonight.

The grand old man of baseball was a native of Chapel Hill, where he served 27 years as Carolina Coach. He suffered a paralytic stroke in February, 1947, the day before baseball practice started.

He remained, however, as a partially active head coach until May, 1956, when he retired.

Crafty Pitcher

During the years of his ill health, Hearn, who had an illustrious big league career as a crafty pitcher in addition to his coaching, relied on Walter Rabb to coach his teams actively.

Rabb, his closest friend and associate, became head coach when he retired and has served in that capacity since then.

The "old pro" was in baseball 50 years. After getting his education and playing football and baseball at Mississippi A&M and Elon, he hit the big league with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1910.

He was six years in the majors, with the Cards, New York Giants and Boston Braves.

In 1913-14 he made a world barnstorming tour with the Giants and the Chicago White Sox. He always liked to recall that during this safari he showed the King of England how to throw a curve ball.

When he was introduced to the monarch, he said in his celebrated Southern drawl. "Glad to meet you, Mr. King."

He was a great story teller. One of the most widely-known quotations attributed to him was when he told a newspaper reporter, before one of his college seasons opened, "We'll win a few, lose a few, and a few will be rained out."

Once, as a coach, he went out to the mound to settle a wild left-handed pitcher. "I'm going to let you stay in," he told the young man, "but I'll ask one favor.

"Don't throw a ball until I get in the dugout."

During 16 years in the minor leagues, Hearn's most notable feat was pitching 20 scoreless innings for Toronto of the International League against Kansas City.

Three Homers

He held them hitless for nine innings. He also hit three home runs in one game as a pitcher.

His North Carolina teams won six Southern Conference championships and three Big Four titles. George Stirnweiss, Lew Riggs, Burgess Whitehead, Johnny Peacock, Jim Mallory, Johnny Humphries, George Turbeville, Nate Andrews and Clyde King were among the players he sent to the big leagues.

His team, which lost only to Duke, was his best. The late Jim Tatum was the catcher on that team.

Among Hearn's awards was his 25-year service plaque from the American Association of College Baseball Coaches. Rabb, his successor, is now second vice president of that organization.

Semi-Invalid

In 1956, the year he retired, as a semi-invalid, Hearn was honored at lavish banquets at Chapel Hill and Raleigh. Governor Luther Hodges was among those who paid him tribute.

One of his closest friends was the late R. A. "Doc" White, a University of North Carolina trainer. When Hearn was ill, White was his nurse on baseball trips. News of Bunn's death was mourned by both the town and university because of his countless friends and admirers.

BILL MILLER IS NEW BASKETBALL COACH

Coach William J. Miller, who comes from Campbellsville Junior College in Kentucky as Elon's new head basketball coach, teaches as a new member of the physical education faculty. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and holds the master's degree from the same institution.

The new Christian cage mentor has for the past three years been head coach at Campbellsville Junior College in Campbellsville, Ky., during that time he compiled an outstanding record which included 56 victories and 23 defeats.

The Campbellsville team, which posted marks of 18-6 and 14-0 in Miller's first two years at the school, had its best mark this past season with a record of 24 wins and 7 losses. The team went on this spring to the semi-finals of the national junior college sectional tournament at Moberly, Mo., and averaged 90 points per game in the scoring columns.

Coach Miller, who is a native of Berea, Ky., played high school ball at Williamsburg, Ky., high school. From there he went on to Eastern Kentucky State in 1944, but he interrupted his education for armed service from March 1945 to November 1947.

He was at the University of North Carolina in 1947-48, and then he played in 1948-49 in pro basketball with the Chicago team of the National Basketball Association. He later was accountant with Western Electric in Winston-Salem, but returned to Carolina, where he received the A.B. degree and the master's degree in 1955.

FORMER ATHLETES ARE MAKING GOOD RECORD

Jack Henderson, graduate of Elon College in 1958, received his masters degree in physical education from Penn State in June of this year. While a student at Penn State, Jack assisted in coaching for the Penn State freshman football team. He is now teaching and coaching in the East Orange High School in East Orange, N. J.

Homer Hobgood, 1956 graduate of Elon, is now playing for the Camp Lejeune Base football team. Hobgood is center on the team and is also captain. Homer is remembered as an outstanding football and baseball player at Elon.

Tony DeMatteo, graduate of Elon College in 1958, and outstanding guard on the Fighting Christians football team, is also playing for the Camp Lejeune team at right guard.

Son Of Professor Helps Develop New Artificial Larynx

HAROLD L. BARNEY

An electronic artificial larynx has been invented by scientists at Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York under the supervision of Harold L. Barney, son of Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Barney of Elon College.

The project was devised so that persons whose larynxes, or voice boxes, have been surgically removed or whose vocal cords are paralyzed, can talk.

Barney, in addressing an electronics meeting in San Francisco recently, said that "the sound created with this device is a bit buzzy and mechanical, but its loudness is about normal. For speaking over the telephone, it is particularly effective."

Barney worked with medical experts of the National Hospital For Speech Disorders in New York City in perfecting the device, with experiments of various models of the larynx on patients. The hospital staff is reported favorably impressed by the device.

Western Electric, which has been awarded production contracts, hopes to have the first models available in 1960.

The device is powered by batteries and transistorized for compactness. It is cylinder shaped and 3 1/4 inches long. One end is held by the patient's hand against the throat.

By flicking a switch on and off, the device generates vibrations, much as a telephone receiver does. These vibrations shape the air moving through his throat into syllables, words and sentences.

Tests indicate that 97 per cent of the artificially created sentences are understandable, according to the company report.

Each year, thousands of Americans have their larynxes surgically removed because of cancer. The American Cancer Society estimates that 15,000 persons are alive today without a voice box, but Bell Laboratories estimates the number to be between 35,000 and 40,000.

Normally, air from the lungs is exhausted through the larynx (whose frontal bulge is the Adam's apple). Vocal cords inside the larynx open and close rapidly to produce speech. This speech is then formed into sounds by the mouth, tongue and lips.

When the larynx is removed, or the vocal cords are paralyzed, sound cannot be generated.

Some persons are able to communicate by swallowing air and releasing it in a controlled way. Many cannot do this, however, some of these persons have used a mechanical larynx whose active part was a vibrating metal reed, but this device was never considered satisfactory.

Barney received his bachelor's degree from Elon College in 1928 and his master's degree in physics from North Carolina State College.

A resident of Madison, N. J., he is an industrial engineer and in charge of Acoustic Instruments Research for Bell Telephone Laboratories at Murray Hill, N. J.

Mrs. Barney is the former Sara Elinor Johnston, whose late father was for many years superintendent of Elon College Christian Orphanage. They have three sons.

Listed in "American Men In Science," Barney holds 34 U. S. patents and 15 foreign patents in the field of wire and radio communications. He also has been cited by military and naval authorities for work in sonar systems and communications.

In describing the electronics larynx in San Francisco, he was making his second appearance on the West Coast. Several years ago he lectured on the part he played in the invention and production of the first telephone equipped with a small screen on which to view the person with whom the conversation is being held.

WAYNE MOORE RECEIVES DOCTORATE IN MUSIC

Wayne Thompson Moore, son of Mrs. Charles F. Moore, of Burlington, and the late Mr. Moore, has recently been granted the degree of Doctor of Education from Columbia University. The topic of his dissertation was "A Study of the Organ Chorale Prelude from 1624 to 1750."

Dr. Moore received his education in the Burlington schools and graduated from Elon College with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1949. He then received a Master of Arts degree from Columbia University in 1950, after which he served in the armed forces for two years. Returning from the service, he joined the faculty of Elon College where he remained until June, 1954. The following fall he commenced his doctoral work with a year's study at the University of Vienna, Vienna, Austria. This was followed by two years in residence at Columbia University.

At the present time, Dr. Moore is in his third year on the faculty at the Mississippi State College for Women, Columbus, Mississippi, where he is an Associate Professor of organ. He is married to the former Elizabeth Nelms, a member of the Elon College music faculty from 1953 until 1956.

Dr. Moore has two brothers who are graduates of Elon College. Prof. Fletcher Moore, head of the Music Department at Elon College, is a graduate in the class of 1934. Willard Moore of Gibsonville was graduated in the class of 1949.

Dr. and Mrs. James M. Hess, residents of Elon and members of the faculty family for the past six years, are pictured above in a gesture of farewell to their many friends and admirers at the college and in this area. They left October 8 to make their home in Claremont, Calif. Dr. Hess had been for six years a member of the Elon English faculty, and prior to that time they had spent thirty-seven years as missionaries in India.

AFTER SIX YEARS IN ELON

Faculty Pair To Reside In California

More than thirty members of the Elon College faculty group, including faculty wives and husbands, gathered at the Alamance Country Club on Sunday night, October 4th, for a dinner, which paid tribute to Dr. and Mrs. James M. Hess, who left last week to make their home in Claremont, Calif.

Dr. and Mrs. Hess have resided in Elon College for the past six years, during which time Dr. Hess has been a member of the college's English department faculty. Prior to that time they had spent thirty-seven years as missionaries in India, where he was for many years doing educational work at the University of Madras.

There was no formal program at the tribute dinner, but Dr. J. E. Danieley, who served as master of ceremonies, paid tribute to Dr. Hess for his fine service to the college and community and presented him with a gift in behalf of the college.

Dr. Hess, in accepting the gift, spoke briefly and told of the satisfaction and pleasure he and Mrs. Hess have had while at Elon and expressed their confidence that the college will continue to make progress and develop through the efforts of a faculty which has its heart in its work.

He recalled how he and his wife happened to come to Elon, saying that he had met Dr. L. E. Smith, for many years president of the college and that he wrote Dr. Smith following retirement in India. He said that his coming to Elon was "like taking a pig in a poke" for both himself and the college, but he added that the succeeding years had been both happy and rewarding ones.

Winston's FILTER-BLEND up front

Sure, most filter cigarettes look alike. But there the resemblance ends. Winston is different. Winston has both a modern filter and Filter-Blend — choice, golden tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking. That's why, when all is said and done, this one quiet fact stands out: more folks find it fun to smoke Winston than any other filter cigarette. How about you? Next time you buy cigarettes, ask for Winston.

CAPT. M. J. W. WHITE RETIRES FROM NAVAL RESERVE

DR. M. J. W. WHITE

Luray, Va.)

Captain M. J. W. White USNR of Luray, known better to us as Dr. M. J. W. White, Luray physician and surgeon; retired September 29th, of this year from the United States Naval Reserve after 23 years active and reserve duty. Incidentally a Captain in the Navy is quite different from the same rank in the Army. A Navy Captain is equivalent in rank to a full Colonel. Accordingly, Captain White is the highest ranking officer in Page County to come out of World War II. Captain White's first assignment with the Navy was from 1912-19 during which he served in World War I on a naval transport making 15 trips to Europe. After being discharged in 1919 in order to resume his education he did not return to the Navy until the beginning of World War II when he was commissioned a Lieutenant Commander.

In 1941 he was ordered to the South Pacific for active duty with the Navy and also in Washington, D. C. After serving in many areas in the South Pacific during World War II he was discharged from active duty as a Commander in 1946 but maintained his Reserve status. He then returned to the Philippines carrying out a duty which he felt imperative and that was to serve in reconstruction work for the Church World Service. He then returned to Luray for permanent residence and to raise his family of two boys and a girl.

Capt. White located in Luray in 1939 and was influential in the unusual success and growth of the Page Memorial Hospital where he is now senior staff member and chief surgeon. His surgical practice has been in many areas over the past 20 years.

Captain White married the former Rita True Rothgeb of Luray, in 1927, and the couple went to the Philippines as Medical Missionaries in 1929 where Captain White was put in charge of a 100-bed hospital. It was here that he realized the great need for medical assistance in the Far East and the close connection between such service and the Christian mission. He has remained steadfast in his determination to make his contribution in this respect and it was during these missions that he became acquainted with the great Dr. Frank Lauback who has visited him and his family in Luray on numerous occasions.

In 1936 the Whites went to the Virgin Islands serving under the State Department and in the capacity he was placed in charge of the Municipal Hospital in Fredericksted, V. I. He served there for two years where he gained much experience as an administrator as well as surgeon.

Captain White was born in Norfolk, Va., August 29, 1899, and attended the grammar and high school in Norfolk. He graduated from Elon College with an A. CHRISTIANS CLOSE LOSING SEASON

The Newberry Indians broke loose with three home-run plays and took alert advantage of four Elon miscues as they rolled for eight touchdowns in a 56 to 21 victory over the Elon Christians at Newberry College on Saturday night, November 7.

The Elon Christians had their best offensive game of the year as they rolled up a total of 312 yards, including 218 rushing and 94 passing. The Christians gained an early lead when they drove 57 yards with the first kick-off, a drive that ended with Dick Moore bucking over for the touchdown and George Wooten the extra point for a 7-0 lead at the five minute mark.

Other Elon touchdowns were scored by Bob Overton and George Wooten.

LENOIR RHYNE GAME

In the final game of the season the Elon Christians were completely outclassed by the Lenoir Rhyne Bears, the number one team among America's small colleges, by a score of 50 to 15. The game was played at Hickory on Saturday night, November 14. Long sprints by the Bears proved Elon's downfall as the winners chalked up their eighth consecutive win of the season and their 16th straight victory over a two-year period.

Elon got some satisfaction in rolling up 365 yards total offense against the nationally ranked Bears. It was by far the greatest offensive show of the year for the Christians and was one of the highest yardage totals against Lenoir Rhyne in two seasons.

Maidon On All-Conference

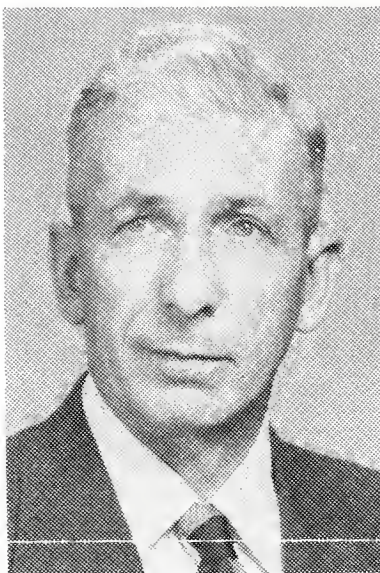

Charlie Maidon, Elon quarterback, was named to the All-North State Conference grid club for the third straight season as 1959 football action came to an end. Maidon, who topped the seven-team conference in passing for the second straight year, was the only member of the Fighting Christian grid squad who won all-star honors for the year.

McLean Paid Tribute

Bob McLean, Elon's senior halfback from Rockingham, was named as Elon's "Player With The Most Desire" for the 1959 football season and was paid tribute at the annual banquet meeting held by the Burlington Touchdown Club immediately after Thanksgiving. McKeon stated that he is happy to be returning to the Carolina League. A native of South Amboy, N. J., he is married to the former Carol Isley of Burlington.

ELON CAGERS SPLIT TWO EARLY GAMES

The Christian cage team opened its regular season of play on Wednesday, December 2, by winning at Pembroke College by a score of 85 to 84.

Herbie Hawks, 6-2 junior guard from Louisville, Ky., who starred with Coach Bill Miller's Campbellsville Junior College team last winter, popped in a field goal with barely three seconds on the clock to pull the game from the fire.

Elon led 52 to 39 at halftime, but saw their 13 point margin fade as Winfree, Pembroke Indian's forward, led a scoring rally in the last half. Winfree had a total of 34 points for the losers.

The Christians had four men in double figures for the night. Burke had 23; Smith 19; Palkovics 14; and Conaster 10.

WOFFORD GAME

The Wofford Terriers of Wofford College in South Carolina downed the Christian cagers by a score of 77 to 63 in a game played at Spartanburg, S. C., on Friday, December 4.

The Christians and the Terriers swapped points through the first 10 minutes of play, with the Wofford hoopers gaining a scant 14 to 13 lead midway the first half, but Boyce Berry got hot from his guard post to lead the Terriers to a 10 point margin at 34 to 24 by intermission.

Ken Smith, Elon forward, paced both teams in scoring for the night with 21 points. Richard Conaster was the only other Elon player to hit in double figures.

TOMANCHEK COACHES CHAMPS

Joe Tomancheck, Elon graduate 1950, brought a state championship to the Charlotte Garinger High School in his first year as head football coach.

The Charlotte team, which plays in the 4-A classification of high schools in North Carolina, defeated Greensboro High School in the play-off at Charlotte on December 4 by a 20 to 6 score to give the Charlotte Wildcats their first championship since 1943.

One of the coaches on the losing Greensboro coaching staff was Claude Manzi, another Elon graduate in 1950 and a teammate of Tomancheck on the Elon College football team.

CHURCHES ARE URGED TO SUPPORT COLLEGE

ENCOURAGING REPORT FOR LOYALTY FUND

Many Elon alumni started the "New Year" in a mighty fine way by contributing to the Elon College Loyalty Fund. Seventy contributors gave $703.00 to get the campaign moving in a most encouraging way.

It is hoped that each succeeding month for the remainder of the school year will be a record breaker. Won't you get your name on the roll at once! The annual Honor Roll will look good with a thousand or more names on it.

Many firms match employees' gifts to educational institutions. Why not check on your firm or write the Alumni Office for information.

BY DR. D. W. SHEPHERD

As an alumnus of Elon College, Class of '29, I have watched with interest and pride as my Alma Mater has become a bigger and better school, in so many ways. The increase in student enrollment has made it necessary to enlarge and improve personnel as well as expand the over-all facilities. Educational institutions must meet the demands of today and at the same time, compare favorably with similar institutions in its field. Elon has faced the future in a very commendable way. I feel that as alumni we can all be very proud of our college.

Elon College was founded by the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, which contribute to its support. These churches are found throughout North Carolina and Virginia, and there are over 200 such churches in the two states.

We recognize that steps of progress by educational institutions require an outlay of vast sums of money. What at times we fail to recognize is that there are other ways by which we may help such institutions. As a minister, it is not always possible to show my appreciation by the amount I give. However, there are other ways to help and there are other things vitally needed in addition to monetary considerations.

Specifically, in the more than 200 churches in the Southern Convention, there must be a great many top-ranking students who should have their attention directed to Elon. It is conceded that all sons and daughters of Elon alumni should not be expected to attend the same school. However, it seems that ministers who attended Elon are in an enviable position to acquaint many high school students with the opportunities for an education in a Christian atmosphere. How can we do this? It is suggested that outstanding representatives from the college be invited to participate in special services in our churches; that names of promising high school students be sent to the College office; that outstanding features of the school be pin-pointed occasionally through the medium of church bulletins and sermons; that groups of students be encouraged to visit the College at intervals.

Certainly, no one can presume to tell others what to do, but if each in his own way will become an ardent booster, it is reasonable to assume that together we can influence more of our best students to attend our College. While it is our school, two other denominations furnish more students each year than we do. It is right for us to ask questions about our College, and also ask questions of ourselves in regard to our high responsibility to help it. I am calling attention to the case for concern and influence on the part of ministers and members of our churches. As we succeed in sending more top-grade students to Elon, we will share in the progress of an institution and the education of individuals.

CHRISTIAN CAGE TEAM DOMINATED BY YOUTH

The accent is on youth as Coach Bill Miller's Fighting Christian cagers continue to battle through a terrific conference schedule. In nearly every game three freshmen, a sophomore and a senior are in the starting line-up. The freshmen are: John Neidig, usually as center, Richard Conatser, and Gary Teague as guards, the sophomore Ken Smith and the Senior Bob Bell as forwards.

Ken Smith and Richard Conatser, sharpshooters from the hills of old Kentucky, are pacing the scoring for the Christian cagers. Smith has scored 300 points in playing sixteen games, around 19 points per game. Conatser is second with 272 points in seventeen games, an average of 16 points per game.

The team is playing exciting ball and should far surpass last season's mark before the 1960 season ends.

The season's record now stands at 7 victories and 11 defeats through January 30 with 7 games remaining on the regular schedule, plus the North State Conference Tournament the latter part of February.

One of the most exciting games of the season was played on the home court against Catawba on Saturday, January 16. With barely a second showing on the clock, Herbie Hawks, another dead-eye Kentuckian, banked a ten-foot push shot into the net to give the Christian cagers a nerve-tingling 79 to 77 victory over the visiting Catawba Indians.

FOOTBALL TEAM IS HONORED AT BANQUET

Coach Bill Crutchfield, who has recently resigned his post at Wake Forest to accept an assignment as backfield mentor at Miami University, was the featured speaker at the annual Elon College football banquet, which was held in the banquet room of McEwen Memorial Dining Hall at 6:30 o'clock on January 21.

Dr. Robert Benson, Elon's Dean of Students, was master of ceremonies for the event, arrangements for which had been made under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Hester, Dean of Women at the college. The invocation was by Prof. John Graves, the college chaplain.

Monogram sweaters and senior jackets were presented to the members of the 1959 Christian team by Dr. H. H. Cunningham, Dean of the College. Other awards included trophies for the best blocker to Captain Tunner Brosky and for the most valuable player to Alternate Captain Charlie Maidon.

Among the guests for the event, in addition to the coaches and members of the Christian grid squad, were the members of the faculty athletic committee and the varsity cheerleaders. The event was hailed by many as the most successful sports banquet in Elon history.

A ceremony at the home of the bride November 28 united in marriage Miss Annie Marie Fitch and James Thomas Canupp.

Mrs. Canupp graduated from Pleasant Grove High School and before her

The cover page is a snow scene of the Elon College campus, which represents the condition of the campus for the greater part of February and March of this year. Before one snow would melt another would come, giving at one time in March a depth of approximately twelve inches. Alumni will readily recognize "Senior Oak" at the left in the picture. Although the "trysting bench" looks mighty lonesome, it is rather certain that spring will again bring Elon couples to this favorite campus spot. The picture was made by T. H. Mackintosh, Elon College citizen, husband of Mary Graham Lawrence Mackintosh, '24.

CLASS REUNION PLANS

The center of attention in the class reunions will be the "Golden Anniversary" class of 1910. There are 10 living graduates of this class. It is hoped that every member will be present for the reunion. The "Silver Anniversary" class is the class of 1935. Plans for other class reunions are listed on page 17. Some new ideas are being tried this year. This should be a great day for alumni—May 28. Make your plans to attend.

From The Alumni Office

It does not seem possible that another school year is so near to its close. However, when one consults the college calendar this closing date becomes more realistic.

Elon College is experiencing a good year. Although enrollment is somewhat lower than during the past few years, the activities of the college are moving along satisfactorily.

The most important activity of the faculty, outside the regular instructional program, has been the Self-Study Program approved by the Board of Trustees in October 1958. This program is well into its second year and is to be completed before the visit of an evaluation committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in November 1960.

Your Alumni Association, through a committee headed by Hinton Rountree, '39G, is taking a very active part in this study.

The athletic program during the school year has been interesting and exciting—football not so successful from the standpoint of victories, but a great effort by a splendid group of footballers who may make themselves heard from in the conference next year; much improvement in basketball, with some outstanding individual player performances; a full program of sports for the spring months (see schedules elsewhere).

Student leaders have brought some excellent outside entertainment to the campus—The Four Freshmen, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, George Marterie's Band. The Elon Players have presented some outstanding plays—"Ah Wilderness," Pajama Game,"—others to follow.

Religious Emphasis Week was one of the important periods on the campus for students and faculty.

The visit of Governor Luther Hodges to address the student body and faculty at the opening chapel convocation for the school year was one of the standout programs during the session.

The Board of Trustees, holding its annual fall meeting on the campus, with Chairman Thad Eure addressing the student body and presenting the members of the board to the students and faculty, set a precedent for the board.

Renovation of Mooney Building brought about a great change in the use and purpose of the building. The third floor has been converted into a Modern Language Laboratory. The second floor completely replanned, after the fire, for the use of the Elon Players and other dramatic performances.

The first floor renovated to provide a new and modern self-service student book store, a student lounge, a campus post office with individual mail boxes for students, and a sandwich shop.

For the alumni—a good year also. A very active Executive Committee of the association planning and doing a splendid job; good chapter meetings in various areas; an encouraging response to the Loyalty Fund project.

And that Homecoming celebration in October—considered by many as the greatest ever held at Elon College—bringing back many alumni.

The climax of the year—still ahead for alumni. Commencement and Alumni Day. May 28 is the day when it is hoped hundreds of alumni will be back on the campus—this is Your Day. Plan to be present. Contact your alumni friends and make plans to come together. The reunion classes are especially urged to be back. See the schedule elsewhere in this issue.

Yes, this is a Good Year! Let's close it in an Excellent Way.

W. B. TERRELL, Secretary.

Alumni Chapter Meetings Held In Various Areas

Although bad weather has interfered considerably in efforts of the Alumni Office to schedule meetings of Elon College alumni in various areas, quite a number of meetings have been held with good results. In many cases heavy snows cut down on attendance or forced postponement of the meetings.

In previous issues of the Alumni News reports were given of outstanding meetings of the Greensboro and the Norfolk Chapters of the Alumni Association. Since then other groups have met.

RICHMOND

Dr. J. Earl Danieley, president, and Alfred S. Hassell, Director of Admissions, met with a group of Elon alumni in Richmond on October 8th. This was an informal gathering held at a local restaurant. Dr. Beverly M. Currin, '53 graduate, made arrangements for the meeting.

BOSTON

President Danieley met with a group of New England Alumni at the Hotel Continental, Cambridge, Mass., on January 13. Roger Wilson, graduate of Elon in 1952, was in charge of the meeting. He wrote, "Neither rain nor snow; sleet nor hail," aptly describing the weather conditions prior to the meeting. And in spite of three to five inches of snow and sleet, a dozen or more brave Elonites and friends were present for the meeting. Dr. Danieley showed pictures and discussed the program of Elon College.

NEW YORK

Dr. Danieley was scheduled to be in New York City on February 1 for some business appointments and a meeting with alumni in the New York area was scheduled for that night. In the meantime Dr. Danieley went to a meeting in Buck Hill Falls, Pa., where he was stricken with flu.

W. B. Terrell, Alumni Secretary, went to New York in place of Dr. Danieley. A good meeting was held at the Sheraton-Russell Hotel.

Edward F. Shaw, graduate in 1942, made all arrangements for the meeting.

WILMINGTON

On March 11th Dr. Danieley, William Ginn, Admissions Counselor; Al Hassell, Director of Admissions, and W. B. Terrell, Alumni Secretary, attended a meeting of the Wilmington Chapter of the Elon College Alumni Association which was held at the Wrightsville Marina Restaurant. In spite of threats of snow in the area a good number of alumni and friends were present. Mr. A. E. Gibson, Class of '16, president of the local chapter, was in charge of the meeting. Dr. Danieley showed some beautiful slides of the buildings and campus scenes and spoke on the college situation.

Mr. Gibson was reelected as president of the Wilmington Chapter. Mrs. James L. Hiatt was chosen vice-president, and Mr. Jordan Sloan, graduate '39, was chosen as secretary.

CHARLESTON

William Ginn and W. B. Terrell went from the Wilmington meeting to meet with Elon people in the Charleston area. They encountered snow on the trip and found Charleston with its first measurable snow in sixteen years. Although there was not a great accumulation of snow, prospects of sleet and snow in the area evidently had its influence on the Elon folks and only a small number was present for dinner at the Fort Sumter Hotel, Friday evening, March 12.

FAYETTEVILLE

A meeting had been planned for Elon alumni in the Fayetteville area to meet at the Charcoal Steak House on Wednesday evening, March 10. Heavy snows on two successive Wednesdays caused this meeting to be canceled. It is hoped it can be rescheduled at an early date. F. Orva Perkins, graduate '34, had made plans for the meeting and had been assured of good attendance.

JERUSALEM

The following message at Christmas time told of another "gathering" of Elon alumni:

Jerusalem

Dec. 25, 1959

Dear Dr. Danieley:

Greeting from the "Elon Reunion" being held in Ramallah and Jerusalem this week! Leila has just had an appendectomy, but flew to Ramallah for Christmas.

Give our greetings to all the people we know. Violet says, "Come and visit us in Ramallah!" Love and Best Wishes to you on the Christmas Day.

Louis Wilkins, Violet Zarou, Marcus Evirette, Leila Khoury.

OTHER MEETINGS PLANNED

April 8th has been definitely set for a meeting of Elon alumni in the Suffolk area. This meeting will be held in the Recreation Room of the Suffolk Congregational Christian Church. President G. C. Mann states that plans are underway to have the largest attendance in the history of the local chapter.

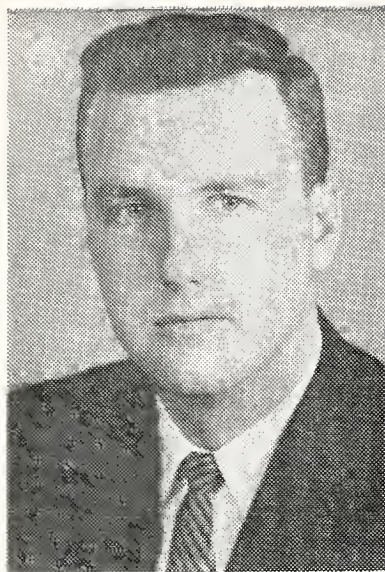

The Durham-Orange Chapter will meet this year. Date is being considered.

Other places where it is hoped meetings will be scheduled: Charlotte, Raleigh, Reidsville, Asheboro, Sanford.

In addition a "southern trip" is planned with meetings in Greenville and Spartanburg, S. C.; Atlanta, Ga.; and Birmingham, Ala.

It is hoped that alumni in the various areas will attend the meetings most convenient for them.

See Loyalty Fund report on page 16. Join your classmates in this program.

WILLIAM GINN

WILLIAM GINN NAMED ADMISSIONS COUNSELOR

William R. Ginn, an Elon graduate who has just completed a three-year tour of duty in the United States Navy, has been appointed admissions counselor for Elon College and assumed his new duties on March 1.

The new admissions counselor, whose appointment was announced by Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon president, is a resident of Mount Pleasant, S. C., who graduated from Elon with the Class of 1956.

In announcing Ginn's appointment, Dr. Danieley declared that "Elon College is fortunate to have the services of Mr. Ginn as admissions counselor. As a graduate of the college, he is familiar with the programs offered and the opportunities available at Elon."

He further stated that the new appointee "will serve as advisor to prospective students, will visit high school and church groups to talk to young people about preparation for college in general and Elon in particular and will confer with parents and other interested persons about opportunities for scholarships, work jobs and loan funds, which are available to prospective students."

Dr. Danieley stated that under the present program of selective admissions, Ginn will help select those students who are best prepared to enter Elon College, those who will benefit most from the type of educational program which Elon offers.

As admissions counselor, Ginn's work will be closely coordinated with the duties of Prof. Robert Baxter, director of development, and Prof. Alfred S. Hassell, director of admissions.

The new admissions counselor is a native of Anderson, S. C., but he later resided in Charleston before moving to Mount Pleasant in 1950. He attended William Moultrie High School in Mount Pleasant and entered Elon College in 1952, graduating in 1956 with a major in history.

While in high school he participated in all major sports and also played in the school band and was a member of the glee club. While at Elon he was a member of the Elon Choir, the Elon Band, the Student Christian Association and Kappa Psi Nu fraternity. In his senior year he was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Following his Elon graduation, he entered the Navy's officer training program and received an ensign's commission in 1957. His active naval service was with ships in the Navy's Atlantic Mine Force, being stationed at Charleston and making several trips overseas. He was released from active duty in the Navy in February.

GEORGE NALL

GEORGE NALL ELECTED SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

George Nall, who teaches mathematics and history at Graham High School, has been nominated to serve as principal of the new elementary school now under construction on Highway 87 south of Graham.

The action was taken by the Graham School Committee, recently, but must have approval of the County Board of Education and the state before it becomes final. However, both the county and state normally go along with the wishes of local committees on such matters.

He has been with the Graham school for the past three years. A native of Burlington, he is a graduate of Elon College in 1956 and has worked toward his master's degree at the University of North Carolina. He is married to the former Jerolene Kidd, who is now attending Elon College. The Nalls have two children.

CUNNINGHAM'S BOOK IN SECOND PRINTING

Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of Elon College and chairman of the history department, has just been notified by the Louisiana State University Press that a second printing of his book, "Doctors In Gray," will come from the presses in the near future.

The second printing attests the popularity and demand for Dr. Cunningham's book, which was first published two years ago offering a definite study of the Confederate army medical services during the Civil War.

WOMAN OF YEAR SELECTED—Miss Julia Woodson, a teacher in the Burlington City Schools for many years and a leader in special education, receives the 1959 Alamance County Woman of the Year award from Harvey C. Mitchell of the Burlington Civitan Club.

Burlington Teacher Is Honored

By DON BOLDEN

Burlington Times Staff Writer

A woman who has spent most of her life teaching young Burlington boys and girls and has pioneered in special education was named Alamance County Woman of the Year for 1959.

Miss Julia E. Woodson, now a special education teacher at Maple Avenue School, was presented the coveted honor at the annual Ladies Night program of the Burlington Civitan Club in the Fellowship Hall of Davis Street Methodist Church.

Miss Woodson has taught in the school system since she was a teen-ager, and six years ago became the city's first teacher of special education, giving instruction to those with lower intelligence levels.

Harvey C. Mitchell made the presentation and praised her for "an outstanding record of service to our community" and as a "true builder of good citizenship."

Miss Woodson is a native of Richmond, Va., the daughter of Mrs. Sophie Woodson and the late S. Thomas Woodson, Sr. She attended public school in Virginia and entered Bethany College in Bethany, W. Va. At the time she planned to become a missionary, and while a student, she did missionary work in the coal mining regions of W. Va.

She later attended Elon College with the class of 1928 as a major in religious education, and this training led to a position as director of religious education in a church in Atlanta, Ga., where she also edited a church magazine.

Mitchell said:

"While still a teen-ager, she began teaching in Burlington. Here she taught grade one through five in physical education, directed the glee club and presented many pageants using music, art and dramatics. She continued until entering the special education field about six years ago.

"Her compelling desire to be of the greatest possible service to others has led her to a seemingly endless quest for knowledge. For the past several years she has worked on a special education certificate at Greensboro College in afternoon and night classes. At present she is a special student in Elon College Night School and is taking correspondence work from the University of North Carolina. She has also taken special courses at Woman's College and has done extensive work in music and dramatics."

In the summer Miss Woodson serves on the faculty at Western Carolina College as demonstration teacher in special education.

"One of the most remarkable things about Miss Woodson's work is the fact that these students with low intelligence are not sorry for themselves," says School Superintendent L. E. Spikes. "But with face up, they are led to face reality and, at the same time most of them have fine dispositions and attitudes toward life."

Miss Woodson doesn't leave off her work with children come Friday afternoon. She directs the children's choir at the First Congregational Church and is superintendent of the pre-school department, among many other youth-related activities at the church.

Her voice is familiar to those who have listened to children's radio programs across Piedmont North Carolina and many children outside of Alamance County know her from summer camp work.

And, wearing the first orchid of her life at the dinner in her honor last week, she accepted the acclaim of her fellow citizens, who believe she has done her missionary work right here in Alamance County.

She didn't even forget in her "thank-you" speech to praise the people for their support of the education program in the area.

MRS. JEWEL BANKS

MRS. JEWEL BANKS PAID MANY TRIBUTES

(Sometime ago Mrs. Jewel Banks, Elon College graduate in the class of 1912, retired as superintendent of the Department of Public Welfare for Yadkin County. The Elkin Tribune carried a long story of the life and service of Mrs. Banks, written by Grace Laffoon, a member of Tribune staff. Parts of the story and tributes are reproduced in the Alumni News.)

By GRACE LAFFOON

Yadkin County is losing a jewel — Mrs. Jewel Banks of Yadkinville, who is retiring as superintendent of the Department of Public Welfare.

A jewel has many facets and Mrs. Banks is no exception for her sterling Christian character reflects wisdom, love, kindness and courage.

On Friday, one day after her birthday, Mrs. Banks will return to her native home in Kernersville after giving 21 years of her life in serving the citizens of Yadkin County.

In the position as superintendent of the department, she had to be versatile, often acting as counselor, minister, truant officer, detective, mathematician, financial wizard, and diplomat, with varied other qualities thrown in for good measure.

The influence of the soft spoken woman will be missed in Yadkin County, but she will leave Yadkinville with the knowledge that she has done her job well and that the many services rendered by the welfare department will be continued.

Dedicated to her profession. Mrs. Banks has given unselfishly of her time and talents to help the people in need in Yadkin County. Her reward has been the personal satisfaction which comes from helping others such as seeing a blind man being able to earn a living for himself and his family, a little crippled child being able to walk and run again, or an unwanted child being placed in a home where it will have love and security.

Actually Mrs. Banks never planned to enter welfare work. Like her sisters, she studied to be a teacher, teaching for 10 years, seven in Raleigh and teaching art for one year at Catawba College.

After the death of her husband, the Rev. A. T. Banks, a Presbyterian minister, Mrs. Banks went to the University of North Carolina and took a course in welfare work. She confessed that when she read newspaper accounts about welfare conferences being held that she always had a desire to attend.

Mrs. Banks is a talented artist, as a water color of a rare night blooming cerus, framed and hanging on the wall of her office indicates. She remembers her friends at Christmas with artistic gifts which she has made or painted.

She is an active member of the Yadkinville Presbyterian Church where she taught a Sunday School class for eight years and is a most valued member of the Yadkinville Woman's Club.

Upon learning of her retirement, the church recently honored Mrs. Banks at a supper and presented her a gift of luggage. The Lions Club also paid tribute to her in appreciation of her work with the blind. They presented her a travel clock. Present at the Lions Club dinner were Gladis Kivett of High Point, an area case worker with the blind, who paid tribute to Mrs. Banks by saying, "Her life symbolizes service to others."

Tribute was also paid to her by Mrs. Glenn Sheek, an office worker. Max Welborn, a member of the Lion's Club and Bruce Warden, president of the club.

Mrs. Banks is not one who counts hours on a job. She was overheard to say recently that "her only recreation for the past 21 years had been attending a meeting of the Woman's Club once a month and mid-week prayer services at the Presbyterian Church once a week." She knew no limits of time and energy in her work of serving other people. Maybe that is why Mrs. Bank's friends and co-workers think that the

DR. JESSE H. MEREDITH

DR. JESSE H. MEREDITH DEVELOPS MONITOR

When three Russian scientists return to their homeland they will take with them a specially developed oxygen monitor for use in heart-lung operations.

The monitor, developed by Dr. Jesse H. Meredith, who attended Elon College with the class of 1944, instructor in surgery at Wake Forest's Bowman Gray School of Medicine, was presented to the Russians on a recent visit.

The Russian medical scientists are Dr. Mikhail M. Tarasov, director of the Sklifosovsky Institute of Research in Moscow, Dr. Anastasy G. Lapchinsky, director of the Moscow Institute of Experimental Surgery Apparatus and Instruments, and Dr. E. A. Zotikov, director of the Moscow Institute of Experimental Biology, all of the Soviet Academy of Medical Sciences.

The Russians, touring U. S. medical centers, were invited by the medical school after the Russians asked to see a medical center of smaller size.

Dr. Tarasov told a gathering of about 200 medical personnel, "The people of the Soviet Union want peace always with the great United States." He said Americans are welcome in Russia.

Dr. Tarsov presented the medical school with two booklets he authored.

DR. AND MRS. HESS

Dr. and Mrs. James Hess are now living in Claremont, Cal., having left Elon last fall after six years. The Alumni Office has a nice letter from Dr. Hess. He and Mrs. Hess wish to be remembered to "their friends." Address: 777 Alden Road.

NEWS OF ALUMNI IS REQUESTED BY OFFICE

Recently the Alumni Office received a nice letter from Henry Milton Loy, graduate 1907, in which he made several suggestions and comments, concerning the Alumni News. Among other things, Mr. Loy said he would like to have more news about the "oldtimers"—classmates and schoolmates when he was here. Mr. Loy was emphasizing the very thing we have tried to get across to our alumni. The "oldtimers," as we may refer to those who were at Elon forty or fifty years ago, are not forgotten. People who knew you are wondering where you are and what you are doing—how many children and grandchildren you have.

The Alumni Office has sent forms to many of the alumni requesting information. However, very few alumni have responded, particularly those in the older group. Consequently, the Alumni News usually has more information about the recent Alumni. Alumni are again being urged to respond to requests for information. Others want to hear about you.

MISS FAYE HORTON

ELON SOPHOMORE IS HONORED BY ARMY

Miss Faye Horton, Elon College sophomore from Fayetteville, has been chosen as "Miss Rock" and official sponsor for the United States Army's crack 82nd Airborne Division, and made her first appearance in that capacity in ceremonies held recently at Fort Bragg, home base of the famous army unit.

Miss Horton, who represented her home town as "Miss Fayetteville" in the annual "Miss North Carolina" contest last summer, was chosen by the airborne fighting group from among 638 entries. The judging was from pictures submitted by the entries from all parts of the United States.

It is a national honor for the Elon sophomore, and she will appear as "Miss 82nd Airborne" in many observances at army posts all over the United States. In addition to her appearance at Fort Bragg, she has visits scheduled to Fort Lee in Virginia, Fort Benning in Georgia and a base in Ohio. The shorter title of "Miss Rock" alludes to the division nickname, which was won by its hard fighting in World War II.

Miss Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Horton, of Fayetteville, attended Peace Junior College in Raleigh last year and transferred to Elon this fall. She is an English major, who writes poetry and has participated in dramatics in high school and college. Her other hobbies include dancing, swimming and water skiing.

Plan to attend Alumni Day, May 28. See your classmates and friends.

:- Basketball Gives Way To Baseball :-

Little Richie Conaster, the deadshot freshman guard from Somerset, Ky., set up an all-time Elon College scoring mark for freshman when he tossed up 404 points to lead the Fighting Christian cagers in scoring for the 1959-60 basketball season.

Playing in each of Elon's 26 games during the year, the little Kentuckian made good on 148 of 384 floor shots and added 108 of 135 tries from the charity stripe, averaging close to 39 per cent on his floor tries and over 81 per cent of his free throw attempts.

Conaster's total of 404 points not only represented the first time that an Elon freshman had scored more than 400 points in his first season of play. It was also the first time that a Christian freshman had ever been over the 300-point mark too. Ben Kendall and Dee Atkinson, rated two of Elon's finest of all time, fell far below in their first campaigns. Kendall hit 247, and Atkinson got 225 points in their first season.

Ken Smith, who played only in the first 17 games of the year, falling by the scholastic wayside at mid-year, trailed Canaster in the scoring columns. Smith hit 307 points in his 17 games and led the Christians in average points per game for the year. Smith's marksmanship gave him an average of 17.1 points per game. The big forward also topped the squad in rebounding, with 181 in his 17 games for a better than 10 rebounds per game. John Neidig equalled Smith in number of rebounds, also pulling down 181, but he played in 25 games.

The Christians scored 1,830 points in their season while winning 9 and losing 17 games, averaging 70.4 points per contest. This offensive mark was far ahead of last year's team, which could average only 56 points per game while winning 7 and losing 16 contests. The defensive mark fell short of last year, for the Maroon and Gold cagers allowed 1976 points for an average of 76 points this year. Last year's team allowed an average of 67.8 points to the 23 opponents.

A shining mark set by this year's Christians was in the rebounding division, for Coach Bill Miller's boys pulled down a total of 1,097 loose balls off the boards for an average of 42.2 rebounds per game. At the same time they allowed their opponents only 898 rebounds, an average of 35.1 per game.

HENDERSON GETS M.Ed.

Jack Henderson, graduate in 1958, received his Master of Education in the field of physical education from the Pennsylvania State University in January of this year. Jack's home town is Towanda, Pa. He is now teaching in East Orange, New Jersey high school. At Elon College, Jack was a star in both football and baseball, sports which he participated in for four years.

With the opening of the 1960 baseball season it appears that the Elon College baseball fortunes this spring may depend heavily upon how Coach Jack Sanford's new recruits come through in the rugged North State Conference competition, for there are only eight letter veterans on the squad.

The Christians, who have always been an outstanding power on the diamond, will face a tough 30-game schedule that includes two games each with the eight North State Conference rivals and fourteen other games with such strong opposition as Williams College, Colby, Hampden-Sidney, Washington and Lee, Princeton, Norfolk Division, Fort Lee and Pfeifer.

Against these opponents, Coach Sanford has only two letter pitchers, Gary Henson and Roger Knapp, and only Henson was a regular starter in previous seasons. Big John VanBenschoten, who did a fine job as a freshman last year, suffered a fractured collar bone and is gone for the year; and Dan Mangrum, who has seen relief duty for the Christian mound staff, is lost due to academic difficulties.

The catching should be capably cared for by Joe DelGais, who divided time behind the plate with Eddie Hughes last season. DelGais completed his football eligibility with the 1958 season, but he is back in college this year to complete degree requirements and will play his fourth season of the diamond sport this spring.

There are three lettermen in the infield, but none of the three were regulars a year ago. The veterans are Pete Jones at second base, C. G. Hall at shortstop and Jerry Pike, who has been moved from second base to third in an attempt to fill the gap at the hot corner. Eddie Clark, who has seen regular play at both first and second base, fell victim to academic troubles and will be missing from the field this spring.

The outfield situation also shows Coach Sanford short-handed, with Steve Wall as the only letterman returning from last spring. Wall, who started in centerfield last spring, should clinch one of the starting posts in the gardens, but Leroy Myers, a letter reserve of two years ago, is the only other experienced outfielder. Ted Eanes, another starter last spring, is a third academic victim and will be ineligible for play this season. This means that at least one and (Continued on page 9)

Coach Bob Dunlap succeeds Coach Bob Benson, who directed the Elon golfers last spring, and he must find at least two new linksmen of top calibre if his squad is to repeat last spring's fine performance.

Gone by the graduation route are Captain Freddie Lloyd and Jimmy Fogleman, the boys who played the one and two spots for the Christians in many of last year's meets, and Coach Dunlap has left only Buddy Briggs and Eddie Hughes as a nucleus for his 1960 team.

Captain Lloyd captured the individual Conference honors at Greensboro with a fine 147 score for 36 holes, and Fogleman has a 154 for the same tourney. Briggs with a 157 and Hughes with a 163 were well up in the eight-team Conference meet, and either is capable of shooting in the low seventies, so they should give Elon plenty of strength in two positions.

Coach Sid Varney, who for several years has directed the Elon track squads in their spring campaigns, has announced an abbreviated 1960 schedule which includes only four meets, pointing out that the wintry weather which has beset the section in early March could prove an insurmountable obstacle for his cindermen this year.

The heavy snows which blanketed the section twice within a week broke into Coach Varney's off-season football drills, and that fact in itself could deal a big blow to cinder plans this spring. The interruption of grid practice may keep the gridders busy well into April, and that could postpone or even cancel the early cinder meets.

Coach Varney's tracksters, although lacking the power of previous cinder squads, last spring turned in a creditable record of four wins and five losses in dual meets, and one of the losses was to Washington and Lee's strong Southern Conference aggregation. Top spot of the season was the thrilling 67-64 victory over the High Point Panthers.

Other highlights of the 1959 season, came in the setting of five new Elon records, including a new two-mile mark by Al Plaster in the Washington and Lee meet, a new javelin mark by Hank Carmines and a new discus record by Dick Moore in the Atlantic Christian meet and two new Christian hurdle records by Eddie Burke in the High Point meet

Six of last year's lettermen are back in school and eligible for action this spring, including Frank Harrell and John Moore, in the middle distances; Eddie Burke, in the hurdles and high jump; Al Plaster, in the distance runs; and Turner Brosky and Dick Moore, in the weight events. There are a number of new prospects in school who could prove valued performers in the sprints this spring.

Last year's tennis team, although it failed to grab off any championship honors in the Conference, posted the best record made by an Elon net squad in several years, and the hope had been expressed that with the passing of the polar weather that has beset the campus in recent weeks, there may be increased interest in the net sport.

A full 12-meet schedule has been mapped out for the Christian netters, including eleven dates already set and with a date pending for the second meet with Atlantic Christian possibly two newcomers may be starters in the outer defenses as the 1960 campaign gets underway.

Commenting upon his newcomers, Coach Sandford pointed out that the squad had only limited practice on the field and that it is too early at this time to rate the freshmen and other new boys accurately. He did list Clarence Driver, a 1959 reserve, as a likely pitching prospect, along with Wilson Teal, a left-hander from Wingate Junior College; and Jerry Drake, John Currin and Jerry Isley, a trio of freshman hurlers. He listed George Wooten and Benny Jones as pitching possibilities.

There are three promising freshman catchers, who may furnish competition or capable support for Joe DelGais behind the plate. They are Griffin McVey, Tom Keyser and Mike Little.

New prospects in the infield include Larry Teague and Jerry Tillman at first base; Bruce Olson, at second base or

FOOTBALL TEAM HOLDS WINTER PRACTICE

The thud of toe and pigskin were heard for a period over the Elon College campus, where Coach Sid Varney has his Fighting Christian gridders knocking heads in winter practice in preparation for a ten-game 1960 schedule, which he has just announced.

Coach Varney had 38 boys out for the winter drills, including 16 lettermen as a nucleus for the team, which will meet nine of the ten teams that were met last fall. The university of Tampa Spartans, who will be met in the Florida city on October 15, is the newcomer to the Christian schedule, replacing the Wofford Terriers.

The remainder of the schedule shows five home games with Apprentice School, East Carolina, Catawba, Newberry and Lenoir Rhyne, with other games away against Guilford, Appalachian, Western Carolina and Presbyterian. A change of date moves the Presbyterian contest from mid-October to the Friday before Thanksgiving.

The letter veterans working the winter drills and expected back for the 1960 campaign include John Gozjack, Tony Markosky, Jim Moore and Luke Malloy, ends; Don Szydlak, Charles Rayburn and Dean Yates, tackles; Gene Stokes, guard; Tom King and John DalCin, centers; George Wooten and Wayne Mahanes, quarterbacks; and Jim Short, Mike Little and Jim Buie, halfbacks. Bob Overton, letterman fullback, is missing off-season drills due to a broken foot he suffered in intramural basketball.

The remainder of Coach Varney's winter squad, largely from last fall's reserves, include Bob Alcanterra, Ed Fitzgerald, George Komorowsky and John Koenig, ends; Richard McCutcheon and Joe Berdosch, tackles; Gordon Whitaker, Bill Faries, Don Miller, Gary Warren, Bruce Miller and Dennis Bailey, guards; Bill Piscatelli, center; Allen Hineman, quarterback; Murchy Taylor, Ken Cooke, Benny Jones, Doug Foley, Lionel Benzi and Byron Ingram, halfbacks; and Tom Breese, Bill Libby and Barry Staebler, fullbacks.

Two of the 1959 seniors, Captain Tunner Brosky and Alternate Captain Charlie Maidon, are working as assistants to Coaches Sid Varney and Bob Dunlap in directing the winter drills.

The 1960 schedule, just released, follows:

Sept. 17—Guilford, away.
Sept. 24—Apprentice, home.

Oct. 1—Appalachian, away.
Oct. 8—East Carolina, home.
Oct. 15—Tampa, away.
Oct. 22—Catawba, home.

Loyalty Fund Progress Is Reported

Response to the Elon College Loyalty Fund continues to be encouraging. However, time is running short and if the project is to show the results anticipated at the beginning of the endeavor, contributions should be sent in at once.

The fiscal year of the college closes on May 31. To be counted on the 1959-60 Honor Roll, alumni must send their contributions before this closing date. Attractive insert pages making up this honor scroll will be in the June issue of the Alumni News magazine. An effort is being made to have every class listed on the Honor Roll and, if possible, every member of every class—certainly many hundreds of the alumni. Elon Alumni are urged to help make this dream come true by sending their contributions at once.

Every class for which Elon College has living alumni is listed below. The number in parenthesis beside the class is the number of alumni who have contributed to the Loyalty Fund through March 31.

A look at this list reveals some interesting facts. First, one might be surprised at the vacant space beside so many of the classes. However, in each class of these classes now vacant are many alumni who have a record of contributing to Elon College through the Alumni Association for many years. It is felt that this record will be sustained and by next report period most of the classes, if not all, will have contributors listed.

Second, one notes that a class not yet ten years old, the class of 1950, is leading the list with 8 contributors. Three other classes are close in second place with 7 contributors each. 1925, 1942, 1956. Noteworthy in this group is the class of 1956, not yet four years old. Three classes and the Honorary group show 6 contributors each—1926, 1934, 1958. Attention is also called to this recent class, 1958, for this splendid showing. From this information it is encouraging to observe the participation of the more recent classes.

By next report period the amount given by each class will be shown.

The vacant spaces by classes not reported should be filled and many more names added to the classes already showing some contributors.

Show loyalty to Elon College by contributing to the Loyalty Fund. DO IT TODAY!

DR. DANIELEY REPORTS ON CHURCH GIVING

Just recently Dr. Danieley released a report of the apportionment giving from the churches of the Southern Convention for the calendar year 1959. The total giving was $34,704.11. Dr. Danieley commented on the report as follows in The Christian Sun.

"It is with deep appreciation that we submit our last report on Apportionment Giving for the 1959 calendar year. It is very encouraging to those of us who serve our church by working at our College to have this fine expression of interest on the part of the churches in the Southern Convention. To the best of our knowledge this is the largest sum ever received by the College from Apportionment Giving during any calendar year. This reflects an awareness on the part of our church people of the tremendous importance of Christian higher education and the vital role which Elon College plays in the ongoing program of our Convention. This is an excellent report. The College needed this money and we all appreciate the fact that our churches made it available. It is our hope, our aim, and our prayer to use the resources which are made available to us to the best advantage of those students who choose to study at Elon College."

CLASS REUNION PLANS

Letters have gone to Elon College alumni giving detailed information concerning the 1960 Commencement, particularly Alumni Day on May 28.

The Executive Committee voted to attempt something different this year for the reunion of classes. The committee is urging every class from 1892 through 1920 to come back this year for a class "get-together" or reunion. The other reunion classes would meet as follows: 1925, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1935, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1945, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1955, 1959. Alumni will note that the classes 1930, 1940, 1950 have classes that immediately preceded them and classes that immediately followed. Suggestions have been made to the Committee that the Five Year period is too great between class reunions—that the five-year classes know very few people except their own classmates. The Committee wants to try this plan for this year at least. Every class will be recognized at the annual banquet. Suggestions concerning the improvement of class reunions will be welcomed by the Executive Committee. Send them to the Alumni Office.

Elon College is urging Congregational Christian Churches, particularly in the Southern Convention, to observe National Christian College Day, which has been scheduled for April 24, 1960.

Under the direction of Robert C. Baxter, director of development, a bulletin has been prepared for the churches to use on this Sunday. The front of the bulletin has a sketch of the cupola on Alamance Building with a cross above to the right. On the back is the message below. Approximately twenty thousand of these bulletins will be used on National Christian College Day.

ELON COLLEGE
Our Church-Related, Christian College

ELON COLLEGE is a four-year coeducational liberal arts college supported by the Congregational Christian Churches to give young men and women the opportunity to obtain a college education in a moral and religious atmosphere.

Its establishment in 1889 was the result of the determination on the part of the Christian Church to have a school which would prepare young people for leadership in the church. Elon College is unique among Congregational Christian schools; no other school can claim so close a relationship with the Congregational Christian Church. Among the state superintendents of the Church, four are Elon graduates and one is the recipient of an honorary degree; other alumni presently hold executive responsibilities in the Southern Convention. In addition, 70 per cent of the ministers serving churches in the Southern Convention are Elon graduates. Many other graduates are engaged in religious vocations. By any test, Elon College is accomplishing the task envisioned for it by its founders.

Elon offers educational opportunities for young people in numerous fields. It believes that the student in a small Christian College has distinct advantages. Individualized instruction in a religious atmosphere, personal interest and understanding on the part of professors and students characterize life at Elon. There exists a genuine spirit of Christian cooperation.

National Christian College Day is set aside for emphasizing the fact that the Church and the College must live and work together in the closest possible relationship, for they are interdependent in the task of developing the whole man. Both are indispensable to his welfare. The Church must continue its emphasis on education—increasing its interest and support.

We of the Congregational Christian Churches must maintain our Christian colleges as a means of examining our faith through reason, as an avenue for relating our faith to the vast body of knowledge in the world, and as a means of demonstrating to the nation the essential partnership of love and truth in the life of the whole man.

His church held a commemorative service in honor of him and Mrs. Poythress on February 8, 1959. He is now Pastor Emeritus of the church.

The South Norfolk Chamber of Commerce sponsored a testimonial dinner in honor of Mr. Poythress on June 12, 1959. The Honorable Senator Mills Godwin gave the testimonial speech on this occasion.

Mr. Poythress was born and reared in Vance County, N. C., and was a member of the Damascus Christian Church. He entered Elon College in 1911. While at college, he played baseball and basketball and was recently named as one of the all time All-Star Baseball Players of his alma mater.

In 1918 Mr. Poythress married the former Miss Ethel Annie Hanbury.

Many alumni and friends of Mr. Poythress are expected to be present on the occasion of his appearance in the Alumni Day Program.

APPEAL MADE TO CLASS

To The Class of 1956:

The reason for this letter is to call to your attention the need for improving the support given to Elon College by the Alumni.

The total number of living Alumni is estimated to be seven thousand five hundred. During the last accounting period, the total Alumni gifts were only $18,241.71, or slightly in excess of $2.43 per Alumnus. The total given by the Class of 1956 over the same brief period was $55.00. Based on the graduating class, that equals .40½ cents per graduate. These figures are as amazing as they are inadequate.

Over the past few years we have witnessed an excellent expansion and development program at Elon; a program that cannot be financed entirely with funds generated through normal operations of the college. If the past rate of growth is to continue, Elon needs greater Alumni support.

From the above facts I can only conclude the following:

1. The Alumni must contribute more and encourage future growth of the college.

2. There should be definite plans for giving; perhaps ten dollars initially and increase the initial gift by ten per cent annually.

Individually this is a nominal sum; but collectively it represents funds for the future growth of Elon College.

I would appreciate your opinions on this subject.

Very truly yours,

SID VARNEY REPLACED AS FOOTBALL COACH

The contract of Sid Varney, head football coach at Elon College for the past seven years, will not be renewed for the 1960 season.

Dr. Earl Danieley, president of the college, made the announcement of the decision on April 14. Dr. Danieley's statement follows:

"Mr. Varney's contract as head football coach has not been renewed for the coming year. He has been re-elected to the faculty of the college as professor of physical education. It is expected that a new football coach will be named within the next few weeks."

Bob Dunlap, who has served as Varney's assistant for the past two years, also has not been offered a football contract for the coming season, but he, too, has been offered a position on the faculty.

LOYALTY FUND NEARS END OF FIRST YEAR

The Elon College Loyalty Fund is heading into the "home stretch" and it is hoped that several hundred more of Elon alumni will cross the finish line by May 31, at which time the college fiscal year comes to a close. Those who have contributed by that date will appear on the annual Honor Roll which is to be published in the June issue of the Alumni News. This is the first year of the Loyalty Fund Program. The response has been very encouraging. However, many more alumni should send their contributions at once to help make this a successful year—help your class to make a good showing in the final tabulation. Your college needs your support. Elsewhere in this issue, Furman Moseley, graduate in 1956, is making an appeal to his classmates to support their Alma Mater. This appeal can certainly apply to other classes.

From The Alumni Office

This issue of the Alumni News is the largest ever published by the Alumni Association. It is hoped that it will be one of the most interesting.

The issue contains information about Alumni Day, pictures of some of the classes present; about the Commencement program; about alumni far and near. It also contains some feature stories about interesting alumni which our readers will likely enjoy. Note the number of alumni receiving promotions or honors.

The attention of our readers is directed to some letters, somewhat lengthy but full of first-hand information, written by alumni concerning other countries. With the "cold war" and tense situation prevailing among the nations of the world, it is hoped that people of good-will and intelligence can help to bring about a better situation. Elon is proud to have alumni in various parts of the world who are concerned and are making a contribution toward the solution of world problems.

Back home—This has been a good year for the Alumni Association. Under the leadership of Mr. Colclough and an excellent Executive Committee, the association has adopted some long-range programs and policies that should make the association a more effective organization in the interest of the college.

The Loyalty Fund program was most encouraging for its first year. Quite a number of classes "are missing" from the Honor-Roll of Contributors. However with a more effective plan of solicitation to go into effect next year, it is hoped that all classes will be strongly represented.

Other encouragements during the year have been the number of alumni who have come by to visit the campus and the "Alumni Office" and also the number who have sent information concerning themselves or concerning other alumni. The nice letters have been appreciated.

The Alumni News needs information to pass along to its readers. Alumni are urged to send in information. Others want to know about you.

The summer months are usually rather slow so far as activities of the alumni and the college are concerned. Vacations break into the schedules.

The alumni secretary wishes for Elon alumni "everywhere" a pleasant vacation during the summer and expresses the hope that alumni will be ready for a full program as activities are resumed in the fall.

W. B. Terrell, Secretary.

We are sure that most of the readers of the Alumni News will recognize the person on the front cover of this issue as Professor Hook or "Dean" Hook as he has been known to thousands of Elon College students and friends through the years.

We are just as sure that all who know him will be very happy because of the honor that has come to Dr. Hook.

For 46 years he has served Elon College in many capacities. So many of us remember the familiar expressions, "Ask Professor Hook, he can tell you," or "Ask Professor Hook, he will do it for you." He is never too busy to help in any way possible a student, his college, or community.

A distinguished teacher for nearly half a century, he has endeared himself to the students and faculty and has given a life of devotion and loyalty to his Alma Mater.

The Academic Costume is very becoming to our beloved professor, but most of us will remember him in the classroom setting up an experiment to excite the interest of his students or coatless, sleeves rolled up, working on the bell system or chasing a short circuit in some of the many electrical gadgets around the campus.

Highly Successful Alumni Day Is Observed

REV. O. D. POYTHRESS DELIVERS ORATION

Rev. O. D. Poythress, graduate class of 1915, was the Alumni Orator at the annual alumni banquet held on Saturday evening, May 28, in the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall.

Mr. Poythress spoke on the theme "Why Worry". He pointed out the importance of having faith in one's self, his fellowman, and in God. He cited many situations from his college days and from his ministry in which apparent defeat was turned to victory through a sustaining faith and hard work.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Reverend Olive Daniel Poythress, son of the late Robert Lee Poythress and Nancy Daniel Poythress, was born November 14, 1890, in Orange County, North Carolina, near Chapel Hill. He was educated in the public schools and after graduating from Chapel Hill High School, entered Elon College to study for the ministry. In 1915 he graduated from Elon with an A. B. degree, and in October of that same year he accepted a call to the South Norfolk Christian Church. There he spent his entire 43 year ministry.

Mr. Poythress has always been active in all the civic affairs of South Norfolk. He organized the first Boy Scout Troop and served as Scout Master for six years. He also organized the first Cub Scout Troop. He helped organize the Community Relief Association and has been an active worker in Red Cross and Community Fund work. He served as president of the Parent-Teacher Association, then known as the Home and School League. He has served as President of the Christian Missionary Association of the Eastern Virginia Conference, President of the Eastern Minister's Association, Secretary of the Tidewater Interdenominational Ministers' Association and President of the South Norfolk Ministerial Association. He has served as Chaplain of the South Norfolk Police and Fire Departments, a member of the Committee on Evangelism of the Congregational Christian Churches and is a charter member of the South Norfolk Civitan Club. He has been a member of the South Norfolk Lodge No. 339, A.F. & A.M. for over 30 years, and has served as Chaplain of that Order. He has organized two churches in the Norfolk area, and has helped organize many churches throughout Virginia and Eastern North Carolina.

In 1921 Mr. Poythress was elected a member of the South Norfolk School Board. In May 1922 he was elected Chairman of this Board, in which capacity he served until he resigned in 1927.

Because of his beautiful tenor voice Mr. Poythress is recognized as one of the outstanding soloists of Norfolk, and is constantly in demand to sing for various organizations, and is frequently heard over radio and television.

Mr. Poythress is the dean of ministers of South Norfolk, and because of his genial personality, his unselfish love for his fellowman and his desire to serve, he has become known as South Norfolk's "Community Pastor." He has never confined his ministry to just one denomination, or his own church. During his active ministry he spent approximately two days a week visiting the sick and the shut-ins in the numerous hospitals of Tidewater, Va., and now that he is retired he gives much more of his time to visiting. He not only makes a sick call, but conducts a short devotional service, including scripture, prayer and a hymn. While visiting in the hospitals he comes in contact with all faiths and all denominations. Mr. Poythress is also highly respected by the colored people of the area, and has on many occasions been invited to speak in the colored churches. He has also visited many, many times in the homes of the old colored residents of this community.

Though he is 69 years old, Mr. Poythress is still active. He loves all kinds

DR. HOOK'S DEGREE

Editorial — Burlington Daily-Times News—June 1, 1960.

We think it well to recognize that there are hundreds upon hundreds of former students at Elon College who are extremely pleased with a recognition given at the college Monday as a part of the commencement exercise.

There were three honorary degrees given, each, we feel sure, to one who has served well in a career to justify the tribute by the college. They included Sen. B. Everett Jordan, Prof. A. L. Hook, and Miss Lucy Eldredge.

We would point out one, however, not to detract from the others but to emphasize the feeling that has come through the years from students at the college.

There probably have been few educators in our state—if talent, dedication and effectiveness could be brought together and compared—whose careers have surpassed that of Dr. Hook's. He found his classroom many years ago in a college which he loved. He taught from his books, but he also has taught from his heart and has moved into the hearts of these many students with a warmth and admiration which few professional people are privileged to do so completely.

We can recall many tributes to him that have come down through the years.

There would be one student who would tell how Dr. Hook taught a boy to be a man—and to learn his studies as well.

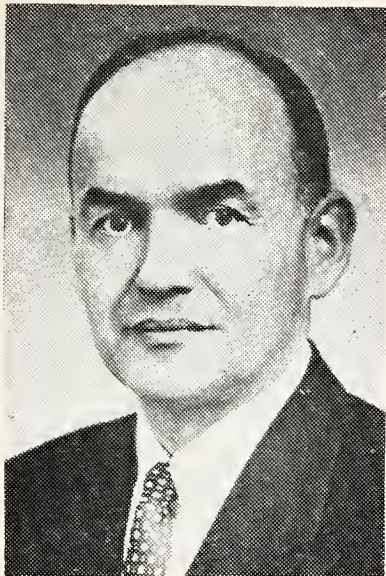

There would be another to tell how Dr. Hook continued to hold a deep and abiding interest in them after they left school, and how such interest, in reality, continued to be a part of his earlier instruction. He remained an inspiration.

Dr. Hook has been honored in an unusual tribute. He has remained at Elon for these many years, declining the mounting offers which have come his way.

He has fulfilled his job as professor and also, at times, as a dean.

And for his own college to look with in its ranks and pick him out, we look upon this as something rather special. It tells him what the college thinks of what he has done.

Dr. Hook can be proud. Yet he must share that pride with the hundreds of his former students who, beyond question, are giving their full endorsement.

DR. NATHANAEL GUPTIL

DR. NATHANAEL GUPTIL SPEAKS TO GRADUATES

Basing his discussion upon God's gift of a new heart to Saul when Saul was anointed King of Israel, Dr. Nathanael Guptill, of New York City, told members of the Elon College's 70th annual graduating class in the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 29, that they too must seek for a new heart if they are to attain success in life.

Dr. Guptill, who is associate minister, director and secretary of the Department of the Ministry of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches, cited examples in sports and various life professions in which "heart" rather than ability proves the key to success, and he declared that "a new heart" is always the gift of God.

"The trouble with the world today is that humanity as a whole is in need of a new heart", he said, and calling the heart of Jesus the norm by which human hearts are gauged, he urged each and every senior to say "I want to be like Jesus in my heart" and thus to make the world anew into a closer likeness of the Kingdom of God.

DR. WILLIAM AYCOCK

DR. WILLIAM AYCOCK DELIVERS ADDRESS

Addressing members of Elon College's 70th annual graduating class on May 30, Dr. William B. Aycock, chancellor of the University of North Carolina, told the seniors that their precious heritage of liberty stems from triple sources of religion, democracy and education, but he warned that all three are threatened today by modern worship of economic success.

Declaring that the power in the working combination of religion, democracy and education was effectively demonstrated by America's Founding Fathers, Aycock also said that, because of the modern economic emphasis, America finds her present leaders in all three fields—preachers, politicians and teaching—in the bargain basement.

Supporting this declaration, the speaker pointed to the relative difficulty in finding financial support for church colleges and other religious institutions, cited the low regard in which America holds political leaders and stressed the low salaries and relative lack of prestige of the teaching profession.

Telling the graduates that they have dual opportunities to make a living for themselves and families and to improve the world in which they live, the university chancellor urged them to make material security only a beach-head and not a final objective and to contribute of their abilities and resources to each of the fields, religion, democracy and education.

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT WOULD BE LIKELY CANDIDATE FOR 'MOTHER OF THE YEAR'

Suffolk, Va., is not one of the many towns in the nation that selects a "Mother of the Year" each May.

But if it did, the winner this year would no doubt have been a former local girl. And that's not just our opinion. That's the opinion of a group of Suffolk women, and was widely publicized in the Suffolk Herald recently.

The likely candidate is Mrs. James F. Darden, mother of three beautiful daughters and a handsome son.

She is the former Virginia Jeffreys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jeffreys of Burlington, and was graduated at Elon College in 1944 where she majored in business administration.

It was at Elon that she met her husband, who is a Suffolk native. He majored in music theory and music composition.

After his graduation in 1943, James enlisted in the Navy and served there until the end of World War II. Following his discharge from the Navy he returned to Elon College and accepted a position as alumni secretary for the college, a position he held until he and his family moved to Suffolk about eight years ago.

Although a music graduate, he is now assisting in the operation of Darden and Sons Feed Supply Store, a business organized by his father many years ago. But, he too, keeps busy with church and civic activities.

Virginia, a petite brunette, has been active in school, church and civic organizations since she went to Suffolk to live.

She was recently nominated for the office of first vice president of the Suffolk Christian Church, and has held many other offices in the various phases of her church.

Her daughters are Brenda, 14, Alice, 12, and Nancy, 8, and they are following in their mother's busy footsteps. They are active in school, church, and Girl and Brownie Scouting, and each is a musician in her own right.

Young Jimmy, 3, is not yet old enough to go to school, but enjoys going on errands with his mother.

Mrs. Darden, who has recently joined a Suffolk garden club, also keeps a beautiful garden.

And her activities don't stop there. She has been an active member of the Junior Woman's Club in the past several years, and is an active member of the Order of the Eastern Star, filling the station of Ada in the organization this year.

The Darden home on South Main Street in Suffolk is tastefully decorated, and a very unique fireplace is made of scenic tile featuring buildings at Elon College and Williamsburg and Currier and Ives prints.

Along with her many other accomplishments, Virginia finds time to be the bookkeeper for her husband's business.

She and her husband enjoy dancing, are members of the Suffolk Bachelor's Club, and recently had a great deal of fun learning the very newest steps in a class with a group of their friends. Last year they took swimming lessons and plan to resume them this summer, and she hopes to take golf lessons soon, as soon as the bowling is over.

"With three daughters, you just have to be able to do most everything they do," is this busy mother's explanation of her many accomplishments.

DR. JOHN G. TRUITT

DR. JOHN TRUITT RESIGNS POSITION

On April 7 Dr. John G. Truitt, 68, superintendent of the Congregational Christian Home for Children at Elon College since 1949, announced that he is retiring, effective not later than July 30.

"For some time I have thought of retiring. I feel that at the age to which I have come I must relinquish the arduous duties devolved upon such a position," he said.

He said he feels that whoever will use and bring the staff and children to occupy the new buildings planned by the home should be superintendent during the final planning and erection of the buildings.

A $200,000 fund drive to provide new buildings for the home was recently completed successfully.

Dr. Truitt is a native of Rockingham County and attended preparatory school in Reidsville. From there he came to Elon College where he received an A.B. and master's degree in 1917. In 1920 he entered Princeton Theological Seminary and graduated in 1923 with a bachelor of theology degree.

Dr. Truitt has served in Norfolk, Va.; Dayton, Ohio; and Suffolk, Va. He came to the Childrens Home after 16 years at the Suffolk church.

He is a former president of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches and has also served a term as president of the Southeastern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches. He is now serving as president of the North Carolina Association

REV. W. W. SNYDER TO HEAD CHILDREN'S HOME

Rev. W. W. Snyder, former pastor of Beverly Hills Congregational Christian Church in Burlington and now of South Norfolk, Va., is the new superintendent of the Congregational Christian Home for Children at Elon College.

Dr. H. B. Kernodle, local surgeon who is chairman of the orphanage's board of trustees, announced the appointment as a unanimous action of the board.

Mr. Snyder will assume his duties on August 1, succeeding Dr. John G. Truitt, who announced his retirement recently after some 11 years of service to the orphanage.

In accepting the appointment Mr. Snyder said:

"I am looking forward to coming to the Home for Children. I have felt for quite some time I would like to do this kind of work, but I never dreamed that I would get the opportunity. I feel highly honored that the Board of Trustees would ask me to fill this position."

Mr. Snyder praised the work of Dr. Truitt during the past 11 years and said that "I think the home is now ready for a new era of child care. With the success of the CHIP campaign, I can foresee a bright future for the home. It will be the kind of home for child care of which the denomination, as well as Burlington and Alamance County, can be proud."

He continued:

MRS. BESSIE CHEATHAM

MRS. BESSIE CHEATHAM HONORED BY SENATE

(Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, paid the following tribute to Mrs. Cheatham in the U. S. Senate recently).

Mrs. Smith. Mr. President, today is the 80th birthday of a grand lady who is well known and beloved to the Members of the U. S. Senate. I think the shortest and best description that we could give to her is the unofficial title of "The 101st Senator"—for she has truly become one of the fixtures of the Senate.

Almost every day that the Senate is in session, she can be seen in the first row of the Senate gallery near the clock. Timeless as she is, she is a marked contrast to that nearby clock. Her steady attendance of the Senate sessions is almost as constant as that of most Members of the Senate. And she is probably a better parliamentarian than most Members of the Senate.

She follows the debate on legislation closely with her ever keenly analytical mind. In fact, at times fellow galleryites will overhear her "quarterback" remarks intended for her favorite candidate for President, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson.

She is so well known to the Members of the Senate that it really is not necessary for me to identify her by name. I am sure that the Members of the Senate know that I am speaking of Mrs. Bessie Staley Cheatham, of Washington, D. C., and North Carolina, the mother of the Senate's capable assistant to the Sergeant at Arms.

I know that all Members of the Senate join me in saluting her today on her 80th birthday and wishing her many more happy birthdays—and in expressing our happiness with her presence in the Senate gallery.

I ask unanimous consent to place in the Record at this point an article about Bessie Staley Cheatham appearing in the May 31, 1958, issue of the Burlington (N. C.) Daily Times-News.

(Editor's Note—The article to which Senator Smith referred was written by Miss Rush on the occasion of Mrs. Cheatham's visit to the Elon Commencement in 1958 and her visit with relatives and friends in Burlington.)

MRS. BESSIE CHEATHAM COMES BACK TO AREA FOR VISIT AND GRADUATION

By RUTH RUSH

Not every college can boast of an alumnae of the class of 1898 who attends reunions regularly.

But Elon College has that distinction because of Mrs. Bessie Staley Cheatham of Washington, D. C. She attended the Elon commencement this week after a trip from Raleigh where she visited Peace College, her school from 1888 through 1890.

Today she is on her way to Chapel Hill to renew friendships with fellow graduates from the class of 1900 at the University of North Carolina where she was the school's second coed to register.

Mrs. Cheatham, a native of Graham, also is doing quite a bit of visiting in this area where she has numerous friends and relatives. Her father, Dr. W. W. Staley, was the second president of Elon College.

At present, the 78-year-old lady resides in Washington, D. C., and leads an active life working for civic groups, visiting hospitals and taking part in church work.

Friends say she also can act as an excellent guide any place in the city. Her son, William Staley Cheatham, is assistant to the Sergeant at Arms of the U. S. Senate, and her daughter-in-law is secretary to Justice Harold Hitz Burton of the U. S. Supreme Court.

The active little lady who follows a rigorous schedule all year long, hasn't missed a University of North Carolina reunion in 10 years.

Commenting on a reception this week at Elon College, Mrs. Cheatham told of a companion who suggested they "pull up a chair and rest a bit" during the long periods while waiting in the receiving line.

"I had no idea of doing that," she exclaimed. "Couldn't let people think I'm getting old. I may call myself old, but I'm not ready to act that way yet."

And proof of that statement comes to light when Mrs. Cheatham tells a little of her background.

She went to Washington after the death of her husband and when her son "was just a youngster in rompers." She continued working there until her son was educated.

They finally retired me from my Government job. But then I went right to work in a printshop, doing proofreading from midnight until 8 a.m. And the graveyard shift didn't bother me a bit—not even when we had dinner at 4 o'clock in the morning," she asserted.

Describing her life in Washington, Mrs. Cheatham says she has seen all the Presidents since Theodore Roosevelt. She speaks of meeting Wilson, Taft, Harding, Hoover, and Coolidge at open houses held at the President's home every New Year's.

Going a little further back, Mrs. Cheatham's first job after graduating from college, was teaching school, and she held positions in Raleigh, Suffolk, Va., and Greenville, N. C. And all through her life, she notes that there has been a great deal of traveling.

"My father used to say that travel was the best way to educate—next to studying books. First, you have to learn what's in the books, and then you can appreciate what you see while traveling," she stated.

Mrs. Cheatham's first big trip was a tour of Europe—her father's present to her after she graduated from the university.

And she's kept up her traveling through the years with excursions to South America, Canada, Cuba, Jamaica, Mexico, and 40 States in the United States.

Mrs. Cheatham pointed out that her son took numerous trips with her that all began when he first saved enough money to buy a Model T coupe.

"It was quite a surprise when he told me he had bought a car," she said. "But, of course, I was proud of him."

She explained that he began working as a Senate page when he was 12 years old. And Mrs. Cheatham remarked that she still remembered the valedictory address he gave when he graduated from night grammar school.

Her son was one of the first Washington officials to arrive here for the funeral of the late Kerr Scott.

Commenting on friends and family ties in this area, Mrs. Cheatham expressed her pleasure returning for visits each year.

FIRST YEAR LOYALTY FUND HONOR ROLL

Under the new Loyalty Fund Program of the Elon College Alumni Association, contributions for the support of the college through the Alumni Office were the highest in the history of the Association.

A total of $4,070.00 was given by Alumni and friends of the college through this program during the year just ended.

This is an increase over last year of $1,377.00.

The Elon College Alumni Association adopted this form of annual giving at its annual meeting in May 1959. Prior to this new program, the Association had been operating on a dues system.

The new program was put into operation in a modified way during the past year. However, plans are already under way for a concerted effort to get the program into full swing during the coming year. A Loyalty Fund Council has been named to carry on this project. This group will announce plans in the near future.

UNIVERSITY OF S. C. HONORS DR. BABCOCK

Dr. Havilah Babcock, Elon graduate in 1918, internationally acclaimed author who heads the Department of English at the University of South Carolina, has become the first faculty member of the university to hold an endowed First Distinguished professorship under the Chair Endowment Club program of the USC Educational Foundation.

USC President Robert L. Sumwalt announced award of the professorship to Dr. Babcock during a business meeting which followed the annual Alumni Day luncheon on the campus recently.

Dr. Babcock is one of the most widely read American authors, and his 100 stories and essays and six books have received high praise from leading critics and reviewers.

His outdoor stories appear in many of the nation's most noted magazines, and his ability to recount a seemingly inexhaustible store of tales and anecdotes, humorous and sophisticated, make him a consistently popular public speaker.

President Sumwalt pointed out that Dr. Babcock's latest book, "The Education of Pretty Boy", has been described by such newspapers as the New York Times, the Chicago Tribune and others as a "classic", a "masterpiece", and a "charming and durable contribution to American literature".

Dr. Sumwalt also illustrated the author-educator's sense of humor by quoting two of Dr. Babcock's book dedications: "This book is affectionately dedicated to my wife, without whose many suggestions it would have been finished in half the time"; and the dedication of his latest, "To the Bureau of Internal Revenue, with the hope that it will be of interest to them."

As a teacher, Dr. Babcock "has become something of a tradition of the University, and he is remembered with affection by students and former students who have known him through the years," President Sumwalt said.

His course in semantics, English 129, is probably the most popular course on the campus, and the book he wrote for this course, "I Want a Word", is a best-seller in the campus book store.

Dr. Babcock has been a member of the university faculty for 34 years and has headed one of its largest departments, English, for nearly a quarter of a century.

Dr. Babcock is a native of Virginia, graduate of the University of South Carolina and the University of Virginia, and a former English professor at the College of William and Mary and Elon College. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Alpha, and Omicron Delta Kappa, and Who's Who in America. He was named the "Outstanding Alumnus of the Year" at Elon College in 1959.

Her favorite hobby, as she states it, is "training spirited little boys." Other hobbies include music and gardening.

Strickland, was a coach at Leland. James Lewis, the son of the former Miss Lee McDowell, is now industrial arts teacher at Leland.

20th May 1960
Friday,

Dear my Friends:

The Cherry blossoms are all gone and this is a Friday in May. At this time of the year, the white dogwood blossoms on the little shrine garden near here specially attract me, because there used to be big dogwood trees in the woods near Elon.

I am thinking now what a pleasure it would be if I could have a chat with you instead of trying to write.

It is not so easy a job for me to write in English, so I don't often get letter finished. Today again, I don't have enough words to thank you for the kindness for which I and my sons are still so grateful, but I am happy to report you that we are enjoying a fairly good health now and that everything is going smoothly for us. Thank you! And now I pray that these little words of my gratitude will cross many miles to you and to those who are far from Elon.

December 31st 1960, I end my work with the Training Branch for Japanese, on the USA Air Base. I have reached the retirement age. I have no definite plans, but I feel the need to work a little longer. Kosuke the oldest son is living out of town now. He has two sons: Yuichi is three years and five months old and Chisachi one and two months, but they come to see me every once in awhile. Kosuke has to work very hard. Masaharu was 27 years old on January 2nd. He is not married yet and living with me. He seems to like his job with Tokyo Highway Construction Office to which he was transferred last year. He said he would try to restore the vacancy the late brother Kenji left in me.

Last month I was pleased to receive a letter from Miss Eleanor Anthony. She is teaching the Dependent-School, Navy Yokosuka Japan. She tells me that before she came to Japan to teach, Mrs. E. N. Pearce gave her my name and address and asked that she get in touch with me. Mrs. Anthony is from Burlington.

Burlington was the first town Mrs. Harper took me to buy me some new clothes. I was happy. It was in September, 1914. Dr. Harper was the President. Mr. Beale Johnson, Cardenas, N. C., and his brothers gave me everything necessary for me to go through college. Uncle Wellons was staying in West Dormitory then. Everybody was nice and kind to me. I will never forget all the kindness as long as I live.

Yes, there are so many world problems, I pray for Peace. Please pray for Japan, too.

With my best wishes and thanks,
Toshio

GEORGE M. TUCKER

—New Coach

GEORGE M. TUCKER IS NEW FOOTBALL COACH

George M. Tucker, 30-year-old Monroe native, is the new head football coach at Elon College. His appointment to the post, in which he succeeds Coach Sid Varney, was announced by Dr. J. E. Danieleley, president of Elon College.

Tucker comes to the Elon coaching post from East Carolina College, where he has been defensive line and end coach during the 1959-60 term, working under Coach Jack Boone. He also coached the strong East Carolina golf team this spring.

Coach Tucker has also had coaching experience at Lancaster High School in South Carolina, was head coach at Wingate Junior College for the 1956 and 1957 seasons and was assistant coach at Davidson during the 1958 grid campaign.

While at Wingate he started football anew at the Baptist school after a 15-year lay-off from the grid sport, guiding the Wingate eleven to a 9-1 record in his second year and a number two national ranking among the nation's junior college teams, at the same time placing two of Wingate's boys on the junior college All-American team. He was also head coach of basketball there.

He left Wingate to join his own old coach, Bill Dole, at Davidson, where he was line coach in football under Coach Dole. He was also head swimming coach and posted a 7-3 mark, also serving as freshman track coach with a 6-1 record.

Coach Tucker, who received the A.B. degree in 1955 and the M.A. degree in 1958 from East Carolina, was named to Who's Who in American Colleges in 1954. He was a regular guard and tackle at East Carolina for four years, winning All-Conference honors as a sophomore and gaining honorable mention for Little All-American. He played guard in service football at San Diego.

In announcing Tucker's appointment to the Elon position, President Danieley stated that the selection was made by a committee which included himself, along with Dr. H. H. Cunningham, dean of the college; Prof. A. L. Hook, chairman of the faculty committee on athletics; and Prof. John D. Sanford, chairman of Elon's department of health and physical education. Tucker will also be an assistant professor of physical education.

Welborn Coach at ECC

Odell Welborn has been named assistant football coach at East Carolina College joining the staff of Head Coach Jack Boone as a replacement for George Tucker who moved to Elon College as head football coach.

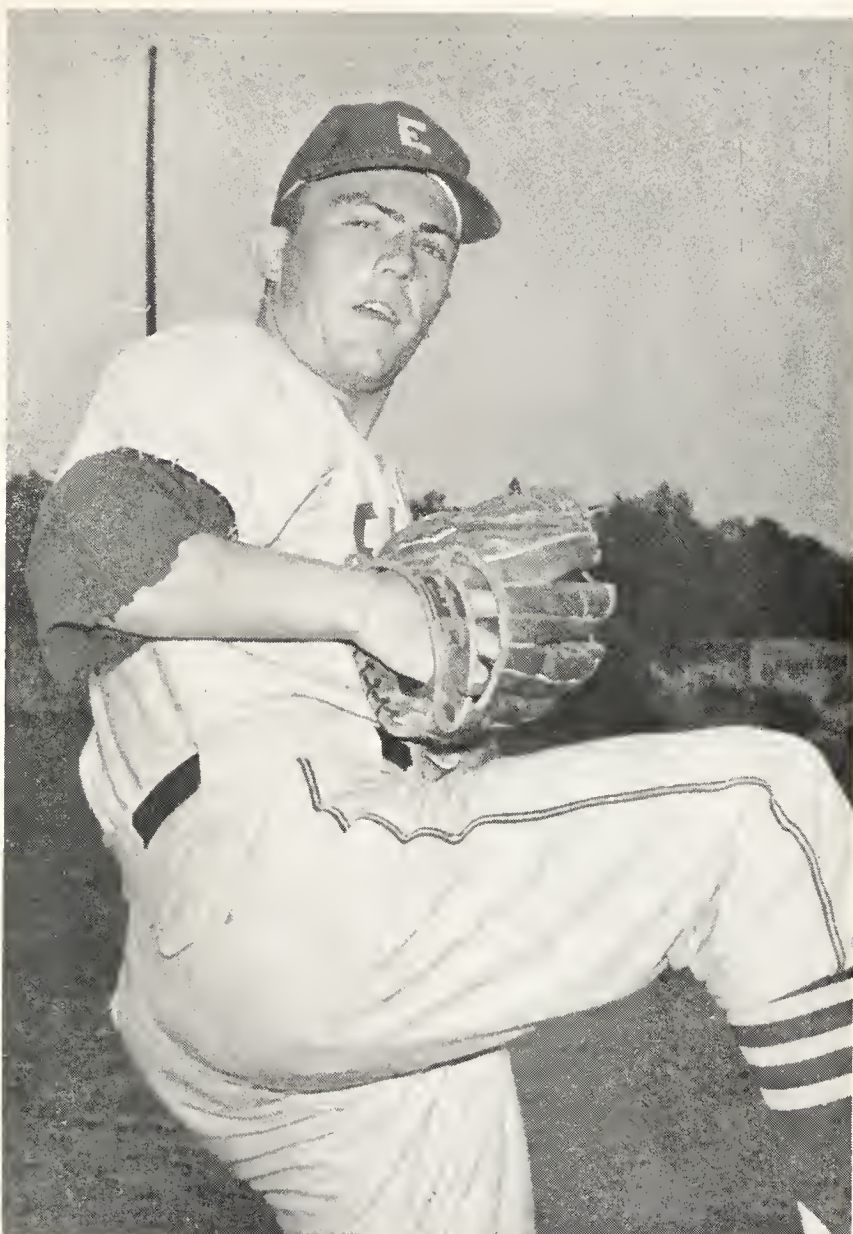

Welborn, a 1956 graduate of Elon with the A.B. degree, played college football at Elon, interrupted his college career to play and coach football at Lackland (Texas) Air Force Base from 1950 to 1955, and then returned to Elon where he coached freshman football squads in 1956 and 1957. He received the M.A. degree in Physical Education from the University of North Carolina in 1958.

Summer Commencement

Graduation Day for the summer graduates of Elon College has been set for Sunday, August 21. The baccalaureate sermon will be given at 11:00 a.m., in the Elon College Community Church with the awarding of degrees to take place in Whitley Auditorium in the afternoon.

The time for the afternoon program has not been announced. However, it will likely be about 2:00 p.m. Definite announcement will be made later concerning the speaker or speakers for the program of the day.

Theresa Kemp Hawkins and Joseph Stephen Somers in Asheboro, N. C., on Sunday, June 19. Mr. Somers attended Elon with the class of '59.

GETS NEW PITCHING RECORD—Gary Henson, Elon's ace senior southpaw chalked up eleven victories for the Elon Christian baseball team and set a new record for most wins by an Elon pitcher in a single season. He had only three losses. Henson, whose home is Granite Falls, N. C., is pitching for Salisbury in the newly-formed Western Carolina League. As of June 29, he had a record of 7 wins and no losses.

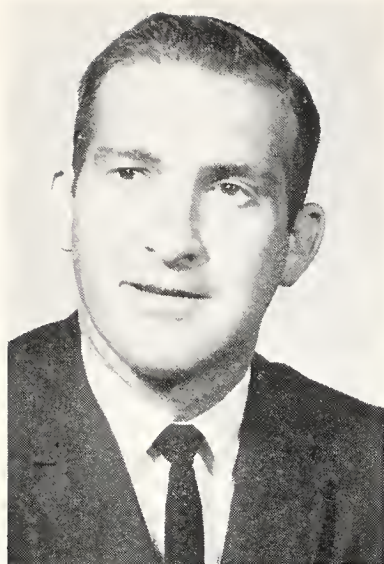

Gil Watts Injured

Gil Watts, '59 graduate, and outstanding baseball and basketball star for the Elon Christians, broke his ankle recently while playing with the Burlington, Iowa, baseball team, a Pittsburgh farm club.

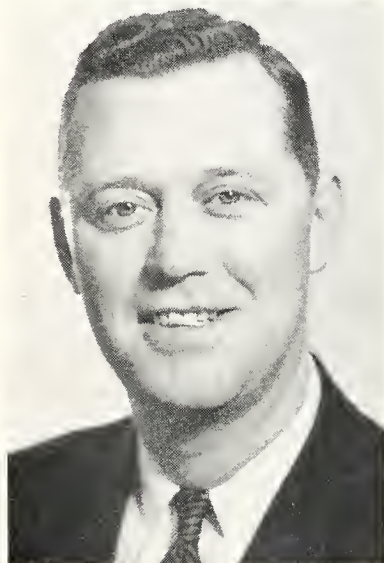

The break occurred as Watts was sliding. He is at his home 103 Gill St., Laurinburg, N. C. It is expected that his foot will remain in a cast for four or five weeks. His return to baseball is indefinite.

MAKE NAIA TEAM

Gary Henson, of Granite Falls, record-breaking pitcher for Elon College, and Steve Wall, slugging outfielder, were named to the District 26 National Association of Inter-collegiate Athletics of which Elon College is a member. Wall hit .296 for the season and was an outstanding fielder. Wall, a sophomore, is from Bessemer, N. C.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM GERMANY

Dear President Danielew:

Thank you for your friendly letter of the 4th of April, which I received shortly after my return from Austria. It was nice of you to write, because I am always happy to hear from you and the college, where Gertrude and I began our serious academic study and spent two fine years.

There is very little that I can tell you that would be of interest to the Alumni News. I shall stay here in Hamburg another year or two longer than was originally planned, because I shall take the Dr. Phil. degree in German language and literature at the university, under the direction of Professor Dr. Adolf Beck, who is acting chairman of that department. My duties as Lektor für englische Sprache are very interesting, demanding, and enlightening. The students have a fairly good preparation in English before they reach us here at the university, and we can, therefore, expect quite a bit of them. Most of these go on into secondary school teaching, which is a considerably good position in this country. My associations with them, with my colleagues, and the German people generally have been friendly and instructive. I believe that it is imperative for a future teacher of a language to spend two or three years in that country, before undertaking to instruct others in the language, the culture, and the literary achievements. I have been very fortunate in this respect by having the opportunity to come to

USS Maury Receives Warm Welcome On Recent Visit To Russian Port

By LCTD. LESTER I. SOMERS, CHC, USN
(Elon Graduate 1942)

There was an air of enthusiasm and expectancy when the official message arrived stating that the USS Maury (AGS-16), a hydrographic survey ship would visit Odessa, Russia. It was almost like a dream; but it was true that we would soon be on our way to spend a weekend at a port in the Soviet Union located on the westward shore of the Black Sea.

During the next few days the officers and crew were engaged in learning Russian expressions and words. We wanted to be able to greet the people in their own language. All kinds of Russian enunciations were heard throughout the ship. For all personnel, the approaching visit to Odessa was the most exciting assignment ever presented to the USS Maury. To this end everyone would have a definite role in the visit.

Finally, the big day arrived. On a cloudy, rainy morning, the USS Maury, under the command of Capt. Rober W. Luther, USN, proudly steamed into the harbor of Odessa. The down pour of rain prevented us from seeing the beautiful panoramic skyline of this Ukranian city. After the lines were heaved over and properly secured to the bollards, we realized that we were now in a port of the world, where no other United States Naval ship had ever been.

Numerous questions ran through our minds, as liberty call would be sounded in a couple of hours. Such questions as these were heard around the ship: "What shall we do?"; "Where shall we go?"; "How will we be received?"; were familiar words among the crew.

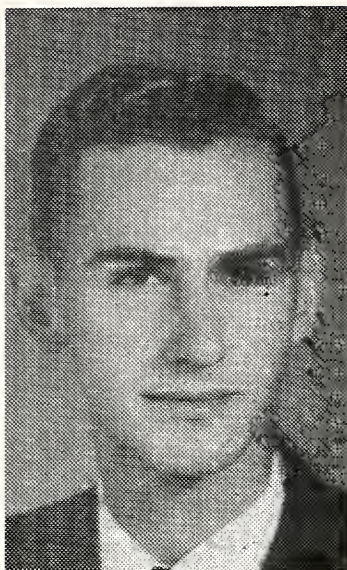

Buses provided by Intourist, the Soviet Government controlled travel agency, arrived and took the officers and men on a guided excursion of the city. (We were shown what Intourist wanted us to see.) Our first stop was at the Defense Museum where our attention was directed upon the power and might of the Soviet Army and its ability through the ages, and particularly during World War II, to liberate the nation from her enemies. We were taken to the opera houses, theaters, museums and schools. The statues of "Great Leaders" such as Lenin, Destoyevsky, and Pushkin were given considerable recognition and praise.

The people of the street appeared to be very friendly toward us. They were curious as they gathered around to inquire about the American's way of life. As we walked the streets and visited stores, we were constantly surrounded by large groups of people. They asked questions about America and they wanted to get a close-up view of an American. The outside world of freedom appeared to be a complete mystery to the Russian people. It was evident in many ways that the average person was completely uninformed about life and activities beyond the realm of the Soviet Union. They have no idea of living standards or conditions other than their own. The people asked many questions about America. They appeared to be interested in learning about American automobiles, television sets, radios and other items of comfort and enjoyment. The rigid government-controlled newspapers and radios are the only sources of information available for the people. They acted surprised as they learned something about our liberties and freedom of the press.

Being the Chaplain of the ship, I was extremely interested in the churches and the religious life of Odessa. The people asked questions about God and religion. Their knowledge of God and the Church appeared to be limited. Naturally, there were those who called themselves atheists. We found people who thought every American was compelled to attend religious services. We were reminded frequently that, "only a few of the older people in Russia believe in God and attended Religious services." Occasionally, I conversed with people who spoke of world peace in terms of Christianity. The Russian Orthodox Faith is the recognized religion of the Soviet Union. Forty young men are in training for the priesthood at the Russian Orthodox Theological Seminary of Odessa.

There was no indication that the young people were being taught to believe in God and religion. Instead, it was an unusual experience to witness the bright, intelligent looking, young boys and girls who were members of the "Atheistic Youth and Pioneer Groups." The Maury served as host to two children's parties and the children were exemplary in every manner. These groups are sponsored by the government, and each member is thoroughly trained in the fundamental ideologies of Communism. From these groups of young people will come the future leaders of Russia.

WILKINS WRITES FROM TURKEY

The following letter was received several months ago from Louis Wilkins, Elon graduate in 1958. Louis has one more year left of a three year teaching assignment under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. He is teaching in the American Koleji, a school for boys, in Tarsus, Turkey. Louis is from Lenning, Va. Dear Friends:

Greetings again from Tarsus, at the beginning of another year of opportunities, joys, and challenges.

Saturday evening I returned from Beirut, completing a two-week visit in Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, and Egypt. I know that seems like a great deal of travelling, but some of those countries are small, even smaller than many of our states.

First stop on the trip was in Beirut, Lebanon, where I visited Laila Khoury who is a graduate of Elon College in 1956. She had an appendectomy and was consequently confined to bed then but was recuperating quickly. The political climate in Beirut was much different from April of 1959. In April all civilian activity was closely watched, and cars were stopped while police searched the occupants. But this time, there was real freedom and security in the city and country.

One of the first things that caught my attention in Beirut was the Christmas decorations. It almost seemed as if I were home again. Almost every shop—both Christian and Muslim—displayed the familiar greeting "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," words I have never seen on a shop window in Tarsus. One night as I was walking back to my hotel room, I heard the Christmas carol "Angels We Have Heard on High" drifting down from an apartment window. The words were in French, but the tune was unmistakable!

From Beirut, I went to Damascus, Syria. There, too, Christmas was definitely in the air—as shoppers rushed to and fro—some in western-style dress and others in traditional Arabic robes that have been worn for thousands of years. I was also pleased to note that the anti-West attitude was little in evidence then. In April of '59, there had been anti-America posters on the walls, and one could certainly feel the hostility. But now the signs are gone, and a resident told me that during the past 8-10 months Syria has completely reversed its attitude toward America. Believe me, I could feel the difference; a genuine friendliness and warmth had replaced the old hostility and aloofness.

On the afternoon of Dec. 22, I crossed the Jordan River and was soon in Jerusalem, a city which can be seen, perched atop a hill, long before the traveler reaches its gates! Travelling with me was Marcus Everitte who is a graduate of Elon College in the class of '56, and is now teaching for the U. S. Air Force at a base near Tarsus. We went immediately to Ramallah, a town 7 miles from Jerusalem, to visit with Violet Zaron and her family. Violet also graduated from Elon in the class of '56 and is now teaching at the Friends' Boys' School in her hometown of Ramallah.

On the night of the 23rd while we were all sitting in the Zarou home bringing each other up-to-date on the events which had occurred since we last saw each other in May of 1956, a group of Arabic Christian girls from the Friends Girls' School stopped by to sing carols. Upon our insistence, they came inside and did a repeat performance of "Joy to the World", "Silent Night", "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing", and "O Little Town of Bethlehem". My thoughts flashed back to our nights of caroling at Liberty, and I realized again how similar people are all over the world!

On Christmas Eve, we went past Bethlehem to Shepherds' Field where supposedly the angels appeared to the shepherds "keeping watch over their flocks by night", and there we joined many others gathered together from all nations to worship the Christ-Child. The service was conducted by the Y.M.C.A. in both Arabic and English; the choir sang simultaneously in Arabic, English, and German—of course the standing congregation sang in many different languages, each preferring his own native tongue! The preacher emphasized the necessity for "Peace on earth, good will to all men" and pointed out the immediate need of the Arab refugees for homes and a chance to earn a livelihood.

Israel and Jordan have made an agreement whereby the Arabs now living in Israel—about 15,000 of them—may cross the border into Jerusalem (through Mandelbaum Gate) for 36 hours at Christmas. Some relatives of the Zarou family left Israel several years ago and went to Beirut, but other relatives were not able to leave then. I became acquainted with a mother and her two unmarried daughters who had come to Ramallah from Beirut, hoping that her two married daughters and their families would be able to get through the Mandelbaum Gate into Jerusalem for Christmas. The mother and two daughters were at the Gate when it was unlocked at 8 a.m. on Christmas Eve—along with hundreds of others also waiting for relatives or close friends. Finally, one daughter got through, and great was the rejoicing! However, she had not been allowed to bring any of her family with her, and the other daughter had been refused permission for reasons I do not know. One cannot begin to understand the personal tragedies involved in the Arab-Jew problem until he sees such heartbreaking incidents.

At 3 p.m. on Dec. 25th, we left Jerusalem and went by plane to Cairo, Egypt. From the Cairo airport, we rushed to the train station and took an overnight train to Luxor (the ancient city of Thebes located on the Nile). I have sometimes thought that the Turkish trains could be a little cleaner, but that train to Luxor was the dirtiest one I have ever ridden; no one bothered to scrape the mud off his shoes before boarding the train, and once inside no one seemed to hesitate in throwing fruit peelings, paper, and other refuse on the floor.

Marcus and I spent the first day in Luxor viewing the ruins of the temples of Karnak and Luxor. The Karnak temple was more impressive in size and grandeur, but the Luxor temple had a more interesting history. It was built over a period of about 100 years, begun by Amenophis and completed by Ramses the Great (1292-1225 B.C.). For centuries it was used as a temple of the pagan god Amun; after the conquest of Alexander the Great in 332 B.C., a small chapel was built inside the temple in honor of the conqueror; when the Romans got control of the eastern Mediterranean world and Constantine embraced the Christian faith, he tore down most of the idols and built a Christian church in one part of the temple—it was the first church to be built in that locality!

Across the Nile, lies the Valley of the Kings, made famous by the movie several years ago. In it are the tombs of 65 kings of Egypt, seven yet to be uncovered. In late 1922 an excavation party uncovered the tomb of Tut'Ankhamun, the boy-king who sat on the throne for nine years—died suddenly (perhaps murdered) when 18 years old. The tomb was found to be in perfect preservation and to contain innumerable articles of alabaster, wood, gold, and other precious metals. Standing inside the tomb, one could easily imagine the splendor (and the cruelty!) of Egypt when it was at its peak of power.

Back in Cairo, I visited friends at the American Mission (Presbyterian) there. Their mission work has had a few limitations imposed upon it during the past months since Nasser has put his ideas into practice. They do, however, seem to have a great deal of freedom in their work with the Christians in Egypt. Some time ago, the government began a census to find out the percentage of Christians and Muslims, but the census was soon stopped when the officials learned that the Christian percentage was much higher than previously supposed! Some men now estimate the percentage to be about 35-40%—more proof that the "Good News" of Christianity is growing and spreading in the Middle East.

I do not have the time now to tell about our own present work here in Turkey; that I must save for another letter. We do appreciate your prayers and your support (without them we cannot continue), and you are in my thoughts and prayers as together we "press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus."

Very Sincerely, LOUIS WILKINS

—USS Maury Welcome—

The visit to Russia left some definite impressions upon us. Our concept of liberty and freedom should become more meaningful and precious as we evaluate them in comparison with those of the Soviet system. It is rather discouraging to think that a nation and its people can continue to live without God. The basic freedoms of speech, religion and press should now be a living reality for all of us. It is believed that many of the ship's personnel have had the opportunity to do some serious thinking about our visit to Russia. These people should now have a greater appreciation of the American philosophy and way of life.

HOMEcoming ISSUE

Homecoming Day at Elon College has been set for Saturday, October 22, 1960. This is the day when the students and faculty—and all others here at the college—look forward to having graduates, former students, parents, and friends of students now enrolled, come back to the college for a visit.

Student committees have been appointed and are making plans for the greatest Homecoming Day that Elon College has ever had. The Alumni Office and others are working with these committees to help achieve this goal. The most important thing in the entire program is to have YOU come to share the occasion with the "college family." Make your plans now to be present for HOMEcoming.

PROGRAM FOR HOMEcoming

ON CAMPUS—Alumni are urged to visit the campus Saturday morning and spend as much time as possible before the activities move to Burlington. There will be campus displays by various student organizations for which prizes will be given. Alumni and visitors will be conducted on campus tours. All are urged to visit the Alumni Office on first floor Alamance Building.

HOMEcoming PARADE—At 12:30 p.m. there will be a colorful parade, featuring gaily decorated floats, cars and marching bands through the Main Street in Burlington. Prizes will be awarded to student organizations for the best units entered in the parade.

FOOTBALL GAME—The climax of the Homecoming Day will take place at the Walter Williams High School stadium at 2:00 p.m. when the Elon Christians meet the Catawba Indians. The Elon team has three new coaches this year, and the team is showing up well. They have two victories thus far against no defeats. A large group of supporters at the Homecoming game will encourage the Maroon and Gold team toward a victory.

HALF-TIME ACTIVITIES—Beautiful half-time ceremonies at the football game are being planned. Elon's 1960 Homecoming Queen and her court will be presented.

COFFEE-HOUR—Alumni are urged to visit the college after the football game. A coffee hour will be held in the chapel of Mooney Building. Again tours of the campus will be conducted for those who desire. Also alumni will have an opportunity to visit with one another and to meet some of the faculty.

HOMEcoming DANCE—In Memorial Gymnasium at 8:00 p.m. This will conclude the Homecoming Day activities. Alumni are cordially invited to participate in this part of the program. The dance will be informal for alumni unless they desire to dress formal.

SUGGESTIONS—Alumni are urged to pool rides in given areas. Plan your group now. Be sure to mark this on your calendar. There may be parents of students now enrolled in Elon you might want to bring for the day. Write the Alumni Office if there are any questions concerning Homecoming Day. All of us here at the college are looking forward to seeing YOU!

NEED FOR FOLLOWERS CITED TO ELON GRADS

The need for great followers as well as great leaders to assure national greatness was stressed by Rev. Howard P. Bozarth of Yankton, S. D., in delivering the baccalaureate sermon for the Elon College summer commencement on Sunday morning, August 21.

Using the topic "Sons of Isacchar" in speaking to a capacity crowd in the Elon College Community Church, of which Mr. Bozarth is a former pastor, he told the 67 members of Elon's summer graduating class that they must seek full understanding of the times in which they live if they are to serve as they should.

Pointing to the sons of Isacchar as members of the tribal group which elevated David to the kingship in ancient Israel, he quoted Chronicles in describing them as "men who had an understanding of their times, who knew what Israel ought to do, and were ready to be commanded."

Speaking of David himself, the speaker declared that David's greatness resulted in part from his ability to inspire greatness in his subjects and also from the fact that David practiced high religion, a quality which Mr. Bozarth recommended to the graduates as they go forth into the world.

The minister declared that many people practice utilitarian religion, turning to God and the church to get such things as security, success, comfort and victory over Communism. This he branded as essential idolatry, and he urged the graduates to make theirs a religion of service and devotion to God.

Others participating in the baccalaureate service were Rev. John S. Graves of the Elon College faculty, who pronounced the invocation and benediction; and Dr. William J. Andes, pastor of Elon College Community Church, who read the scripture and offered the morning prayer. The musical program featured Prof. Charles Lynam as soloist, with Prof. Fletcher Moore at the organ.

The graduation exercises, which followed a picnic luncheon on the college campus at noon, were held in Whitley Auditorium at 2 o'clock with Rev. Walstein W. Snyder, newly named superintendent of the Congregational Christian Children's Home, pronouncing the invocation, and with Dr. J. E. Danieley, president of the college, delivering the charge to seniors.

In his charge to the graduates, President Danieley quoted Emerson's Essay on Self-Reliance in telling them that they must go forth into the world "as guides, redeemers and benefactors, obeying the Almighty effort and advancing on chaos and the dark."

Is Finals Speaker

Pointing to the fact that less than 10 per cent of Americans over 25 years of age have received a college education, Dr. Danieley told seniors that they were joining a select group, and he urged them to give leadership in their respective communities, seeking to redeem their fellow men from the troubles which beset them and to benefit others while benefitting themselves.

SCHEDULES

Enclosed in this bulletin is a schedule card giving the complete football schedule for the 1960 season and the basketball schedule for the 1960-61 season. Alumni and friends are urged to keep these schedules for reference and plan to attend as many games as possible. Prospects for a successful season in both these sports appear to be very encouraging. Information concerning the teams, the games, etc., will appear from time to time in the Alumni News.

DORMITORIES FILLED FOR SCHOOL YEAR

All dormitory space for both men and women at Elon College for the 1960-61 term had been filled on August 17 according to an announcement made by Dr. Danieley on that date.

A few additional applications for men, over and above the dormitory capacity, had been accepted at that time on a conditional basis, with the names placed on a waiting list, pending arrangement for temporary housing accommodations.

At the time of this announcement there was still an opportunity for a few more commuting students to enroll. However it was felt that the college might have to discontinue accepting applications from even commuters by or before September 1. As this bulletin goes to press no definite information is available as to the actual enrollment situation. This will be given in the October issue.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN PHYSICAL PLANT

Many changes have taken place in the physical plant of the college during the past two months. Ladies' Hall has been demolished and removed. The first floor of a new dormitory for women is under construction and is expected to be completed in September or soon thereafter. Plans call for the construction in two stages of the new dormitory which is similar to Virginia Hall in size and architecture. The other two floors will be completed at a later date.

The north wing of South Hall will be used for offices for twelve faculty members. The remainder of the dormitory is being used for men students this year.

Restrooms have been constructed on the first floor of Alamance Building. Also an electric water cooler has been installed on this floor.

Work has been completed on the replacement of the gymnasium floor. Due to moisture and water damage it became necessary to remove all of the floor and the framing under it and to install a completely new floor.

DANIELEY REVIEWS HIGHER EDUCATION

Problems to be faced by institutions of higher education during the next 10 years were reviewed for the Burlington Kiwanis Club by Dr. J. E. Danieley. Dr. Danieley was guest speaker for the club's regular weekly meeting at Alamance Hotel recently.

"There are 45 accredited colleges in the state of North Carolina, 28 senior colleges and 17 junior colleges," Dr. Danieley said, pointing out that one of the problems facing these institutions is that of sheer numbers of enrollment, since the birth rate has doubled from 1933 to 1953.

In a five-year period, college enrollment increased from 46,000 to 63,000 in the state. The percentage of students entering college is going up, and financial support is needed for worthy high school students in the form of scholarships and loan funds, he stated.

"Elon will remain a small college in the relative term—but will grow only as we have the physical plant, faculty and finances to care for more students," Dr. Danieley added. "The church related and private colleges should have about half of our students."

"Business and industry is responding to the needs of colleges, and colleges must have additional facilities and also make better use of the buildings we have." Colleges will need an additional eight to ten thousand teachers a year for the next 10 years, he added.

DR. DANIELEY SERVES AS CO-MODERATOR

Dr. J. Earl Danieley, was named co-moderator of the second national convention of the men of the United Church of Christ which met in St. Louis, Mo., August 25-27.

Dr. Danieley has served in various capacities in the Laymen's Fellowship of the Southern Convention including a two-year term as chairman. He was named to the national board of directors of the Fellowship in 1956 and is currently serving in that capacity. At the first national convention held in 1957 at Oberlin College, he presided at one of the sessions and served as a discussion group leader.

In addition to serving as co-moderator, Dr. Danieley served as one of the discussion group leaders. The theme of the convention was "The Church's Life".

Ladies' Hall, something of a landmark on the Elon campus, has been demolished to make way for the construction of the new dormitory. The older dormitory, which was built in 1913, was removed when inspection revealed that it was unfit for renovation to meet the need for additional dormitory space for women students.

The passing of Ladies' Hall from the Elon scene marked the passing of many memories for hundreds of former Elon students. It was a two-story brick structure, which was originally operated as a cooperative dormitory, with facilities for serving meals to the girls who roomed there. The Elon catalogue of 1913-14, in describing the then newly-erected building stated that it could accommodate 64 "inmates," which appears today a somewhat odd way of referring to Elon's women students.

The structure had not been used for dormitory space in a number of years. Since 1957 it had been occupied on the first floor by the offices of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches and on the second floor by offices of Elon faculty members. The Southern Convention offices have been removed to the first floor of the Atkinson Apartments, another college-owned building.

The decision to demolish Ladies' Hall and to replace it with a larger and more modern structure was made by the executive committee of the Elon College Board of Trustees at a recent meeting. The new dormitory, which is similar in architectural design to other dormitories built in recent years, is designed to accommodate 80 women students.

The new dormitory is the newest step in an extensive Elon College building program, begun in 1955.

From The Alumni Office

One of the first things our alumni readers will notice when they receive the Alumni News will be the cover page. We are quite sure this picture will bring mixed emotions to many alumni. The picture of Ladies Hall, which has never before made the cover page, will bring back a feeling of nostalgia to many of the "girls" who lived in this dormitory in years gone by. We feel that many will want to keep this picture.

The lower picture, which shows construction of the new dormitory, (almost ready for occupancy) will bring deep satisfaction to all who are interested in another step in the expansion program of Elon College. When carried to full completion, this dormitory will fill a great need in the rapidly expanding program.

In addition to the new dormitory for women, many renovations and improvements have been made to existing buildings.

East Dormitory for boys, one of Elon's original structures and oldest building now standing on the campus, had not been used as a dormitory in recent years, but increased campus enrollment of boys forced its renovation and reopening this year. The renovation of the building includes new bath facilities.

Another major change made during the summer months was the laying of a completely new floor on the playing surface of Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. Moisture had damaged the original floor to make it unusable.

A final and much-needed improvement which has been made is the installation of rest room facilities for both men and women on the first floor of Alamance Building. Part of this project included the installation of a drinking fountain near the center of the Alamance first floor.

In addition to all the major renovations and improvements, much attention has been given to the permanent buildings on the campus and many of the faculty houses that belong to the college. The campus has also been well-kept during the summer, contributing to an over-all beautiful campus.

In this issue of Alumni News we are attempting to "catch up" with a great deal of news that has accumulated during the summer. For example, a large number of weddings, information concerning the 1960 graduates, etc. We hope to give information in later issues until all members of the class have been reported.

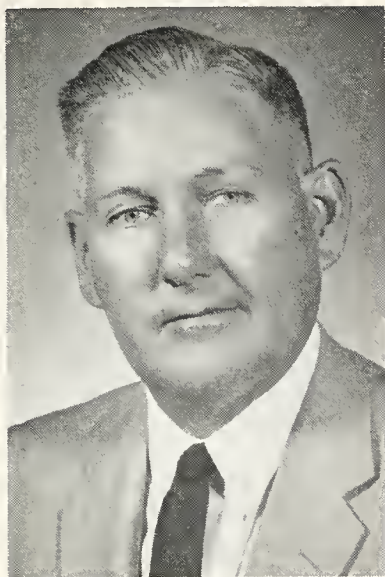

We shall still hope to receive news from you that will be of interest to others. So let us hear from you.

Also we want to emphasize the suggestion made by Dave Shepherd, our Alumni President, in his message to you that alumni visit the campus. Come and see what has been done.

We call your attention to the insert in this issue—a report from the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges. This is an interesting and encouraging report. Elon College shares in this. We suggest you express your appreciation for the support of firms in your area.

Elon College is off to a good year. Share with us in its programs in any way you can.

W. B. TERRELL, Secretary.

DR. D. W. SHEPHERD

PROFESSOR MOORE HAS UNUSUAL INSTRUMENT

DON METCALF

Burlington Daily Times-News

At first glance, the instrument could be mistaken for a miniature piano. However, a few strokes on the keyboard would immediately correct that impression.

The instrument in question is a harpsichord, and the proud owner of this rare item is Prof. Fletcher Moore, head of the Elon College Music Department.

Since he obtained it last summer, Prof. Moore has derived a great deal of pleasure from the harpsichord, both in playing it and demonstrating it to interested persons.

He secured it from a friend who served with him on the summer faculty of Columbia University. The friend had it made in Salzburg, Austria.

In demonstrating the harpsichord, Prof. Moore also pointed out some interesting facts about its background.

This instrument was invented around 1400 by putting a keyboard on a stringed instrument. The keyboard was not new, it had been utilized on organs for many years.

The result was an instrument with much greater versatility than a stringed instrument, such as the flute. It produces a tone quite similar to that of a stringed instrument, sounding much like a Spanish guitar.

The harpsichord enjoyed wide popularity for several centuries and was a common household item at the time of Queen Elizabeth's reign around 1600.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

It is with a feeling of deep humility and appreciation that I begin my tenure of office as president of the Elon College Alumni Association. Many of you, my fellow alumni, will be called upon to serve your Alma Mater in one way or another. As in athletics, we need to field a full team, and remember, you are on the Alumni Team!

With the office goes the responsibility which I shall do my best to fulfill. Indeed, there are many things we hope to accomplish during the next two years.

We have appointed the Executive Committee and held one meeting. Several of the members who served while Mr. Colclough was president have consented to continue. Some new faces have been added, bringing stimulating ideas to the Board. In the Alumni Office, "Bill" Terrell will continue to do his important work in his usual commendable way.

The college campus has never been so inviting as today. While I write this first message, a new dormitory is under construction. Student applications are far beyond housing accommodations.

Specifically, there are three areas in which we should show marked progress in the next two years. First, I believe more alumni will wish to return to the campus than during any two-year period. Doubtless, many of you, like me, will be privileged to see friends you haven't seen since graduation.

In the second place, our Loyalty Fund is now an accepted approach and it is anticipated that there will be much greater participation through this avenue than heretofore.

Then, it is suggested that you who read the Alumni News send to the office news items about yourself, your family, and your work. This will be of interest to many of us.

If you have suggestions, as I hope you will, please mail them, or better still, bring them and let us talk them over. Your fullest cooperation is needed and anticipated.

DAVID W. SHEPHERD, President
Elon College Alumni Association

PROFESSOR ACQUIRES HARPSICHORD—Prof. Fletcher Moore sits at the keyboard of his harpsichord at his home at 118 Anthony Street, Burlington. This rare instrument is much smaller than a piano and has an entirely different tone.

Elon College's Homecoming Is Gala Occasion

The 1960 Homecoming weekend, October 22, at Elon College will long be thought of as "perfect" and the best in Elon's history.

Very appropriately "Indian Summer" weather prevailed throughout the weekend. Furthermore, the Elon Christians prevailed over the Catawba Indians in the Homecoming football game played in Burlington at 2:00 p.m.

In a storybook finish, the Elon team came from behind in the last fifteen seconds to send a defeated band of Catawba warriors back to their reservation on the short end of a 13 to 12 score. (see story elsewhere).

The weekend festivities began with a huge pep rally followed by a street dance on Friday night. On Saturday morning bright and early fifteen displays with appropriate themes dotted the campus. These displays showed great originality and imagination of the creators.

At 1:00 p.m. fifty units made up of campus organizations and public school bands staged a very colorful parade through the streets of Burlington.

During the half-time of the football game, the Homecoming Queen and her court were presented.

Following the football game a Coffee Hour was held in Mooney Building with a large number of alumni coming to the campus for this part of the program.

The closing event of the Homecoming weekend was the dance held in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. The theme used for decorations was "The Haunted House." Murals extending around the walls of the gymnasium depicted many spooks of the Halloween variety with occasional scenes showing Indians in precarious situations. All the art work on the murals was original by students.

Highlight of the evening was the coronation of Phyllis Hopkins, of Reidsville, N. C. She was escorted for the coronation by William Hassell, Jamestown, N. C. Her chief attendant and Maid-of-Honor was Carol Adams, of Turbeville, Virginia. She was escorted by Mark Foster, of Greensboro, N. C.

Announced at intermission were winners in the campus displays and winners of float awards in the Homecoming Parade. In the displays Kappa Psi Nu Fraternity took first place with Sigma Phi Beta Fraternity second. Winners in the parade of floats were: Physical Education Majors Club, first; Women's Athletic Association, second; and Senior Class, third.

COACH GARY MATTOCKS

COACH JOHNNY WIKE

COACH GEORGE TUCKER

MATTOCKS AND WIKE JOIN ELON COLLEGE FACULTY

Gary Mattocks and Johnny Wike, both of them former East Carolina football stars, have joined the Elon College Athletic Department as assistant grid coaches for the 1960 season.

The naming of Mattocks and Wike rounds out a completely new Fighting Christian football staff for the coming year, for Coach George M. Tucker, also a former East Carolina player and coach, was appointed earlier this spring as a new head football coach at Elon, succeeding to the post held by Coach Sid Varney for the past seven seasons.

Backfield Mentor

Gary Mattocks, who will be backfield mentor for the Christians, is a native of Southern Pines, where he starred in three major sports. He played prep school ball at Greenbriar Military Academy and one year of freshman football at Duke before going to East Carolina, where he was a fine halfback and quarterback. He also played baseball and basketball for the Pirates.

Coach Mattocks comes to Elon after serving during the past year as freshman grid coach and head track coach at East Carolina. He had previously coached all sports at Hamlet High School and served as physical director at the Fayetteville Y.M.C.A. following college graduation. He also played and coached sports during a stint of Army duty.

IN MEMORY OF A GREAT TEACHER

PROFESSOR J. W. BARNEY

Prof. John Willis Barney, 78, who retired two years ago after more than 30 years as a professor of English at Elon College, died at 7:30 o'clock on July 6 in a Burlington hospital. His death followed a 10 day illness, one week of which was critical.

Born at Port Republic, Va., in 1881, he was the son of the late Rev. John H. and Elizabeth Pittman Barney.

After completing his public school education and a normal school course, he taught in rural schools of Pennsylvania before entering Elon College in 1906.

He graduated from Elon with the Class of 1910, receiving his degree and diploma with highest honors after majoring in English, Latin, Greek and French. He also participated in student activities, among them service as fullback on Elon's first football team in the autumn of 1909.

He then served public schools of both Pennsylvania and Michigan as teacher, coach and high school principal for a number of years, returning to Elon College in 1925 to join the English faculty of the college. He served in that post for 33 years until his retirement in 1958, gaining a reputation as one of the most thorough teachers in the school's history.

An active leader in church and civic activities through years, he was paid tribute in 1959 when he was chosen as "Father of the Year" in Alamance County. He was also honored for his long service at the recent 1960 commencement at Elon College, where he participated in the 50th reunion of his graduating class.

Prof. Barney was married in 1905 to Miss Elba Snyder of Clearville, Pa., who survives him, along with four daughters, Mrs. Hamilton E. Gray of Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. E. Leonidas Smith of Elon College, Miss Winfred Barney of Elon College, and Mrs. Fleming Lovette of Liberty; and two sons, John W. Barney, Jr., of Burlington, and Harold L. Barney of Madison, N. J. Fifteen grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were held at the Elon College Community Church at 3 o'clock on July 8, with Rev. John S. Graves, chaplain of Elon College, and Rev. Robert M. Kimball, pastor of the First Christian Church of Burlington, conducting the services.

The body lay in state at the church for one-half hour before the funeral. Burial was in Magnolia Cemetery at Elon College.

The family requested that, in lieu of flowers, contributions be made to the John W. Barney Memorial Scholarship Fund of Elon College. The fund has already been started at the college by fellow faculty members, former students and friends.

Peggy Ann Page and R. F. Councilman were married in Burlington on August 5, 1960. The bride studied business education at Elon College and is employed with Burlington Industries. Mr. Councilman is employed with Western Electric Co.

Penelope Kathryn Fuqua and Richard Lee Conaster were married on August 29, 1960, in Burlington. Mrs. Conaster has completed two years at Elon College and will continue in night school while working at Macedonia Lutheran Church. Mr. Conaster will be a sophomore this fall at Elon College and is a member of the basketball team.

Winnie Ann Watson of Sanford, N. C., and Patrick Hope Kelley of Pleasant Ridge, Va., were married in Sanford on July 9. Mr. Kelley is a member of the Junior Class at Elon College. Mrs. Kelley has attended Elon College.

—Professor Moore—

However, its popularity began a sharp decline with the invention of the piano in the early 1700's, and it had been replaced almost entirely with the piano by 1750.

Prof. Moore points out that the only remaining original harpsichords are found in museums today. And since this instrument is not in production anywhere in the world, the only way one can be obtained is on special order.

The replacement of the harpsichord by the piano came about because the piano is a much more versatile instrument, as it has a wider range.

The harpsichord has only two sound levels, whereas the piano has an unlimited range, depending on the force with which the keys are struck.

While the piano produces sound when its strings are struck, the harpsichord's strings are plucked and the same level is obtained regardless of how hard the keys are struck. The change in sound level is made possible with the use of two hand-operated stops. Another major difference is the fact that the harpsichord has no pedals.

There are two types of harpsichords, including a small model known as the spinet, and a large model with two keyboards, along with more stops, on the larger model provide a wider range. Prof. Moore's instrument is a spinet.

Its single keyboard has about half the number of keys found on a regular piano.

The professor points out that there has been a revival of interest in recent years as the result of new study in the works of early composers. Some composers including Bach and Handel, wrote their music solely for the harpsichord, and therefore it is possible to get the true feeling of their works only when they are played on this instrument.

As a result of revived interest in the harpsichord, many recordings featuring this instrument have been produced, and it also is being used by modern jazz combos.

Prof. Moore keeps his harpsichord at his home at 118 Anthony Street, Burlington, and a number of persons, including many of his students, have been by to see it.

He points out that it is a much more delicate instrument than the piano and that it will get out of tune easily as a result of sudden temperature changes.

DR. J. E. DANIELEY

FOURTH DEDICATION SERVICE FOR DANIELEY

Marking the beginning of Dr. J. E. Danieley's fourth year as president of Elon College, members of the faculty and students joined in a fourth annual service of dedication in Whitley Auditorium at 7:30 a.m. on July 1. President Danieley was unable to participate in the service due to the fact that he was a medical patient at Alamance County Hospital.

When Dr. Danieley assumed his duties as Elon's sixth president on July 1, 1957, he began his work with a service of dedication early that morning and then walked from Whitley Auditorium to his office in the Alamance Building, accompanied by Thad Eure of Raleigh, chairman of the college's board of trustees, and by the late D. R. Fonville of Burlington, who then was secretary of the trustee group.

Each year since that time the Elon president has repeated the service of dedication at the same early morning hour, making of it an annual rededication to the tasks which confront him as Elon's leader. However, he was undergoing treatment for a back ailment at the Alamance County Hospital and was unable to attend this year's gathering except in spirit.

Rev. John S. Graves, Elon College chaplain, had charge of the morning service, which consisted of meditation and prayer, with Richard Apperson at the organ for the musical portion of the program. In addition to Elon students and faculty, the public was invited to attend.

MRS. McDONALD CONDUCTS WORKSHOPS

Mrs. Pearl McDonald, member of the Elon College foreign language faculty, conducted a series of language and laboratory workshops during the past summer. She held a two-weeks workshop at Flora Macdonald College from June 27 through July 9. She also held one-day workshops at E. C. Glass High School in Lynchburg on August 29, at Deep Creek High School in Norfolk County, Va., on August 31; and at Swansboro High School for a seven-county area on September 7. Mrs. McDonald is to serve as consultant for the Norfolk County Schools during the year with a series of workshops at 6-week intervals.

For Dr. C. W. McPherson

Fifty Years Of Medicine Recorded

Dr. C. W. McPherson is shown at work in his office

By DON BOLDEN

Burlington Times-News Staff Writer

The doctors in this state with as many as 50 years of active practice probably could be counted on one's fingers—but Burlington has a practicing physician who falls into that category.

Dr. C. W. McPherson, now 80 years of age, can look back over half a century in medicine, but he's too busy for much time to reflect in his memories.

He continues his daily practice, specializing in eye, ear, nose and throat. Of course, there are some days when he puts the office behind him, as he looks after four farms with 412 total acres.

In his office in the McPherson Building at 323 West Front Street, the doctor took a break from his patient calls this week to look back over that half a century of service.

Going all the way back, he was born in the southern edge of Alamance County, near Liberty, on April 21, 1880. His parents were the late Samuel and Elizabeth Teague McPherson.

He began his schooling in Liberty, and from there, with his eyes already on a career in medicine, he entered Elon College in 1903. After completing work there, he moved on to the University of North Carolina in 1906. His medical schooling was completed in Maryland in 1910.

Recently, both the North Carolina

Medical Society and the University of Maryland have honored him with certificates commemorating 50 years of active practice.

Fresh off the campus, the young doctor entered practice with his brothers, John, the eldest of six McPherson boys, and Dace

In 1910, Alamance County still was in the horse and buggy era, but the doctor preferred the saddle horse for making his calls over the country side. For calls made in a mile-and-a-half radius from Haw River, he recalls that he was paid $1. If it were necessary to go back to the same place the next day, the rate dropped to 50 cents. For maternity cases, fees of $3 to $5 were ordinary.

He recalls two such cases he attended, and in each he received a fee of $5.

But Dr. McPherson soon was to learn that he wanted a different field. He saw much illness about him in children, as typhoid fever and dyptheria were common diseases of the time.

With this in mind, he left his practice after 18 months and went back to school, this time to the New York Polyclinic. He took courses which would make him more suited for work with children.

With this behind him, he returned to Burlington, and on March 25, 1912, he and his two brothers and a fourth party began City Drug Company. Upstairs over the store, the doctors started a small hospital. Then came more schooling in New York. It was in 1913 that Dr. McPherson began to specialize in eye, ear, nose and throat, the specialty he follows today.

Dr. Dace McPherson later moved to Durham and there began a practice which later led to his building McPherson's Hospital there and gaining wide fame for his work.

It was in 1938 that Burlington's Dr. McPherson moved to his present location, constructing the McPherson Building.

In looking for significant developments in his profession during his half century, Dr. McPherson quickly pointed to the introduction of the many "wonder drugs."

"When I started, we had aspirin and quinine, but now! . . . and he listed penicillin and many others which are widely used today. These drugs, he said, began coming with the development of

George Wooten's Sensational Run Beats Catawba

The Elon Christians have broken even in the six games played thus far in the 1960 season. This exceeds by two the number of victories of last year, Elon having won only one game in 1959.

With three new coaches directing the Maroon and Gold warriors the Elon team has achieved a very good balanced team. Elon has several speedy backs that are giving a good account of themselves. They are headed by George Wooten, quarterback, who will no doubt become one of the greatest backs ever to play in the North State Conference.

The Elon line play is beginning to show much better in the last few games. With the Christians it is a case of new coaches, a new system, and many new players. With the students and supporters of the Fighting Christians there is a new outlook, new spirit and a hope for some more victories in the remaining games.

The Homecoming game with Catawba generated the greatest enthusiasm shown on the campus in many years.

Wooten's sensational run will not soon be forgotten.

GUILFORD GAME

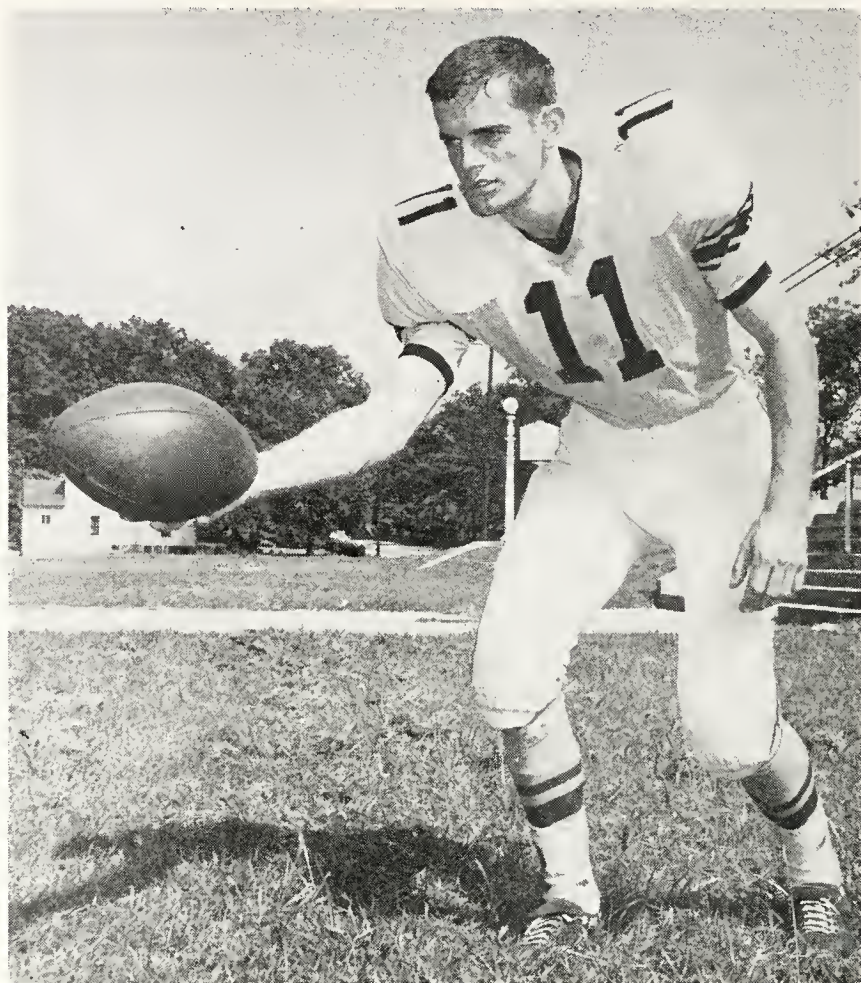

Elon opened its 1960 football season with a victory over its ancient rival, the Guilford Quakers, at Greensboro on September 17, by a score of 19 to 7. The victory avenged a 27 to 0 loss to Guilford last year. George Wooten, Christian Quarterback, displayed some clever ball handling as the Elon backs broke loose for lengthy gains. Ken Cooke, Jim Buie, and George Wooten did the scoring for Elon with a touchdown each. Don Miller added an extra point.

NEWPORT NEWS APPRENTICE GAME

Elon's aerial game completely blasted the Apprentice Gridders in a game played in Burlington on September 24. The Christians won by score of 30 to 0. George Wooten again paced the Christian team by scoring a touchdown, passing for another and set the stage for a third score by a brilliant punt return. He completed six of nine passes for 127 yards. Others scoring a touchdown each were Wayne Mahanes, John Gozjack, and Bob Overton. Don Miller kicked a field goal and one extra point. Wooten also plunged for two points after touchdown.

APPALACHIAN GAME

Both ground and air attacks by the Appalachian Mountaineers were too much for the Elon Christians as they played in the mountain stronghold at Boone on Saturday, October 1, before a Homecoming crowd. Elon lost 33 to 13. Scoring for Elon were Jim Short and Wayne Mahanes. Don Miller added an extra point.

EAST CAROLINA GAME

In a hard-fought game played at Burlington on October 8, the East Carolina Pirates downed the Christians by a close score of 14 to 8. Elon took an early 8 to 0 lead which it held until the final quarter, East Carolina scoring 6 in the second quarter and 8 in the fourth quarter. Jim Short scored Elon's touchdown and plunged for the 2 pointer after touchdown.

TAMPA GAME

Elon made a trip to sunny Florida to play the Tampa Spartans on October 15. Their trip was not very fruitful and they returned home defeated by a 30 to 0 score. Although Elon put up a good fight the heavy Spartan line and fast backs were too much for the visiting Maroon and Gold Gridders.

CATAWBA GAME

An electrifying run by George Wooten from deep in his own end zone with 15 seconds left to play gave the Elon Christians a 13 to 12 victory over the Catawba Indians in Elon's Homecoming game played at Burlington on October 22.

Trailing 12 to 7 Wooten grabbed a field goal attempt by the Indians that fell short and raced 100 yards for the touchdown. Key blocks by Jim Short and Billy LaCoste aided in Wooten's touchdown run. Catawba took the lead after a 78 yard drive with three minutes gone in the second period. Picking up three first downs along the way the big play was a 34-yard pass interference which placed the ball on the Elon nine. Two plays later Ronnie Ball connected with Fred Keyser for a nine-yard touchdown.

REV. F. C. LESTER HAS CHALLENGING PROJECT

By JEAN JOHNSON

High Point Enterprise

The Rev. F. C. Lester, new pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church, has moved to High Point with a king-size job to do—that of erecting a new church. This project still is in the early stages, with the architect's rendering of the proposed building the only concrete item. The new church, designed by E. J. Austin of Southern Pines, will be located on the corner of Chestnut Street Extension and Huntington Drive, and will take the place of the existing structure on W. Green Street. Dr. Lester has been chosen to guide the project to its completion.

The Lester family, five in number, has come to us from Asheboro, taking up residence at 906 Chestnut St., where every Wednesday evening they will open their house to the 30 members of their congregation for prayer meeting. Sunday services are being held temporarily in Tomlinson School, which is proof enough that a new church is a necessity in the near future.

Dr. Lester is a native of the Bethany community north of Greensboro in Rockingham County. He received his A.B. degree from Elon College in 1918, his B.D. degree at the Divinity School of Yale University and his Doctor of Divinity degree at Defiance College in Ohio.

He has been pastor of Congregational Christian Churches in both North Carolina and Virginia and was the first superintendent of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches from 1938-1946. He became pastor of the church in Asheboro in 1946 and remained there until 1958. He now is editor of "The Christian Sun," a weekly denominational area publication, and is

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

HURLEY SHEPHERD

By JOE MORETZ

Hickory Daily Record

Hurley Sidney Shepherd has been in the teaching profession all his life, except once, during the depression, when he decided selling Bibles would be more lucrative.

The sales career lasted for six months for this Alamance county native who returned to his blackboards with a slimmer waist line and no promise of salary.

Before settling in Maiden in 1951 as principal of Maiden High school, Mr. Shepherd taught at a succession of schools, all over North Carolina.

Mr. Shepherd was born Dec. 17, 1902, near Elon College, the son of Joel R. and Nannie Elizabeth Brown Shepherd. He has two brothers, C. W. in Cooleemee, N. C., and Dr. D. W., a Congregationalist minister in Sanford. His one sister, Mrs. W. B. May, lives in Cooleemee.

Holds A.B. and Masters

Educated in Alamance county Grammar, Elementary and High schools, Mr. Shepherd received an A.B. degree in mathematics from Elon College in 1929.

The University of North Carolina conferred an M.A. in education on the schoolman in 1949. Mr. Shepherd had done almost enough work for M.A. degree before the depression, but he was unable to complete the requirements before a 10-year time limitation expired.

Mr. Shepherd has done additional graduate work at Duke University, the University of Georgia, and Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone.

At one time Mr. Shepherd considered going into the profession on the college level and did teach a class of cadets during the war in 1943 at Elon.

The first job Mr. Shepherd landed was in the village of Evergreen in Columbus county. After two years at Evergreen he took a post in Guilford county at Gibsonville for two years the first time. He was destined to return for a longer term later and met the Miss who became Mrs. Shepherd.

Coaches and Teaches

It was during the Summer and Fall after his second year at Gibsonville that Mr. Shepherd entered the sales field.

He then accepted a position as mathematical teacher and baseball coach at Belmont High school in the middle of the term.

The Spring of 1933 Mr. Shepherd guided the Belmont baseball team to what was then the state title in the opinion of a leading newspaper. The team won the South Piedmont Conference title.

Packing his bags again, Mr. Shepherd moved to Pleasant Garden High school in Guilford county where he taught for two years before going back to Gibsonville in 1936.

In Gibsonville he received his first principalship. That was in 1945. Mr. Shepherd moved once more, in 1948, to Berea High school at Oxford where he remained until coming to Maiden.

Marries Teacher

It took a Fourth grade teacher, whose room was properly located, to make a family man out of this rolling stone.

Mr. Shepherd remembers that the former Miss Anna Keever's room was on the first floor of the Gibsonville school building and the principal's office was on the second floor.

"I just kept stopping by her room on my way up to the office. We were married on July 28, 1945," Mr. Shepherd recalls.

They have three boys, Jan, 13, Wade, 10, and Sidney, nine. Mrs. Shepherd is a Methodist minister's daughter and calls Stony Point home.

Obviously baseball is Mr. Shepherd's first love when it comes to sports, and for good reason too. He was one of the best pitchers in the state during his High school days before he hurt his arm.

Has 15-1 Season

Mr. Shepherd remembers a 15-1 season as his best and vividly recalls the heart-breaking defeat, a 3-2 loss at the hands of arch-rival Burlington whom Altamahaw-Ossippe High had toppled once during regular season play.

And Mr. Shepherd's baseball talents weren't confined to the mound—he usually hit in fourth place. During and after High school Mr. Shepherd played with the Burlington All-Stars, a semi-pro outfit.

Mr. Shepherd recalls that most of the ballplayers would work hard all week and then walk five or six miles on Saturdays to battle all afternoon on the diamond.

In civic activities, Mr. Shepherd is a past president of the Maiden Lion club, and a former Rotarian.

He was the first president of District 7 of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association and is currently on the board of control of the NCHSAA. Another post held is head of the Southern division of District 7.

Active In Church

Originally a Christian Congregationalist, Mr. Shepherd now belongs to the Methodist church and presently is chairman of the finance commission and is past president of the board of stewards.

Twelve students walked down the aisle to receive their diplomas during Mr. Shepherd's first year at Maiden High school. The class of 1960 had 53 members.

Maiden moved into its present building in 1953, one of the first to be constructed under the new school program for Catawba county.

And it still looks new although hundreds of energy-packed teenagers have used its facilities.

Rarely one to become philosophical, Mr. Shepherd does have a few fundamentals which have permeated his program at Maiden.

"I try to gain the respect, and, if possible, the admiration of all my students," Mr. Shepherd says.

"I don't think discipline is as much a problem now as it once was, probably due to the approach used in controlling the kids," Mr. Shepherd asserted.

'Heaven Help Those . . .'

"We hear a lot about how apathetic students are today and I think some of that is true. But you've also got to remember that there are a lot of pupils in school today who would have been "drop-outs" 30 years ago. This factor contributes greatly to the overall apathy because many of these students don't want to be in school," Mr. Shepherd says.

"But don't get me wrong, I'm for keeping the children in school as long as we can do something for them. I think that is the school's purpose.

"Heaven helps those who help themselves," quotes Mr. Shepherd.

the sulphur drug in the 1930's. He remembers the first encounter he had with this drug, stating it was given a patient who had a particularly bad illness. The doctor remembered news of its use in other places for similar illnesses and recommended it in this case. It was used with success.

The drugs have changed the very nature of his practice to some extent.

"I haven't opened a mastoid in 25 years," he reflected, referring to an operation of the ear to relieve pain there. "We give drugs now to kill the pain, whereas we used to open the ear."

He recalled, too, that gathering of medical men in meetings have been of great importance to him. "You can always get something from medical meetings," referring to papers which are read on new developments in the profession and to discussions with others in the field.

Dr. McPherson says there are possibly eight or nine 50-year men in the state at this time, four of them from his class.

But this small number of which he is one is of little importance to him. He is more concerned with his practice and his farms.

He spends much time at his farms, near Liberty, during the summer months. He has 50 head of white-face cattle to look after, 60 head of dairy cattle, and many pigs. Only recently he spent an afternoon on the farm preparing pens for his herd of pigs, and he is looking forward to a weekend there relaxing with friends.

He and his wife, the former Hallie Ray, make their home at 422 Fountain Place, and for the neighbors it is a familiar sight seeing the doctor going off for a full day at the office—at 80 years of age.

DR. KERNODLE HEADS LOYALTY CAMPAIGN

Dr. Charles E. Kernodle, Jr., of Burlington has been named chairman of the Elon College Loyalty Fund program for the 1960-61 college year by the Loyalty Fund Council.

The new Loyalty Fund leader, who is a graduate of Elon with the Class of 1938, is a member of one of the college's outstanding family groups. He is one of five brothers who are medical doctors, and four of them received pre-medical training at Elon. They also have a sister who is an Elon graduate, and a cousin who is also a physician and an Elon graduate.

The Loyalty Fund program, which Dr. Kernodle heads this year, is a new alumni undertaking for Elon, designed as an appeal to loyal alumni and friends for contributions to a fund which will enable the college better to meet constantly increasing demands made upon it. The appeal replaces the former system of collecting annual dues from members of the Elon College Alumni Association.

Specific application of the Loyalty Fund contributions will be to provide increased faculty salaries and additional scholarship aid for worthy students, each of which represent long-felt needs. The appeal went out to all Elon alumni, but plans for 1960-61 call for special solicitation among former Elon students in Alamance and Guilford Counties in North Carolina and among those in the Norfolk and Suffolk areas of Virginia. Special solicitation will center in other areas in other years. Plans for this special solicitation in the areas indicated are about ready to get underway.

His death came as a shock to everyone in the college community, since it removed one of the outstanding figures in the growth and development of Elon College.

Dr. Brannock was a native of Alamance County, where he was born on November 27, 1873, the son of the late James Monroe and Rosanna Faucette Brannock. He was the husband of the late Mrs. Mary Lula York Brannock, who preceded him in death by many years. She was a granddaughter of the founder of Duke University.

York Brannock, of Burlington, director of Burlington's city utilities organization; and four daughters, Miss Edith Brannock, of the home, and Mrs. Brinson Rouse, of Burlington, both of whom are home economics teachers in the Burlington City Schools, Miss Madge

Following graduation at Elon he later earned and received the Master of Science degree from Columbia University and did other graduate work at both Johns Hopkins University and the University of North Carolina.

During the early years after his graduation, he taught in the public schools of both Georgia and North Carolina, but he joined the Elon College faculty in 1908 and served continuously and with distinction as a professor in the chemistry department, which he served as chairman for many years prior to his retirement from regular service in 1955.

Following his retirement in 1955, he continued to teach as a part-time professor to extend his period of service past the half-century mark. He also served during his retirement as a consultant for the Carolina Biological Supply Company, and he devoted much time to his hobby as an amateur gardener.

In tribute to his ability and consecrated service in the field of higher education, he was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature by Defiance College of Ohio in 1925.

Also as a tribute to his great service to Elon College and the world of chemistry, his friends and students some years ago established the Ned F. Brannock Scholarship Fund here at Elon. Following his death, members of his family requested that friends contribute to that fund in lieu of sending flowers for his final rites.

Funeral services were held from the Elon College Community Church at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, January 17th, with Dr. William J. Andes conducting the final rites. Burial was in Magnolia Cemetery near the college, which he loved and served so faithfully for many years.

ELON BASKETEERS IN STRONG COMPETITION

Coach Bill Miller's "Fighting Christians" basketball team is really living up to this nickname so far in a season that has about a month to go. The team is making a bid to get into the first division of the North State Conference before tournament time the last of February.

Elon can boast of one of the most spirited teams it has had in many years. The boys are aggressive and are playing exciting ball. It is a young squad made up to a great extent of freshmen and sophomores.

Through January 30 the team has a record of eleven victories and nine defeats. One of the defeats, to East Carolina, came by one point in the last second of the game. One of the Christians victories, over Atlantic Christian, came with a last second basket. During the Christmas holidays Elon won the consolation championship in the Holiday Tournament at Camp Lejeune, posting victories over Georgia Southern and Catawba College, after dropping a first round game to the powerful Pikeville basketekers from Kentucky, a team that went on to win the championship honors.

WE HOPE that the alumni and friends of Elon College will enjoy this issue of the Alumni News. The format for this number has been changed somewhat to correspond to an insert of sixteen pages which is being used.

DEDICATION

Since Elon College at its annual Founders Day on March 9 commemorated the 72nd Anniversary of the granting of its charter by the North Carolina legislature in 1889, we would like to dedicate this issue of the Alumni News to the leaders who have guided the college during this period.

To the four who have been claimed by death, we revere and honor their memory. To Dr. Danieley, our president, and to Dr. L. E. Smith, president emeritus of the college, we pledge our loyalties anew and rededicate ourselves to their continuing efforts to make Elon College a better college in its service to the church and to provide a gateway for young men and women to prepare themselves for every phase of life.

The presidents who have preceded Dr. Danieley saw moments of triumph and moments of adversity, but under their guidance Elon always emerged triumphant and moved ever forward and upward in its service to the church and to the youth who have entered her doors. Each president in his own time made some particular outstanding contribution to the period in which he served.

Dr. Danieley and the Board of Trustees have very definitely chartered the future of Elon College, and under the leadership of our president, Elon will continue to serve and will go on to greater accomplishments in the field of Christian higher education.

In his inaugural message, Dr. Danieley gave recognition to those who have preceded him when he said: "We view their achievements with justified pride and, once again, publicly acknowledge an eternal debt of gratitude to them for their courage, their faith, translated into action and their devotion to Elon College. 'Other men have labored and we have entered into their labors.'"

These men who surround the seal of our great college have indeed been guided by "Numen Lumen," divine light, the light of God.

MOONSHOOTER INSERT

The insert has been prepared by a group of outstanding educators.

The topic is the central figure in education: The Student.

Most of us know the college student is often badly misunderstood. In Moonshooter the editors have tried to show how and why the student ticks—how and why the student years are and should be a time of errors as well as triumphs, of ideals and sometimes cynicism, of self-searching, of discovering truth. The editors have also tried to show how and why it is important that adults, —especially parents, alumni and alumnae—understand this.

We feel you will be helped in getting a true picture of students of today.

Included are two pages of our own Elon student life, representative of some of the extra-activities of the campus.

ALUMNI DAY—REUNION CLASSES

All members of reunion classes are urged to check the schedule and to make plans to return to the campus for Commencement weekend—especially Alumni Day.

To Our Alumni

"Being a college president is like a small boy walking a high picket fence—thrilled, but in constant danger of being impaled."

—JOHN ERSKINE

Since we believe in putting the accent on the positive, I want to share with you, my fellow alumni, some of the thrills and satisfactions which have been mine since I assumed the presidency of Alma Mater on July 1, 1957.

First, the support and encouragement which I have received from the Board of Trustees of the College. They have served with loyalty and dedication and we are all indebted to them.

Second, the cooperation and assistance of faculty and staff. Jay Gerber said, "No matter how small the college is, it's too big a job for one man". This underscores the importance of teamwork in planning and carrying on the program of the institution. We have been extremely fortunate in having a good group of competent people working together for the continued progress and development of Elon College.

Third, the increased interest and support of our many "publics". Our churches, our student body, our alumni, the local community, and friends have shown increasing interest in the College and it is inspiring to note the number who are finding tangible means of expressing that interest.

In addition to all of the people who have meant so much to us, there have been some significant developments. One might mention the changes in the physical plant, curriculum changes, the inauguration of the Loyalty Fund as the annual giving program for the College, the raising of admissions standards, and the strengthening of the academic program. All of these are important and have given us real satisfaction but of even more significance has been the institutional self-study which has just been completed.

In October of 1958 the Board of Trustees authorized the College to participate in the program of institutional self-studies which was being inaugurated at that time by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. A steering committee from the faculty was named consisting of Dr. H. H. Cunningham, Chairman; Mrs. Roland Longest, secretary; Dean Robert Benson, Professor Fletcher Moore, Dr. Arnold Strauch, and Professor William Reece.

It was the purpose of the study to evaluate seriously and honestly the purposes, program, performance and resources of the institution. The committee, with the assistance of the various departments, the regular faculty committees, special committees from the Board, the alumni, the churches, and various community groups spent two years on the study. As special consultants the College had the services of Dr. Goodrich White, Chancellor of Emory University; Dr. Guy E. Snavely, Executive Secretary Emeritus of the Association of American Colleges; and Dr. Susan Grey Akers, former Dean of the School of Library Science of the University of North Carolina.

A special committee representing the Southern Association came to the campus for three days during the last week of February. They read the report of the steering committee and made further independent investigations. Their report will be submitted to the Commission on Colleges and Universities of the Association. It is expected that the College will have its accreditation re-affirmed as a result of our study and their report.

This is not the end of the self-study. We intend to use the results of this study and continued self-evaluation as we plan the long-range development of the College. Our goal has been and continues to be: A Christian College Offering Quality Education in the Liberal Arts Tradition. We hope and believe that the program will merit your continued interest and support.

Sincerely yours,

J. EARL DANIELEY, '46

The Need For Excellence

Appearing as the featured speaker at the annual Elon College Founders' Day convocation in Whitley Auditorium on March 9, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, newly named president of the University of Oregon, challenged his hearers to "pursue excellence and refuse mediocrity" in everything that they do.

Dr. Flemming, who formerly held the post of secretary of health, education and welfare in the Eisenhower cabinet, chose "The Pursuit of Excellence" as his topic, and he was speaking with particular reference to the great need for excellence in instruction and learning in American higher education.

Delivering the address as Elon College commemorated the 72nd anniversary of the granting of its charter by the North Carolina legislature in 1889, he declared that "the church-related and Christian college is one of the nation's most important educational assets," and he praised Elon College for its own contribution to American life in this complex modern era.

While declaring his belief that America's system of education is second to none in the world, he pointed out willingness to settle for mediocrity rather than to seek for the best is a great weakness in the system, and he declared that Elon and other colleges must demand excellence of their students.

Pointing out instances in which mediocrity weakens the United States, he cited lack of proper communication among America's own people with people of foreign nations and blamed this lack of communication on mediocrity of instruction and learning in English and modern foreign languages. He also blamed the lack of a clear concept of freedom on mediocrity in the social sciences and the lack of creative talent on mediocrity in the humanities.

While urging the necessity that the colleges and college faculties must demand excellence from the students, Dr. Flemming declared that the American people as a whole must support the colleges in these demands and must also support educational institutions to the extent of providing buildings and other physical equipment.

The Founders Day convocation also featured a brief sketch of the history of the present aims of Elon College by Dr. J. E. Danieley, president of the college, who stressed the fact that Elon was founded by the Christian church and has continued throughout its 72 years of service as a church-related institution.

Others who participated in the program were the Rev. Robert M. Kimball, pastor of Burlington's First Congregational Christian Church, and Dr. Ferris E. Reynolds, chairman of the college's department of philosophy and religion. Special music was by the Elon Choir and members of the college music faculty.

Immediately following the convocation in Whitley Auditorium, Elon College was host to the assembled guests at a buffet dinner held in the banquet room of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall.

Annals Needed

The Alumni Office is still seeking copies of Phi Psi Cli prior to 1950. The latest donations have come from Mrs. H. B. Rainville (Rhita Thomas, class of '20) two copies 1916, 1917; Mrs. C. M. Cannon (Isabelle Walton '24G) three copies 1920, 1921, 1924; Mrs. Philip Marino (Pollyanna Tapscott, class of '37) a 1913 copy; E. E. Kipka, '30G, a 1923 copy. Alumni are urged to help in this project.

Dr. H. H. Cunningham

Prof. Sahlmann

At the close of the 1959-60 school term, Professor Fred Sahlmann, graduate in 1951 and a member of the faculty for the past several years, took leave of absence to continue studies toward his Ph.D. at the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York.

However, he has been busy in giving several concerts in various sections of the country. In June he appeared in a concert at the Phillips Gallery in Washington, D. C. A music critic Paul Hume in the Washington Post had this to say about Prof. Sahlmann's performance: "The young man, hailing originally from South Carolina, and recently a Fulbright student in Vienna, brings distinctive gifts. He has a fine ear for the instrument's widest dynamic range, and he begins myriad gradations of sound with his fingers, increasing them by highly developed use of the pedals. It was a special pleasure to observe how widely he differentiated tone, color and touch without recourse to the soft pedal.

Also a recent concert given in Jacksonville, Florida, brought forth the following praise from Evelyn Harris, Times-Union Special Writer: "Pianist Fred Sahlmann was presented in a program at Friday Musicale yesterday morning that could not fail to please his hearers. Sahlmann is a young man of remarkable pianistic skills, and a musician of great scope. His approach to the literature of his instrument is earnest, serious and scholarly. He plays with authority, understanding and a gratifying absence of mannerisms."

On October 30 Professor Sahlmann returned home to Whitley Auditorium to appear in a concert for music lovers of Elon College and the entire surrounding area and in a well chosen series of music masterpieces brought pleasure to the large and highly appreciative audience.

Shifts Made In Faculty Positions

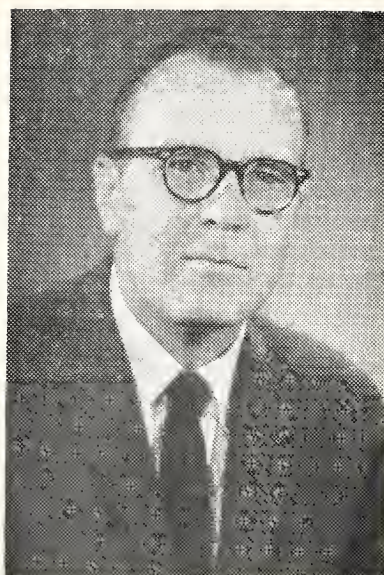

New administrative assignments for four members of the Elon College faculty were announced by Dr. J. E. Daniele, president of the college, following the annual spring meeting of the Elon College board of trustees held at Elon on March 8.

Dr. H. H. Cunningham, who has served as dean of the college for the past four years, was relieved of the deanship at his own request and was allowed to resume full-time teaching duties in the newly created position of William S. Long, Professor of History. In filling the newly endowed chair of history, Dr. Cunningham will also serve as chairman of the Department of Social Sciences. The trustees passed resolutions of appreciation to Dr. Cunningham for his services as dean, with special mention of his work in raising academic standards and in connection with a recently completed self-study program.

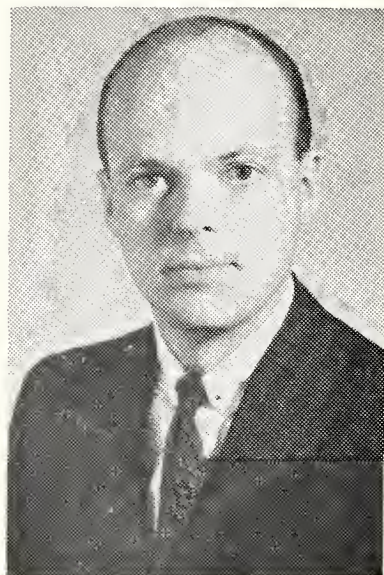

Prof. Fletcher Moore, who has for years served as chairman of the Department of Fine Arts and Music, was appointed dean of the college, succeeding to the post vacated by Dr. Cunningham. A native of Burlington, Prof. Moore is a graduate of Elon and has been a member of the Elon music faculty since 1937. He is to receive a doctor's degree in music from Columbia University this spring.

Prof. Alfred S. Hassell, who has held the position of registrar and director of admissions, was named to a newly created post of director of student personnel services. In this position, which replaces the old post of dean of students, he will work principally with admissions, guidance and placement. Prof. Hassell, who is a native of Durham, is a graduate of Elon and holds a master's degree from the University of North Carolina.

Prof. Jennings Berry, who has served as assistant registrar, was appointed registrar, succeeding to the position vacated by Prof. Hassell. Under the new administrative organization of the college, he will work in conjunction with the dean on registration, scheduling of courses, student records, transcripts and attendance. Professor Berry, who is a native of Altamahaw-Ossipee, is a graduate of Elon College and has advanced study toward the master's degree at the University of North Carolina. He will continue part-time teaching in the department of English.

Six Presidents Represent Seventy-

Dr. W. S. Long

Dr. William Samuel Long, who had a son by the same name who was a prominent dentist in Graham for many years, was the founder and first president of Elon College, a true pioneer of education in this area and also the first of three natives of Alamance County to become Elon's president.

To be strictly accurate, Dr. Long was a native of Orange County, for he was born near Graham October 22, 1839, full ten years before Alamance County was formed, being a son of Jacob and Jane Stockard Long and a grandson of Col. John Stockard, who served his county in 17 successive terms of the legislature.

Dr. Long persuaded his father to lend him and his brothers money for college training, and all except one of the brothers became professional men. One brother died in the Civil War.

With one of the brothers, Dr. Daniel A. Long, he helped found the Graham College, later Graham Normal, out of which came Elon College in 1889. Dr. W. S. Long served as Elon's president during the difficult years of construction, resigning in 1894 to become Alamance County school superintendent, a post he held until about 1910.

After leaving the school superintendency, he moved to Chapel Hill, where he lived in retirement until his tragic death in an automobile accident August 3, 1924. He has a number of descendants in Alamance County today.

Dr. W. W. Staley

Dr. William Wesley Staley, like Dr. Long, a native of Alamance County, was born February 24, 1849, just a few weeks after the North Carolina legislature authorized creation of the new county of Alamance. His parents were John T. and Melissa J. Staley.

After becoming a Methodist Protestant as a boy, he later joined the Providence Christian Church at Graham, where he prepared for college under Dr. William S. Long and Dr. D.

A. Long, later going to Trinity College and taking post-graduate work at the University of Virginia.

He taught for a period at Graham High School but became a licensed minister in 1872, and ten years later he became pastor of the First Christian Church at Suffolk, Va., a post he held for fifty years until his death October 9, 1932. He became president of the Southern Convention in 1886 and held that post when the Convention voted to establish Elon College.

After serving as one of the original trustees, he succeeded Dr. Long in the presidency in 1894, although he kept his Suffolk pastorate and was a non-resident president without pay until 1905. He started the plan for annual church donations to the school's indebtedness before 1905.

Dr. E. L. Moffitt

Dr. Emmett Leonidas Moffitt, third president of Elon, was a native of North Carolina, but not of Alamance County. He was born in Randolph County on January 17, 1869, the son of E. E. Moffitt and Martha Hatch Moffitt.

After receiving his early education at Graham Normal College, where he came under the influence of Dr. W. S. Long, he went on to Trinity College, where he received the A.B. degree in 1889 and the Master's degree a year later, just in time to join the original faculty of Elon College.

He served on the Elon faculty for a number of years and then returned to the campus in 1905 to become president of the college at the age of 36 years. He continued as president until 1911, and his administration saw the erection of West Dormitory and the installation of water, lights and heat facilities.

He resigned the presidential post to enter business in Ashboro, remaining there until he moved to Burlington in 1929 to enter the insurance business. Through all the years he retained his interest in Elon College and had just finished delivering an address at an Elon alumni meeting in Burlington

The choice of the site for Elon College was made by a committee of five men, who were appointed by the Southern Convention of the Christian Church in a meeting held at Graham in September, 1888. That committee was photographed a few years later standing in front of East Dormitory and beside a lone gum tree that stood in the grove of oaks that gave Elon its name. Shown left to right above are Col. Junius H. Harden, one of the original trustees; Dr. George S. Watson, also an original trustee; Dr. William S. Long, first president of the college; Dr. J. Pressley Barrett, one-time editor of "The Christian Sun", and Dr. James W. Wellons, another original trustee, who lived to be more than 100 years of age, spending his last years on the Elon campus, where he preached a sermon on his 100th birthday.

Years of Service to Elon College

when he was stricken with a heart attack and died at the banquet on March 28, 1941.

Dr. W. A. Harper

Dr. William Allen Harper, fourth of Elon's presidents, who held the executive post from 1911 until 1931, was the first Elon alumnus to become president. Born in eastern Virginia in 1880, he entered Elon preparatory department in 1894, he completed the college course with the Class of 1899.

He taught in preparatory schools for some years and then went on to Yale for graduate work, returning to Elon as Professor of Latin in 1905. Becoming dean of the college in 1909, he rose to the presidency in 1911 at the age of 31 years.

Under the Harper guidance North Dorm and Ladies Hall were added to the plant, the financial condition of Elon was greatly improved. Then came the disastrous fire of January, 1923, which destroyed the Old Administration Building. Dr. Harper directed a great rebuilding program in the 1920's, but the depression created a financial crisis which brought about his resignation in 1931. He died May 11, 1942, at his home in Black Mountain.

Dr. Leon Edgar Smith, another Elon alumnus who became the college's fifth president and served it for the longest period, twenty-six years from 1931 until 1957, was born in Troupe County, Ga., on October 25, 1884, the son of John Everett and Martha Webb Smith.

Ordained to the ministry in 1905, he realized the need for an education and came on to Elon in 1906. He served a number of pastorates during his college years, which ended with graduation in 1910. He later went on to Princeton University and received his Master's degree and theological training there.

Successful pastorates in Indiana and at the great Christian Temple in Norfolk, Va., including ten years as president of the Southern Convention, paved the way for his election to the Elon presidency in 1931 when he assumed the guidance of a debt-ridden college through depression years.

During more than 25 years of his presidency, he brought the college to its present state of progress, increasing its enrollment from less than 100 to more than 1,350 students in his final year. He also piloted Elon through a fine campus expansion, which saw the addition of a number of buildings in recent years, most recent being completed since Dr. Danieley's accession and named Smith Hall in tribute to Dr. Leon E. Smith and his magnificent leadership.

Dr. Smith is President Emeritus of the College. He and Mrs. Smith live at Jefferson Blvd., Sylvan Beach, Bayside, Va.

Dr. J. E. Danieley

Dr. J. Earl Danieley, sixth president of Elon College, was born in Alamance County on July 28, 1924, son of Henry Hubbard and Grace Elizabeth Mansfield Danieley.

Graduated from Altamahaw-Ossipee High School. Received A.B. degree from Elon College in 1946, Masters degree from University of North Carolina, 1949; Ph.D. from the same institution, 1954. Postdoctoral research at Johns Hopkins University 1956-1957 in Organic Chemistry. He served on the faculty of Elon College from 1946-1956. Served as Dean of the College 1953-56. Elected President of Elon College in 1957.

Dr. Danieley is a member and deacon of the Community Congregational Christian Church at Elon College.

He is very active in Laymen's Fellowship, having served as President of the Southern Convention Laymen; now a member of Board of Directors, National Laymen's Fellowship.

He is prominently identified with local and national organizations in many capacities; Board of Trustees, Southern Union College, Wadley, Ala.; Board of Directors United Fund of Alamance County; President, Community Council of Alamance County and holds membership in numerous scientific and educational societies in the state and nation.

He has been honored as the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award by the Burlington Jaycees and Young Man of the Year in N. C. by the Jaycees.

Thus far under Dr. Danieley's administration much progress has been made in the expansion program of physical facilities and campus beautification. Among the improvements are: Tearing down North Dorm, Club House, and Ladies Hall, the latter being replaced by a new dormitory for women. Although this new dormitory is only a one-story structure, it is hoped that two more stories will be added in the near future.

Dr. Danieley knows the needs of Elon College and he called on many groups to give support to the college as he endeavors to lead in the challenge when he said:

"There is much to be done. In assuming the presidency of Elon College I recognize that there are many responsibilities, many problems, and almost unlimited opportunities. I could not face them alone. Only with the strength and guidance from Divine Providence, with the counsel, and support of the Board of Trustees, the faculty, alumni, our church, community, and students, is it possible to accomplish the task. However, together we can and must go forward."

In The Beginning . . .

Elon College was chartered on March 11, 1889, "to afford instruction in the liberal arts and sciences."

Its establishment was the result of a determination on the part of the Christian Church to have a school which would prepare young people for leadership in the churches.

The Christian Church was formed in 1794 by the Rev. James O'Kelly and a group of dissenters from Wesleyan Methodism who organized the first democratically governed church to rise on American soil and named it "Christian, to the exclusion of all party and sectarian names." They were interested in Christianity as a way of life, not as a system of theology or a body of doctrines, and they felt that if the Church were to fulfill its mission it would have to have its own school for the training of leaders.

In 1865, Dr. W. S. Long, a pioneer in higher education, established Graham Normal Institute at Graham, North Carolina. Seven years later, William B. Wellons, a great churchman and leader, founded the Suffolk Collegiate Institute at Suffolk, Virginia, and was its headmaster until his death in 1877. P. J. Kernodle then became head of the institution. These two schools were the forerunners of Elon College, which was the result of an extraordinary session of the Southern Christian Convention held in Old Providence Church in Graham in September 1888, to hear the report and recommendations of the Committee on Schools and Colleges. A provisional board composed of Dr. Long, Dr. J. Pressley Barrett, the Hon. F. O. Moring, Col. J. H. Harden, and Dr. G. S. Watson, was named to choose a site and make legal and financial arrangements for the proposed college.

The village then known as Mill Point, six miles from Graham, was chosen as the home of the College in consideration of gifts of 25 acres of land by the Hon. W. H. Trolinger of Haw River and 23 acres and $4,000 by citizens of the town.

Although members of the board preferred other names, the name "Elon," the Hebrew word meaning oak, was given to the institution because of the many oaks on the site.

*Times have changed.
Have America's college students?*

THE COLLEGE STUDENT,

they say, is a young person who will...

... use a car to get to a library two blocks away, knowing full well that the parking lot is three blocks on the other side.

... move heaven, earth, and the dean's office to enroll in a class already filled; then drop the course.

... complain bitterly about the quality of food served in the college dining halls—while putting down a third portion.

... declaim for four solid years that the girls at his institution or at the nearby college for women are unquestionably the least attractive females on the face of the earth; then marry one of them.

BUT there is a serious side. Today's students, many professors say, are more accomplished than the average of their predecessors. Perhaps this is because there is greater competition for college entrance, nowadays, and fewer doubtful candidates get in. Whatever the reason, the trend is important.

For civilization depends upon the transmission of knowledge to wave upon wave of young people—and on the way in which they receive it, master it, employ it, add to it. If the transmission process fails, we go back to the beginning and start over again. We are never more than a generation away from total ignorance.

Because for a time it provides the world's leaders, each generation has the power to change the course of history. The current wave is thus exactly as important as the one before it and the one that will come after it. Each is crucial in its own time.

WHAT will the present student generation do? What are its hopes, its dreams, its principles? Will it build on our past, or reject it? Is it, as is so often claimed, a generation of timid organization people, born to be commanded? A patient band of revolutionaries, waiting for a breach? Or something in between?

No one—not even the students themselves—can be sure, of course. One can only search for clues, as we do in the fourteen pages that follow. Here we look at, and listen to, college students of 1961—the people whom higher education is all about.

THE fourteen young men and women pictured above come from fourteen colleges and universities, big and little, located in all parts of the United States. Some of their alma maters are private, some are state or city-supported, some are related to a church. The students' studies range widely—from science and social studies to agriculture and engineering. Outside the classroom, their interests are similarly varied. Some are athletes (one is All-American quarterback), some are active in student government, others stick to their books.

To help prepare this report, we invited all fourteen, as articulate representatives of virtually every type of campus in America, to meet for a weekend of searching discussion. The topic: themselves. The objective: to obtain some clues as to how the college student of the Sixties ticks.

The resulting talk—recorded by a stenographer and presented in essence on the following pages—is a revealing portrait of young people. Most revealing—and in a way most heartening—is the lack of unanimity which the students displayed on virtually every topic they discussed.

As the seminar neared its close, someone asked the group what conclusions they would reach about themselves. There was silence. Then one student spoke:

"We're all different," he said.

He was right. That was the only proper conclusion.

Labelers, and perhaps libelers, of this generation might take note.

student is a wonderful thing."

STUDENT YEARS are exciting years. They are exciting for the participants, many of whom are on their own for the first time in their lives—and exciting for the onlooking adult.

But for both generations, these are frequently painful years, as well. The students' competence, which is considerable, gets them in duteh with their elders as often as do their youthful blunders. That young people ignore the adults' soundest, most heartfelt warnings is bad enough; that they so often get away with it sometimes seems unforgivable.

Being both intelligent and well schooled, as well as unfettered by the inhibitions instilled by experience, they readily identify the errors of their elders—and they are not inclined to be lenient, of course. (The one unforgivable sin is the one you yourself have never committed.) But, lacking experience, they are apt to commit many of the same mistakes. The wise adult understands this: that only in this way will they gain experience and learn tolerance—neither of which can be conferred.

"They say the student is an animal in transition. You have to wait until you get your degree, they say; then you turn the big corner and there you are. But being a student is a vocation, just like being a lawyer or an editor or a business man. This is what we are and where we are."

"The college campus is an open market of ideas. I can walk around the campus, say what I please, and be a truly free person. This is our world for now. Let's face it—we'll never live in a more stimulating environment. Being a student is a wonderful and magnificent and free thing."

“You go to college to learn, of course.”

A STUDENT'S LIFE, contrary to the memories that alumni and alumnae may have of “carefree” days, is often described by its partakers as “the mill.” “You just get in the old mill,” said one student panelist, “and your head spins, and you’re trying to get ready for this test and that test, and you are going along so fast that you don’t have time to find yourself.”

The mill, for the student, grinds night and day—in classrooms, in libraries, in dining halls, in dormitories, and in scores of enterprises, organized and unorganized, classed vaguely as “extracurricular activities.” Which of the activities—or what combination of activities—contributes most to a student’s education? Each student must concoct the recipe for himself. “You have to get used to living in the mill and finding yourself,” said another panelist. “You’ll always be in the mill—all through your life.”

But learning comes in many ways."

"I'd like to bring up something I think is a fault in our colleges: the great emphasis on grades."

"I think grades interfere with the real learning process. I've talked with people who made an A on an exam—but next day they couldn't remember half the material. They just memorized to get a good grade."

"You go to college to learn, of course. But learning comes in many ways—not just from classrooms and books, but from personal relations with people: holding office in student government, and that sort of thing."

"It's a favorite academic cliché, that not all learning comes from books. I think it's dangerous. I believe the greatest part of learning does come from books—just plain books."

ERICH HARTMANN, MAGNUM

IT’S HARD to conceive of this unless you’ve been through it . . . but the one thing that’s done the most for me in college is baseball. I’d always been the guy with potential who never came through. The coach worked on me; I got my control and really started going places. The confidence I gained carried over into my studies. I say extracurricular activities are worthwhile. It’s important to know you can do a good job at something, whatever it is.”

► “No! Maybe I’m too idealistic. But I think college is a place for the pursuit of knowledge. If we’re here for knowledge, that’s what we should concentrate on.”

► “In your studies you can goof off for a while and still catch up. But in athletics, the results come right on the spot. There’s no catching up, after the play is over. This carries over into your school work. I think almost everyone on our football team improved his grades last fall.”

► “This is true for girls, too. The more you have to do, the more you seem to get done. You organize your time better.”

► “I can’t see learning for any other purpose than to better yourself and the world. Learning for itself is of no value, except as a hobby—and I don’t think we’re in school to join book clubs.”

► “For some people, learning is an end in itself. It can be more than a hobby. I don’t think we can afford to be too snobbish about what should and what shouldn’t be an end in itself, and what can or what can’t be a creative channel for different people.”

“The more you do, the more you seem to get done. You organize your time better.”

COLLEGE is where many students meet the first great test of their personal integrity. There, where one’s progress is measured at least partly by examinations and grades, the stress put upon one’s sense of honor is heavy. For some, honor gains strength in the process. For others, the temptation to cheat is irresistible, and honor breaks under the strain.

Some institutions proctor all tests and examinations. An instructor, eagle-eyed, sits in the room. Others have honor systems, placing upon the students themselves the responsibility to maintain integrity in the student community and to report all violators.

How well either system works varies greatly. “When you come right down to it,” said one member of our student panel, “honor must be inculcated in the years before college—in the home.”

honor works only when it's easy."

ERIC HARTMANN, MAGNUM

"I'm from a school with an honor system that works. But is the reason it works maybe because of the tremendous penalty that's connected with cheating, stealing, or lying? It's expulsion—and what goes along with that is that you can't get into another good school or even get a good job. It's about as bad a punishment as this country can give out, in my opinion. Does the honor system instill honor—or just fear?"

"At our school the honor system works even though the penalties aren't that stiff. It's part of the tradition. Most of the girls feel they're given the responsibility to be honorable, and they accept it."

"On our campus you can leave your books anywhere and they'll be there when you come back. You can even leave a tall, cold milkshake—I've done it—and when you come back two hours later, it will still be there. It won't be cold, but it will be there. You learn a respect for honor, a respect that will carry over into other fields for the rest of your life."

"I'd say the minority who are top students don't cheat, because they're after knowledge. And the great majority in the middle don't cheat, because they're afraid to. But the poor students, who cheat to get by . . . The funny thing is, they're not afraid at all. I guess they figure they've nothing to lose."

"Nobody is just honest or dishonest. I'm sure everyone here has been guilty of some sort of dishonest act in his lifetime. But everyone here would also say he's primarily honest. I know if I were really in the clutch I'd cheat. I admit it—and I don't necessarily consider myself dishonest because I would."

"It seems to me you're saying that honor works only when it's easy."

"Absolute honor is 150,000 miles out, at least. And we're down here, walking this earth with all our faults. You can look up at those clouds of honor up there and say, 'They're pretty, but I can't reach them.' Or you can shoot for the clouds. I think that's the approach I want to take. I don't think I can attain absolute honor, but I can try—and I'd like to leave this world with that on my batting record."

“It’s not how we feel about issues-

“WE ARE being criticized by other people all the time, and they’re stamping down on us. ‘You’re not doing anything,’ they say. I’ve noticed an attitude among students: Okay, just keep criticizing. But we’re going to come back and react. In some ways we’re going to be a little rebellious. We’re going to show you what we can really do.”

Today’s college students are perhaps the most thoroughly analyzed generation in our history. And they are acutely aware of what is being written about them. The word that rasps their nerves most sorely is “apathy.” This is a generation, say many critics, that plays it cool. It may be casually interested in many things, but it is excited by none.

Is the criticism deserved? Some college students and their professors think it is. Others blame the times—times without deprivation, times whose burning issues are too colossal, too impersonal, too remote—and say that the apparent student lassitude is simply society’s lassitude in microcosm.

The quotation that heads this column is from one of the members of our student panel. At the right is what some of the others think.

“Our student legislature fought most of the year about taking stands. The majority rationalized, saying it wasn’t our place; what good would it do? They were afraid people would check the college in future years and if they took an unpopular stand they wouldn’t get security clearance or wouldn’t get a job. I thought this was awful. But I see indications of an awakening of interest. It isn’t how we feel about issues, but whether we feel at all.”

“I’m sure it’s practically the same everywhere. We have 5,500 full-time students, but only fifteen or twenty of us went on the sit-downs.”

“I think there is a great deal of student opinion about public issues. It isn’t always rational, and maybe we don’t talk about it, but I think most of us have definite feelings about most things.”

“I’ve felt the apathy at my school. The university is a sort of isolated little world. Students don’t feel the big issues really concern them. The civil rights issue is close to home, but you’d have to chase a student down to get him to give his honest opinion.”

“We’re quick to criticize, slow to act.”

“Do you think that just because students in America don’t cause revolutions and riots and take active stands, this means . . .?”

“I’m not calling for revolution. I’m calling for interest, and I don’t care what side the student takes, as long as he takes a side.”

“But even when we went down to Woolworth’s carrying a picket sign, what were some of the motives behind it? Was it just to get a day away from classes?”

ut whether we feel at all."

SUSAN GREENBURG

"I attended a discussion where Negro students presented their views. I have never seen a group of more dynamic or dedicated or informed students."

"But they had a personal reason."

"That's just it. The only thing I can think of, where students took a stand on our campus, was when it was decided that it wasn't proper to have a brewery sponsor the basketball team on television. This caused a lot of student discussion, but it's the only instance I can remember."

"Why is there this unwillingness to take stands?"

"I think one big reason is that it's easier not to. It's much easier for a person just to go along."

"I've sensed the feeling that unless it really burns within you, unless there is something where you can see just what you have done, you might as well just let the world roll on as it is rolling along. After all, people are going to act in the same old way, no matter what we try to do. Society is going to eventually come out in the same way, no matter what I, as an individual, try to do."

"A lot of us hang back, saying, 'Well, why have an idea now? It'll probably be different when I'm 45.'"

"And you ask yourself, Can I take time away from my studies? You ask yourself, Which is more important? Which is more urgent to me?"

"Another reason is fear of repercussions—fear of offending people. I went on some sit-downs and I didn't sit uneasy just because the manager of the store gave me a dirty scowl—but because my friends, my grandparents, were looking at me with an uneasy scowl."

“We need a purpose other than security and an $18,000 job.”

HERB WEITMAN

"Perhaps 'waiting' is the attitude of our age—in every generation."

"Then there comes the obvious question, With all this waiting, what are we waiting for? Are we waiting for some disaster that will make us do something? Or are we waiting for some 'national purpose' to come along, so we can jump on its bandwagon? So we are at a train station; what's coming?"

I GUESS one of the things that bother us is that there is no great issue we feel we can personally come to grips with."

The panel was discussing student purposes. "We need a purpose," one member said. "I mean a purpose other than a search for security, or getting that $18,000-a-year job and being content for the rest of your life."

"Isn't that the typical college student's idea of his purpose?"

"Yes, but that's not a purpose. The generation of the Thirties—let's say they had a purpose. Perhaps we'll get one, someday."

"They had to have a purpose. They were starving, almost."

"They were dying of starvation and we are dying of overweight. And yet we still should have a purpose—a real purpose, with some point to it other than selfish mediocrity. We do have a burning issue—just plain survival. You'd think that would be enough to make us react. We're not helpless. Let's do something."

Have students changed?

—Some professors' opinions

"OH, YES, indeed," a professor said recently, "I'd say students have changed greatly in the last ten years and—academically, at least—for the better. In fact, there's been such a change lately that we may have to revise our sophomore language course. What was new to students at that level three years ago is now old hat to most of them."

"But I have to say something negative, too," the professor went on. "I find students more neurotic, more insecure, than ever before. Most of them seem to have no goal. They're intellectually stimulated, but they don't know where they're going. I blame the world situation—the insecurity of everything today."

"I can't agree with people who see big changes in students," said another professor, at another school. "It seems to me they run about the same, year after year. We have the bright, hard-working ones, as we have always had, and we have the ones who are just coasting along, who don't know why they're in school—just as we've always had."

"They're certainly an odd mixture at that age—a combination of conservative and romantic," a third professor said. "They want the world to run in their way, without having any idea how the world actually runs. They don't understand the complexity of things; everything looks black or white to them. They say, 'This is what ought to be done. Let's do it!'"

"If their parents could listen in on their children's bull sessions, I think they'd make an interesting discovery," said another faculty member. "The kids are talking and worrying about the same things their fathers and mothers used to talk and worry about when they were in college. The times have certainly changed, but the basic agony—the bittersweet agony of discovering its own truths, which every generation has to go through—is the same as it's always been."

"Don't worry about it. Don't try to spare the kids these pains, or tell them they'll see things differently when they're older. Let them work it out. This is the way we become educated—and maybe even civilized."

"I'd add only one thing," said a professor emeritus who estimates he has known 12,000 students over the years. "It never occurred to me to worry about students as a group or a class or a generation. I have worried about them as individuals. They're all different. By the way: when you learn that, you've made a pretty profound discovery."

Loyalty Fund Campaign

Telefund For Elon At Norfolk And Suffolk

One phase of the newly developed Loyalty Fund Campaign for Elon College calls for the personal solicitation in four areas during the 1960-61 school year. Two of these areas were solicited on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 21 and 22. The method of solicitation is by telephone and is called Telefund For Elon. The first effort in this campaign got under way on Tuesday night when six enthusiastic Elon College alumni gathered at the Thomas J. Lipton Tea Packing Plant in Suffolk and called their fellow alumni between 7 and 9 p.m. resulting in pledges of approximately $600. The callers for the Suffolk program were: Mrs. James F. Darden, Mrs. Walter Graham, Charles Johnson, Dr. Leroy Howell, Fred Jackson and Robert Wooldridge.

This procedure was used in the Norfolk-Portsmouth area where callers used the telephone facilities of the Portsmouth-Star News. The contact of alumni in this area resulted in pledges of approximately $550. Those making telephone calls in this area were: Dr. M. J. Howell, Dr. Harvey Rawls, Arthur Mizell, William Perkinson, Edward Drew, Leo Kampman, Jack Hanel, Glenn King, Dave Mondy, and Larry Barnes.

Robert Baxter, Director of Development, and William Ginn, Admissions Counselor were in Suffolk and Norfolk directing the activities of the campaign. Two other areas, Guilford county and Alamance county, will be covered this year by the Telefund For Elon solicitation. Other areas for personal solicitation will be added next year. Alumni in areas which will not be covered by this special solicitation are urged to make their contributions to the Loyalty Fund at once. The response to the campaign is very encouraging. However, it is hoped that several thousand alumni will become contributors to this Loyalty Fund effort. The number of years an alumnus contributes to this fund will be indicated on the reports each year. Many alumni will want to keep a perfect record and give each year.

An Honor Roll of contributors and a complete report will be given in the June issue of the Alumni News. The fiscal year for this campaign ends May 31. Money raised through the Loyalty Fund this year will be used to improve the College Instructional program.

Alumni Day

Alumni Day, to be observed during Commencement weekend, has been set for Saturday, May 27. Plans are being made to make this the best-attended Alumni Day in the history of the College.

Emphasis will be placed on getting reunion classes to return to the campus for the occasion. However, "every alumnus" is urged to come back to the campus on that day.

The classes holding reunions are:

1916 (45th)	1951 (10th)
1921 (40th)	1956 (5th)
1926 (35th)	1960 (1st)

The program on Saturday, May 27 follows: Breakfast by reunion classes in McEwen Dining Hall at 9:00 a.m. Lunch, Cafeteria style, in McEwen Dining Hall at 12:30 p.m. Business session of Alumni Association in Whitley Auditorium at 2:00.

Social Hour West Dormitory 5:30 p.m. Alumni Banquet, McEwen Dining Hall at 6:30.

There is a possibility that a dance will be held on Saturday night following the Alumni Banquet.

Make plans now to attend. It is hoped that dormitories may be used for housing alumni. Definite information will be given later as to reservations, etc.

Alumni Hold Meetings

One of the most enthusiastic Elon College Alumni Chapter meetings of the year was held on the college campus in the McEwen Dining Hall on Monday, March 20 when 61 alumni and friends of Elon College from the Gibsonville area held a dinner meeting. Dr. J. E. Danieleley was the featured speaker for the occasion. He was presented by Dr. W. Glenn Lewis of Gibsonville. Greetings from the town of Gibsonville were brought by Mayor Paul Edwards. Jane Morgan, student at the college, gave a musical skit accompanied by Prof. Fletcher Moore at the piano. A male quartet of students, Douglas Scott, Tom Brady, Robert Gwaltney and Walter Bass, gave three selections. In a business session the Gibsonville alumni voted to organize a chapter to be known as the Gibsonville Chapter of the Elon College Alumni Association and elected officers as follows: Paul Walker '28, President; Wallace Owen '49, Vice-president, and Florence Olga Kivette '37, Secretary.

Another local chapter of Elon College Alumni was re-activated when alumni gathered at the First Congregational Christian Church in Reidsville on Thursday, March 23. The dinner was served by the Women's Fellowship of the Church. Rev. Mack Welch, pastor of the church, presided at the meeting. Dr. J. E. Newsy Briefs About Activities of Our Fellow Classmates of Yesteryear

● The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Rev. E. T. Cotten, Elon graduate in the class of 1915, as minister of the Plymouth Congregational Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, was observed February 5, 1961. THE COVER PAGE

Dr. Hook, who taught Truitt physics during his student days at Elon, sketched the career of Dr. Truitt, who resigned as professor and head of the Aerospace Engineering Department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., to accept a position as head of North Carolina State College's Department of Mechanical Engineering on June 1.

In paying tribute to Truitt, Dr. Hook expressed no surprise at the success that has come to this illustrious Elon graduate. He was an outstanding student in the field of science and pursued diligently the course that has brought him such outstanding recognition. In accepting the award, Dr. Truitt expressed appreciation to the Alumni Association for thus honoring him. He also paid tribute to Dr. Hook for the inspiration and encouragement Dr. Hook gave to him and to hundreds of other students through the years. Dr. Truitt expressed appreciation to the College for one other thing which, he said, has meant much to him through the years—he met his wife at Elon while they were both students.

Mrs. Truitt is the former Frances Creef of Norfolk, Va., and they have two children, Robert and Carol Ann. Dr. Truitt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Truitt of Greensboro. They were present at the Alumni Banquet to see their son honored.

A complete story of Dr. Truitt's acceptance of the State College position was carried in the April issue of the Alumni News.

Although it takes quite awhile to gather up all the "loose ends" to prepare a Commencement Issue of the Alumni News, we did not expect to be this late in getting this issue to our alumni. However many factors have entered into circumstances to cause delay beyond the control of the Alumni Office. Even though this issue is getting to you later than we had anticipated, we hope you will find it interesting.

In this issue we are attempting to cover the highlights of Alumni Day and Commencement; Review of the Athletic Achievements for the Year; Progress in Physical Facilities; Loyalty Fund Campaign and News of Alumni in general.

ALUMNI DAY AND COMMENCEMENT

The entire day for Alumni activities was successful. Beginning with the breakfast on Saturday morning for reunion classes, everything moved along nicely to the climax of the program for the day—the Alumni Banquet. Approximately three hundred alumni and friends were present for this affair.

The Commencement program was up to the usual high standards for Elon College. Outstanding speakers contributed to the success of the occasion.

ATHLETIC RECORDS FOR THE YEAR

For the past few years the Alumni News has given the record for the season in all sports. This is done for two reasons. The record is official for future reference and the supporters of athletics can evaluate the season. Elon did very well in its sports competition.

PROGRESS IN PHYSICAL FACILITIES

We are sure that every alumnus will be highly elated at the news that provision has been made to complete the "new dormitory" for women, which replaces Ladies Hall. An interesting announcement from Dr. Dancy is found in this issue.

Another project which has excited a lot of interest on the Campus and in the community of Elon College is the building of a new football practice field and grading for a regulation track. Many alumni have been by to see this new development and are contributing to its completion. Read the story elsewhere in the Alumni News.

LOYALTY FUND RECORD FOR YEAR

All of us at the College who are concerned with administering the Loyalty Fund program are greatly encouraged by the record for the second year of its operation.

Robert Baxter, Director of Development, is largely responsible for the Loyalty Fund program. Mr. Baxter and those who have so generously given of their time and effort to assist in the program are to be commended for a job well done. We urge you to read the report.

NEWS OF ALUMNI IN GENERAL

We are pleased when we can report the good things that are coming to our alumni—promotions, outstanding achievements, etc. We suppose weddings would fall in this category (we are reporting many through June). Elon alumni are indeed making their contributions to their local communities, states and nation. Even to other parts of the world. Read about them in this issue.

With the summer commencement of August 20, Elon will end another school year. Then in only a few weeks, September 15, classes will begin for the 1961-62 Fall Semester. Thus Elon goes on serving.

Prospects for a large enrollment this fall are evident at this time. We hope alumni will continue to be interested in the College and its on-going program. Won't you come to visit the College soon. All of us here will be happy to see you.

Service Theme Is Stressed In Graduation

Hon. Horace Kornegay Addresses Seniors

By LUTHER BYRD

The idea of service to the nation and to the world was stressed by Congressman Horace Kornegay of Greensboro and Washington as he addressed the 85 graduating seniors at Elon College's seventy-first annual commencement on May 29.

Quoting from President John F. Kennedy's inaugural address, Kornegay told the Elon seniors that they must "ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country," and he then declared that the seniors' first opportunity for service to America would lie in cultivating an awareness of the problems that press upon the nation today.

Pointing out that America in the past has served as a beacon of hope to less fortunate nations, the congressman declared that the country must continue to shine as a symbol of potential achievement to the smaller nations and areas now engaged in the deathless struggle of good and evil.

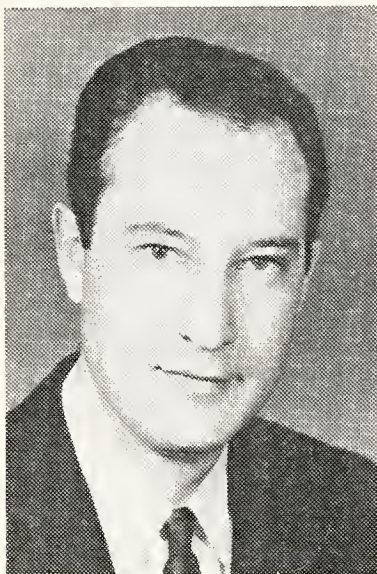

He then declared his confidence that products of America's church-related colleges, such as compose Elon's Class of 1961, can render significant help in creating the moral know-how to win a global peace, just as America in the past has mobilized men and machines to win global wars.

Introduced by North Carolina's Secretary of State Thad Eure, who is chairman of Elon's board of trustees, Congressman Kornegay expressed pleasure that his first commencement address since becoming a member of Congress should be at Elon, a church-related college in his own district. He further expressed the belief that the small church-related college can and does contribute much to the nation today in offering higher education with high spiritual content.

Baccalaureate Sermon

The graduation program concluded the three-day Elon commencement, which also featured the baccalaureate sermon delivered Sunday morning by Dr. Frank R. Hamilton, pastor of the Christian Temple in Norfolk, Va., who used the topic of "Paging The Astronauts" as he challenged members of Elon's senior class to follow the ideals of the astronauts as they entered upon the stage of life.

In thus advising the Elon seniors, the Norfolk minister defined an astronaut as "one who moves toward the stars," and he declared that one of the great needs of the world today is for men and women who will aspire to reach for the stars in the realms of knowledge and spiritual understandings.

The speaker, who also defined the new term of cosmonaut as earth but does not reach out and up into the far environs of the universe, pointed out that men have too long and too often been mere cosmonauts, bound to the earth and failing to see the heavenly knowledge and experience.

Declaring that, even as the space astronauts must have meticulous training and preparation, the graduating seniors would need all their training and education which they have received, the minister told the seniors that they must enter upon life with a spirit of adventure, must make decisions wisely and promptly, must practice self-discipline and must aim high in all their undertakings.

Other Sunday Programs

In addition to the baccalaureate sermon, the Sunday portion of the commencement also featured two musical programs, one of them the annual vesper recital at 4 o'clock and the other a concert of sacred music by the Elon Choir.

Individual students who appeared in the vesper recital of vocal, organ and piano numbers were William Whitley, organist, of Tarboro; Patricia Jones, soprano, of Suffolk, Va.; Carolyn French, pianist, of Henderson; Hinson Mikell, organist, of Charleston, S. C.; Eleanor Smith, pianist, of Winston-Salem; Doug-

ROBERT KIMBALL IS SPEAKER FOR ALUMNI

Approximately 300 alumni and friends were in attendance at the Elon College Alumni Association Banquet held on Saturday evening, May 27. The feature of the program was the alumni address by the Rev. Robert M. Kimball who chose as his topic "Blessed are the dissatisfied, if they have a goal". The speaker stressed the importance of having a definite goal in life and gave examples of many successful men and women of the world who have pursued their goal to a successful completion. The Rev. Mr. Kimball was presented by Dr. L. E. Smith, former president of Elon College. Dr. Smith paid tribute to the speaker and to his family, many of whom have attended Elon College. Mr. Kimball is pastor of the First Congregational Christian Church of Burlington. Dr. Danieley, president of Elon College brought greetings to the assembled guests and spoke briefly on the progress of the college. He announced that arrangements have been made to complete the new dormitory for girls and also complimented Coach George Tucker and his football boys for their efforts in building a new football practice field and track.

Dr. A. L. Hook, in a well-worded tribute, presented the Outstanding Alumni Award to Dr. Robert W. Truitt, graduate of Elon in the Class of 1941.

W. B. Terrell, Alumni Secretary, welcomed the graduates of 1961 into the ranks of alumni. Following the Banquet, a dance was held in the McEwen Social Hall.

Dr. William Mosely Brown, who recently retired from the Elon College faculty after 13 years service, and is now living at Maximo Moorings, 5048 41st Street, South, St. Petersburg 11, Florida, sends the following in acknowledging a message from the Executive Committee of the Elon College Alumni Association: "I shall long remember my association with the College and all connected with it over a period of some 13 years. I miss all of you, and hope I may return from time to time to renew my acquaintances. I wish every one of you individually and collectively a most prosperous and fruitful future. Thank you again for your good wishes."

Elizabeth Loy and Charles Linwood Puckett were married on Sunday, June 18, in Burlington. Mr. Puckett attended Elon College with the class of 1963. Their address is 5A Piedmont Apartments, Burlington.

WALLS RISE FOR NEW DORMITORY—Construction work on the upper floors of a new women's dormitory at Elon College is shown in the above photo, which shows a portion of the second story walls of the structure already built. The completion of the new structure for use during the coming 1961-62 college term was made possible by an anonymous gift of $100,000 to Elon College which was recently announced by President J. E. Danieleley.

CONSTRUCTION RESUMED ON DORMITORY

Construction work is moving ahead rapidly on the second and third floors of a new dormitory for women at Elon College following receipt of an anonymous gift of $100,000 to the college for the completion of the structure.

The $100,000 gift was recently announced by Dr. J. E. Danieleley, president of Elon, who stated that "it comes to us from friends who are deeply interested in Christian higher education in general and in Elon College in particular."

While stating that he is unable to reveal the names of the donors, Dr. Danieleley declared that they have meant much to Elon College through the years.

"All of us are deeply grateful for their devoted Christian lives and for this significant example of Christian stewardship," he said, and he continued, "It is deeply satisfying that their generosity will make possible this new addition to our physical plant. I know that I speak for alumni and friends of the college everywhere when I express our sincere appreciation for this benefaction."

The new dormitory for women students, which replaces the old Ladies' Hall on the northwest corner of Elon's walled campus, was begun last summer when the first floor was constructed and given a temporary roof to make possible the use of that floor for women students during the 1960-61 college year.

As a result of the anonymous gift, the second and third floors are scheduled for completion this summer in time for occupancy when the 1961-62 term begins in September, and applications have already been accepted for the additional dormitory space.

The new three-story structure will furnish accommodation for 80 women students and an apartment for a dormitory hostess, giving Elon College rooms for 228 women during the coming year. The college also has accommodations for 318 men students, giving a total of 546 dormitory students expected for the fall term.

ELON REPRESENTED AT CHURCH EVENT

Elon College was well represented at a pilgrimage and service of remembrance, which was held Sunday, May 7, at the site of historic Old Lebanon Christian Church in Surry County, Va. The service commemorated the founding of the Christian Church at Old Lebon in 1794.

D. H. H. Cunningham, dean of the college and president of the historical society of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, presided over the gathering and introduced the program with brief comments on "Our Church."

Also among those appearing on the program were Mrs. Oma U. Johnson, now retired after serving many years as Elon College librarian, who is curator of the historical museum on the Elon campus; and Dr. L. E. Smith, former president of Elon College, who spoke on "The Principles of the Christian Church."

Rev. Charles Wesley Randolph, '49G, is a minister in the Methodist Church in Mt. Airy. His address: Route 1, Box 421.

DONATION PRESENTED—J. Hinton Rountree, left, is seen with President J. Earl Danieley of Elon College as Burlington Industries presents a $10,000 check from Burlington Foundation to complete its $50,000 pledge in 1956. Rountree is an Elon graduate in 1933 and also a member of the Board of Trustees.

B-I MAKES FINAL PAYMENT ON PLEDGE

Burlington Industries has presented Elon College with a $10,000 check as its final payment of a $50,000 gift by Burlington Foundation pledged in 1956.

The $50,000 given to the college is in addition to other funds received by Elon under Burlington Industries' aid to education program.

Presentation of the check was made to President J. Earl Danieley by J. Hinton Rountree of Greensboro, an executive with the company and a member of the college's Board of Trustees.

President Danieley said that the $50,000 was made as a part of the college's Development Fund Campaign and that it made possible the purchase of furniture in Virginia Hall as a memorial to the late M. B. Smith, a Burlington business executive and long-time leader and director of Burlington Industries.

The gift also added $35,000 to the unrestricted receipts of the development campaign, he pointed out.

President Danieley said that "The interest and support of Burlington Industries have encouraged us at Elon, and contributions from the foundation as well as from leadership within the organization have been of much assistance to us."

He added:

"Increasingly, business and industry, are realizing the importance of contributing to the private and church-related colleges. Burlington Industries has long been a leader in this field."

SPACE PROGRAM IS PRESENTED AT CHAPEL

No more timely chapel program has ever been presented at Elon College than was the appearance in Whitley Auditorium on May 4 of Dr. Albert E. Von Doenhoff, head of Space Craft Technology, Office of Lunar and Planetary Programs, of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It appeared more than appropriate that his address on the American lunar and planetary explorations, delivered to the Elon student body and faculty in chapel, should come within one hour of the successful completion of Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard's first American flight into outer space.

Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elon College president, in introducing Dr. von Doenhoff, prefaced his introductory remarks by the announcement of the successful return of the American astronaut from the epoch-making flight, and the announcement served to increase the audience appreciation of the speaker's remarks on the United States' lunar and planetary explorations.

Dr. von Doenhoff, a graduate of Columbia, was for many years a research scientist for the United States Air Force at Langley Field, Va. Prior to his visit to Elon, he was already closely tied to the college, for one of his sons graduated at Elon two years ago, and another son is now a member of Elon's junior class.

ALUMNI CHAPTERS HOLD INTERESTING MEETINGS

A large group of Elon College Alumni from Mecklenburg and adjoining counties held a dinner meeting at the S. & W. Cafeteria (Park Road Shopping Center) in Charlotte on April 12.

Joseph J. Tomanchek, president of the local chapter presided.

Dr. J. Earl Danieley, president of Elon College, was the featured speaker. A male quartet from the College gave an entertaining program.

During the brief business session, Mr. Tomanchek was reelected president of the chapter and Mrs. C. P. Thompson was again named secretary. Others from Elon were: Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Hook, Robert Baxter, W. R. Ginn, and W. B. Terrell.

The Rev. Max Vestal, graduate of Elon in 1953 was elected president of the Sanford Area Chapter of the Elon College Alumni Association at the annual dinner meeting held at Larry's Restaurant in Sanford on April 18. He succeeds M. A. McLeod who has served as president for the past two years. Mr. Vestal is pastor of Shallow Well Congregational Christian Church.

Elected to serve with Mr. Vestal were Mrs. Mary Coble, secretary and Mrs. Alton Harrington, treasurer.

During the program, H. Lee Thomas of Carthage welcomed the guests. The invocation was given by Mr. Vestal.

Dr. David Shepherd presented Dr. J. Earl Danieley, president of Elon College, who was the principal speaker.

The student male quartet from the college furnished entertainment.

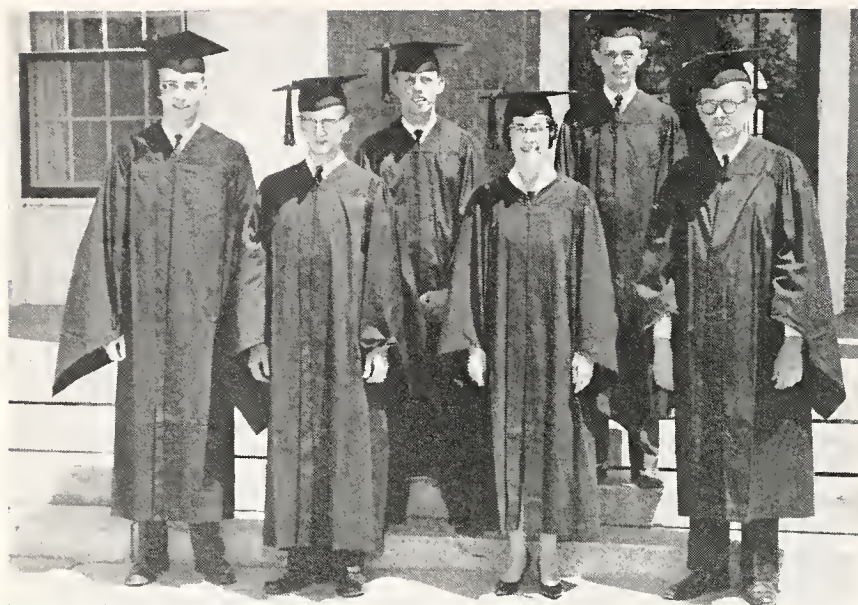

Others attending from Elon College were Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Hook, W. E. and Mrs. Butler, Robert C. Baxter, W. R. Ginn, and W. B. Terrell.

The Congregational Christian Church of Suffolk, Va., was the meeting place for Elon College alumni in that area on April 21.

The dinner was served buffet style and was prepared by the women of the church.

Wellington Saecker, president of the chapter, introduced Dr. Danieley who spoke briefly of the program of the college. A male quartet of students sang several numbers. Rev. H. S. Hardcastle gave the memoirs report. Mrs. James H. Parker of Sunbury, N. C., is secretary of the organization.

Others present from Elon College were: Robert Baxter, W. R. Ginn, W. B. Terrell and Coach Gary Mattocks with four members of his track team who were on their way to meet with Naval Apprentice the following day.

Elon College Seniors who have received graduate fellowships, scholarships, or teaching assignments for the coming year are pictured. (Left to right)—Hugh Gravitt, III, Virgilina, Va.; William W. Parham, Henderson; Charles G. Hall, Stoneville; Mrs. Helen Misenheimer, Burlington; Kenneth Price, Danville, Va.; and Robert J. Troy, Burlington. Absent from the photograph is Herbert Hawkes, Louisville, Kentucky.

At the final faculty meeting of the year, Supt. M. S. Parham read a resolution by the Morganton City School Board honoring Miss Teeter for her years of devoted and valuable service. There were also many gifts from the faculty.

The school principal, F. C. Shiebout, had this to say about Miss Teeter's retirement:

"Since she lives next door to the school, we look forward to calling her back as a substitute any time we can." She's an authority in the field of English. She is respected because of an awful lot of hard work, understanding, and a lot of other qualities that are connected with good teaching. She is a well-liked teacher who has made a large contribution to her community. The children like and respect her. She's firm, very exacting, always consistent, shows no partiality, and is an excellent teacher."

We need news about alumni. Won't you help us to get it?

Loyalty Fund Tops Last Year's Record

Contributions to the Elon College Loyalty Fund, the alumni annual giving program, amounted to $6,259.50 for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1961. This is an increase of $2,189.50 over last year's record total.

The voluntary giving by alumni is helping the College improve the instructional program by providing a source of income which is being used to raise faculty salaries.

The "Telefund for Elon", a project in which alumni in four areas called other alumni by telephone, was responsible in part for the increase this year. We sincerely thank those who helped with the calling. It is our plan at present to extend the "Telefund" to other areas for the coming year.

The Board of Trustees, the Administration, the Faculty, and the students of Elon College are grateful for the increasing interest of alumni in the total college program.

Dr. Eldredge On Trip

The following is an interesting letter from Dr. Lucy M. Eldredge, graduate of Elon in 1921 and recipient of a Doctors degree from her alma mater in May of 1960. Miss Eldredge left New York on her trip January 27.

Dear Bill:

Ladies' Hall was the first building I entered when I arrived at Elon College in January 1918. I am looking forward to seeing its successor. All of the progress in Elon's expansion program sounds very exciting and encouraging. I wish I could have a larger part in it financially.

The enclosed card gives you my latest news. This Africa Literacy and Writing Centre is located at the Mindolo Ecumenical Centre established in 1958. It is three miles from the city of Kitwe, Northern Rhodesia. The Executive Secretary is the Rev. Peter Mathews, an Australian Congregationalist.

My short-term assignment is to help in a Writers' Workshop from February 5 to May 31 and in a June All-Africa Literature Conference. In July I plan to visit Carl and Lois Dille and other American Board missionaries.

One thing I regret. The decision to accept this opportunity means I shall miss the class of 1921 reunion at Elon this spring. I had hoped, inspired by my 1960 visit, that I could come to see you again.

With best wishes to you and for your work,

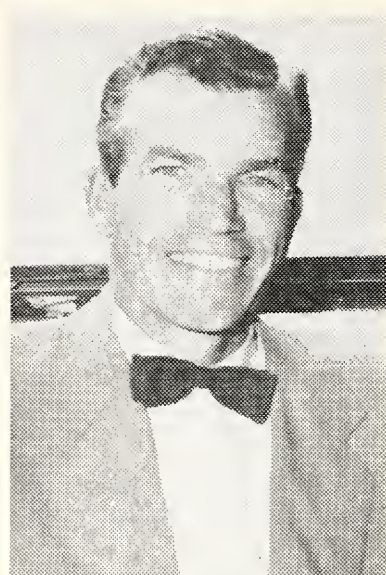

Sincerely,
Lucy M. Eldredge

She has covered the sessions of the North Carolina legislature from 1953 through 1961.

After about two months of orientation with the Times in New York, Miss Hunter will be assigned to the Times Bureau in Washington, D. C. Here she will be associated with Wally Carroll, former executive editor of the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel.

the privilege of interviewing many other outstanding personalities—among them, Eleanor Roosevelt, Adlai Stevenson, Mrs. Rose Kennedy.

However, Miss Hunter says that the greatest thrill was her first big interview for Elon Maroon and Gold in 1941 when she interviewed the metropolitan singer Helen Jepson just before her concert in Whitley Auditorium.

Miss Hunter was graduated from the Burlington High School in 1938. At Elon College she was very much interested in journalism and in addition to her journalism courses she received practical experience as a member of the Maroon and Gold Staff, serving as managing editor and later as Co-editor in 1940-41. WORK ON NEW ELON ATHLETIC FIELD—The above picture portrays grading equipment at work on a new athletic field for football practice and track. The new field is located northwest of the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on the Shallowford Road. It is expected the field will be ready for Elon's football workouts on Sept. 1.

Elon Athletic Field Project Has Gained Interest of Many Groups

By W. B. TERRELL

A project, which like Topsy "jes growed," will make possible a new football field for the Elon "Fighting Christians" this fall and will provide a new quarter-mile cinder track when the project is completed.

The long-needed football and track facility, which is located adjacent to the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, was begun in early spring by Coach George Tucker and members of the football squad, who put in many long hours of clearing and doing preliminary grading for the field. However it was soon apparent that man labor and the small equipment of the college would not do the job.

Heavier grading equipment was secured from the James Murray Company in Burlington, who gave the college an unusually low price for the amount of work done. This firm did an excellent job.

When the possibility of adding the track was seen, the project was expanded and many tons of dirt were moved to provide the track.

It is hoped that the football field will be ready for use when pre-season grid drills begin on September 1. The grass is coming along nicely on the field and the turf should be adequate for practice this fall.

The new field, which lies northwest of the Elon gymnasium, will mean much greater convenience for the Maroon and Gold Gridders, who have practiced for years on a field south of the College baseball park. The old field, located approximately a half-mile from the gymnasium, caused considerable loss of practice time each day and makes necessary the hauling of a large amount of practice equipment to the field.

This practice field, it is felt, will fit into the long-range planning to someday have a football and baseball stadium near the campus and gymnasium. Elon home games in football are now played at the Walter Williams High School Stadium in Burlington.

Elon students who participate in track have been using the track facilities of the Williams High School in Burlington. Many of the members of the team would hitch-hike to Burlington to practice on regulation areas. Also transportation on the days of track meets has been a problem. When the track facility is completed at Elon, practice periods can be arranged conveniently. With regular track meets held at the college, it is felt that student interest will increase in this exciting sport.

The track is a quarter-mile around the football field. The 220-yard straightaway is on the east side of the track. The progress in completing the track will depend on how rapidly funds become available. Plans are to make this one of the best tracks in the Conference.

In addition to the football practice field and the track the project can be enlarged to develop a recreational area near the south end of the field to include picnic tables, outdoor ovens, etc.—a place where small groups can meet for out-of-door affairs. This area is four feet higher than the football field and track with a grassed bank separating the area. Trees in the section afford shade for "spectator quarterbacks" or "arm-chair coaches" to enjoy the football practices.

The new project has caught the interest of many groups. Students have helped by working on the field; faculty and staff members, many alumni and citizens

ELON GRADUATE IS SPONSOR OF BILL

Chief sponsor of a bill cracking down on bribing of athletes is a tall Greensboro attorney who never had time to play ball in college.

Stedman Hines was a farm boy from the little Hamlet of McLeansville (Guilford County) during those early Depression years of the 1930s when he first started to college.

He spent half of each day farming, and then drove into the neighboring county of Alamance to attend classes at Elon College, graduating in 1934.

That left no time for trying to make the team but he did play some community baseball during the summer months.

He studied later at the University of

The same thing was true when he attended Vanderbilt University.

But, Hines did coach basketball and baseball for a couple of years while teaching in his home town of McLeansville, and he also did some referee work.

of the community have made financial contributions to the project, in addition some giving labor on the project.

Special appreciation of those in charge of the project is expressed to the following firms or individuals for their contributions toward making the project a success:

Dean Patterson Construction Co., Burlington, for surveying the field and track for grading; James Murray Grading Co., Burlington, for concession in cost of grading; Harold Graves Nursery, Burlington, for use of equipment and advice in seeding the field; Vernon Salmon Grading Co., Elon College, for use of equipment for some leveling work on field; L. W. Wagoner, Elon College, for use of equipment and advice on preparing field for seeding; Lee Boyd Chrismon and Wilson Cable, prominent farmers and business men who live near Elon College, for the tremendous amount of straw they gave to cover the field after seeding.

Indeed a project that started somewhat as a "Do-It-Yourself" job by Coach Tucker and a few football boys soon was caught up in the spirit of "Tom Sawyer Whitewashes the Fence," and many on-lookers were eager to help—and did. It is felt that many others will want to have a part in this worthwhile undertaking.

Alumni and friends are urged to come by and see what progress has been made in developing these new facilities.
